The report of the grand jury, which has been awaited with much interest for several days past, was presented in the district court at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. In view of the general interest attached to this report, The Herald presents it in full. It reads as follows:

To the Honorable court of Eleventh Judicial district of Minnesota: In compliance with certain recommendations made in the charge to the grand jury, with reference to an investigation of the so-called "boodling case" in the council; the letting of the contract for the city printing, and other matters connected with the city government, the grand jury submits the following report, together with a stenographic copy of the testimony:

The "Boodling Case."

In the so-called "boodling case" the following witnesses were examined, viz., Mayor d'Autremont, all of the members of the council, the city attorney, city treasurer, city clerk, Fred H. Russell, ex-City Attorney Allen, Detective Hayden, William Craig, J. G. Williams and W. C. Sargent.

The testimony in this case shows that Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, members of the Duluth city council, each received from the hand of Frank Burke, Jr., city clerk, at his office, between June 27th and July 2nd, 1892, a certain sealed envelope, which, upon examination, was found to contain $200 in currency, the bills being in denominations from five to twenty dollars. Each envelope was addressed with the alderman's name. Upon handing the envelope to Alderman Thomas, Mr. Burke requested him to put it in his pocket and not to open it until he got to his office, which Mr. Thomas accordingly did. The envelopes received by Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy were put in their pockets unopened, and not opened, as they testify, until they returned to their respective homes. The envelope received by Mr. Thomas was preserved, placed in evidence and is hereto attached, being marked exhibit "A." The envelopes received by Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy they failed to preserve.

No mark or writing of any kind was contained in the envelopes in question. The money received by Mr. Thomas was handed to the mayor July 3rd, with an explanation of the circumstances of its receipt, and Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy a day or two afterwards also turned over to the mayor the money which had been handed them.

Each one of the remaining members of the council testified that they had received no such letters, as were handed Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, or any money from Mr. Burke or from any other source for the purpose of bribery, and had no knowledge of improper means being used at any time to influence the action of members of the council. The testimony of Mr. Burke was to the effect that letters and packages, sealed and unsealed, were almost daily left at his office for members of the council; that such letters were sometimes addressed to himself; that he had no recollection of the letters in question or knowledge of their contents; that the handwriting upon the envelope marked "M. Thomas, City", was not his handwriting, although he acknowledged it to be a clever imitation; that he had no knowledge of the source from which the money came, or of improper influences at work or methods employed to influence the official action of the aldermen.

The testimony differed as to whether the writing on the envelope received by Mr. Thomas was that of the city clerk. Those witnesses most familiar with his handwriting identified it as his.

Comparing it with a number of known specimens of Mr. Burke's writing, introduced in evidence, a striking similarity was observed; and the grand jury, with but two dissenting, hold to the opinion that the envelope received by Alderman Thomas was addressed by Burke. Other evidence, although circumstantial, strengthens the opinion that Mr. Burke was not ignorant of the contents of the envelopes handed Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, and that he was acting as agent for some party who is unknown to the grand jury.

Messrs. Craig, Allen and Sargent, representatives respectively of the Duluth Gas and Water company, the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern railway, and the Duluth & Northeastern railway, [testif]ied to having no knowledge of any ... means having been used at any ... influence the action of members o[f the coun]cil.

While s[uch] evidence submitted would seem to ... certain corporation and individ[uals as the so]urce of the "boodle" money, th[e grand jur]y must report that the evidence, [in th]eir opinion, is not sufficiently stro[ng] to justify their naming such corporation and individual as being concerned in the attempted bribery.

As to the part, however, that City Clerk Frank Burke, Jr., took in the transaction, the grand jury, after a full consideration of the testimony, are of the unanimous opinion that the said Burke has knowledge of the source from which the money was derived, the end which it was intended to subserve, and that he assisted in the distribution of the money in question for the purpose of influencing the action of members of the council. In view of such an opinion, the grand jury holds that Mr. Burke is unfit for the responsible office of city clerk and should be removed.

The City Printing.

In the investigation of the letting of the contract for the city printing for 1892, the following witnesses were examined, viz: The mayor, all the members of the council, the comptroller, the city attorney, S. D. Allen, M. A. Hays, editor of the News, and Emil Schmied.

We find that bids were submitted by each of the daily papers of the city, (The Herald, News and Tribune), which were identical in amount, and were at the highest rates permissible by law, viz: 75 cents a folio for the first insertion and 35 cents for subsequent insertions. We are unable to learn that the finance committee of the council, consisting of N. F. Hugo, chairman, and Messrs. Helm and Sorenson, to whom the bids were referred, took any measures to ascertain, except from the several publishers, whether the rates named in the bids were fair and reasonable ones for the city to pay. The finance committee reported to the council that they were "unable to decide the matter," and recommended that the bids be referred to the council as a whole. The records of the council proceedings show no discussion, but that they immediately proceeded to ballot and awarded the contract to The Evening Herald, the vote being Herald 8, News 2, Tribune 1.

A clause in the Duluth city charter, chapter 12, section 13, page 145, reads as follows: "Any department of the city of Duluth, in asking for proposals for the doing of any work or services, or the furnishing of any material or merchandise, may require parties submitting proposals to accompany the same with the oath of the party bidding, or, if a corporation is bidding, with the oath of their president or secretary, that said bid is made without collusion, directly or indirectly, with any officer of the city, or with any other bidder, and that no person, company or corporation other than the bidder is interested directly or indirectly, or is to receive directly or indirectly any part of moneys to be received from the city for such work, services, material or merchandise, which is the subject of said bid," etc.

In 1891, bids were made by each of the daily papers at the same rates as those of the present year, but were thrown out of the council and new bids obtained, with the result that the contract was let at a much less rate, viz., 15c a folio for all insertions.

In view of the provision of the city charter above quoted, and in the face of the experience with the 1891 bids, which was known to at least several of the aldermen, and with the bids of the present year identical in amount—thus evidencing collusion among the bidders—it seems to the grand jury that the finance committee particularly, as well as the other members of the council, are clearly censurable for not properly informing themselves as to the reasonableness of the bids, and for not taking means in their power to prevent collusion among the bidders.

As evidence that the political dictum "a public office is a public trust" is not always accepted as a guiding principle of official action, we give the testimony of Alderman Weiss, who is at the same time manager of The Evening Herald, the official paper of the city. He states, and his evidence is corroborated by Mr. Hays, editor of the News, that while The Evening Herald performs all of the labor and pays all expenses pertaining to the city printing, it pays to each the other daily papers, the News and Tribune, one-fifth of the total amount it receives under the contract.

It is reasonable to suppose that The Herald's profit in the transaction is at least equal to the amount paid to the other papers; so that it can be undoubtedly stated that there are at least three profits being made under the present contract for city printing.

The total cost of the city printing for the fiscal year 1891 was $4377.32. The cost for the present year as estimated by the city comptroller, will be about $12,000.

The profit, under the present contract for city printing, will be, as far as can be learned, about $7000 to $7500.

The grand jury are of the opinion, therefore, that while the paper publishing the official notices of the city is entitled to a reasonable profit under its contract, the present rate being paid for the city printing is exorbitant and unjust to the tax payers. And further, that any arrangement permitting a division of the profits among the city newspapers may become demoralizing to the papers themselves by restraining them from a free and independent criticism of public measures.

Piedmont Avenue Contract.

In the investigation of the Piedmont avenue east, under the contract with E. J. Amory, an extraordinay difference was found between the preliminary estimate on which bids were asked, and the final estimate under which the contract was paid. In the preliminary estimate of Mr. Fuller, then city engineer, there was included among other items fifty cubic yards of mortar rubble masonry, estimated to cost $3.80 per cubic yard, the total cost of this item being $190.00; and 31,000 cubic yards of earth excavation at 30 c per cubic yard, to cost $9,300. The amount actually paid under the final estimate was 2,260 cubic yards of mortar rubble masonry at $7.50 per cubic yard, amounting to $16,950.00; and 42,600 cubic yards of earth excavation at 42c per cubic yard, amounting to $17,82-00. The increased cost of these two items alone, as the work was actually done, was $25,352.

As testified to by the acting city engineer, and the chairman of the board of public works, certain changes were made in the matter of of retaining walls, not calculated upon at the start; which largely increased the amount of mortar rubble masonry used.

While no evidence was brought before the grand jury that any city official benefited by the change made, it can be readily seen that there would be opportunities for unlimited "boodling" under such a contract, where the city engineer or board of public works have the power, after a contract is let, to make such radical changes. The least that can be said of such methods is that it indicates the extreme of carelessness and inefficiency on the part of the city engineer and board of public works who had this work in charge.

The practice of permitting bidders to gamble in quantities—in other words make their own guesses of estimates of earth, rock and masonry, etc., which will probably enter into a piece of work, instead of depending mainly upon the estimates of the city engineer, is an unfortunate one for the city, and should be abolished. It leads to unbalanced bidding, which may, in some cases, result favorably to the city, but the opportunities offered a weak and dishonest official under such a system are too great, and should be done away with. It has been stated by the present acting city engineer, and by the chairman of the board of public works that the greatest care is now being taken by borings, soundings, etc., to arrive at an accurate estimate of the work to be done and the quantities to be removed, and that bidders have been given to understand that the board of public works reserves the right to throw out all bids which they deem not properly balanced.

It is only fair to state that the grand jury have no reflections to make upon the present acting city engineer or board of public works; but that as far as has come to their knowledge this department is being well conducted.

The Gas and Water Guarantees.

Referring to the action of certain city authorities in the matter of the compromise of certain suits brought by the Duluth Gas and Water company against the city to recover amounts which the Gas and Water company claimed the city had guaranteed for extensions the grand jury have not been able to obtain from the evidence such a complete understanding of the case as would warrant a positive opinion. There are, however, certain features of the transaction which it may be well to mention. Under the decisions of Judge Stearns and Judge Baxter, it was ruled that the common council had no authority in behalf of the city to guarantee revenue to a private company, and the city therefore was not liable for the amount claimed by the Gas and Water company, which by June, 1892, was about $32,000.

These suits had been taken to the supreme court by the Gas and Water company, and were set for argument the latter part of June of this year. Under the advice of city attorney Smith, who held that the city was liable for the guarantees that had been made, and that the supreme court would so decide; and disregarding entirely the decisions in the cases favorable to the city, that had been rendered by Judges Stearns and Baxter, the city authorities compromised the matter with the Gas and Water Company by paying $16,000—one-half of the amount alleged to be due under the prior guarantees—and provided that the city should locate upon the then existing mains of the company 100 additional fire hydrants (50 to be located prior to June 1st 1893, 25 to be located prior to June 1st, 1894, 25 to be located prior to June 1st, 1895,) and to locate 25 fire hydrants prior to June, 1896, upon the mains of the company, then existing.

The Gas and Water company in return were to make certain reductions and discounts in the price of gas furnished consumers, and agreed, prior to November 1st, 1893, to extend the mains to an elevation of not less than 500 feet above the level of Lake Superior, the city to pay 50c per foot for each foot of this extension. These were the main considerations in the settlement.

In view of the fact that two decisions had been made favorable to the city in the suits in question, and that the matter in controversy was so soon to be argued in the supreme court, it seems to the grand jury that the city authorities were unwise in making the settlement that they did.

The franchise of the Gas and Water company provided that the city might purchase the gas and water plant, or either of them, at any time after ten years from the granting of the franchise. The grand jury believes that it was and is the expectation and wish of a large majority of the citizens of Duluth that at least the water plant should be purchased by the city, at a reasonable price and the rate to customers materially reduced. We further believe that the amended ordinance will greatly embarrass that purchase, and add a large amount to the sum which the city will have to pay whenever the purchase shall be made.

The Sunday Liquor Law.

There remains a matter, which was brought to the attention of the grand jury wholly without their seeking, but which from later developments we feel it our duty to report upon. Evidence was submitted through the police, looking to the indictment of a certain saloonkeeper in this town, for keeping open on Sunday a place where liquors is sold. There were circumstances which made this case look like one of persecution.

In order to obtain information relative to the observance of the Sunday liquor law in Duluth among saloonkeepers in general, on Saturday, Sept. 10, the sheriff was asked to obtain what evidence he could of the violation of the liquor laws on the following day. Within four hours of the time of adjournment of the grand jury on the aforesaid Saturday, oral orders were issued by Lieut. Dwyer to the men on line at police headquarters to notify all saloonkeepers on their beats to close at 11 p. m. sharp and remain closed until 5 a. m. Monday.

The same order was issued through the telephone by Secretary Rooney to the several policemen on their beats, and was coupled, at least in some instances, with the statement that the "grand jury were after them," meaning of course the saloonkeepers.

As the mayor of the city and the chief of police have both testified, that a general understanding exists between the police and the saloonkeepers that they shall not be molested for keeping open to 12 p. m. during the week, and having the side door open from 1 to 7 p. m. on Sundays—this of course being in direct violation of the law—the grand jury are unable to understand why upon this particular Sunday, the saloons should be ordered closed, unless it was to frustrate any action that might be taken for illegal liquor selling.

It seems that no criticism can be too severe upon a department of the city government, to whom the grand jury would naturally and must necessarily look for assistance in obtaining evidence as to the enforcement or violation of the laws, which so openly, actively, and flagrantly aids violators of the law to conceal evidence of the fact, whether such violations are approved by the mayor of the city or any other official.

Efforts were made, but without success, to ascertain who gave the order closing the saloons, his honor, the mayor, Chief Horgan, Lieut. Dwyer and Sergeant Donavan deny any knowledge of its origin. Police Secretary Rooney testified that upon returning to his office after a few minutes' absence, he found on his desk the following order, which is hereto attached and marked exhibit "B": "Tell policemen to close up saloons at 11 o'clock, and keep closed according to law. (Signed), "POLICE OFFICER."

No evidence could be obtained by the grand jury as to who wrote such an order, or who left it upon the secretary's desk.

The further fact was brought out, by the testimony of the police secretary, that orders without the official signature of the mayor or any officer of the police force were sometimes left upon the secretary's desk, and were transmitted by him to the several policemen on their beats. If such is the fact, which seems almost incredible, it indicates a carelessness and looseness of the management of the police department which is highly reprehensible.

A Little Moralizing.

In conclusion, while the grand jury have no desire to make any wholesale arraignment of the city officials, believing that many of them have a high and proper sense of their duties as public officers, yet the testimony of this investigation shows that there may be the same dishonesty, ignorance, incapacity and disregard of the best interests of their employer shown in the conduct of public affairs, as is not frequently shown in the carrying out of a private business.

Considering the magnitude of the city's interests, the valuable franchises that certain public officers are empowered to dispose of, the large sums to be collected and disbursed, it is evident that the best business talent of the city is none too capable for the responsibilities of public offices. Until that time when the affairs of the city are in the hands of its best and most capable citizens, the more watchful scrutiny is needed of the workings of the various departments of the city government.

It will have a decided tendency to better the quality of service rendered the public, if officers of the city know that the search light of an investigation is liable to be thrown at any time upon their official acts and methods. This can well be made a part of the work of future grand juries.

ONE-THIRD DESTROYED.

Business Portion of a Minnesota Town Badly Damaged.

BELLINGHAM, Minn., Sept. 27.—The business portion of this town was over one-third destroyed by fire this morning at 3 o'clock.

Every business house on both sides of Main street is destroyed, amounting to a direct loss of about $45,000. Add to this the damage to goods in other houses by water and moving and the total will reach $55,000; insured for about $10,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

ELECTRIC SPARKS.

The adoption of the dynamo as a generator of current for telegraph circuits is proceeding apace.

Gunpowder factories are now lighted by electricity, it having been found that it is the safest of illuminants.

Incandescent lamps are ridiculously cheap in Sweden, the price of those with all voltages up to 125 being about twenty cents.

It has been found that the leakage of the electric current into water causes the evolution of a large quantity of electrolytic gas, that is dangerously explosive in mines.

An electric carriage was tried on the Chicago streets recently, and made a trip of over twelve miles without giving out. Five persons rode on the carriage, and the whole outfit attracted considerable attention.

A new socket for incandescent lamps has been brought out, which is flexible and will admit of the lamp globe being turned in one direction or another. A spring coil forms one of the connections to the lamp base, and takes the place of the thread on the regular socket.

Telephony is making rapid advances in France, and Paris will shortly be in telephonic communication with all the principal towns in that country. There are already systems between Paris, Bordeaux, Lille, Lyons and Marseilles, and these installations are continually being extended.

The Platform Demands That Raw Materials Be Placed On the Free List.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—The Democratic state convention was called to order today at 11:35 a. m. Messrs. Quincy and Buckley were constituted temporary officers of the convention. Upon assuming his office as temporary chairman Mr. Quincy made a short speech. The usual committees were then appointed. The report of the committee on credentials showed the presence of 1,951 delegates, representing 28 cities and 324 towns.

speech, Congressman Joseph H. O'Neil renominated Governor Wm. E. Russell in a brief and pointed speech. The renomination was unanimously carried. On motion of George Fred Williams, Thomas Carroll of Springfield was nominated for lieutenant governor.

The platform adopted heartily endorses the platform at Chicago; proudly recalls the presidency of one whose statesmanship, honesty and political courage gave to our country an administration unexcelled by its predecessors and confidently hopes for the re-election of Cleveland; demands that raw material particularly wool, coal, iron, lumber and all drugs, be free of duty; asserts that in the event of Republican success an attempt will again be made to enact a force bill; denounces trusts and combinations of capital and denounces the silver act of 1890 as a menace to a sound and stable currency.

Erickson Arraigned.

In the district today Anton Jolliette, the Tower striker, who was on trial yesterday, was found guilty. James Carey is now on trial. He is also a striker. John Erickson, the murderer of Hans Mattson, was arraigned and given a day to plead. Page Morris was appointed to defend him. Ira L. Beck, a juror, was fined $10 for contempt of court in not answering to his name.

Want Cotton to Run.

S. F. Snively, who has been mentioned as a candidate for the legislature and has been urged to make a canvas for the nomination, has declined. J. B. Cotton is now mentioned and is being pushed forward by his friends. He is a young man and has heretofore had no idea of being a candidate for any office, indeed it is not known now that he will consider it, but he has some strong friends who believe he can win.

The Lakeside School.

German & de Waard opened the bids for constructing the Lakeside school last evening. D. L. Denton was the lowest responsible bidder, his figure being $34,762. The highest bid was Nic Mueller's, $41,050. The school is to be one of the finest at the head of the lakes. It will be built at London on Sargent avenue about four blocks north of the railroad tracks.

The Force Bill Approved and Sound and Honest Money Is Strongly Demanded.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Following is the letter of Grover Cleveland accepting the nomination as the Democratic candidate for president of the United States, which was made public last night:

To Hon. Wm. L. Wilson and others of the committee—Gentlemen: In responding to your formal notification of my nomination to the presidency by the national Democracy, I hope I may be permitted to say at the outset that continued reflection and observation have confirmed me in my adherence to the opinions which I have heretofore plainly and publicly declared touching the questions involved in the canvass. This is a time above all others, when these questions should be considered in the light afforded by a sober apprehension of the principles upon which our government is based, and a clear understanding of the relation it bears to the people for whose benefit it was created. We shall thus be supplied with a test by which the value of any proposition relating to the maintenance and administration of our government can be ascertained, and by which the justice and honesty of every political question can be judged. If doctrines or theories are presented which do not satisfy this test, loyal Americans must pronounce them false and mischievous.

The protection of the people in the exclusive use and enjoyment of their property and earnings concededly constitutes the especial purpose and mission of our free government. This design is so interwoven with the structure of our plan of rule that failure to protect the citizen in such use and enjoyment, or their unjustifiable diminution by the government itself, is a betrayal of the people's trust. We have, however, undertaken to build a great nation upon a plan especially our own. To maintain it and to furnish through its agency the means for the accomplishment of national objects, the American people are willing through federal taxation to surrender a part of their earnings and income.

The Tariff Issue.

The tariff legislation presents a familiar form of federal taxation. Such legislation results assuredly in a tax upon the daily life of our people as the tribute paid directly into the hands of the tax gatherer. We feel the burden of these tariff taxes too palpably to be persuaded by any sophistry that they do not exist or are paid by foreigners. Such taxes representing a diminution of the property rights of the people, are only justifiable when laid and collected for the purpose of maintaining our government and furnishing the means for the accomplishment of its legitimate purposes and functions. This is taxation under the operation for revenue. It accords with the professions of American free institutions and its justice and honesty answer the test supplied by a correct appreciation of the principles upon which these institutions rest.

The theory of tariff legislation manifestly enjoins strict economy in public expenditures and their limitation to legitimate public uses, inasmuch as it exhibits as absolute extortion any exaction by the way of taxation, from the substance of the people, beyond the necessities of a careful and proper administration of government. Opposed to this theory the dogma is now boldly presented that tariff taxation is justifiable for the express purpose and intent of thereby promoting especial interests and enterprises. Such a proposition is clearly contrary to the spirit of our constitution and so directly encourages the disturbance by selfishness and greed of patriotic sentiment, that its statement would rudely shock our people if they had not already been insidiously allured from the safe landmarks of principle. Never have honest desire for national growth, patriotic devotion to country and sincere regard for those who toil, been so betrayed to the support of a pernicious doctrine. In its behalf the plea that our infant industries should be fostered did service until discredited by our stalwart growth. Then followed the exigencies of a terrible war which made our people heedless of the opportunities for ulterior schemes afforded by their willing and patriotic payment of unprecedented tribute, and now, after a long period of peace, when our overburdened countrymen ask for relief and a restoration to a fuller enjoyment of their incomes and earnings, they are met by the claim that tariff taxation is an American system, the continuance of which is necessary in order that high wages may be paid to our workmen and a home market be provided for our farm products.

These pretenses should no longer deceive. The truth is that such a system is directly antagonized by every sentiment of justice and fairness of which Americans are pre-eminently proud. It is also true that while our workingmen and farmers can the least of all our people defend themselves against the harder home life which such tariff exaction decrees, the workingman suffering from the importation and employment of pauper labor instigated by his professed friends and seeking security for his interests in organized co-operation, still waits for a division of the advantages secured to his employer under cover of a generous solicitude for his wages, while the farmer is learning that the prices of his products are fixed in foreign markets, where he suffers from a competition invited and built up by the system he is asked to support.

The struggle for unearned advantage at the doors of the government trampies on the rights of those who patiently rely upon assurances of American equality. Every governmental accession to clamorous favorites invites corruption in political affairs by encouraging the expenditure of money to debauch the suffrage in support of a policy directly favorable to private and selfish gain. This in the end must strangle patriotism and weaken popular confidence in the rectitude of republican institutions.

A Question of Morals.

Though the subject of tariff legislation involves a question of markets, it also involves a question of morals. We cannot with impunity permit injustice to taint the spirit of right and equity which is the life of our republic; and we shall fail to reach our national destiny if greed and selfishness lead the way. Recognizing these truths the national Democracy will seek by the application of just and sound principles to equalize to our people the blessings due them from the government they support, to promote among our countrymen a closer community of interests cemented by patriotism and national pride, and to point out a fair field, where prosperous and diversified American enterprise may grow and thrive in the wholesome atmosphere of American industry.

Tariff reform is still our purpose. Though we oppose the theory that tariff laws may be passed having for their object the granting of discriminating and unfair governmental aid to private ventures, we wage no exterminating war against any American interests. We believe a readjustment can be accomplished in accordance with the principles we profess without disaster or demolition. We believe that the advantages of freer raw material should be accorded to our manufacturers, and we contemplate a fair and careful distribution of necessary tariff burdens rather than the precipitation of free trade.

To anticipate with calmness the misrepresentation of our motives and purposes, instigated by a selfishness which seeks to hold in unrelenting grasp its unfair advantage under present tariff laws, we will rely upon the intelligence of our fellow countrymen to reject the charge that a party comprising a majority of our people is planning the destruction or injury of American interests, and we know they cannot be frightened by the spectacle of impossible free trade.

The Force Bill.

The administration and management of our government depends upon popular will. Federal power is the instrument of that will—not its master. Therefore, the attempt of the opponents of Democracy to interfere with and control the suffrage of the states through federal agencies, develops a design, which no explanation can mitigate, to reverse the fundamental and safe relation between the people and their government. Such an attempt cannot fail to be regarded by thoughtful men as proof of a bold determination to secure the ascendency of a discredited party in reckless disregard of a free expression of the popular will. To resist such a scheme is an impulse of Democracy. At all times and at all places we trust the people. As against the disposition to force the way to federal power, we present to them as our claim to their confidence and support, a steady championship of their rights.

Sound Money.

The people are entitled to sound and honest money, abundantly sufficient in volume to supply their business needs, but whatever may be the form of the people's currency, national or state—whether gold, silver or paper—it should be so regulated and guarded by governmental action or by wise and careful laws, that no one can be deluded as to the certainty and stability of its value. Every dollar put into the hands of the people should be of the same intrinsic value or purchasing power. With this condition absolutely guaranteed, both gold and silver can be safely utilized upon equal terms in the adjustment of our currency.

In dealing with this subject no selfish scheme should be allowed to intervene and no doubtful experiment should be attempted. The wants of our people arising from the deficiency of imperfect distribution of money circulation ought to be fully and honestly recognized and efficiently reminded, but it should, however, be constantly remembered that the inconvenience or loss that might arise from such a situation can be much easier borne than the universal distress which must follow a discredited currency.

Civil Service Reform.

Public officials are the agents of the people. It is therefore their duty to secure for those whom they represent the best and most efficient performance of public work. This plainly can be best accomplished by regarding a certain fitness in government employes. These considerations alone are sufficient justification for an honest adherence to the letter and spirit of civil service reform. There are, however, other features of this plan which abundantly commend it. Through its operation, worthy merit in every station and condition of American life is recognized in the distribution of public employment, while its application tends to raise the standard of political activity from spoils hunting and unthinking party affiliation to the advocacy of party principles by reason and argument.

Pensions for Old Soldiers.

The American people are generous and grateful; and they have impressed these characteristics upon their government. Therefore, all patriotic and just citizens must commend liberal consideration for our worthy veteran soldiers and for the families of those who have died. No complaint should be made of the amount of public money paid to those actually disabled or made dependent by reason of army service. But our pension roll should be a roll of honor, uncontaminated by ill deserts and unvitiated by demagogic use. This is due to those whose worthy names adorn the roll and to all our people who delight to honor the brave and the true. It is also due to those in years to come that they should hear reverently and lovingly the story of American patriotism and fortitude illustrated by our pension roll. The preferences accorded to veteran soldiers in public employment should be secured to them honestly without evasion, and when capable and worthy their claim to the helpful regard and gratitude of their countrymen should be ungrudgingly acknowledged.

Paternalism Condemned.

The assurance to the people of the utmost individual liberty consistent with peace and good order is a cardinal principle of our government. This gives no sanction to vexatious sumptuary laws which unnecessarily interfere with such habits and customs of our people as are not offensive to a just and moral sense, and are not inconsistent with good citizenship and the public welfare. The same principle requires that the line between the subjects which are not properly within governmental control and those which are more fittingly left to parental regulation should be carefully kept in view. An enforced education, wisely deemed a proper preparation for citizenship, should not involve the impairment of wholesome parental authority nor do violence to the household conscience. Paternalism in government finds no approval in the creed of Democracy. It is a symptom of misrule, whether it is manifested in unauthorized gifts or by an unwarranted control of personal and family affairs.

Restricting Immigration.

Our people, still cherishing the feeling of human fellowship which belonged to our beginning as a nation, require their government to express for them their sympathy with all those who are oppressed under any rule less free than ours. A generous hospitality which is one of the most prominent of our national characteristics, prompts us to welcome the worthy and industrious of all lands, to homes and citizenship among us. This hospitable sentiment is not violated, however, by careful and reasonable regulations for the protection of the public health, nor does it justify the reception of immigrants who have no appreciation of our institutions and whose presence among us is a menace to peace and good order.

The Nicaragua Canal.

The importance of the construction of the Nicaragua ship canal as a means of promoting commerce between our states and with foreign countries, and also as a contribution by Americans to the enterprises which advance the interests of the world of civilization, should commend the project to government approval and endorsement.

The World's Fair.

Our countrymen not only expect from those who represent them in public places a care of things which are directly and palpably related to their material interests, but they also fully appreciate the value of cultivating our national pride and maintaining our national honor. Both their material interests and their national pride and honor are involved in the success of the Columbian exposition, and they will not be inclined to condone any neglect of effort on the part of their government to ensure in the grandeur of this event a fitting exhibit of American growth and greatness and a splendid demonstration of American patriotism.

Closing Remarks.

In an imperfect and incomplete manner, I have thus endeavored to state some of the things which accord with the creed and intentions of the party to which I have given my life long allegiance. My attempt has not been to instruct my countrymen nor my party, but to remind both that Democratic doctrine lies near the principle of our government and tends to promote the people's good. I am willing to be accused of addressing my countrymen upon trite topics and in homely fashion, for I believe that important truths are found on the surface of thought and that they should be stated in direct and simple terms. Though much is left unwritten, my record as a public servant leaves no excuse for misunderstanding my belief and position on the questions which are now presented to the voters of the land for their decision.

Called for a third time to represent the party of my choice in attempt for the supremacy of Democratic principles, my grateful appreciation of its confidence, less than ever effaces the solemn sense of my responsibility. If the action of the convention you represent shall be endorsed by the suffrages of my countrymen, I will assume the duties of the great office for which I have been nominated, knowing full well its labors and perplexities, and with humble reliance upon the Divine Being, infinite in power, to aid me and be my constant guide in a watchful care over our favored nation. Yours, very truly,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

The Chicago Herald Says it Makes Itself Understood.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—The Herald (Democrat), says editorially this morning: "In strong contrast to President Harrison's long and prolix essay of acceptance is Mr. Cleveland's letter. In style it shows a distinct improvement upon the former public utterances of the Democratic candidate. There is nothing in this letter that can be misunderstood nothing that does not, in fact, insist upon making itself understood."

The Inter Ocean, (Republican), says: "Grover Cleveland has at last given to the world his letter of acceptance. The careful reader will look in vain for evidence in the letter as to why it should have been delayed so long. It certainly is not a great production. In fact, it is evident that the beauties and advantages of free trade were too much for his unsympathetic and phlegmatic pen. It is more at home with words of denunciation than those of commendation, and mostly relies on reiterating the stale diatribes against protection."

THE NEW YORK PAPERS.

Of Course the Comments Show Marked Differences of Opinion.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—The following are expressions of opinion editorially from the leading newspapers:

Herald (Independent): "It is not an argument but a statement. It is not a ringing document, but a calm statement of views in plain language that will appeal to and doubtless influence the thinking masses.

Sun (Democratic): "Those who look to Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance for any reversal or modification of the issue of this canvass as already defined by the logic of events will be disappointed. The candidate of the Chicago convention devotes more words to the tariff than to the force bill in the ratio of six to one, but what he has to say anent the force bill means at least 600 times as much as what he says about the tariff."

Tribune: "It is not for what it says or omits to say on minor topics that the letter of Mr. Cleveland will be judged. He rightly treats the tariff question as more directly involved in the election than any other, and devotes more than half of his space to a painfully labored and weak effort to smooth over the rugged declaration of his party, the uncompromising measures to which it has committed itself, and his own aggressive and vigorous utterances prior to the Rhode Island election. It seems to be that Mr. Cleveland learned from the stunning Democratic defeat which followed his speech in Providence. Apparently they tell the truth who say that Mr. Cleveland was correctly represented at the last national convention by those who wanted to evade and dodge the very issue upon which his nomination had been demanded. This, at least, is certain: his latest utterance will not gratify those who have rejoiced in his 'fearless zeal for reform.' It is much to be doubted whether it will moderate the antagonism of a single believer in the defense and maintenance of American industries."

World, (Democratic): "The letter of Grover Cleveland is like the man—strong, straight-forward, sensible, honest. It takes up the issues of the canvass in their order and defines his own and the Democratic position on them simply, clearly, and in a manner to leave no doubt in any mind as to his convictions or as to his party's purpose. Mr. Cleveland's statement of the objects, powers and limitations of our Republican government is Jeffersonian in its philosophy and Jacksonian in its expression."

A Statesman's Letter.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 27.—American. "It is the letter of a statesman discussing grave matters in language plain and simple. It boils down the issues and presents them in a manner appealing to the sober thought of thinking men. It is a sound and able exposition of Democratic doctrines."

Watterson is Pleased.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 27.—Courier-Journal: "The letter of acceptance which Mr. Cleveland sends out, is a calm, conservative document. He takes no step backward upon the great issue of tariff reform, but argues the question in a thoroughly statesman-like way upon the line laid down by the Chicago platform. In this regard he leaves nothing to be misunderstood or misconstrued."

Essentially Democratic.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27.—The Enquirer (Democratic) says: "The style is clear and treatment vigorous, and yet withal the utterance is modest. The attempt is not to tell the party what it should do, but briefly outlines what it has done. It is essentially a Democratic document."

Detroit Opinions.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 27.—The Free Press (Democratic) says: "Clear, concise, dignified and statesman-like is Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance. In it all there is no suggestion of demagogy, no appeal to passion or political prejudice."

The Tribune (Republican): "Mr. Cleveland's letter is that of a self-seeking politician bidding for votes. It is not the bold, clear, unmistakeable utterance of a leader.

Widely Different.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 27.—The Journal (Republican) says: "Cleveland has written too many letters of acceptance of presidential nominations. His third effort in that line is feeblest of the series."

Called a Straddle.

An Ingenious Effort.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—The Tribune (Republican): "Mr. Cleveland makes a gallant struggle to keep within hailing distance of the platform prepared for him at Chicago by Col. Watterson without stultifying himself, and the result is a rather more ingenious bit of work than Senator Hill has yet done in the same line."

Lucid and Forcible.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 27.—The Appeal Avalanche (Democratic) says: "Cleveland's letter is marked by his usual lucidity and forcefulness of style. It is the paper of a tried statesman and loyal partisan. He makes the issues clear. The letter fits into the platform adopted at Chicago and as a sound interpretation of the Democratic position will be accepted by Democrats everywhere."

Terse and Weighty.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 27.—The Times Democrat: "It is a terse and weighty document. It is permeated with a spirit of broad statesmanship, and its excursions into the field of living topics are marked everywhere with wise thought and philosophic sentiment and they are couched in much power and grace of language."

Judge Comstock's Death.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 27.—George Franklin Comstock, ex-chief justice of the court of appeals, died this morning at 5:30 after a lingering illness, aged 31 years.

Curtis' Will.

A Mayor Shot.

Set and Sit.

A great many persons throw the English grammar entirely out of joint when they attempt to use these two words. Do you? If you do, perhaps a few examples may help to fix the distinction in your memory. You can set a lamp on the table, but don't sit on the table yourself, or people will set you down as uncultivated. You can buy, beg or borrow eggs, and set a hen, which makes her a sitting hen, not a setting one. You set your foot on an icy sidewalk and sit down very suddenly and very hard. If you break your leg you set your damages at a high figure, and a jury of your intelligent countrymen sits on the case. The Burlington Route sets handsome and luxurious reclining chairs in its cars, and invites you to sit in them (without extra charge) on the journey to Chicago or St. Louis. Set this down in your memorandum book, and when you wish to travel sit down and write to W. J. C. Kenyon, Gen. Pass. Agent, St. Paul, Minn.

WERE TURNED OUT

The Pitiable Case of Emigrants From Hamburg Who Are Wandering Around Liverpool.

They Are Without Food or Shelter and Have No Means to Obtain Them.

Refused to Accept Amount of Their Fares and Demanded Transport to America.

LONDON, Sept. 27. — The Cunard Steamship line, having grown tired of maintaining the emigrants from Hamburg who bought tickets by way of the line at boarding houses in Liverpool, and seeing no early prospect of being able to dispose of them by transportation to America, offered to return to the emigrants the amount of their fares.

The majority of the emigrants refused to accept the offer and insisted on being conveyed to the United States. The company then notified the keepers of the boarding houses in which the emigrants had been maintained that the company would no longer be responsible for their support. Thereupon the landlords turned the emigrants out of doors.

The emigrants applied to the authorities, but the latter declined to admit the strangers to the workhouses, as the poorhouses are called in England, and now the unfortunate foreigners are wandering about the streets, the police, for sanitary reasons, not wishing to arrest them, and nobody being willing to have anything to do with them.

GEN. SICKLES HAS BOLTED.

Again Says no Union Soldier can Vote for Cleveland.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—During the Chicago convention Bourke Cockran made a speech in which he said there were 200,000 veterans of the Union army in the state of New York, not one of whom could be expected to vote for GENERAL SICKLES.

Cleveland, not only because of his pension record, but because he had chosen to send a substitute to the war instead of obeying the draft in person. At this point Gen. Sickles dramatically interrupted Mr. Cockran by rising and waving his crutch in the air and calling out: "No, no, no Union soldier can vote for Cleveland."

Gen. Sickles has written a letter to Gen. Collins, which was given to the press last night, in which he reiterates that no Union soldier can vote for Mr. Cleveland. He bolts the Democratic nomination for president.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.

A Man and Woman Charged With Stealing Jewelry.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Henry Marsh and James McIntosh, who are said to be from Pittsburg, were arrested yesterday on a charge of grand larceny preferred by Henry Fehl, who says he is the administrator of Gamble Weir, of Pittsburg, who died in January.

He alleges that Mrs. Marsh and McIntosh disappeared with several thousand dollars worth of personal property, jewelry and diamonds which belonged to Weir. The police made a thorough search of their house at No. 100 Beach street, Stapleton, and it is believed that some of the missing jewels were recovered.

It is also intimated that the prisoners know something of the death of Mr. Weir, which was caused by poison.

SPECULATED IN COTTON.

Capture of a Defaulting Arkansas School Treasurer.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27.—W. R. Crossett, of Hope, Ark., whence he is a fugitive from justice, was arrested last night in a broker's office and jailed. He defaulted with $21,000 of the Hope school district funds, of which he was treasurer, and had also taken considerable money belonging to the People's bank, of which he was cashier. Most of the money has been recovered. Crossett attributes his downfall to cotton future speculations. When arrested he was conducting a transaction in cotton figures.

Little Girl Missing.

APPLETON, Minn., Sept. 27.—Grace Emory, the 11-year-old-daughter of a farmer four miles north of this town, has been lost on the prairie since Saturday night. A most persistent search has been made without success. Large parties are being formed to scour the country and dredge the river.

Fatally Shot.

ST. CLOUD, Sept. 27.—Mrs. Ed Hathaway, wife of a farmer near Kimball station, this county, was accidentally shot in the abdomen and will die. She was in company with her husband, who placed the loaded shotgun in the baby carriage, which Mrs. Hathaway was wheeling. Through some cause the gun was discharged.

Maj. E. H. Evans Dead.

MANKATO, Sept. 27.—Maj. E. H. Evans, an old and well-known settler, died at his home at Garden City, of heart disease this morning. He was born in New Hampshire 76 years ago and did a mercantile and real estate business in Boston, coming to Garden City in '56.

RECOMMENDS A TUNNEL.

Board of Public Works Submits a Communication.

There was no quorum at the council meeting last evening, the only aldermen present being President Hugo and Aldermen Long, Thomas, Wilson, Weiss and Helm. An adjournment was taken to Wednesday evening. J. B. Holmes was on hand to get an extension on the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern franchise, and Messrs. Hartley and Mendenhall were there to adjust some street car matters.

The only other matter of importance which was to come before the council was the communication of the board of public works in regard to the ship canal bridge. This communication recited that the opinions of the attorneys on the right of the city to build a bridge established the fact that a bridge can be constructed under the act of 1889. This requires a pivot drawbridge with a span the full width of the canal. If built this would necessitate a draw 570 feet in length and would cost $400,000. The board asked that its communication of July 25, 1892, recommending the building of a bridge be withdrawn and instead it would recommend that a tunnel be constructed, which can be done for $600,000. It also recommended that two-thirds of the expense be charged to the property especially benefitted and one-third paid from the general fund, and that the legislature be petitioned to allow the issuance of bonds to pay for one-third which shall not come under the 5 per cent limitation. The board says that the property benefitted could be assessed for all the cost but believes that it is best to assess some of the city at large. In getting bids it is recommended that the bidders be requested to furnish their own plans and with them lump bids.

"JOHN AND JONATHAN."

Dr. Nourse Delivers an Entertaining Lecture on the Two Brothers.

Dr. Robert Nourse delivered a very entertaining lecture last evening at the Temple on "John and Jonathan" and drew some interesting comparisons of the Englishman and his American brother. There was some good sound truth in Dr. Nourse's statements, which Americans do not hear very often. He spoke particularly of the great prejudice which exists in each country against the other, but gave the impression that the prejudice is stronger on the part of the Americans than on the part of the English. In spite of this he said there are no people who make such good American citizens as the English. He enumerated the number of publications in the country which are devoted to the Germans, the French, the Norwegians, etc. and said that there was only one in the whole county devoted to Englishmen and that the sole object of that was to make them better American citizens. He rehearsed what each country got from the other, America her literature from England, England the idea of a common education for all and the right of universal suffrage from America, and so on.

Dr. Nourse is an English-American, but while it can be seen that he still retains an affection and admiration for his mother country and believes that there is an unnatural prejudice in this country against her, yet a more loyal American than Dr. Nourse does not live. His answer to the question "Is England great, and how great is she?" was especially good. "She is great," he said, "because she is the only country we Americans strive to rival and when we surpass her we lead the world. That is the measure of her greatness." Dr. Nourse said that he believed that in the American, God was making the personification of noble manhood as a crowning effort for his own honor and glory.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Sept. 27.—Fair, pleasant weather prevails in all sections, there being only two stations in the country reporting cloudy weather.

While cool weather still continues over the far orthwest it is warmer than usual in other sections. At this station yesterday the mean temperature was 61°, which is 9° higher than the average for this time of year.

Most of the country is covered by an area of high barometer, but an area of low has just passed over this place, and is now central over Lake Superior between Marquette and Port Arthur, accompanied by gales on the center of the lake.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 72°, the lowest last night was 58°.

DULUTH, Sept. 27.—Continued fair; possibly followed by thunder storms tonight; slight change in temperature today, slightly cooler Wednesday; wind from southwest to north.

R. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; warmer in eastern portion Wednesday morning; cooler in northwest portion; south to west winds.

AN ABLE DOCUMENT.

Mr. Cleveland has written a letter of acceptance of the Democratic nomination for president that will not be disappointing to his friends. It is a clear, outspoken and well worded document that cannot be misunderstood in any particular. The greatest interest attaches to his declarations upon the tariff question. He does not evade the issue that has been made. Having in his messages and speeches from four to eight years ago placed this question in the form that it now stands among the principles of the Democratic party, no one is more competent than he to define it clearly and accurately. His letter is concise and straightforward upon this point and it cannot be misconstrued.

Tariff reform is the burden of his song. He adheres to the declaration of the Chicago platform that duties levied for the purpose of building up private enterprises are unconstitutional, and thus will incur the criticism that during the eighty years or more in which protective tariffs have been in force under Democratic, Republican, Whig and Federalist administrations no one has ever attempted to prove in any court that the constitution has been violated by their enactment. If protective tariffs are unconstitutional, why have not the Democratic leaders had this question passed upon by the courts? Mr. Cleveland has not presented any reasons why he considers the protective feature unconstitutional, and in view of the many years during which it has stood unquestioned in the courts, the contrary view must be regarded as established by the common consent of the people, to whom the constitution owes its existence.

Mr. Cleveland resents the charge that he would introduce free trade, if given the opportunity. He declares that it is impossible, and with this sentiment every citizen, except the extreme free traders, will heartily coincide. Mr. Cleveland is too sensible and level-headed a man to propose the instant abolition of the protective features of our present tariff system. "We wage no exterminating war against any American interests. We believe that the advantages of freer raw material should be accorded to our manufacturers, and we contemplate a fair and careful distribution of necessary tariff burdens rather than the precipitation of free trade." In these two sentences is found the gist of his remarks upon the tariff. They will be reassuring to the business interests of the country, because they indicate that, were he given the opportunity, Mr. Cleveland would not allow the enactment of any laws that would invite disaster or demolition so far as our varied industries are concerned.

On other public questions Mr. Cleveland reiterates his well-known views. He is sound upon the money question, and no cheap money man can discover in his speech anything that can be regarded as favorable to the silver heresy. The force bill is opposed with a determination that will please Editor Dana, and the good words spoken for liberal support to ensure a creditable World's fair befitting the nation will gratify every true American.

All in all Mr. Cleveland's letter must be considered a strong and able document. It is calm and dignified in tone, it makes a direct appeal to the reason and it is devoid of any of the artifices of the demagogue. Though we may not agree with all the sentiments expressed, we cannot but admire its lucidity, its frankness and its earnest spirit. It is a trumpet call that will rally around the Democratic standard all believers in tariff reform, which in this case means tariff reduction.

An insurance agent has written to The Herald, pointing out an error in a communication from Stephen L. Merchant, published in yesterday's issue. Mr. Merchant said the insurance on the high school building will cost $5000 a year. This is denied. The cost, it is claimed would be $4500 on insurance to the amount of $150,000 for five years, or only $900 per year, while if the manual training school were removed the cost for the same amount would be $3375, or only $675 a year.

THE REAL ESTATE CONGRESS.

Duluth promises to be well represented at the second congress of the National Real Estate association, which will be held at Buffalo on October 4 to 7 inclusive. The result cannot but be beneficial to this city, because a good sized delegation will be able to advertise its resources and advantages to an extent that could not be attained in any other way. This is proven by the excellent advertising which Duluth received at the first congress held at Nashville a year ago, when only two or three delegates from this city were present. With characteristic Duluth push and enterprise, however, they made their presence known, and Duluth was greatly benefited thereby.

Aside from the advantages to be gained in an advertising way, there are many reasons why the Duluth realty men should be well represented. Every business or professional man in the United States, who is interested in real estate as an owner, agent or dealer, will be benefited by the work, that will be done in Buffalo by this association, and it is, therefore, receiving very wide attention. Among the objects which this association hopes to accomplish, is the establishment of uniform laws throughout the states for the transfer and registry of real property; for better and simpler and more secure legal forms to be used in the transaction of the real estate business, and for the establishment of a central body of reference and statistics. The association discourages wild speculation and fictitious "booms," and encourages and aims to direct, as far as possible, the investment of money in sections promising the greatest and safest returns. The association is purely national in its character, and is not controlled by real estate men of any section, and the usefulness of such a body cannot be over-estimated.

The program of the congress will include an address by the Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, upon "Rapid Transit and Suburban Real Estate," and addresses of equal importance and interest will be made by ex-Governor Hubbard, of Texas, and Hon. J. Craddock Simpson, of Montreal, Hon. A. S. Colyar, Nashville, Tenn.; Hon. Seymour Dexter, Elmira, N. Y.; Hon. Frederick C. Bowditch, Boston, Mass., and Hon. F. C. Moore, president of the national board of fire underwriters. A feature of interest will be Buffalo's acquisition of Niagara Falls' water power by a monstrous tunnel just completed. Hon. Peter A. Porter, who was one of the projectors of this tunnel, will address the congress upon the inception, history and completion of the greatest of the world's engineering feats, and the entire congress will adjourn to Niagara Falls to visit the tunnel.

The Chicago Post offers the following advice to prevent taking the cholera: "Keep your feet warm, your head cool, your pores open and your mouth shut." Some kind friend should forward this prescription to Charles A. Pillsbury of Minneapolis.

It is strange that "Gen." Adlai E. Stevenson did not attend the G. A. R. encampment at Washington last week. Such valiant soldiers are supposed to be present upon such occasions.

Adlai Stevenson has telegraphed his thanks to David B. Hill for his Brooklyn speech, but so far Grover has not indicated that he feels gratified with the senator's address.

The Tribune says: "A strange apathy seems to overlie the Republican party in this city." Perhaps it is due to the overlying of the morning papers.

The number of American girls marrying Chinamen is increasing. And yet the St. Paul Pioneer Press is opposing Chinese exclusion.

The Municipal Court.

Henry Oleson, Jacob Holder, Gust Peterson, Mike Crowley, James Flynn, William Clark, Labeare Chaput, August Gustafson and Charles Peters were convicted of drunkenness at the municipal court this morning, and the majority of them will hibernate in the murderers' retreat on the hill for the next ten days. Wm. Manning, a young man with a very good record was sentenced for the same offense, but he was allowed to go under suspended sentence because the facts warranted it.

The brothel keepers from the "point" appeared this afternoon and were taxed the usual $52.50. There were a couple of new faces in the list.

Births and Deaths.

The birth of a son to Frank E. and M. D. Wyman at 901 London avenue was reported this morning. The deaths reported were: Thomas Rasmusson, aged 52 years, at 521 East Tenth street; cause, phthisis tuberculsis; Tackloi Scleski, aged 1 year and 1 month, infant daughter of John and Mary Schleski, at 804 First avenue west; cause of death cholera infantum; Selma Bourk, aged 10 months, infant son of Henry and Bailey Bourk, at 1705 East South street; cause of death, cholera infantum; Swanson, aged 2 years, infant daughter of Tilda Swanson; at 334 St. Croix avenue; cause, diphtheria.

AMUSEMENTS.

The Equescurriculum.

The Lyceum was packed last evening at the opening performance of Prof. D. M. Bristol's famous Equescurriculum or troupe of trained horses or mules. The horses perform over forty separate and distinct acts and do them well. The troupe is much larger than when it was here before, but the wonderful clown mule Denver, the mathematical Sultan, the rope walking Dynamite, blind little Johnny Sanbourne, graceful Comanche and many others are old favorites with Duluth audiences, and even they have improved since they were last here. Every act advertised was given and many others which were not enumerated and the large audience was delighted with the human like intelligence displayed by the animals.

Dockstader's Minstrels.

Lew Dockstader's Minstrels will be the attraction at the Temple tonight. It will be a relief to see a "first part," although prettily set and dressed, bearing no resemblance to the "spectacular" rubbish which everyone is tired of. Music is the feature and a good feature, and in this company it is said to be in the hands of excellent vocalists. The endmen, Harrington, Semons, Powers and the only Lew Dockstader, are both funny and original. Mr. Dockstader's burlesque impersonations of President Harrison and Grover Cleveland provoke any amount of laughter, as will also his Ward McAllister lecture. Dockstader has redeemed more shows than one, but in his organization of this season he is only one of the many features.

"Gloriana."

Charles Frohman's brilliant farce comedy, "Gloriana" will be presented at Temple theater on Monday and Tuesday Oct. 3 and 4, for the first time in this city. The new comedy is an adaptation from the French, by James Mortimer, and enjoyed much favor recently in Paris and London. The new comedy made an instantaneous hit in New York and enjoyed a most profitable run of nearly 150 nights. There is not a dull moment in the play. Its characters are natural, its situations are ludicrous, and its dialogue sparkling. The performance is a sparkling, fizzing triumph from end to end. It is a triumph of laughter. The company is one of conspicuous excellence and the New York judgment was that it was one of the best comedy company organizations ever formed in this country, with such artists as E. J. Henley, Miss Henrietta Crossman, Frederick Bond, Miss May Robson, Chas. B. Wells, Miss Margaret Robinson, Edwin Stevens. Joseph Allen, Thomas A. Wise, Wm. Robson, and others. The sale of seats opens Saturday and there will be no advance over regular prices.

OUTWITTED THEM.

The Transfer and South Shore Roads Fool Obstructionists.

Two railroad companies outwitted obstructionists in the vicinity of Duluth Sunday. The contractors who are building the Duluth Transfer railway across Martin division near Twenty-eighth avenue west expected to have an injunction served on them preventing the construction across this land. Saturday they hired about 500 laborers at West Duluth paying them $3 per day and at midnight commenced work. No injunction could be served on Sunday and when midnight came the road was built across the land.

The South Shore stole a march on the Northern Pacific also and made a crossing Sunday. The Northern Pacific is very exacting in its terms and under the present circumstances has a big advantage its tracks from Old Superior to the Union depot practically surrounding the city. It is understood that the Duluth & Winnipeg and the Superior Belt line are anxious to make crossings, but have declined to sign the contracts submitted by the Northern Pacific. The stipulations are too severe. The Duluth & Winnipeg is building as rapidly as possible and is figuring on making a "still march." The Northern Pacific does not propose to be caught sleeping and has a watchman stationed at a point that is considered dangerous. A law suit will undoubtedly follow.

Will Bridge the Chasm.

G. A. Leland was the first of the Duluth real estate men to leave for Buffalo, and he went last evening. The Superior and Duluth delegations will go together and wear the same badges. The Duluth men will combine with Superior in getting one of the latter's number elected as the vice president for Wisconsin, and the Superior delegation will assist Duluth in anything they go after.

Wants His Stock.

A. J. Decker and R. T. Herndon have been sued by E. M. James for $10,000. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff transferred to the defendants at their request 2500 shares of Cincinnati stock on July 23, 1892, it being expressly agreed that the same number of shares was to be transferred back upon the plaintiff's demand. He now alleges that the defendants will not return him the stock but have converted it to their own use. He wants $4 per share for it.

ARE KNOCKED OUT

Another Session of the Legislature May Now Be Called By Governor Peck.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 27.—The supreme court this morning rendered a decision declaring the apportionment made by the extra session of the legislature invalid. Another session will doubtless be called, and the legislature will doubtless make an attempt to conform to the rulings of the court.

The court holds that the order granting leave to the relator to bring this action on behalf of the state was properly made. Hence the motion on behalf of defendant to vacate the same and dismiss the action must be denied. The court further holds that the complaint states facts sufficient to entitle the state to the relief demanded therein. Hence the motion on behalf of the state to strike out the demurrer to the complaint frivolous and judgment must be granted.

Such determination of these motions in effect overrules the demurrer to the complaint. An opinion will be prepared and filed at an early date. If the defendant desires leave to interpose an answer to the complaint, the court will hear a motion for such leave on the next motion day. The general view of the decision is that the court practically decided that the legislature has no discretion in making apportionments so far as population is concerned, and that the law is practically declared invalid.

WRECK IN ALABAMA.

Fast Express Crashes Into a Cotton Train With Fatal Results.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 27.—A short distance south of Opelika, a terrible wreck occurred on the Western railway of Alabama at 2 o'clock this morning. The west-bound fast express ran into some wild cars loaded with cotton, which had broken out of the switch at Opelika and ran down the track.

The engineer, Lewis Willis and Fireman Tom Willis, brothers, were instantly killed and buried beneath the wreckage. Postal Clerks Landoum and Carter were fatally hurt, and six passengers were seriously injured. The wreckage caught fire and one hundred bales of cotton were burned, with the postal car and mail matter.

At the council meeting last evening the first matter considered was the petition of Cogin & Johnson asking for the transfer of their license to M. Johnson which was granted with the understanding that Johnson procure new bondsmen. The street commissioner was instructed to continue the work of cleaning up the village. The final assessments for the improvement of Norton avenue and Oneota street were confirmed. Water mains were petitioned for on First avenue west between Second and Third streets south. The electric light company was ordered to place twenty-four more arc lights on the streets, twelve in the western portion of the town, from Fifth avenue west to Seventeenth avenue west, and twelve in the First ward. It was found that according to the company's franchise 100 lights would cost about the same as the present number, which is seventy-seven, and for this reason the large number were ordered at this time. Five bids were opened for the construction of a storm sewer on Fourth avenue west. The lowest bidder was John Clyne at $4,908.40. The contract was awarded to Clyne.

The armory site matter was also considered. H. P. Smith offered to sell 50 feet on Central avenue north of the village hall for $5000. Four lots were also offered on First avenue west between first and Second streets north for $3200. The committee reported favorably to purchasing lots and building an armory. The offer of H. P. Smith was practically accepted for lots 11 and 12, block 160, Central avenue. The recorder was instructed to call for plans for an armory building to cost not to exceed $25,000.

The village attorney was added to the bridge committee, to whom was referred the matter of bridging the bay between West Superior and this place. H. C. Yeager and M. L. Roche asked that the reward for the capture of murderer Houck be given them, but the council laid the matter on the table. The usual number of bills and accounts were ordered paid.

He is also a lumberman, was born on a New York state farm sixty years ago, has served two terms as alderman and served on the Saginaw school board, and was twice elected mayor of the city and two years ago defeated Colonel A. T. Bliss for congress, much to the surprise of the latter and his friends. The Eighth district as at present constituted under the reapportionment made by the last legislature is Democratic by a small plurality.

And the orator of the evening stood before them dumb with rage.—Detroit Free Press.

HE WAS A PIRATE

Lafitte Hanged One of His Favorite Captains For Plundering an American Vessel.

Bolivar peninsula is a sand spit on the Texas coast terminating opposite Galveston in Bolivar point. A few miles eastward the peninsula narrows to a mere ridge known as Roll Over, and there lives Charles Cronea, aged eighty-seven and the last survivor of the famous "Lafitte gang," who once dominated Galveston island or the "Republic of Campeachy."

CHARLES CRONEA.

Mr. Cronea was born in the south of France in 1805, and was made a cabin boy at the age of ten. After many voyages he found himself, very much to his amazement, a cabin boy on what was practically a pirate ship. He was in fact one of "Lafitte's men," and has been a Texan ever since. There was a faint odor of legitimacy about Lafitte's rule. A revolutionary government in Mexico had appointed military rulers in Texas, and they regularly commissioned Admiral and Governor Jean Lafitte. The governments above him went to pieces, but he promptly took out commissions from and flew the flags of South American revolutionists, held "Campeachy" and preyed on Spanish commerce.

When he is feeling well—and he is remarkably vigorous for a man of his age—Mr. Cronea can talk by the hour about the wild times of Lafitte and Aury, Long, Ellis Beam and other filibusters. To a recent visitor he said that aside from their "business" the Lafitteans were good men.

"Didn't you have some fighting to make the captures?"

"You were prepared to fight if it was necessary?"

"Yes, we had pistols, the old fashioned one barreled kind, with flints. We also had cutlash-es. They were big things, as keen as a razor. They weighed about five pounds. When one of those knives came down it was goodby, Coly."

"What sort of a crew did you have, pretty rough?"

"We had the same discipline as on board a man-of-war. We couldn't have done what we did if it hadn't been so. Any man who misbehaved was punished."

Which is the truth? In fact, Lafitte hanged one of his favorite captains for plundering an American vessel. In the state capitol at Baton Rouge hangs a large oil painting commemorative of the battle of New Orleans. In the very thickest of the fight, directing the work of a battery, is a gigantic figure which is pointed out to the visitor as that of "Lafitte, the pirate." It is history that Lafitte fought most bravely under General Jackson in that decisive battle of the war of 1812, and that a pardon was issued to him for it. Before that a price had been set upon Lafitte's head.

The British commander, on approaching New Orleans, offered Lafitte a captain's commission in the British service, but the latter sent to New Orleans an offer of service and a letter beginning thus:

"I am a stray sheep, wishing to return to the sheepfold. If you were thoroughly acquainted with the nature of my offenses I should appear to you much less guilty and still worthy to discharge the duties of a good citizen. I have never sailed under any flag but the Republic of Carthagena, and my vessels are perfectly regular in that respect."

LAFITTE.

He served and was pardoned, but returned to his old tricks. A much worse lot gathered around him and finally plundered an American ship, so an American brig was sent to deal with him. He entertained the commanding hands only, but his blandishments were without avail. The torch was applied to the buildings and the fire burned until the camp was in ruins. Then the fleet of pirate ships was brought together. Lafitte's fa[illegible] freebooters who wished went with Lafitte. The others scattered. The king pirate in his flagship, with the fleet following, sailed away. He never returned to Texas. He settled on the coast of Yucatan, where he was given a concession of land for his "services on behalf of Mexican independence," and "where he lived in peace till he died." In his old age he reformed. So did many of his followers. Mr. Cronea joined the Texan army, took part in the battle of San Jacinto, married and located on the seashore, and now has ninety living descendants, including many great-grandchildren. All these were born in three counties of Texas, the oldest, Mrs. Matilda Stough, being fifty-six. In conclusion Mr. Cronea adds with pride that soon after after leaving Lafitte he became a good American citizen at Plaquemine, La., and cast his first vote for Andrew Jackson, in 1828.

IN SOLEMN WOODS

We have met the Buddhists and we are theirs.

The fact is—and a most momentous and suggestive fact it is—that the religion of the oldest nation on earth is well established in this new nation and is gaining ground rapidly. Not the so called Boodhism, as they spell it there, which entered California with the Chinese, but the original faith of Sakyamuni, as it was in India at least 300 years B. C.

It is sometimes called Esoteric Boodhism, and its devotees call it Theosophy, but in truth it is substantially the old religion of Asia. It is real and original Buddhism and it is the fashionable fad, the latest thing out. It has its temples in our cities. It has hundreds of disciples among our most intelligent people. Hundreds of men and women of the so called "Bohemian" class have taken it up and an immense congregation of these, under the auspices of the Bohemian club of San Francisco, recently held a meeting at night in the grove of Sequoia canyon. They gathered about a huge image of Buddha sixty feet high, the head up among the branches of the great redwood grove. This Buddha was built after the fashion of a great bronze Buddha far away in Japan. It stood at the end of a splendid redwood grove, with an avenue leading to it 100 yards long. High among the trees hundreds upon hundreds of Chinese lanterns flickered, their varied lights of red and yellow and green making a fantasy such as fairyland is generally supposed to show.

THE IDOL IN THE REDWOOD GROVE.

At 9 o'clock the great gong sounded. the band struck up a plaintive air, and 250 priests advanced to the foot of the image. They were all in white, with heavy cowls and with ropes about their waists. The music was from Mendelssohn, and began with that splendid bit of symphony in which the waves dash up with majestic splendor against the heavy rocks, and one can feel the very ground trembling as the music swells and falls.

In the group were artists, merchants, poets, journalists, soldiers and sailors, all men of culture, met to do homage to a faith far older than Christianity, and in a state which has not yet known civilization for fifty years. And the music is described as simply wonderful. First there came the "Introit" by the archpriest, and then the dainty, delicate notes of the "Midsummer Night's Dream," fairly danced from the players' instruments. All this in the solemn night with the splendid stage setting of mountain scenery, blue sky and the majestic redwoods.

Between the musical selections came short sermons. The first speaker told the story of the splendid redwoods which have come up from the graves of primeval men centuries ere even Buddha was thought of. The oak, he said, was the ideal of society and the Bohemian was nourished in its arms. Society was necessary to Bohemian nurture. A true Bohemian loves the town; when he gets to the forest for more than three days he is unhappy. The mistletoe he admitted was the emblem of good luck. It crowned the heads of Druid priests, who chose trees and stones for their temples, and yet it loves to flourish through the aid of others' efforts.

Another detailed the life of Gantama the Buddha of India), and how he taught that man should free himself: First from all evil desires; second, from ignorance; third, from doubt; fourth, from heresy, and fifth, from vexation. Great Buddha—Gantama—said the five precepts were contained in one—that is, that good will toward all men would sum up the whole. Buddha especially ordained that a man should feed himself comfortable in body and soul, but at the same time exercise moderation. To this end he thought that the forest was the true residence for a man, because it took him away from the desire for riches and that cry of evil which is ever ringing in his ears within a town.

"So," said the speaker, "we have left the ringing of gold, all of our desires, all ignorance, all doubt, all superstition and all vexation, and have sought the forest to become for a few hours the followers of Buddha. I said 'superstition,' and that means all religion that is celebrated within artificial halls. In worshiping Buddha tonight we are in a temple which God giveth, where as a tarrying place the 'enlightenment' of the Buddhist may be found."

Of course there was some fun in the proceedings. It would seem that these Bohemians are just Buddhist enough to interest them and not do them any harm, and comedy followed the solemnity. In it Care was cremated. A huge coffin with all the written sorrows of the Bohemian club was placed upon the pyre of resinous pine logs, and a torch in the hands of the high priest sent the pile blazing in sparks just as the life of man flies upward. The huge, fat face of the great Buddha lighted gayly and the redwood trees in the faint breeze flashed to and fro, but, adds a sarcastic reporter, when they looked up they saw that the eyes of Buddha were as blind as their own.

It may interest the thoughtful to know that Gautama or Sakyamuni was a prince in India, and that about 543 B. C. he commenced preaching a reform out of which Buddhism was developed. It is today the faith of more than one-third of the human race, and in it there is so much good that our Theosophists hope to found a new cult.

NOTED CRIMINALS.

There Is Something of Fascination to All About Their Records.

Of the many criminals whose real personality has been lost in a cloud of fiction and glare of stage setting the most noted have been Jack Sheppard, Claude Duval, George Barnwell, and possibly the Marcnioness Brinvilliers. Of the whole list of cheap heroes, however, none other approach the truly rank pre-eminence of Jack Sheppard. He was undoubtedly the most daring and successful jailbreaker mentioned in history. Baron Trenck is most noted, but Jack accomplished his escapes without help and against difficulties which would have thrown Trenck into despair. Again and again have plays representing his life been suppressed, and as long as the Old Newgate stood no visitor left without seeing the cell from which he made that wonderful escape of Oct. 15, 1724, a night ever memorable in the annals of Newgate.

A most remarkable fact, too, is that Jonathan Wild the Infamous, as he was called, the criminal and detective connected with Jack and his famous friend "Blueskin," had his throat cut in the courtroom by the latter, and only recovered to be arrested and hanged in his turn.

His escape in the preceding August was managed by two women. Yet the fact remains that he twice escaped from Newgate. On the night of Oct. 31, 1724, he was arrested for the last time, and soon after, at the early age of twenty-three, stepped from the hangman's cart into eternity. That Newgate was destroyed during the famous Gordion riots of 1781, but of the place it may be said that the flavor of Jack Sheppard hangs around it still. Claude Duval entered England as a French page in service of the Duke of Richmond, and his real life was not less wonderful than the romance which bears his name. George Barnwell was a mere boy, the son of a clergyman, of excellent training and by all accounts a most lovable disposition, yet he fell into the toils of a courtesan, murdered his employer to get money for her and was hanged.

It is not easy to explain the popular interest in such fellows. Many a man of culture and high character has confessed that as he followed the fortunes of Duval or Sheppard through the novel or play he felt a sort of sneaking sympathy with the hunted rogue, and in former times such men were the heroes of the populace. In the reign of Charles II the poorer classes were the scarcely concealed allies of the highwaymen. Murder, however, is quite another matter. It is passed over quickly on the stage and in fiction, and is only introduced at all to give occasion for the work of the wonderful detective.

SAYS HE SAW A SPOOK.

A Philadelphia Medical Man Tells a Thrilling Tale.

The last man to swear to a set-to with a ghost is a leading physician of Philadelphia, and the main points of his story run as follows:

It was a rainy September night, and I was alone in the large building when I heard the street door violently slammed and some one hastening up the stairs. I opened the door, but no one was there. I sat down after closing the door and heard the steps again. I then searched the hall carefully and felt the cold chills run up and done my spine, but I reasoned with myself that the sound was only a curious echo, and turned back to my room and had reached it, when almost within touch of my hand I heard some one apparently in dreadful grief, weeping bitterly. Starting back I dropped the lamp in my amazement and horror, and looked to see the flame set fire to the woodwork, but the lamp expired without doing further mischief than to leave me in profound darkness with that sobbing unknown thing at my doorway.

I rushed into my room and bolted the door, but soon felt ashamed of my terror, took another lighted lamp and searched again. This time I saw it, but vaguely, between me and the hall window. The next instant arms of supernatural strength seized me in a deadly embrace, which seemed actually to chill the blood in my veins, while in my face I felt an icy breath fetid and odorous of the corruption of the grave. I could dimly discern a ghastly, unearthly countenance close to mine and eyes lighted with a fire not of earth. A sickening terror seized me, my head began to reel and I felt myself sinking into insensibility.

When I came to myself it was broad daylight, and I was alone. Sitting up I looked about me for the thing with which I had grappled the night before, but I was alone, and in my grasp was a fragment of cloth. It was a rotting rag and I detected at once the horrid, grave like odor that had overpowered me the night before. When I could get up I went to my mirror, and there, about my throat, were the cruel marks of clawlike murderous fingers.

Still distrustful of my own imagination, for I was as complete a skeptic by nature in regard to supernatural matters as could be found, indeed I leaned strongly toward materialism in those days, I resolved to let some of my companions see the marks on my throat and judge for themselves, though I kept the cause of them a secret, but every one that beheld them recognized them for what they were, and I stood a good deal of chaff regarding the fight I was supposed to have had, and in which I got the worst of it.

Well, there's the story. If you are wise enough to find a natural explanation of it please pass it on to me, for the thing has been a nightmare to me ever since, though I never saw the phantom afterward, as I moved the very next day from the haunted house.

In a roundabout manner that I could never decide to wholly trust to, I learned when the place was a residence that the owner, a wealthy merchant, kept a lunatic brother in the upper story for some years. This madman, who ended his crazed life by hanging himself, had been a notorious rascal and heartless villain, whose excesses alone had ruined his mind. Perhaps it was his unresting spirit I saw, but who knows?

THE STATE UNION

Allied Printing Crafts Holding Their First Session in Duluth Today.

Committees Are Appointed and Preliminary Work Done This Morning.

The first session of the Minnesota State Union of Allied Printing Crafts opened in Duluth in the city hall this morning. A preliminary session was held in St. Paul in July last and the organization launched. The officers are: President, E. C. Ives, of St. Paul; vice president, W. D. Dean, of Duluth; secretary and treasurer, H. S. Woodward, of Minneapolis; organizer, T. R. Drake, of St. Paul. An adjournment was taken after the St. Paul meeting and Dulnth was fixed as the place of meeting.

President Ives called the meeting to order about 10 o'clock and delivered a short address. The future of the state union, he said, will depend largely upon the showing made by the first year's work. The union must be able to show at the next convention that its efforts in the advancement of unionism have been such that the craft has been fully repaid. The greatest work must be done among the country printers and pressmen for experience shows that it is better to have their co-operation than not. The methods used to bring them must rest with the organizer. Great attention must be given to the distribution of literature. The object of the union is to bring into closer relations the allied crafts. "We are beginning to realize," said he, "that the printers, the pressmen, the stereotypers, bookbinders and the pressfeeders must stand or fall together. I believe that the state union has come to stay and that it will not be many years before, by positive mandate, they will be made a part of our international system of organization."

As a committee on credentials Messrs. Drake, Cumings and O'Rourke were appointed and reported the following delegates:

Minneapolis—Thomas R. Drake, H. S. Woodward, George S. Sikes.

St. Paul—E. C. Ives, M. A. Cummings, R. R. Miller.

Duluth—W. D. Dean, Charles Carlson, James McDowell.

The North Scandia—Herman Lindgren.

Pressmen No. 14, St. Paul and Minneapolis—George H. Smith, D. W. Cross.

Bookbinders No. 1, St. Paul—Peter Arth.

The secretary and treasurer, and the organizer also presented reports. The delegates reported changes in methods desired by the various local unions. The following committees were appointed: Constitution and by-laws; Messrs. Smith, O'Rourke and McDowell. Finance—Messrs. Dunn, Lindgren and Carlson. Resolutions—Messrs. Cummings, Drake and Ives.

An adjournment to 1:30 o'clock was then taken. The delegates here represent a total membership of 1,295.

A Veritable Boy Preacher.

The Rev. Clarence T. Wilson has recently become noted in Delaware and New York city as a "boy preacher." And such he is in truth, for he was born in 1872 in Sussex county, Del., his parents being Rev. John A. B. Wilson and Mary Jefferson Wilson. At the age of thirteen he was converted and at the age of fifteen began to preach to the prisoners in Dover jail. At sixteen he was on the lecture platform in temperance work and in the pulpit. At seventeen he was pastor at Rising Sun, Del., while yet in school. During the summer of his eighteenth and nineteenth years he supplied the Eighteenth Street Methodist pulpit, in New York city, with great acceptability and success, a revival breaking out at the close of his last summer there. He was invited in September, 1891, to the pastorate of Seaford, Del., a very important charge in the Wilmington conference, and soon after, before reaching the age of twenty, was admitted to the Wilmington conference by a unanimous vote, having stood the best examination in a class of twelve. His style in the pulpit is not exactly eloquent, in the common acceptation of the word, but is of an intensely earnest and deeply spiritual nature.

REV. C. T. WILSON.

Wouldn't Stand Humbug.

"While I was in Brazil," said a New Yorker the other day, "a Yankee circus manager brought his great moral show down and proceeded to do the country. According to his advertisements his collection of animals was more complete than that which Noah took in out of the wet and his performers more wonderful than Barnum was ever able to engage. I attended his show and found it a very brazen fake. The audience departed grumbling, and in an hour the show king was before the Poo Bah of the place, charged with fraud. The latter had one of the circus bills spread out on a table and had checked every discrepancy in the performance. 'Now,' said he, 'why did you not give the show you advertised?' The showman thought it was a great joke and that he would probably be subjected to a light fine and let off with a reprimand, but he was mistaken. For every shortcoming in the show, for every instance where it failed to tally with the advertisement he was fined $100 and given a month in jail. His fines aggregated $1,200 and his imprisonment a year. He is serving out his time now. As he was led away he remarked that the people down there had no conception of poetic license. And they haven't. It is no place for the genus humbug."

Putting It Delicately.

"I hope you appreciate the fact, sir, that in marrying my daughter you marry a large hearted, generous girl."

"I do, sir (with emotion), and I hope she inherits those qualities from her father."

THINKS DIFFERENTLY.

Alderman Long Has a Word to Say About the "Compromise."

The grand jury report has naturally been the supject of general comment today and the opinions are many and varied. City Clerk Burke says he expected to be remembered. President Hugo, in in speaking of the part relating to the gas and water compromise, said that it was simply the opinion of twenty-four men against twelve as to which was the wisest course to have pursued. Alderman Long was asked what he thought of the report:

"What do I think of the report of the the grand jury?" he said. "Well I have not given it much consideration, but it seems to me that as far as the council is concerned there has been launched an avalanche of suspicion, in the absence of any fact. So far as I am personally concerned, as long as I believe my official actions to have been right and governed by conscientious motives, and so long as I am conscious of having done only my duty as it was given me to see that duty plain, I am perfectly willing to face any tempest of criticism. Municipal government has not reached an ideal stage in this or any other community, and that there may justly be grounds for general criticism no one will deny, but I mean no disrespect to the honorable body which has set the seal of its condemnation upon some of the official acts of the present council, when I say that the probabilities are that a municipal government of their own formation, or a council composed of the grand jury's own members, would doubtless give just as much grounds for public criticism as has the present or any other council. To be "chaste as ice" or "pure as snow" is not always to escape calumny. Only a year or so since a self-constituted committee of Duluth citizens sharply criticized the administration then in power for enforcing the liquor laws and claimed the enforcement injured the city's business interests. I sympathized in no respect with the stand taken by that committee, but quote this to show what a farce city government would become if the council were to abandon the idea of regarding solely the best interests of the community as a whole, in the hope of satisfying individual interests, or of carrying out all suggestions no matter how well meant, that did not seem in harmony with such an idea."

Alderman Long then said that while before the grand jury he had not been asked a single question in regard to the gas and water compromise and that if the aldermen had been closely questioned they could have given sufficient reasons why the compromise was advisable. "No one has fought the Gas and Water company more persistently than I have," he said, "and my position is well known. When the proposition for a compromise come up a special committee was appointed to consider it. What were then the existing conditions? The city had been doing nothing in the way of building a plant of its own; had taken no steps toward condemning the present source of water supply; it was impossible to secure the extension of a single foot of mains no matter what interests demanded it; no water was to be had on some parts of Third and Fourth streets and none above them; the reservoir only gave low service and the city had but 222 hydrants. All these could be remedied under the proposition the city agreeing as a concession to order in 100 hydrants before 1886. The guarantees in litigation amounted to about $32,000. The city attorney gave it as his opinion that to settle these on the basis of the proposition of the water company would be most advisable, that it was a matter of doubt whether the city had a good case or not. With that advice from the city attorney the compromise was accepted and the new agreement entered into.

"Under the present arrangement existing by virtue of the compromise the city has the right to order four miles of extensions each year and refuses any guarantee unless the property owner benefitted gives a bond to reimburse the city for the guarantee so made, which is as just and fair as to require him to pay his cost of any improvement. The city also gained the right to compel the putting in of a high service reservoir which will give water privileges and fire protection to more than double the area now supplied. There is a just and well-founded kick prevalent against the present high tariff on fire insurance. As good grounds for the imposition of this high tariff would not exist if the city was supplied with adequate fire protection, which cannot be done with 222 hydrants as a basis. There is no question but that the city should own its own water works, and if some of the critics of the council will evolve a scheme by which the city can acquire a plant of its own, or purchase the present one and pay for it without inviting municipal bankruptcy, I am very sure the council will be glad to listen to suggestions. It is the highest province of a municipality to provide its citizens with an adequate supply of absolutely pure water at rates which will provide for the cost of maintenance, the creation of a sinking fund adequate to discharge its cost and to provide for extensions necessary from time of the system to territory not embraced in the inception of the scheme. I believe the council to be ready and willing to do all that can be done for the best interest of the community in this regard. The question is: 'What are the best interests of the community and in what manner can they best be subserved by the council acting always within our constitutional right and our financial ability?'"

BORNE TO THE GRAVE.

Patrick S. Gilmore Interred With Impressive Ceremonies Today.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The obsequies of Bandmaster Patrick S. Gilmore were held this morning and were of the most impressive character. As early as 8 o'clock the house of the late physician on West Eighty-sixth street was crowded with sorrowing friends anxious to have a last look at the face of the popular band leader. The casket, which was covered with black cloth, was literally smothered with flowers. It was not opened, however, and those who had called to take a last view of the dead man were disappointed.

At the hour appointed for the funeral cortege to move the streets were densely packed with people and those who were to act as an escort from the Gilmore residence to the church. No ceremony was held at the home of the late musician and a few minutes after 9 o'clock the casket was borne from the house. An immense crowd followed it to St. Zavier's church, where solemn requiem mass was celebrated. Father Perdue delivered the eulogy.

The body was taken direct to Calvary cemetery, where three volleys were fired over the body before it was placed in the receiving vault, where it will remain until a suitable place for its interment can be found.

OUT OF COMMISSION.

Steamer Cambria Will Not Come to Duluth Any More.

It is quite probable that the steamer Cambria will not visit this port again this season, and it is extremely doubtful if she does next year. She is practically out of commission at Port Arthur and the several passengers who bought tickets by that line, intending to take the boat last Sunday, have so far tried in vain to have their money refunded. The boat has not shown up at this dock since last Thursday and a few law suits will result. Agent King is said to be in Chicago.

AN UNSAFE BRIDGE.

Traffic on the Eastern Minnesota Partially Suspended.

The Eastern Railway of Minnesota is very much out of shape today. The middle span of the big bridge 130 feet high over Kettle river is unsafe for travel. The inspector who passes over the bridge after the passage of every train discovered the break just after the north-bound express crossed the bridge last evening. Orders were immediately given to abandon all freights between Hinckley and Superior, and the work of repairing the structure is well under way. It will be several days before it will again be fit for travel. Passengers will be transferred around the break and for the time being it is quite probable that the St. Paul & Duluth will haul the Eastern freights.

At the Republican state and county headquarters it is said today that the meeting at the Cooper Union tonight will be a big affair. T. C. Platt will preside. The speeches of the occasion will be made by ex-Senator Warner Miller and Whitelaw Reid.

Three locomotives and a number of freight and coal cars were also burned. The total loss will be over $150,000; no insurance. Several hundred employes are thrown out of employment.

[From Yesterday's Extra.]

The report of the grand jury, which has been awaited with much interest for several days past, was presented in the district court at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. In view of the general interest attached to this report, The Herald presents it in full. It reads as follows:

To the Honorable court of Eleventh Judicial district of Minnesota: In compliance with certain recommendations made in the charge to the grand jury, with reference to an investigation of the so-called "boodling case" in the council; the letting of the contract for the city printing, and other matters connected with the city government, the grand jury submits the following report, together with a stenographic copy of the testimony:

The "Boodling Case."

In the so-called "boodling case" the following witnesses were examined, viz., Mayor d'Autremont, all of the members of the council, the city attorney, city treasurer, city clerk, Fred H. Russell, ex-City Attorney Allen, Detective Hayden, William Craig, J. G. Williams and W. C. Sargent.

The testimony in this case shows that Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, members of the Duluth city council, each received from the hand of Frank Burke, Jr., city clerk, at his office, between June 27th and July 2nd, 1892, a certain sealed envelope, which, upon examination, was found to contain $200 in currency, the bills being in denominations from five to twenty dollars. Each envelope was addressed with the alderman's name. Upon handing the envelope to Alderman Thomas, Mr. Burke requested him to put it in his pocket and not to open it until he got to his office, which Mr. Thomas accordingly did. The envelopes received by Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy were put in their pockets unopened, and not opened, as they testify, until they returned to their respective homes. The envelope received by Mr. Thomas was preserved, placed in evidence and is hereto attached, being marked exhibit "A." The envelopes received by Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy they failed to preserve.

No mark or writing of any kind was contained in the envelopes in question. The money received by Mr. Thomas was handed to the mayor July 3rd, with an explanation of the circumstances of its receipt, and Messrs. Dingwall and Kennedy a day or two afterwards also turned over to the mayor the money which had been handed them.

Each one of the remaining members of the council testified that they had received no such letters, as were handed Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, or any money from Mr. Burke or from any other source for the purpose of bribery, and had no knowledge of improper means being used at any time to influence the action of members of the council. The testimony of Mr. Burke was to the effect that letters and packages, sealed and unsealed, were almost daily left at his office for members of the council; that such letters were sometimes addressed to himself; that he had no recollection of the letters in question or knowledge of their contents; that the handwriting upon the envelope marked "M. Thomas, City", was not his handwriting, although he acknowledged it to be a clever imitation; that he had no knowledge of the source from which the money came, or of improper influences at work or methods employed to influence the official action of the aldermen.

The testimony differed as to whether the writing on the envelope received by Mr. Thomas was that of the city clerk. Those witnesses most familiar with his handwriting identified it as his.

Comparing it with a number of known specimens of Mr. Burke's writing, introduced in evidence, a striking similarity was observed; and the grand jury, with but two dissenting, hold to the opinion that the envelope received by Alderman Thomas was addressed by Burke. Other evidence, although circumstantial, strengthens the opinion that Mr. Burke was not ignorant of the contents of the envelopes handed Messrs. Thomas, Dingwall and Kennedy, and that he was acting as agent for some party who is unknown to the grand jury.

Messrs. Craig, Allen and Sargent, representatives respectively of the Duluth Gas and Water company, the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern railway, and the Duluth & Northeastern railway, testified to having no knowledge of any improper means having been used at any time, to influence the action of members of the council.

While some of the evidence submitted would seem to point to a certain corporation and individual as the source of the "boodle" money, the grand jury must report that the evidence, in their opinion, is not sufficiently strong to justify their naming such corporation and individual as being concerned in the attempted bribery.

As to the part, however, that City Clerk Frank Burke, Jr., took in the transaction, the grand jury, after a full consideration of the testimony, are of the unanimous opinion that the said Burke has knowledge of the source from which the money was derived, the end which it was intended to subserve, and that he assisted in the distribution of the money in question for the purpose of influencing the action of members of the council. In view of such an opinion, the grand jury holds that Mr. Burke is unfit for the responsible office of city clerk and should be removed.

The City Printing.

In the investigation of the letting of the contract for the city printing for 1892, the following witnesses were examined, viz: The mayor, all the members of the council, the comptroller, the city attorney, S. D. Allen, M. A. Hays, editor of the News, and Emil Schmied.

We find that bids were submitted by each of the daily papers of the city, (The Herald, News and Tribune), which were identical in amount, and were at the highest rates permissible by law, viz: 75 cents a folio for the first insertion and 35 cents for subsequent insertions. We are unable to learn that the finance committee of the council, consisting of N. F. Hugo, chairman, and Messrs. Helm and Sorenson, to whom the bids were referred, took any measures to ascertain, except from the several publishers, whether the rates named in the bids were fair and reasonable ones for the city to pay. The finance committee reported to the council that they were "unable to decide the matter," and recommended that the bids be referred to the council as a whole. The records of the council proceedings show no discussion, but that they immediately proceeded to ballot and awarded the contract to The Evening Herald, the vote being Herald 8, News 2, Tribune 1.

A clause in the Duluth city charter, chapter 12, section 13, page 145, reads as follows: "Any department of the city of Duluth, in asking for proposals for the doing of any work or services, or the furnishing of any material or merchandise, may require parties submitting proposals to accompany the same with the oath of the party bidding, or, if a corporation is bidding, with the oath of their president or secretary, that said bid is made without collusion, directly or indirectly, with any officer of the city, or with any other bidder, and that no person, company or corporation other than the bidder is interested directly or indirectly, or is to receive directly or indirectly any part of moneys to be received from the city for such work, services, material or merchandise, which is the subject of said bid," etc.

In 1891, bids were made by each of the daily papers at the same rates as those of the present year, but were thrown out of the council and new bids obtained, with the result that the contract was let at a much less rate, viz., 15c a folio for all insertions.

In view of the provision of the city charter above quoted, and in the face of the experience with the 1891 bids, which was known to at least several of the aldermen, and with the bids of the present year identical in amount—thus evidencing collusion among the bidders—it seems to the grand jury that the finance committee particularly, as well as the other members of the council, are clearly censurable for not properly informing themselves as to the reasonableness of the bids, and for not taking means in their power to prevent collusion among the bidders.

As evidence that the political dictum "a public office is a public trust" is not always accepted as a guiding principle of official action, we give the testimony of Alderman Weiss, who is at the same time manager of The Evening Herald, the official paper of the city. He states, and his evidence is corroborated by Mr. Havs, editor of the News, that while The Evening Herald performs all of the labor and pays all expenses pertaining to the city printing, it pays to each the other daily papers, the News and Tribune, one-fifth of the total amount it receives under the contract.

It is reasonable to suppose that The Herald's profit in the transaction is at least equal to the amount paid to the other papers; so that it can be undoubtedly stated that there are at least three profits being made under the present contract for city printing.

The total cost of the city printing for the fiscal year 1891 was $4377.32. The cost for the present year as estimated by the city comptroller, will be about $12,000.

The profit, under the present contract for city printing, will be, as far as can be learned, about $7000 to $7500.

The grand jury are of the opinion, therefore, that while the paper publishing the official notices of the city is entitled to a reasonable profit under its contract, the present rate being paid for the city printing is exorbitant and unjust to the tax payers. And further, that any arrangement permitting a division of the profits among the city newspapers may become demoralizing to the papers themselves by restraining them from a free and independent criticism of public measures.

Piedmont Avenue Contract.

In the investigation of the Piedmont avenue east, under the contract with E. J. Amory, an extraordinary difference was found between the preliminary estimate on which bids were asked, and the final estimate under which the contract was paid. In the preliminary estimate of Mr. Fuller, then city engineer, there was included among other items fifty cubic yards of mortar rubble masonry, estimated to cost $3.80 per cubic yard, the total cost of this item being $190.00; and 31,000 cubic yards of earth excavation at 30 c per cubic yard, to cost $9,300. The amount actually paid under the final estimate was 2,260 cubic yards of mortar rubble masonry at $7.50 per cubic yard, amounting to $16,950.00; and 42,600 cubic yards of earth excavation at 42c per cubic yard, amounting to $17,820.00. The increased cost of these two items alone, as the work was actually done, was $25,352.

As testified to by the acting city engineer, and the chairman of the board of public works, certain changes were made in the matter of of retaining walls, not calculated upon at the start; which largely increased the amount of mortar rubble masonry used.

While no evidence was brought before the grand jury that any city official benefited by the change made, it can be readily seen that there would be opportunities for unlimited "boodling" under such a contract, where the city engineer or board of public works have the power, after a contract is let, to make such radical changes. The least that can be said of such methods is that it indicates the extreme of carelessness and inefficiency on the part of the city engineer and board of public works who had this work in charge.

The practice of permitting bidders to gamble in quantities—in other words make their own guesses of estimates of earth, rock and masonry, etc., which will probably enter into a piece of work, instead of depending mainly upon the estimates of the city engineer, is an unfortunate one for the city, and should be abolished. It leads to unbalanced bidding, which may, in some cases, result favorably to the city, but the opportunities offered a weak and dishonest official under such a system are too great, and should be done away with. It has been stated by the present acting city engineer, and by the chairman of the board of public works that the greatest care is now being taken by borings, soundings, etc., to arrive at an accurate estimate of the work to be done and the quantities to be removed, and that bidders have been given to understand that the board of public works reserves the right to throw out all bids which they deem not properly balanced.

It is only fair to state that the grand jury have no reflections to make upon the present acting city engineer or board of public works; but that as far as has come to their knowledge this department is being well conducted.

The Gas and Water Guarantees.

Referring to the action of certain city authorities in the matter of the compromise of certain suits brought by the Duluth Gas and Water company against the city to recover amounts which the Gas and Water company claimed the city had guaranteed for extensions the grand jury have not been able to obtain from the evidence such a complete understanding of the case as would warrant a positive opinion. There are, however, certain features of the transaction which it may be well to mention. Under the decisions of Judge Stearns and Judge Baxter, it was ruled that the common council had no authority in behalf of the city to guarantee revenue to a private company, and the city therefore was not liable for the amount claimed by the Gas and Water company, which by June, 1892, was about $32,000.

These suits had been taken to the supreme court by the Gas and Water company, and were set for argument the latter part of June of this year. Under the advice of city attorney Smith, who held that the city was liable for the guarantees that had been made, and that the supreme court would so decide; and disregarding entirely the decisions in the cases favorable to the city, that had been rendered by Judges Stearns and Baxter, the city authorities compromised the matter with the Gas and Water Company by paying $16,000—one-half of the amount alleged to be due under the prior guarantees—and provided that the city should locate upon the then existing mains of the company 100 additional fire hydrants (50 to be located prior to June 1st 1893, 25 to be located prior to June 1st, 1894, 25 to be located prior to June 1st, 1895,) and to locate 25 fire hydrants prior to June, 1896, upon the mains of the company, then existing.

The Gas and Water company in return were to make certain reductions and discounts in the price of gas furnished consumers, and agreed, prior to November 1st, 1893, to extend the mains to an elevation of not less than 500 feet above the level of Lake Superior, the city to pay 50c per foot for each foot of this extension. These were the main considerations in the settlement.

In view of the fact that two decisions had been made favorable to the city in the suits in question, and that the matter in controversy was so soon to be argued in the supreme court, it seems to the grand jury that the city authorities were unwise in making the settlement that they did.

The franchise of the Gas and Water company provided that the city might purchase the gas and water plant, or either of them, at any time after ten years from the granting of the franchise. The grand jury believes that it was and is the expectation and wish of a large majority of the citizens of Duluth that at least the water plant should be purchased by the city, at a reasonable price and the rate to customers materially reduced. We further believe that the amended ordinance will greatly embarrass that purchase, and add a large amount to the sum which the city will have to pay whenever the purchase shall be made.

The Sunday Liquor Law.

There remains a matter, which was brought to the attention of the grand jury wholly without their seeking, but which from later developments we feel it our duty to report upon. Evidence was submitted through the police, looking to the indictment of a certain saloonkeeper in this town, for keeping open on Sunday a place where liquors is sold. There were circumstances which made this case look like one of persecution.

In order to obtain information relative to the observance of the Sunday liquor law in Duluth among saloonkeepers in general, on Saturday, Sept. 10, the sheriff was asked to obtain what evidence he could of the violation of the liquor laws on the following day. Within four hours of the time of adjournment of the grand jury on the aforesaid Saturday, oral orders were issued by Lieut. Dwyer to the men on line at police headquarters to notify all saloonkeepers on their beats to close at 11 p. m. sharp and remain closed until 5 a. m. Monday.

The same order was issued through the telephone by Secretary Rooney to the several policemen on their beats, and was coupled, at least in some instances, with the statement that the "grand jury were after them," meaning of course the saloonkeepers.

As the mayor of the city and the chief of police have both testified, that a general understanding exists between the police and the saloonkeepers that they shall not be molested for keeping open to 12 p. m. during the week, and having the side door open from 1 to 7 p. m. on Sundays—this of course being in direct violation of the law—the grand jury are unable to understand why upon this particular Sunday, the saloons should be ordered closed, unless it was to frustrate any action that might be taken for illegal liquor selling.

It seems that no criticism can be too severe upon a department of the city government, to whom the grand jury would naturally and must necessarily look for assistance in obtaining evidence as to the enforcement or violation of the laws, which so openly, actively, and flagrantly aids violators of the law to conceal evidence of the fact, whether such violations are approved by the mayor of the city or any other official.

Efforts were made, but without success, to ascertain who gave the order closing the saloons, his honor, the mayor, Chief Horgan, Lieut. Dwyer and Sergeant Donavan deny any knowledge of its origin. Police Secretary Rooney testified that upon returning to his office after a few minutes' absence, he found on his desk the following order, which is hereto attached and marked exhibit "B": "Tell policemen to close up saloons at 11 o'clock, and keep closed according to law. (Signed), "POLICE OFFICER."

No evidence could be obtained by the grand jury as to who wrote such an order, or who left it upon the secretary's desk.

The further fact was brought out, by the testimony of the police secretary, that orders without the official signature of the mayor or any officer of the police force were sometimes left upon the secretary's desk, and were transmitted by him to the several policemen on their beats. If such is the fact, which seems almost incredible, it indicates a carelessness and looseness of the management of the police department which is highly reprehensible.

A Little Moralizing.

In conclusion, while the grand jury have no desire to make any wholesale arraignment of the city officials, believing that many of them have a high and proper sense of their duties as public officers, yet the testimony of this investigation shows that there may be the same dishonesty, ignorance, incapacity and disregard of the best interests of their employer shown in the conduct of public affairs, as is not frequently shown in the carrying out of a private business.

Considering the magnitude of the city's interests, the valuable franchises that certain public officers are empowered to dispose of, the large sums to be collected and disbursed, it is evident that the best business talent of the city is none too capable for the responsibilities of public offices. Until that time when the affairs of the city are in the hands of its best and most capable citizens, the more watchful scrutiny is needed of the workings of the various departments of the city government.

It will have a decided tendency to better the quality of service rendered the public, if officers of the city know that the search light of an investigation is liable to be thrown at any time upon their official acts and methods. This can well be made a part of the work of future grand juries.

SHE IS STILL MOVING.

Eliza Tomlin's Father and Brother Are Searching for Her.

T. G. Tomlin, of Janesville, Minn., whose daughter, Eliza Tomlin, disappeared so mysteriously from Duluth Saturday, reached Minneapolis Monday evening in search of the missing daughter. He received a dispatch from his son, J. H. Tomlin, who also lives in Duluth, to the effect that the young lady was probably in Minneapolis and stating further that she must be out of her right mind. He also asked his father to meet him yesterday morning.

The girl's father said that he could not understand what had happened, as his daughter is a strong, sensible person, whose mind has always been well balanced. The old gentleman called at police headquarters, but no information of her presence in Minneapolis had reached that place. Mr. Tomlin spent a large part of the night in walking up and down the streets looking for his lost child.

LAST THREE DAYS

In Which the Public can Take Advantage of the Five Dollar Rate for all Diseases.

Mr. Alexander Rhodes Gives His Experience With Physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute.

Three days is all the time that remains in which the public can take advantage of the five dollar rate for all diseases. Those wishing to take advantage of this exceptional low rate must do so now, as it is not intended to maintain it beyond October 1st.

The physicians of the Copeland Medical institute make certain and distinct claims as to their superior skill as specialists and the thorough and successful character of their methods. They state that they are prepared by education, facilities, training and experience to cure diseases that have long resisted the ordinary methods. They recognize the right of those interested in determining the value of their claims to have an opportunity at a small expense. Therefore:

ALL PATIENTS UNDER TREATMENT OR PLACING THEMSELVES UNDER TREATMENT (EITHER AT THEIR OFFICE OR BY LETTER) BEFORE OCTOBER 1st. WILL BE TREATED UNTIL CURED AT THE RATE OF $5.00 A MONTH. THIS INCLUDES CONSULTATION, EXAMINATION, TREATMENT AND MEDICINE FOR ALL PATIENTS AND FOR ALL DISEASES.

A BOSS CARPENTER

Your Very Truly Alexander Rhodes

DULUTH, Sept. 19, 1892.

"To whom it may concern:

"For the last fifteen years I have been suffering from the dreadful disease called catarrh. In the early stage of my trouble I consulted and received treatment from so-called specialists in Minneapolis without benefit. Later on I read advertisements of institutes in New York and Indianapolis, Ind., and from whom I received treatment by mail and express. When the medicine was used up I had no more relief than when I commenced their treatment.

"I became worse every year. My nose was always stopped up. I was always hawking and spitting to keep my throat clear of the mucus which kept constantly dropping into my throat back of the soft palate. My hearing became impaired to such an extent that I could not hear a voice unless it was very close to my ear. There was an incessant noise in my ears like that of a great cataract. My voice became rough and husky.

"In August I read in the daily papers the liberal offers of the physicians of the Copeland Medical institute. I was struck by the business-like tone of this offer and determined to try their skill as a last resort. I knew I could not lose anything by it at least.

"After two weeks' treatment by the courteous physicians I felt a great relief. Hence I concluded to keep right on. Now I am glad to state that I am confident of a cure. My voice has returned. My throat is clear. My nose free and open. The noises in my ears are gradually decreasing. I have no dizziness in my head when I arise in the morning, as was always the case before being treated by Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning. I desire to say that I feel like a new man."

HE SHOT HIS WIFE

An Old Man in New Jersey Murdered His Wife and Committed Suicide.

The Whole Trouble Arose Over Money Which the Old Man Owed His Son.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 28.—Frederick Mellenburg murdered his wife and wounded his daughter in this city yesterday and then committed suicide. A week ago Antonio Mellenburg, aged 32, sued his father, Frederick, for money expended upon repairs of the parents' house and recovered $75 judgment. This the father failed to pay, deeding the house to his wife.

Since then there has been continued fighting between the parents and their daughter, Lena Roselle. When the latter visited her mother yesterday, Mellenburg entered the room and said to his daughter: "What will the court do with me?" "You will be sold out," replied the daughter. This enraged Mellenburg who, pulling a pistol, shot his daughter. He then shot his wife through the head, and turned the weapon upon himself, firing a bullet into his left temple.

With the blood streaming from the wound he ran out of the house and down the stoop, falling dead at the foot of the steps. Mrs. Mellenburg staggered after him, falling over his corpse. The daughter will recover. Mrs. Roselle's son Frederick, who is 19 years old, told the police that he saw his uncle Antonio give his grandfather a pistol, telling him at the same time to use it if he had to. Antonio will be arrested. The boy identified the pistol.

Seventeen years ago the elder Mellenburg was sent to state prison for trying to burn his home. Five years later he tried to commit suicide by cutting his throat. He was 74 years old and his wife 76.

HIT BY A HURRICANE.

Four Seamen Were Drowned and Another Badly Injured.

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 28.—Capt. Amos Sabaen, of the schooner May Gibbon, from Portland, Me., Aug. 19 for Demerara with a cargo of staves and white pine and a crew of five men, arrived here late last evening from St. Michaels on the steamship Acme, and reports that on Aug. 21 the schooner was struck by a hurricane which raged with fearful intensity for two days.

On Aug. 22 the vessel was struck by a huge wave which knocked it flat, washing overboard Wm. Bowers, C. Bowers, Douglas S. Bowers and Theodore Wolff, four of the crew, all from Fort Madison, N. C.

John G. Bruce, the other seaman, had his leg fractured and the captain was thrown overboard, but caught in the rigging and succeeded in keeping the vessel afloat until he and Bruce were rescued Aug. 23 by the steamer Vega and landed at St. Michaels. The Gibbon was owned by B. C. Morse, of Boston.

A Train Robber Released from the Missouri Penitentiary.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 28.—Fred Whiterock, alias "Jim" Cummings, who some six years ago bound and gagged Express Messenger Fotheringham on the Iron Mountain road, near St. Louis, and robbed the car of something like $80,000 in money and securities, has been released from the penitentiary at Jefferson City and was here yesterday.

He looks little the worse for his long confinement. Whiterock said yesterday that he got $54,000 in money from Fotheringham's car and about $30,000 worth of valuable paper. He announces his intention of going to work honestly.

DROPPED SEVENTY FEET.

The Fatal Fall of a Laborer in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—Emil Strandberg, a laborer, met with a terrible death some time Monday night. Nothing is known of his movements from about 7 Monday evening, when a friend met him on Washington avenue south, until yesterday morning, when his body, bruised bleeding and broken, was found in the shallow water of the Mississippi under the Tenth avenue bridge.

There was an ugly gash on the head from which the blood trickled away in the rippling water, but no other mark of violence, so it is supposed that he fell or jumped from the bridge, a distance of seventy feet.

WILL BE A TOTAL WRECK.

Capt. O'Brien and Companion Rescued From the Wetmore.

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Sept. 28.—Captain O'Brien and Wm. Holmes were rescued from the wrecked whaleback steamer Wetmore after being on the steamer ten days. The men were almost dead from exposure and hunger.

The wreck lies within a few hundred yards of the shore, but the sea has been running so high the life saving crew could not reach it until yesterday. The steamer will undoubtedly be a total wreck.

LUDLOW HAS WON.

Secretary Elkins Has Turned Down Lighthouse Board.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Col. Ludlow will be restored to duty on engineering work in the lake region, and a majority of the lighthouse board in Washington will resign. Col. Ludlow was removed on a charge of insubordination for refusing to accept the board's interpretation of the law appropriating $30,000 for "some thirty-seven lights in St. Mary's river."

He declared the appropriation expansive to the amount appropriated. The lighthouse board held that only thirty-seven lights should be established. Secretary Foster has decided that Ludlow's interpretation is correct and will promulgate the decision today, together with the order restoring Ludlow. There is much interest in the proceeding and considerable feeling pro and con.

Dodds, and the forces of the king of Dahomey. The cartridges that fell into the hands of the French after the defeat of the natives bear the imprint "Cassel, 1873."

He was jealously insane of the girl and accused her of flirting with other men just before shooting her.

This move, if successfully carried out, is likely to give the state to Cleveland.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Sept. 28.—The fair, pleasant weather of the past few days still continues in all sections, and with the exception of a light shower at Kansas City, there has been no rainfall during the past twenty-four hours.

The temperature remains above normal in most sections of the country except north of Lake Superior, and in the far Northwest where it is cool.

The barometer is highest over Minnesota, and lowest over the far Northwest. An area of low barometer also seems to be forming over Texas, but the absence of any rain of consequence during the past week tends to prevent the formation of storms.

The temperature reached 82° here yesterday and the mean for the day was 70°, which is 19° higher than the average for the same day for the past twenty years, the lowest last night was 54°.

DULUTH, Sept. 28.—Continued fair weather; slightly cooler today, slight change in temperature Thursday; light northeast wind, shifting to southerly.

B. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; occasional light rains in extreme southern portion tonight or Thursday; cooler Thursday morning, followed by rising temperature; north to east winds. For Minnesota: Fair, except probable rains in extreme southeastern portion tonight and Thursday; warmer; winds becoming east to south.

THE GRAND JURY'S WORK.

The grand jury has concluded its three weeks' inquisition, and the result is a wholesale attack upon the city government and the newspapers. This was to be expected from the composition of the jury, which contained among its members several who were notoriously unfit to fill such positions on account of prejudice and feeling. It is well known that several of the jurymen have been denouncing the newspapers and the city government for weeks past and threatening that if they had the power they would make it exceedingly warm for both. They went on the jury with that determination, and the result is the report published in an extra edition of The Herald last evening.

The Herald cannot agree with the sweeping criticisms indulged in by the jury. It does not even admit the right of the jury to indulge in any such criticism. The system of grand jury "roasts" is the result of a custom that is not warranted by law. The duty of grand juries, as The Herald understands it, is to enquire into any cases that may be brought before them and decide whether there be evidence to warrant an indictment being returned. Where there is not sufficient evidence, and no indictment is returned, by what legal authority does the grand jury assume to criticize the people against whom the charges have been made and not sustained? Grand jurors are also sworn not to divulge the proceedings in the grand jury room. The testimony taken is held by the statutes to be secret. By what right then does this grand jury submit with its report "a stenographic copy of the testimony" taken in the cases brought before it?

In the so-called "boodling case" the jury reports that it believes City Clerk Burke knew the contents of the envelopes handed to the three aldermen and acted as agent for some unknown party, and that the handwriting on the envelopes was his. On this account the jury holds that he is unfit to be city clerk. Now if the jury was of this opinion, if the evidence was so strong as to show Mr. Burke's connection with the attempted bribery, why did not the jury indict him? Is it fair, is it just to criticize and condemn a man, and not indict him, thus denying him the opportunity of meeting the charge in court? What redress has he from this besmirchment of his name? None whatever. If the grand jurors believed him probably guilty why did they not have the courage or the manliness to bring in an indictment, instead of stabbing him in the back? The Herald is not defending the city clerk, but it believes that every man is entitled to justice, even from a grand jury.

The city printing contract is severely criticised, and the rate now paid is declared to be "exorbitant and unjust to the tax payers." Yet the jury itself admits in its report that the contract stands at the legal rate, at the price which the legislature has fixed as a reasonable compensation for the work performed. The Herald has already shown that the present contract is fair and equitable. The intense solicitude of the jury lest the newspapers may be restrained by this contract from a free and independent criticism of public measures is amusing. Possibly it would have that effect upon some members of the grand jury. The newspapers are not so easily influenced as the grand jurors affect to believe.

The criticisms on the Piedmont avenue contract may be well founded. That work was begun under the Davis administration, and if there be any wrongdoing connected therewith the odium must attach to the officials of that administration. It is unnecessary to answer the criticisms on the settlement of the water guaranteed extension cases. The people generally have approved that settlement, which was undoubtedly in the interest of the city. As to the enforcement of the liquor laws, which has prompted the jury to roast the city government, there can be no question that the business men of Duluth and the people generally are satisfied with the policy which is being pursued. The law has not been puritanically enforced, and yet there has been no offensive disregard of its provisions permitted. The last administration was removed by the votes of those who believed that its extreme policy on this point was detrimental to the best interests of the city. The present administration has pursued a conservative and yet liberal course that has proven successful.

DULUTH CAUGHT HIM.

An instance of the manner in which the advantages possessed by Duluth are being recognized by strangers who visit the city has just come under The Herald's notice. Matthew Browne, a prominent farmer of Rice county in this state, visited Duluth about ten days ago. He is a man of some means, which he has accumulated in farming operations. He has a beautiful property at Shieldsville, Rice county, where he has resided for many years. The visit to Duluth, however, has disenchanted him with his old home and he longs to take a hand in the upbuilding of the great metropolis at the head of the lakes. With this plan in view, he returned home, and has published an advertisement offering his property for sale. The reasons that have induced him to take this course are given in the advertisement as follows:

"Why do I leave such a place? Answer—A trip and a stay of four days among friends prominent in business and trade in Duluth, looking into and around the great and growing industries of that immensely promising city. The panoramic views you have from the newly erected pavilion on the bluff, overlooking the great representative industries of our modern civilization, in few places can you take in so much from one stand.

"I was up at day-dawn, was in the steamers discharging their immense freight; in the new and magnificent High school, the finest in the world, from basement to tower. The people are proud of what they have and are glad to show you through. My life in Shieldsville henceforth would be that of a prisoner, therefore I have decided to make a total change. Sell my goods at private sale for a while at bargain prices: if that is too slow, announce an auction. Rent my store if any one wants it at a reasonable rent and be interested in the welfare of my tenants, as I will be in a position to help them."

Mr. Browne has frequently visited St. Paul and Minneapolis, but neither of those cities produced upon him the impression that Duluth has made. The reason is that they are practically standing still, while Duluth is steadily and rapidly progressing. The opportunities manifest to every visitor here are not visible in the Twin Cities. The fact is that Duluth stands in a different class from those cities. It has peculiar advantages, due to geographical position, that they can never gain or overcome, and this is why it is forging to the front and will soon leave them far in the rear.

Although the report of the grand jury was not presented to the court until after 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, The Herald secured a copy and published it in an "extra" two hours later. As the report occupied nearly four columns of space, The Herald's enterprise was the subject of favorable comment throughout the city. The Herald always publishes the news ahead of the morning papers.

The poor little Tribby now wants The Herald to be consistent. The Tribby is always consistent in its aversion to publishing the news, but that is no reason why The Herald should follow its example.

The Minnesota women's auxiliary of the World's fair has voted in favor of opening the fair on Sunday. The Herald congratulates the ladies upon the sensible liberality of their views.

Another warning to the girls who flirt is contained in the story which comes from Lake Elmo of a young man who shot his sweetheart.

AMUSEMENTS.

Dockstader's Minstrels.

Lew Dockstader's Minstrels had a large house at the Temple last evening and gave a good performance. Dockstader is inimitable and probably has no equal, as a comic impersonator, on the minstrel stage. His "silhouettes" of Cleveland and Harrison were immense. George Powers is also a very clever burnt cork comedian and kept the audience in good humor. Falke and Semons in their musical eccentricities were excellent and gave some good comedy comedy work as well. The afterpiece is a poor one and ought to be changed for something better. The jokes were not as original as they might be and some were pretty far fetched.

Nellie McHenry.

To see the mysteries of the art of "making up" as performed by the actors is a natural desire of outsiders, born of that same curiosity which promotes so many people to burden a professional acquaintance with what he must deem a lot of foolish questions about the mysterious dressing room. All this can now be avoided by paying a visit to Miss Nellie McHenry's "Night at the Circus," which will be at the Temple Saturday evening. In the last act of this succession of pleasing novelties has been introduced a scene wherein the actors go through the entire process of "making up" in full view of the audience.

KILLED FORTY BABIES.

Wholesale Infanticide Committed by an Alleged Doctor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—A short time ago a man calling himself Dr. Henry Beale, his wife, known as Nellie Haven, and Hattie E. Graham, were arrested charged with the murder by malpractice, of Mary Carroll, the young daughter of a Petaluma county farmer. Beale forfeited $10,000 bail and disappeared, but the women are still in prison.

The Examiner says that, according to the story of a Mrs. Montrose, Beale has committed a great number of murders in this city. The woman says that Beale used her house for ten months as a private hospital. During that time he had about fifty patients and and there were no fewer than forty children born alive in the house, not one of them being permitted to live. Beale either chloroformed or drowned his victims after which he threw the bodies into the bay, or cremated them.

MURDERED FOR MONEY.

PERTH, Ont., Sept. 28.—George Bruce Mitchell, a hardware merchant, of St. Louis, Mo., arrived here on the midnight train on Monday night to visit his parents.

He got off the train but nothing more was seen of him until last night, when his dead body was found lying in a ditch alongside the railway track, some distance from the station, with a terrible gash in the back of the head and a cut about two inches long on the upper part of the forehead. On his person were found his watch and $6, but no letters or papors of any kind.

As Mr. Mitchell was in the habit of carrying large sums of money when traveling, the case is supposed to be one of murder to cover up robbery. Mr. Mitchell leaves a widow and two children in St. Louis.

LEAD FOR BREAKFAST.

A Woman Was Fatally Wounded by Her Husband.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Annie Murphy, 30 years old, was shot and fatally wounded by her husband at their home, No. 205 East Thirty-second street, this morning. While her husband was in bed, she asked him for some money to buy breakfast with.

For answer he drew a pistol from beneath the pillow and shot her in the abdomen. She was taken to Bellevue hospital, where the wound was pronounced fatal. Murphy was arrested.

Bohemian Autonomy.

PRAGUE, Sept. 28.—In consequence of the old Gzechs rejecting the proposal of the young Gzechs to jointly address the crown on the question of Bohemian autonomy, Dr. Greg yesterday introduced in the diet an address claiming an autonomous and independent constitution for Bohemia. The diet was prorogued yesterday.

An Actress Wounded.

NORWICH, Conn. Sept. 28.—Maude Hillman, while playing the leading part in "Lady Audley's Secret" at the Breed opera house last night, accidentally stabbed herself near the heart, inflicting a severe flesh wound. The doctor says the wound will not interfere with her engagements.

A Sudden Death.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Wm. M. Richards, president of the Casualty Insurance company, died suddenly on a ferry boat last night while crossing to Jersey City. Mr. Richards lived at 131 Hicks street, Brooklyn, and was 74 years old. He leaves a widow and ten children.

Was a False Report.

LONDON, Sept. 28.—A cable dispatch from Australia states that there was no truth in the report that Capt. McLeod, of the bark Windermere from Glasgow to Western Australia had been murdered by mutinous sailors. The signals supposed to have conveyed the information from the Windermere to a passing vessel in mid ocean must have been misunderstood.

AMERICAN STORE.

TUESDAY NEXT THE DAY!

There will be Flowers!
There will be Music!

And an extensive display of the kind of Ladies' Merchandise that owe their existence to the most Skillful Manufacturers, and the most Accomplished Artists, in the world. We wish to say upon this our second season's opening announcement that we have found a market in Duluth and Superior for the better class of Merchandise, which in magnitude is far in excess of our most sanguine expectations.

We were told previous to launching this business in Duluth that we would find a serious difficulty in preventing the trade from doing their shopping in other cities. We have found it just the reverse, and herewith state that we have been given the preference in nearly all instances, and found a ready preference from all to do their shopping at home, provided they can do as well as elsewhere. We have found a class of trade as intelligent and as well posted upon the correct things to wear as are to be found anywhere.

We sell Wares of a Reliable Character only. We carry all numbers of each particular line we handle, such as Hosiery at from 10c a pair up to $8.00, Cloaks from $3.00 each up to $500.00 each, Dress Goods from 25c a yard up to $30.00 a yard, and so on. Aiming to suit the general demand

We have no special sales, simply because we mark our goods right when they enter the store, and leave no room for sweeping reductions, making it as easy and as safe to shop one time as another and as easy for one to shop as another.

We ask no one to trade with us out of friendship. We ask no one to buy of us if they can do better outside the City. But simply stand on our merits and ask only that consideration we truly merit.

We have aimed to place in Duluth a shopping place where her citizens may point to and compare with any similar institution in the country, and our efforts have been readily and heartily endorsed and approved so far.

We cordially invite all to see a formal display of Superior Merchandise next Tuesday in the store, which will not only convince you that we carry the goods but that we sell them right.

Thanking you all for the generous favors already bestowed upon us and soliciting a continuance of your esteemed patronage, we remain,

SUPERIOR NEWS.

New Woolen Mill to be Located at East Superior.

Manager Euclid L. Johnson, of the East Superior Development company, has signed a contract with J. H. Abbott & Son and their financial companions, of Goveneur, New York, for the immediate establishment of a woolen and clothing manufactory at East Superior. The buildings, three of them, will be erected on the point of land between the Omaha tracks and Grand avenue, just north of the steel tool works.

The damage done to the St. Louis bridge by the tug Brower, was not as serious as at first apprehended. Most of it has been repaired. The bridge will be ready almost as soon as the ore pockets on Allouez bay.

A violin recital is to be given Friday evening at the East End Presbyterian church by Sidney Brown, the Duluth violinist, assisted by Miss Helen Mackey, pianist, also of Duluth, and Miss Annie Tompkins, soprano, of Superior.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

Allied Printing Crafts Elect Officers and Adjourn.

The afternoon session of the Minnesota State Union of Allied Printing Crafts was a short one. The committee on constitution and by-laws made a report recommending no changes, but mapped out a plan of work for the state organizer. The necessity for organizing the country printers was realized and action taken toward accomplishing their union. A legislative committee is to be appointed to co-operate with the state federation of Labor. The following officers were elected: President, E. C. Ives, of St. Paul; vice-president, George H. Smith, of St. Paul; secretary and treasurer, H. S. Woodward, of Minneapolis; organizer, Thomas R. Drake, of Minneapolis; delegate to attend the International union, George H. Smith; board of directors, James McDowell, W. F. Dunn, L. T. Rutter, A. Melzer, J. J. O'Rourke.

After the adjournment of the afternoon session, the delegates were taken out on the lake on a tug and enjoyed a two hours' ride, the Typographical union escorting them. Most of the delegates went home last night. The next session will be held in Minneapolis the first Tuesday in July.

Greenhouse Destroyed.

The extensive greenhouses of Holcomb & Donkers at Lakeside were totally destroyed by fire last night together with their beautiful floral contents. The fire is supposed to have been communicated in some way from the heating plant. The Lakeside fire department made a very quick run covering nearly a mile with the apparatus in five and one-half minutes. The 11:45 suburban train on the Duluth & Iron Range road ran over the hose which was stretched across the track and the consequent delay in getting new hose allowed the flames to gain headway which resulted in the total destruction of the property. The loss is not accurately known.

Biwabik Ore Company.

Articles of incorporation of the Biwabik Ore company have been filed with Register Shephard. The headquarters are fixed at the mining office on section 3, 58-16. P. L. Kimberly, of Sharon, Pa; J. T. Jones, of Iron Mountain, Mich., and Arthur Howell, of Duluth, are the incorporators. The capital stock is $1,000,000 and the shares are $100 each.

Buying South Shore Stock.

Canadian people are buying Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic stock. It is intimated that the common and preferred stocks will ultimately be exchanged for Canadian Pacific in such a proportion that the preferred stock will be worth about 45 or 50, and the common about 15 or 18.

JIMMY A TROTTER

A Bright New York Boy Who Has a Decided Mania for Traveling.

Although But Fifteen Years Old He Has Been in England and Australia.

Always "Beats the Railroads" Successfully and Travels at Sea as a Stowaway.

"Jimmy the Trotter," has reached Chicago. Although he has been in England and Australia and to many places in North America, he is but fifteen years old and not large for his age. He was born on Spring street, New York, in 1877, and his baptismal name is James L. Sullivan. When he was seven years old both his parents died, and he was placed in the Newsboys' home. One fine day he "done a shoot," as the boys say, and the more the authorities tried to find him the faster he went. At length he became a well known character among railroad men, and here is his own account of the results:

JAMES L. SULLIVAN.

"Dey caught me a-beatin me way at Lancaster an I got pinched, but de next mornin I slid de court and skipped out to Harrisburg, where I slept for a night under de edge of a sidewalk. De nex' mornin I goes up to Pittsburg, all de time beatin me way, where I hung up for two weeks. Pretty soon I gets dead tired of that place an makes a long jump over to Coleport, where de fellars begin tellin big stories about Chicago. So I thought I'd rush de snorter over dere."

He got there in September, 1890, but it was soon too cold to suit him. He disappeared again and was next heard of in a cowboy's camp in Texas. He was well treated, but grew restless, disappeared and was next located among the Chinese in San Francisco. Then the fever for travel again overcame him, and he shipped on the Pacific steamer Manhattan as a stowaway. When found he was set at work "a-cleanin of de brasses." The ship remained only a few days in Sydney and Melbourne, after which she returned, bringing Jimmy with her.

He then started to Kansas, avowedly to join Jesse James' gang, but failing in that beat his way to England by hiding on the Teutonic. He enjoyed himself greatly both in England and Scotland and returned to America on a vessel which landed him at Halifax. Thence to Chicago "beating the railroads" was easy for him.

TWO GIRL BURGLARS.

They Came to Grief in Minneapolis Recently.

Girl burglars were abroad at Minneapolis the other night. Katie Hannon, 311 Twentieth avenue, south, and Mamie Cressap, living in the same neighborhood, broke into the residence of Samuel Hill, at 1910 Stevens avenue, while the family were away, and proceeded to collect and carry off such furniture and bric-a-brac as they could handle. The neighbors soon perceived that something was wrong and watched the premises. The girls soon came out at the rear of the house loaded with rugs, silverware and other things. They hastened down an alley with their plunder, but were pursued by Dr. Lindley's coachman, who overtook them about a block away. The culprits then tried to get away, but were retained and finally taken to the police station, where they were formally arrested on a warrant of Court Officer John Brynes.

The girls were placed in cells under the supervision of Matron Paine. They are quite young, but old timers in crookedness. Katie Hannon is sixteen years of age and Mamie Cressap fifteen and small for her age. These are the girls who ran away to Chicago some time ago and were sent back by the police. One of their schemes for raising money is to go about begging for some church society. In the early part of last week they went all through the Lumber exchange on this mission and collected quite a sum of money, which was spent in "having a good time," as they expressed it. Miss Cressap won a fifty yard dash at the labor picnic at Minnehaha Falls recently, thus proving herself a very fleet girl in more ways than one. One of the rugs which they attempted to carry off was worth twenty-five dollars. They gained access to the house through a rear window.

A Subterranean Lake.

During the moving of a heavy thrashing engine across the Opper farm, eight miles northeast of Clyde, in Sandusky county, O., recently the wheels became mired as if in quicksand, and it was left there till morning. During the night it had sunk gradually until only the top of the smokestack was visible. A derrick was hurriedly obtained, and the engine saved from total loss. The phenomenon caused borings to be made, and water was struck at various depths. Soundings were made, and a subterranean lake was discovered. An extreme depth of 250 feet was reached. The place is known as the Rush prairie, is destitute of soil and vegetation, and the rock is of a porous, honeycombed nature. Near the south boundary of the barren tract, in a depression of the ground, is a spring 150 feet in diameter. The existence of numerous underground streams has long been suspected, and it was thought that these were feeders to the remarkable mineral sulphur spring at the village of Green Spring, in the same county.

Possibly This Is True.

Lewis Cole is a well known farmer of Union township, Howard county, Ind. Last May he had a drove of fat hogs on his place which were given free access to an old straw stack, into which the cattle had eaten great holes. The stack fell in and a 200-pound hog was buried underneath. Mr. Cole tried to locate the porcine, but failed, and it remained there until the 24th of August, just ninety-nine days, when it was rescued. The hog had dwindled away to the merest skeleton and was barely alive, but upon being fed on milk has recovered full health.

IN "OVER THE TEA-CUPS."

Course Often Pursued by the Indisposed.

"Auriscoped by an Aurist, Auscelted by a Stethoscopist"

Half of us are sick.

An invalidism is the matter with any quantity of us. It is a very common complaint and is growing commoner.

It appears in the form of an annoying variety of ills, running the whole gamut from a nervous toothache to the painful and more serious pangs of rheumatism.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes in his "Over the Tea-Cups," describes very aptly the course often persued by people who are thus afflicted: "I was auriscoped by an aurist," says a certain man, "laryngoscoped by a laryngologist, ausculted by a stethoscopist, and so on, until a complete inventory of my organs was made out, and I found that if I believed all these searching inquiries professed to have detected in my unfortunate person, I could repeat with too literal truth the words of the General Confession, 'And there is no health in us.'"

There are a lot of such people keeping young doctors in practice who will never get well of their ailments until they dive to the bottom of things and correct causes which are to be found, as all the great healers have agreed, in an impaired nervous system.

It was for these people whose nervous mechanism had begun to run down, and whose blood was impoverished, that Dr. Phelps, of Dartmouth college, first began to prescribe the now famous Paine's celery compound, which has made more sick people well than any other discovery in medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials from eminent people who have been cured by taking this compound have been published within a year. And their example has been followed by hundreds of good people in all sections of the country who feel it their duty to let others know the great good this remedy has done them.

Mrs. F. O. Willard, of Leominster, Mass., is one of them. She says: "We are glad to add our testimony to that of others in favor of Paine's celery compound. The medicine has helped my husband wonderfully. Last year he was laid up about four months with rheumatism, cramps, etc., and as he is a very nervous person he would often get but two hours sleep at night. During the time that he was sick he had a doctor to see him a part of the time every day.

"He soon after commenced taking Paine's celery compound, and very soon he was able to sleep better, and now he sleeps as well as any one. He is able to attend to his work, he has had only one attack of cramps since, and scarcely a touch of rheumatism.

"You may be sure that we appreciate what it has done for him. He has just recommended the compound to the superintendent of the piano factory where he works, who sent immediately for the compound, and to a fellow workman who was troubled the same way that he was.

"As for myself, I have suffered for ten years from distressing neuralgic headache. The pain would be in the fore part of my head and eyes, and on the top of my head it would seem as if there was a five pound flat iron. But now, after taking the compound, I can say that I am much better this year than last. It seemed impossible for me to do my work last year, but I have done it so far this year and have felt equal to it, thanks to the wonderful compound. My headaches are not as frequent or as severe as they were before taking the compound, although my trouble is of very long standing. Mr. Willard and myself are willing and do recommend the compound whenever there is an opportunity."

Assault in the First.

The grand jury when it brought in its report last evening also brought in indictments against John Laa and Frank Tilg for assault in the first degree. These are the two men who assaulted James Clark and nearly relieved him of the possession of one of his lungs. Clark is now in St. Mary's hospital and is progressing fairly well toward recovery.

THE PIONEER MINE.

Arrangements Made For Opening the Mine at Once.

Matters are so arranged at the Pioneer now that the mine is to be opened up. This will add a great deal to the interests of the city, says the Ely Times, besides making quite a figure in the iron ore shipments of the future. Capt. Gilbert has begun the sinking of a new shaft, seven and one-half feet by twenty-two feet inside timbers, thus giving four compartments—one for ladder road and pipes, one for sending down timber and two for hoisting ore. The intention is to sink this shaft 800 feet before stopping, but there is a large quantity of ore above this depth that will be mined. Allowing for the pitch of the Chandler ore body to the east the Pioneer has to sink 800 feet to strike it.

The intention is to put in three 10-foot hoisting drums and a large air compressing plant. At present they are moving two 4-foot hoists from No. 1 shaft with which to sink the new shaft, and also building a new engine house. The boilers from No. 3 shaft are being moved to the new one. An air compresser is expected to arrive soon to furnish power for working drill machines in the shaft.

This work is causing a better feeling among Ely business men as is shown by new buildings being erected and other improvements.

Active work was commenced on this shaft last Wednesday, and it is expected that work will be so far advanced that heavy shipments will be made next season.

Hosiery and Corsets

AT RARE BARGAINS.

LADIES do you realize that when you buy of the retailer, you are paying three unnecessary profits? The manufacturer sells to the commission house, the latter to the jobber, and the jobber in turn sells to the retail merchant. You must pay the manufacturer a profit first and then pay each of the subsequent handlers a profit, not infrequently paying two profits to the retailer. The is a responsible syndicate which sells direct to the consumer. By investing in manufacturers' samples and the stocks of insolvent manufacturers, in connection with our regular commission holdings, we are able to sell to the consumer direct at the commission price, which is but one remove from the manufacturer's.

We offer the following bargains in hosiery:

Ladies' extra length, full regular made, fast black and seamless hose, very fine guage, (retailing everywhere at 50 cents) we will sell at 23 cents per pair in quantities of one-half dozen, or for $1.38.

This exceptional offer is made merely to introduce our name in your section. Send 15 cents additional and we will prepay express charges at special rates secured by us for the benefit of our patrons.

We are positively offering as a leader the cheapest corset for the money in the world,

The Jenness Tailor-Made Corset is made of heaviest drab jeans, with patent strips of gold. Made like a glove-fitting corset; boned with unbreakable stays. Has double busk and side steels. Is retailed everywhere at $1.50 and in remote sections at very much more. Our price is only 83 cents.

Send 15 cents additional to prepay express charges. Mention sizes desired in ordering hosiery or corsets. We will positively refund money if goods are not satisfactory and just as represented.

THE TWO LEADERS

Hon. John Kean, Republican, is One of the Wealthiest Men in the State.

The Democratic Nominee is Hon. Geo. T. Werts, of the Supreme Court.

The campaign in New Jersey this year is one of unusual liveliness, and both parties have named active and experienced politicians as their candidates for governor. Hon. John Kean, the Republican candidate, was born March 3, 1852, and in 1876 was graduated from Yale college with high honors. He then began to study law in the office of James R. English at Elizabeth. In 1879 he passed a creditable examination and was admitted to the bar, but did little practicing except in connection with his many enterprises. He was nominated on the Republican ticket for the Forty-eighth congress against Miles Ross, whom he defeated, the vote being Kean, 15,186; Ross, 12,841. In 1884 he was again nominated, with ex-Governor Robert S. Green as his opponent, and was defeated. In 1886 he was again nominated, and defeated McMahon by a plurality of 637 votes, the vote being Kean, 15,568; McMahon, 14,931. In 1888 (presidential year) he was once again nominated for congress, but was defeated by Congressman Geissenhainer. He is among the wealthiest men in the state, and runs two banks, a water, a gas and a street car company in Elizabeth, which is his home.

JOHN KEAN, JR.

Hon. George T. Werts, the Democratic nominee, was born at Hackettstown on March 24, 1846. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1867, and continued in the active practice of his profession until his elevation to the bench in February last. From May, 1883, to May, 1885, he served as recorder of Morristown, and in May, 1886, was elected mayor of that city, being re-elected in 1888 and again in 1890.

GEORGE T. WERTS.

At the November election of 1886 Mr. Werts was elected the member of the state senate for Morris county by a plurality of 324 votes, and was re-elected in 1889 by a plurality of 192 votes only. During the session of 1888 he led the fight in the senate against the local option and high license measure which had been passed by the legislature in the preceding year, and drafted the present licensing act, known as the Werts law. He is also the author of the ballot reform bill, which is now the law of the state. Last February Governor Abbett appointed him to a vacancy on the supreme bench, and he thereupon declared his retirement from politics, but in spite of his repeated refusals the Democrats insisted on making him their candidate for governor.

Alarmed at Yankee Progress.

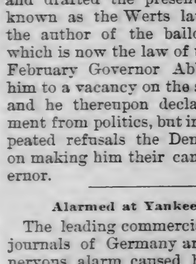
The leading commercial and financial journals of Germany are in a state of nervous alarm caused by the onward march of American commerce into Central and South America. The commercial bodies of that country have come to the conclusion that the greatest danger to European interests lies in the "new departure" or commercial arrangements which this country has negotiated with the Latin-American Republics and the West Indian islands. German newspapers view with great satisfaction the treaty recently negotiated by Germany with Colombia, from which they anticipate favorable results, expecting to counteract by it the inroads that the recent efforts on the part of the United States have made in their commerce.

Bogus Diplomas.

The police authorities at Berlin have recently been conducting a crusade against "doctors" who use bogus American diplomas. Through the foreign office it has in many instances been ascertained whether or not the alleged qualifications were obtained after a regular course of study at an officially recognized institution, and where this has not proved to be the case proceedings have been taken and the offenders sentenced to pay a fine.

The Fighting Parson.

Rev. Myron W. Reed, pastor of the First Congregational church of Denver, has been nominated for congress by the People's party of the First Colorado congressional district. He formerly resided at Hudson, Lenawee county, Mich., going into the army from that village in 1862 in company A, Eighteenth Michigan infantry, of which he was chaplain. There was not fighting enough in that position to suit the parson, and at his request he was appointed by General Thomas, chief of scouts at Nashville, with the rank of captain, but the title usually given him was "The Fighting Parson."



REV. M. W. REED.

He is very popular in Denver and is in charge of one of the wealthiest and most fashionable congregations in the city. The salary is far in excess of that of a congressman, but Mr. Reed has always taken a great interest in politics and the ambition of his life seems to be to occupy a seat in the lower house. He ran in 1886 on the Democratic ticket, but was defeated by a small plurality. While favoring tariff reform, the watchword of his campaign will be "free silver."

PERFECTLY RECKLESS.

The O'd Gentleman's Extravagance Greatly Troubled His Good Wife.

A round faced, apple cheeked and pleasant looking little old man sat by the side of his rather acrid looking and elderly wife on the way home from an excursion trip, or, as the old man called it, "a little excursion toot." He was full of delightful memories of all he had seen and heard, but his wife looked sad and unsmiling. Presently the old man pulled out a little old buckskin bag and shook a silver dime and nickel out of it.

"There, Ar'minty," he said to his wife as he held out the money on the palm of his hand, "there's all that's left out of a two dollar bill I tuk fer spendin money."

"I know it, Nathan, and I think it's turrible," replied his wife.

"Shucks! I don't. I b'lieve in havin a good time when you set out to."

"We could of had a good time 'thout wastin all that money."

"Wastin it? Shucks! Hain't it right fer a feller to hev a little enj'yment out of this life?"

"One kin have enj'yment 'thout committin all sorts o' sinful extravagance. It jist makes me sick to think o' how you've flung money round today."

"What'd I git that was so dretful extravagant?"

"Well, you went beyond all reason in ev'rything. What airthly need was there of ye buyin sody water twice?"

"'Cause I wanted it twice."

"Oh, yes; you allus was one to pamper the flesh. An what airthly need had we o' that ten cents' worth o' bolony sossige? Five cents' worth would o' been a plenty."

"We et it all jist the same."

"Et it? Of course we et it; you reckon I was goin to add waste to extravagance by throwin any of it away? An what need had we o' them sweet crackers when we'd tuk along more gud bread an butter an pie than we could eat?"

"I think sweet crackers go mighty good once in awhile."

"Well, we ain't made o' money to spend on high livin, no matter what's good. An look at them peanuts you went an bought. Half o' 'em was bad. Peanuts air onhealthy things anyhow."

"Then you'd ort to be glad that half of 'em was too bad for us to eat."

"They cost five cents all the same. An here I been chilly an mizzable all day on 'count o' that ice cream I did my best to keep you from orderin. I knowed it wouldn't agree with my stummick."

"You oughtn't to of et it then."

"I had to eat it after you'd went and wasted good money fer it. It jest seemed as though you was bound and determined to fling money away today: you acted like you was a millionaire, I declare if you didn't, Nathan Sipes."—Detroit Free Press.

His Pa Was Wealthy.

The two little boys surveyed each other in silence for several minutes. Both were evidently the children of luxury. Their appearance was regal in its richness. Wealth had done its utmost to enhance the natural beauty of extreme youth.

"Hello."

"The little boy with long yellow curls took the initiative and made a tentative declaration.

"Hello," rejoined the little boy with black eyes.

Another minute or two of silence ensued.

"Pretty fine clothes you've got?"

There was the suggestion of a sneer in the voice of the little boy with long yellow curls.

"That's none of your business."

The little boy with black eyes retorted in some warmth:

"Well, my ma says your pa can't afford to dress you so well."

"Tain't so; my pa's rich."

Both little boys were getting a good deal excited.

"Your pa ain't so rich as my pa."

"Yes, he is."

"He ain't."

Their eyes were flashing with anger.

"My pa is a railroad president; so there."

"Aw, that's nothing. My pa"——

The little boy with the dark complexion threw whole volumes of disdain into his words.

——"has failed in business three times. Rich? Well, rather."

And the little boy with the yellow curls was enough conversant with commercial usage to be aware that the controversy had gone against him.—Detroit Tribune.

THE METROPOLITAN DRY GOODS STORE,

I. FREIMUTH, Prop'r.

Our store is not quite in shape yet, but we are ready to do business in most of our Departments. Our Dress Goods Department has never been more complete than it is this season. We have the Fabrics that make stylish, fashionable and becoming gowns, also showing a large variety of exclusive styles of Dress Goods imported by us direct, and are not shown by any other house in Duluth.

NOTE.—By importing our Dress Goods direct we are able to select better styles; also save middlemen's profits, and therefore offer you better styles in Dress Goods at lower prices than stores that buy in small quantities from second or third hands.

Dress Goods Dep't.

We offer this week great attractions in the way of low prices that will make the goods move quick.

Our Shoe Department,

SECOND FLOOR—Will keep pace with our other old departments and will make as many friends. We will say more, too, about it the next time.

Cloaks! Cloaks!

Are you interested in Cloaks? Our Cloak Department is on the second floor, the elevator will take you up, and you will never regret the trouble of having visited it. Our Cloak Department will be a revelation to you. We are always modest in our claims, but we claim that we are showing more garments than all the other stores in Duluth combined.

HAVE WE GOT THE PROPER STYLES? We think we have, and the only way to convince you that we have the right styles is to extend an invitation to you to visit our Cloak Department and see for yourself.

Are our prices on Cloaks right? They must be, otherwise we could not be the Leading Cloak House of Duluth.

OUR ADVICE—Make your selection of your Winter Garment early. You get the choice of a complete stock and are more likely to find what you have been expecting to get.

Millinery Department is not quite as advanced as our other departments; still we have the styles and the goods to please you.

Our Millinery Department will be in perfect shape this week, and we will display a larger and more artistic line of Ladies' and Misses' Headwear than we ever had before.

Our Carpet Department,

THIRD FLOOR—Is filling up rapidly and getting into shape to do business.

This department is bound to sustain our reputation to sell nothing but goods of unquestionable quality and character. We shall always give it our fullest attention.

Our Shoe and Carpet Departments, two of our new departments, are ready to welcome you, although not quite completed.

Very few have visited our Shoe Department, but those few that have, have nothing but praise to say for what they have seen.

OUR HARDWARE AND CROCKERY DEPARTMENTS

Are working day and night, and will be in shape in a few days. The Ladies ot Duluth will appreciate our efforts in these two Departments, when they are completed. Look for the date of our

AWFUL DISASTER.

Five Hundred Pounds of Giant Powder Exploded at a Station in Colorado.

Twenty-Five People Were on the Platform and All Supposed to Be Killed.

The Long Tunnel at the Continental Divide Thought to Be Greatly Damaged.

ASPEN, Col., Sept. 29.—Reports of an accident that may be attended by frightful loss of life and millions of dollars worth of property were brought in by passengers on the Colorado Midland train which arrived shortly after 11:30 o'clock last night. The train was just approaching the long tunnel that pierces the continental divide, and had passed Busk station, when an explosion occurred that broke the dishes in the Pullman dining car and threw the passengers from their berths and almost threw the train from the track.

It is known that 500 pounds of giant powder had just been put off by a local freight on the platform at Busk. After the explosion the conductor made several attempts to call up the operator at Busk at each station, but without success.

There were about twenty-five people on the platform when the train pulled out of Busk, and all have certainly been killed if the surmises of the train crew are correct. The tunnel is about 100 yards from the depot and must have been greatly damaged.

In reference to the cholera situation he said: "I consider the danger is past. Nevertheless the government will not relax its vigilance to prevent an epidemic here of the disease."

HAS GONE TO SIBERIA.

A British Cruiser Gone to Rescue Sailors in Russia.

MONTREAL, Sept. 29.—A cablegram from London confirms the statement of Hon. C. H. Tupper that a British cruiser had been dispatched to Siberian waters. Her purpose is to relieve the sailors who were seized by Russian men-of-war and who, though released on the Siberian shores, are, it is feared, in a destitute condition.

The dispatch further says that Lord Roseberry already possesses full information from the British side respecting the seizures, and is now awaiting Russia's version.

The war office believes that the guards have been demoralized by the greater leniency shown them and the privileges granted.

The Traffic in Africa Continues On a Large Scale.

MARSEILLES, Sept. 29.—According to advices from Aden, the slave trade in Africa continues on a large scale. Owing to the demand for slaves and the high prices offered for them, slave caravans are arriving on the East coast daily. The caravans find no difficulty in traveling through Vitu.

The slaves are embarked at points in the vicinity of Zeylah, Massowah, Njibontit and Suakim. In exchange for the slaves the traders accept nothing but modern fire arms and ammunition. The mortality among the slaves while en route to the coast from the interior is 70 per cent.

DEED OF BRAVERY.

An Act of Great Courage Was Performed By a Woman in Russia.

She Seized a Gun, Drove Them Away and Saved the Safe's Contents.

VIENNA, Sept. 29.—News has been received from Sokhvitska, Russia, of a deed of great bravery by a woman. Eight armed robbers visited a factory during the night for the purpose of plundering the safe, which they knew contained a large sum of money. The watchman attempted to resist them, but they fired on him with revolvers and killed him.

The watchman's wife heard the noise and seizing a gun ran to the scene. She mastered her grief at the sight of her husband's body and fired upon the robbers. Seven of them fled, leaving one who had got into the factory farther than the rest and was locked in a room by the courageous woman.

When help came the woman was on guard with her gun over the captive robber. She thus saved 100,000 florins that were in the company's safe.

THE SAMPLES SAVED THEM.

Terrible Experience of Three Traveling Men on Lake Huron.

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Sept. 29.—Two Detroit traveling men, J. D. O'Neal and W. P. Baillie, and H. Jung, of Milwaukee, had a terrible experience on Lake Huron Saturday and Sunday. They started for Rogers City in a small sail boat in charge of two sailors, and it got dark before they reached the forty-mile point.

Having no compass the crew got mixed, and the boat was carried out into midlake by the furious gale and they were out for twenty-eight hours in all of Saturday night and Sunday's gale, turning up at Spectacle reef light and finally landing safely Sunday night.

They had to bail out the boat constantly for twelve hours. Jung represents a Milwaukee liquor house, and his samples are all that kept life in the party.

The attorney general therefore invokes the supreme court to proceed against the company. Thirty days are allowed for the company to file an answer.

FUSION CARRIED.

Democrats Endorse the Populist Nominees and Fill the Balance of the Ticket.

C. O. Baldwin Will Run For County Attorney and Richard Long For Sheriff.

Miss Lida B. Earhart the Candidate For Superintendent—Everything Harmonious.

The Democratic county convention met at the city hall yesterday afternoon. Long before it was called to order the council chamber was filled with politicians. It was evident that there was to be no sharp contest over any office and it looked as though there would be hard work to find candidates for some. Major Baldwin, C. P. Maginnis, T. E. Bowen, J. Adam Bede, H. F. Greene and many familiar faces were to be seen—"come to save the country again" they said. Peter Nelson, of Red Wing, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, was in the hall. It was an established fact that fusion with the People's party was to be carried out and the program went through without a hitch.

The convention was called to order by F. L. Ryan, who read the call and asked for nominations for temporary chairman. C. P. Maginnis nominated Mr. McNamara, of Tower, but he declined. T. E. Bowen was then named and was unanimously chosen. In taking the chair he made a short speech thanking the delegates for their honor. He declared that it would be beneath a Democratic convention to nominate a set of officers in a bunch—in "blocks of five"—as did the Republicans. He then went into a discussion of the tariff, of the national platforms and the Democratic national, state and congressional committees.

A. S. Wilson was selected as temporary secretary. C. P. Maginnis, W. F. Henry, James Hart, James Murray and S. C. Murphy were appointed as a committee on credentials. The following delegates were, after a recess, reported as entitled to seats:

Duluth—James Sullivan, C. G. Miller, J. H. Davis, H. Michaud, Andrew Marshall, John Marshall, J. Adam Bede, John Halleran, Martin Sorensen, Wm. McKay, James Murray, T. E. Bowen, Frank M. Thomas, A. Tower—C. McNamara, H. Gilmark, M. F. Marion.

The temporary organization was made permanent and nominations for sheriff were then called for. J. Adam Bede named Richard Long. Mr. McNamara of Tower wanted to know if he was a Democrat. Mr. Bede hesitated and then said slowly: "Well yes, he was born a Democrat. Some of us have become Democrats you know, but Mr. Long was born one." When the laughter which followed this had subsided an informal ballot was called for. A. Fitger and James Hart were appointed tellers. Fifty-three votes were cast and the ballot resulted as follows: Richard Long 23, Simon Clark 10, Kenna 5, R. Kennedy 5, T. M. Helenski 7, E. Applehagen 1, L. K. McChesney 1, James Hart 1. A formal ballot was next taken resulting as follows: Simon Clark 28, Richard Long 12, T. M. Helenski 7, J. Kenna 5.

A shout of applause went up after this, but Simon Clark got up and absolutely declined the nomination, declaring that he could under no circumstances consent to make the run. J. Adam Bede then moved to declare Long the nominee, but this did not meet with approval and another ballot was taken. The result was: Richard Long 22, John Kenna 5, T. M. Helenski 14, P. Doran 4, L. K. McChesney 1, A. Fitzgerald 2, John Harney 1. Mr. Doran announced that he was not a candidate and wanted no votes. The third formal ballot brought no choice, Richard Long receiving 22 votes, T. M. Helenski 13, J. Kenna 8, A. S. Wilson 1, H. Truelsen 2, E. Applehagen 1, L. K. McChesney 1. The fourth ballot again brought no choice, Long receiving the same 22 votes, Helenski 10 and Kenna 9, with 9 scattering. T. M. Helenski withdrew, declining under any conditions to run. The next ballot decided it, although there were 55 votes, while only 53 votes were entitled to be cast. Long received 32 votes, Kenna 11 and Budden 7, with 4 scattering. H. F. Greene moved that Mr. Long be declared the nominee of the convention. Carried.

Nominations for register of deeds were called for and H. F. Greene presented the name of Herman Hansen, the People's party nominee. Judge McGindley moved that he be declared the nominee by acclamation. This was carried.

Judge McGindley nominated A. F. Rudolph for auditor, and moved that he be chosen by acclamation. This also carried. C. P. Maginnis named Emil Olund of West Duluth, for treasurer and he was unanimously made the nominee.

Nominations for county attorney being called for H. G. Greene arose and presented the name of C. O. Baldwin and the great applause which followed was a sufficient indication that that gentleman is popular. Mr. Greene declared that if elected Mr. Baldwin would make the best county attorney St. Louis county had had since Mayor d'Autremont left the office. "Acclamation" McGindley got in another motion and Mr. Baldwin was unanimously chosen.

For surveyor, Quincy A. Thomas and T. F. McGillivray were named. Two ballots were taken. On the first there were too many votes cast by one, Thomas receiving 25, and McGillivray 30. On the next ballot Thomas received 23 votes and McGillivray 31. Mr. McGillivray's nomination was then made unanimous.

For superintendent of schools, Miss Lida B. Earhart was placed in nomination and chosen by acclamation. Miss Earhart is principal of the Jefferson school in Duluth. Judge Ayer was unanimously nominated for probate judge. For coroner Dr. Fullerton was unanimously nominated after Dr. G. W. Davis had been withdrawn.

As a committee to select eighteen delegates to the judicial condition, Judge McGindley, H. F. Greene, C. McNamara, M. Sorenson and Frank M. Thomas were appointed. They recommended the following names: John Rustgard, Alfred Jaques, A. E. McCardic, J. L. Washburn, Austin N. McGindley, Geo. F. Chester, J. M. Martin, A. H. Cressweller, J. C. Hollembeck, Morris Thomas, Simon Clark, F. W. Paine, A. S. Wilson, Henry Truelson, E. H. Hall, John G. Brown. The report was adopted.

E. H. Hall, E. Applehagen, J. A. Bede, A. Fitger, Simon Clark, C. P. Maginnis, M. F. Marion, James Sullivan, J. H. Davis and L. L. Aune were appointed to recommend delegates to the legislative convention. They reported the following: M. Sorenson, Morris Thomas, C. P. Maginnis, E. Fiebiger, Fred L. Ryan, John G. Brown, J. H. Davis, Byron Segog, J. A. Bede, S. Kocinski, L. L. Aune, Peter Gilley, Chas. McNamara, H. Gilmark,—Garrity, of Merritt, Ed. Brown, A. H. Crassweller. Their report was adopted.

The delegates from the different commissioner districts caucused and afterward presented the names of candidates for ratification. The First district presented Charles G. Miller. The Third district delegates asked for a few days time and were given it, their decision to be that of the convention. The Fifth district presented Albert Swenson. The nominations were ratified.

Upon motion of H. F. Greene, Chairman Bowen was authorized to call the judicial convention, there being no Democratic judicial district organization. The appointment of a county committee of twenty members was left also to the chairman. The convention then adjourned.

SUPERIOR NEWS.

A Boy Ground Into Pieces by an Omaha Train.

Henry William Iner, aged between 10 and 11 years, was instantly killed about 5:15 yesterday afternoon at the East End. He was attempting to board the fifth in a special train of thirty freight cars bound south on the Omaha road, lost his hold and fell beneath the wheels, the balance of the cars passing over him. The boy was literally ground and cut to pieces. The head was completely severed from the body.

Yesterday the W. H. Stephens of the Crescent line landed at the Freeman mill and loaded 5000 barrels of flour, the bulk of it for Buffalo and Eastern markets, but some for Cleveland. This is the first consignment to be taken directly from the mill.

John Mather, the present manager of the Superior Water, Light and Power company, is to leave and go to Seattle, where with R. C. Elliott, formerly of Minnesota, he has acquired the principal interest in the gas, water and electric franchise there.

FIERCE TIMBER FIRES.

They are Doing Immense Damage in Colorado.

BUENA VISTA, Col., Sept. 29.—Big mountain fires are raging on Rifle Creek. Nearly all of the timber covering the mountains from Tin Cup to Texas Creek has been burned, and the fire still continue.

The fire has driven out the Texas Creek placed miners. It originated through careless campers. It started on the side of the range. Fully twenty square miles of timber has been completely destroyed. The damage is something enormous.

Much danger is expected after the fire gets in the thick timber on Texas Creek and the tall grass, of which there are fifty square miles and over.

RINGING WORDS

From a Prominent and Eminent Divine.

Statements That Are True and Straight to the Point.

Read What He Says, for His Words Are of Great and Peculiar Interest.

No one knows better than the faithful pastor the great value of sound physical and nerve strength. The strain upon brain and nerve, the physical exhaustion following excessive work, the responsibilities and sympathies with afflictions and the myriad cares makes the earnest preacher's duties arduous and wearing in the extreme.

We do not wonder, therefore, at the strong and ringing words of praise which the eminent divine, Rev. C. D. R. Meacham, gives that most wonderful of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. When he was run down in health, weak in nerves, prostrated in strength, and with his blood badly impaired, he was restored to sound and vigorous health by this marvellous health renewer.

Here are the exact facts in his own words:

"I am very glad to say in regard to Dr. Greene's great remedy that when my blood was badly impoverished by an old scrofula humor, and my nervous system was greatly impaired, Dr. Greene's medicine gave me wonderful relief.

"At the present time my health is as good as at any time in my life, and my confidence in Dr. Greene's remedy is constantly increasing.

REV. C. D. R. MEACHAM.
Pastor Baptist Church, Townshend, Vt."

We have published the testimonials of vast numbers of people who were cured by the use of the great discovery, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, but we take more pleasure in giving to the world Rev. Mr. Meacham's own words in regard to the wonderful benefits he received from this valuable remedy, because we realize that the earnest words of a minister will have great weight with sufferers from disease, and everybody who reads his convincing words in regard to the sure and remarkable curative powers of this medicine will lose no time in securing a bottle and thus obtain a cure.

It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless, and is kept by all druggists at $1.00.

Its discoverer is the well-known Dr. Greene, of 35 W. Fourteenth street, New York, who gives consultation and advice free to the sick, personally or by letter. The sick should use immediately Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, for it is not only the best remedy ever discovered, but those using it have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene concerning its effects, their health, etc. This fact alone guarantees the assurance of cure. If you need a medicine, do not fail to take this best of all remedies.

A TRIPLE TRAGEDY

Cut Her Throat From Ear to Ear, Shot Her Brother and Suicided.

Mistook Her Brother For a Man of Whom He Was Very Jealous.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 29.—John Bingham, a colored porter on the Rock Island road, whose run is into this city, was the principal in a triple tragedy. Bingham is a young married man and the father of two children.

He was passionately enamored with his wife, but she was of a flippant nature and encouraged the attentions of others than her husband. Among the more attentive of those suitors was a colored individual named John Brown, who was discharged from the Kimball house not long ago on general principles and later was engaged at the Hotel Colfax in St. Joe.

While Bingham and his wife were on their way to a festival the husband cut the woman's throat from ear to ear and fled to Trenton, where he met his wife's brother, and taking him for Brown shot him fatally. He then killed himself. Jasper Bingham, a brother, has gone to St. Joe from here to bring back the bodies.

MONARCHY IN BRAZIL.

Dom Pedro's Grandson May be Proclaimed Emperor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A cable to the Herald from Valparaiso says that letters received from Rio Grande do Sul announce a movement to proclaim Dom Pedro's grandson emperor. Dr. Victorino Montero, ex-vice president of Rio Grande, has been given the portfolio of federal minister of foreign affairs. Senhor Serzedello retains the portfolio of finance.

The council of state has approved the Bacourt Errazuriz protocol and there is little doubt it will pass both houses. The Herald correspondent at Montevideo says that the senate has declared against silver coinage. The political situation is tranquil.

JACK THE RIPPER.

The Notorious Murderer Now Seems to be in Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—The dead body of a woman of the town has been found in a sand pit, near the Spandauer Rock brewery, near Charlottenburg. The woman had been strangled and then mutilated in the same manner as the victims of Jack the Ripper.

This is the second crime of the kind committed in Berlin recently. In the other case, some months ago, the body of a fallen woman was found dead in a back yard of Wilhelm strasse. This case has never been cleared up.

No trace of the murderer in the case of yesterday has been found. The expertness shown in the work of mutilation has aroused the old apprehension that Jack the Ripper is here.

INGERSOLL AND GEORGE.

Speakers at the Coming Real Estate Convention.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 29.—President B. M. Weil received a telegram yesterday from Chairman Hill, of the Buffalo committee on arrangements for the national real estate convention, Oct. 4 to 7, that Col. Robert G. Ingersoll had accepted an invitation to deliver an address before the convention.

Information was also received that Henry George would also speak on the single tax question and that efforts were being made to induce Edward Atkinson to present the other side of the question.

RUFFIANS IN TENNESSEE.

A Gang of Terrorizers That May Meet Judge Lynch.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Sept. 29.—The band of masked ruffians which long terrorized Sevier county is now tormenting Cocke county. A few nights ago they broke into a negro's house, shot his wife and told him that the same would be his fate unless he quit the country.

An aged woman who lived alone was driven from her house of which the contents were wrecked. Citizens are planing their capture.

The Columbus Celebration.

MADRID, Sept. 29.—Senor Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister, gave a reception yesterday to the delegates to the Columbus exhibition, the members of the diplomatic corps, the minister and the municipal authorities. The caravels Nina and Pinta have been completed and are now at anchor in the harbor at Barcelona whence they will be towed to Huelva by an American war ship.

An Embezzler Sentenced.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 29.—Fred M. Phillips, the cashier of George W. Simons & Co., who embezzled several thousand dollars belonging to the firm a year ago, was sentenced yesterday to pay a fine of $500 and also to two years imprisonment in the house of correction.

Catholics Shut Out.

QUINCY. Ill., Sept. 29.—The Catholic parochial schools have been shut out of the public school celebration of Columbus day. Father Weiss has directed an invitation to the Lutherans to join the Catholics in a public celebration by themselves.

CORSICANA, Tex., Sept. 29.—Senator Mills' condition was worse last night. He may be unable to take further active part in the campaign.

CUT DOWN HER RECORD.

Nancy Hanks Cut Three Seconds More off the Trotting Record.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Sept. 29.—Nancy Hanks again broke the trotting record yesterday. She was driven to beat her regulation track record—2:07. After some preliminary slow jogs she appeared with Budd Doble up, accompanied by Frank Starr, behind runner Abe Lincoln.

Frank Walker gave the word and the mare started at full speed. First quarter was made in :31, the runner galloping furiously behind her. Her gait was as steady as a steam driven piston. The half was reached in 1:02¾. The The third quarter pole was made in 1:32½ and the mile was trotted in 2:04 without a break or show of uneasiness or over driving. The best quarter was 29¾ seconds and the last half was made in 1:01¼.

Tremendous long cheers broke out. The crowd poured upon the track. Doble was carried on their shoulders to the judge's stand, happy and smiling, to bow his thanks. President Ijams announced the time 2:04 and the breaking of all kite and regulation track records, and Doble was cheered again.

Another important record fracture was the breaking by Monbars, 2:14¾, Don Leather's great 3-year-old, of the 3-year-old stallion record, held by Axtell since 1889. Monbars is by Eaglebird, driven by George Starr, to lower this record. He trotted a mile in beautiful style in 2:11¾ on the same track trotted by Axtell.

A DISAPPOINTED CROWD.

Champion Corbett Stopped From Giving an Exhibition.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Corbett exhibition here last night was a most unholy fake, not through any fnult of Champion Jim, however. Two injunctions were served on Manager Brady in the afternoon, at an hour when it was hardly possible for Brady to circumvent the injunctions by a legal process.

G. W. Heberling, of this city, was the cause of the first injunction and H. R. Jacobs, the theatrical manager, the second. A disappointed crowd saw Corbett pose and heard him speak and had to be satisfied. Brady has decided to begin civil actions against both parties that caused the serving of the injunctions.

CHOLERA IN SIBERIA.

What a Japanese Officer Discovered in His Travels.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—According to the Berlin correspondent of the Times, the North German Gazette publishes extracts from a letter written by Maj. Fukushema, the Japanese officer who is riding across Asia, in which the writer describes the cholera situation in Western Siberia.

He says that except in the towns there are very few doctors, that the population is in utter ignorance of the nature of the disease and of the necessary precautions to be taken and that nothing is done to check its virulence. One instance he gives is that of a town of 5,000 inhabitants in which 365 cholera cases occurred in eighteen days and 337 of the patients died.

EXTRA SESSION NECESSARY.

Senator Spooner Talks On the Wisconsin Apportionment.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29. — Ex-Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, passed through this city yesterday on his way home. Speaking of the decision of the supreme court in the gerrymander suit, Mr. Spooner said: "The only thing to be now is to call an extra session of the legislature to apportion the state in accordance with the plain provisions of the constitution. The apportionment will necessarily have to be an equal one, just to all. The extra session will have to be called without delay. I trust that we have seen the last of gerrymanders in Wisconsin, and I don't believe either party will hereafter make one."

Has Become a Democrat.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—A special to the Herald from St. Paul says the Minnesota state central committe was thrown into consternation last night by the announcement that R. R. O'Dell, United States commissioner, an appointee of the Harrison adminstration and for many years a Republican leader, has become a Democrat and will take the stump for Cleveland.

Going to Gotham.

BUZZARD'S BAY, Sept. 29.—Mr. Cleveland says he will leave for New York this evening.

A Popular Hotel.

The Tremont hotel under the management of John J. Haley has already proved itself to be the popular family hotel of this city. Several families have secured rooms for the winter and there are some very pleasant single and suites of rooms which can be secured if applied for this week. The table service of the "Tremont" is not excelled in the city.

Hosiery and Corsets

AT RARE BARGAINS.

LADIES do you realize that when you buy of the retailer, you are paying three unnecessary profits? The manufacturer sells to the commission house, the latter to the jobber, and the jobber in turn sells to the retail merchant. You must pay the manufacturer a profit first, and then pay each of the subsequent handlers a profit, not infrequently paying two profits to the retailer. The is a responsible syndicate which sells direct to the consumer. By investing in manufacturers' samples and the stocks of insolvent manufacturers, in connection with our regular commission holdings, we are able to sell to the consumer direct at the commission price, which is but one remove from the manufacturer's.

We offer the following bargains in hosiery: Ladies' extra length, full regular made, fast black and seamless hose, very fine guage, (retailing everywhere at 50 cents) we will sell at 23 cents per pair in quantities of one-half dozen, or for $1.38.

This exceptional offer is made merely to introduce our name in your section. Send 15 cents additional and we will prepay express charges at special rates secured by us for the benefit of our patrons.

We are positively offering as a leader the cheapest corset for the money in the world,

The Jenness Tailor-Made Corset is made of heaviest drab jeans, with patent strips of gold. Made like a glove-fitting corset; boned with unbreakable stays. Has double busk and side steels. Is retailed everywhere at $1.50 and in remote sections at very much more. Our price is only 88 cents.

Send 15 cents additional to prepay express charges. Mention sizes desired in ordering hosiery or corsets. We will positively refund money if goods are not satisfactory and just as represented.

Orders must be accompanied by cash in either money-order, postal note, stamps or registered letters, addressed to the

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Sept. 29.—An area of low barometer of considerable energy is now central north of Minnesota and extending down through the Dakotas and Montana. It will move eastward today, passing to the north of this section, and from present appearances not affecting it.

Temperatures are high over the country to the south and west of the great lakes, and slightly higher than usual over the far Northwest while along the lakes and to the northeast of them it is cooler than usual.

Light local showers have fallen over the south and southwest, while the nearest approach to rain in the Northwest was a sprinkle at Calgary, N. W. T., yesterday.

There was a difference of 20 between the highest temperature here yesterday and the day before, the highest yesterday was 62, the lowest last night 50.

DULUTH, Sept. 29.—Continued fair weather; possibly followed by showers Friday; slightly warmer tonight, cooler by Friday night; wind shifting to south and west.

B. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Minnesota: Generally fair; southerly winds becoming westerly; cooler. For Wisconsin: Generally fair; warmer Friday morning; south to southwest winds.

A NOTABLE INVESTIGATION.

The Forum six months ago engaged the services of Dr. J. M. Rice, an educational expert, to make a practical examination of the workings of the public school system in the principal cities of the United States, the object being to find out precisely the tendency of the work done in the school room; wherever an evil was found to trace it to its source, and wherever excellent features were discovered to point out how these might be adopted in other schools.

Dr. Rice spent the hours every school day from January to June inclusive in the school rooms, and observed more than 1200 teachers at their work, and visited the schools in thirty-six cities, beginning at Baltimore, going northward to all the principal cities to Boston and westward to St. Paul. The first of the carefully prepared results of this investigation appears in the October number of the Forum. The schools considered in this article are those of Baltimore, where the work is not done scientifically because of the political domination of the school management.

About the schools in Baltimore, Dr. Rice declares that they are "practically in the hands of ward politicians, the teachers untrained, and the supervision far too scanty; and it is not surprising that the schools of Baltimore should be as they are. As for the remedies? These are simple enough after the causes of the evils are discovered. They consist in taking the schools out of the domain of politics, in employing only professionally trained teachers, and in enlarging the supervisory staff." Dr. Rice has long been an enthusiast on the subject of education, and is well qualified to discuss this subject.

ANOTHER BUBBLE BURST.

E. J. Amory, the contractor for the Piedmont avenue east improvement, takes exception to the insinuation in the grand jury's report that there was "boodling" in connection with that contract. His communication, published in this issue, states that he had no opportunity to plead his cause with the grand jury. In other words, Mr. Amory was not called before the grand jury to tell what he knew about the contract. One would naturally suppose that the jurors would have called upon him to give them some information regarding the difference in the estimated quantities on the improvement. Instead of doing that, however, they appear to have confined their investigation to examining people who knew but very little about it, and the result is a ridiculous statement about figuring on contracts and an unwarranted insinuation that Mr. Amory bribed the then city engineer. Mr. Amory's communication shows the baseless character of this insinuation and the ignorance of the jury concerning the manner in which contracts are figured. Mr. Amory has punctured the jury's bubble effectually, so far as the Piedmont avenue contract is concerned.

THE COAL TRUST.

The Chicago Inter Ocean has been waging war against the gigantic coal trust and has gathered a mass of evidence to show the existence of the combine and the manner in which it is robbing the people by extortionate prices. This evidence has been placed in the hands of States Attorney Longnecker, and he has instituted suit in the chancery court to enjoin the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company from doing business in Cook county, Ill.

This is the first step in legal proceedings against the coal trust that will be watched with interest in all sections of the country. The prosecution has a difficult task ahead of it, because the wealthy coal combine will fight hard to retain its grasp upon the people and will spend money freely to accomplish that end. It is to be hoped that the work begun by the Inter Ocean to put an end to this nefarious trust will be successful.

MR. MILLS' WORSE.

A dispatch today announce that the condition of Hon. Roger Q. Mills, who has been sick for several days at his home in Corsicana, Tex., is worse, and that as a result he may be unable to take further active part in the campaign.

Mr. Mills' illness is due to overwork and an attack of the grip some time ago, from which he has never recovered entirely. It is to be hoped that his condition will improve rapidly so that he may again be able to take the stump. Mr. Mills is an able and interesting speaker, and the people of Duluth, where he is booked to speak on October 21, are anxious to hear him.

Hon. W. W. Erwin, the eminent St. Paul attorney who was a prominent member of the Alliance party two years ago, says Knute Nelson will be elected governor by 30,000 plurality. Mr. Erwin is a pretty accurate judge of public sentiment.

Some of the Democratic papers are disputing the point whether Cleveland's letter of acceptance is in line with the tariff plank adopted at Chicago. It does not make much difference, however, as he will not be elected anyway.

The Philadelphia Record is authority for the statement that "milk is unexcelled as a sleep inducer." Philadelphia can be accepted as unquestioned authority on the subject of sleep.

Where is the vigorous campaign that Daniel W. Lawler was going to make for the Minnesota Democracy? Has he found the Nelson sentiment too strong to be overcome?

The campaign is well advanced, and it seems to be about time that the Tribune stated whether it favors Maj. Baldwin, A. C. Parsons or Judge Searle for congress.

Gen. Palmer is preparing to take the stump in Illinois, and the farmers are praying for rain to prevent the prairie grass from becoming ignited.

The secret of President Harrison's great strength in the present campaign, is that he enjoys the confidence and support of the business men.

Nancy Hanks has clipped the trotting record on a regulation track three more seconds. A two minute record may soon be reached.

Senator Quay says Harrison's election is a dead certainty. This must account for the apathetic condition of the Democrats.

Uncle Jerry Rusk has stamped out pleuro-pneumonia in this country. Why not start him after the cholera germs?

The Piedmont Avenue Contract.

To the Editor of The Herald:

In referring to the grand jury's criticism of the Piedmont avenue east contract you state in tonight's editorial that these criticisms may be well founded, and that if there be any wrong-doing connected therewith, the odium must attach to the officials of the Davis administration. Let me add, and none the less to the contractor of said improvement.

Now, then, I had not the opportunity to plead my cause with the grand jury, as did your representative, and I expect some courtesy at your hands on that account. This report of the grand jury is taken to insinuate that I bribed a former city engineer to make a ridiculously low estimate of the amount of masonry required for this improvement. In the first place, William B. Fuller was not the man to be bribed. In the second place, it would be absurd to make plans calling for 1000 yards and estimate but fifty; and such a slip in the estimated quantities could not possibly deceive a contractor who carefully examined the plans and the work.

In the third place, with the quantities as they are, had the city awarded the work to one of the other four bidders the cost would have been increased, in one case by $12,000 and in another by $10,000. So that although increased work has made increased cost there is no room for the tremendous boodle some vivid imaginations picture. However, I am willing to admit that I have made a fair profit on the contract and also that I am very glad of it. Permit me to make a few explanations regarding this contract. To begin with, the contract states that the estimated quantities are approximate only and that bidders must satisfy themselves by personal examination as to the accuracy of the engineer's estimate, and again in another clause it states that the city is not to be held responsible if the estimated quantities prove not even approximately correct. It behooves a man therefore in undertaking a large and difficult contract, to examine the plans carefully, and to go over the location of the proposed work repeatedly, and in bidding to make use of whatever gumption nature has given him in order to save himself or his bondsmen from possible loss and much trouble. When this contract was advertised, and when it was let, the plans and profile showed a bridge in Cascade square with about 725 cubic yards of masonry in its abutments and wings, and a culvert near Twelfth street with 300 yards of masonry. There was then about 1000 yards of masonry shown on plans and profile, outside of any retaining walls, which might be demanded by property owners while the work was progressing.

Let me say further that the best of work was demanded of me and that the masonry in abutments and in culvert cost me about $6 per yard, and that no contractor bid so low a figure, either for masonry or for earth, as the figures used by the grand jury for a comparison with my bid. I would like to say more, but I know your space is too valuable for me to encroach upon it much further. I will merely add for the benefit of those who too eagerly accept ill report of their neighbors the trite but true saying: "Honi soit qui mal y pense." Thanking you beforehand for the space allotted me, I am, respectfully yours,

E. J. AMORY,
Contractor for the Piedmont avenue east improvement.

WASHBURN TALKS.

The United States Senator Has a Word to Say on Grain Combinations.

Declares That the Chicago Herald Exposure Was Instigated By Gamblers of That City.

His Name Was Drawn In, He Says, to Defeat the Anti-Option Bill.

Hon. W. D. Washburn and Maj. W. D. Hale, of Minneapolis, are in the city today. Senator Washburn was approached by a Herald reporter but did not indicate what brought him to Duluth. "I come up here quite frequently," said he, "and let me say that every time I come I am more and more surprised at the steady growth and development which is constantly going on."

When asked what he thought of W. W. Erwin's interview in the Pioneer Press today he smiled and said that he was surprised to read it but it was nevertheless true, especially as to what he said regarding gambling in false futures. "There are no two cities," said he, "which should be more interested in eliminating this dealing in futures than Duluth and Minneapolis. They are now only the tail to the Chicago board of trade. Minneapolis received three times as much grain last year as Chicago and Duluth at least twice as much, yet they have no more to do with fixing the price than Anoka or St. Cloud. It is Chicago dealers who do not get the wheat but want to control the prices that are fighting the anti-option. The bill will pass, however. It is the first thing on the calendar and will be brought up as soon as the senate convenes."

Senator Washburn was asked about the Chicago Herald exposure. He said that he believed the whole thing was concocted, not by politicians but by the Chicago gamblers, to defeat the anti-option bill, bring himself into disgrace and retain their grasp on the market. The politicians seized upon it then, he says, and here in Minnesota are trying to get the farmer vote through it. He declared that his name was drawn into it simply because he was pushing the anti-option bill.

"I am not connected with any elevator company," he said, "do not own any elevator stock, nor have I ever owned any, except a few years ago when I was interested in the Minneapolis & Pacific railway. I believed in railroads owning the elevators and we built them along the road. Later on we had to give them up and the stockholders of the road took them receiving stock in the elevator company in proportion to the amount of their railroad stock. I sold mine within a few months and have never owned any since. As I said before it is a scheme of the Chicago gamblers and they dragged my name in to destroy my influence in favor of the anti-option bill if they could."

Mr. Washburn very naturally believes that President Harrison will be re-elected and that Knute Nelson will be the next governor. He also thinks that the Republicans will elect six out of the seven congressmen.

FELL IN A FAINT.

The Widow of John Murphy Calls at the Jail to See Houck.

The widow of John Murphy, who was killed by Frank Houck, visited the county jail today in company with her husband's father and the two fatherless little ones. She asked to see Houck and when the party reached the cell, the murderer was sitting with his back toward the bars.

"Stand up, Houck, and turn round," said an officer, and then the widow said: "You are the man who robbed my little ones of a father and killed my good husband; oh, why did you do it?" And then she fell back in a faint. The incident was a very affecting one to all concerned.

CLOAKS!

A stock so large and varied as the one we show this season makes it impossible to describe more than occasional garment.

Here are four good things far below prices quoted by competitors, yet no cheaper than the average prices in our mammoth stock;

$4.25. Black Heavy Weight Cloth Jacket, 30 inches long, fur collar and fur ornaments.	$11.50. Heavy, wide Wale black Cloth Coat, Astrakhan trimming down front; animal head ornaments.
$6.75. Black Cloth Capes, very handsomely braided and finely finished.	$12.50. 50 Seal Plush Sacques, 40 inches long, real Seal ornaments.

Every garment is made in the best possible manner, perfectly finished, and guaranteed as represented. The reason we sell them so much cheaper than our neighbors is because we buy in larger quantities, thereby getting lower prices, and we sell for less profit.

We have exceptional values in Fur Garments and in a few days will quote some prices that will excite enthusiasm.

We have a special announcement to make which will interest every dry goods purchaser.

NEW LAKE FLYER.

Chicago Shipbuilding Company Will Have it Ready For Service by June 1, 1893.

Will Be the Finest Passenger Steamer on the Lakes Not Excepting the Virginia.

The Lake Michigan and Lake Superior Transportation company have just signed the contract with the Chicago Shipbuilding company for their fleet of new steamers. The first one will be ready for service June 1, 1893. It will be one of the finest passenger steamers afloat on fresh water, equal in all respects and superior in others to the Virginia, of the Goderich line. The vessel will be constructed of steel throughout with keel 275 feet; length over all, 295 feet; beam, 42 feet; depth to spar deck, 24½ feet; depth to hurricane deck, 32 feet, and 3½ feet double water bottom for ballast. The engines will be triple expansion, 23 by 38 by 62 inches, with 36 inch stroke. There will be two double ended Scotch boilers, 11.6 by 20 feet. There will be seven watertight bulkheads—one at each end of the ship, two in the freight hold, one at each end of the boilers, and one aft of the machinery.

The steamers will be fitted out with stateroom accommodation for about 400 passengers. The passenger gangway will be broad aft of the engine on the main deck, onto a quarter deck, finished in polished mahogany, where the clerk's office, steward's office, coat rooms and baggage rooms will be located. A grand staircase will lead from this deck to the saloon deck with a double tier of state rooms on each side, making a fine apartment all finished in mahogany, lighted by a graceful dome with beveled glass. The dining saloon is placed forward on the same deck, finished in birch and will be one of the chief attractions of the steamer. It will extend the full width of the vessel, about fifty feet long, with large brass side lights and some skylight overhead, and it will be divided from the main saloon by large sliding doors with beveled glass.

The hurricane or promenade deck will be reached by a wide staircase from the main saloon by large sliding doors with beveled glass. It will be reached by a wide staircase from the main saloon, all under cover, and will be about 13½ feet wide and 200 feet long on each side of the vessel. A large parlor and music room will adorn the upper deck aft, while the smoking room for gentlemen will be forward. The furniture, bedding and general outfit will be of the very finest, all being specially designed for the magnificent new fleet.

The vessel is to be lighted throughout by electricity supplied by two dynamos —one of 500 and the other of 125 lights, furnished by two separate automatic driving engines, and separate circuits for each part of the vessel.

She will carry a steam windlass and capstan and will be fitted with two masts. Her freight capacity will be about 1500 tons and the coal bunkers 250 tons. Her speed will be 17 miles an hour, or more, and her cost will be $300,000 without the outfitting. The vessels will ply on the route between Chicago, Mackinac Island, Sault Ste. Marie and Duluth in connection with other steamers of the line.

Clear to All.

The workingmen of Duluth are specially urged to attend the political rally at the Temple tomorrow evening and hear the address of Mr. Darrow. Those of our citizens who have heard Mr. Darrow at St. Paul say that his treatment of the tariff question is such as to make that subject very clear to everyone. Instead of indulging in oratorical flourishes he gives facts and presents arguments that not only go to the bottom of the question, but present everything in a clear light.

After Cigarette Sellers.

The principal of the Monroe school called for the presence of Humane Harry Haskins yesterday to investigate the young smokers of that school. Some twenty-four boys were found with cigarettes and several others who used them. Investigation showed that the boys had purchased the cigarettes at two places—one 606 Garfield avenue and the other at a little French store near by. The proprietors were taken to the parents of the boys, forced to apologize for having sold the cigarettes, and told that a repetition of the offense would lead to fining or imprisonment.

Twenty-five Will Go.

The indications now are that about twenty-five real estate men from Duluth and a dozen from Superior will attend the national congress at Buffalo. A rate of $23 for the round trip has been secured and there will be no more than the regular rate for sleeping car accomodation. President Weil wrote the exchange here that their will be 5000 real estate men there. E. C. Holliday leaves Saturday to attend a meeting of the board of control on Monday.

The Municipal Court.

In the municipal court this morning Mike Bright and Pat Dougherty, two drunks, were committed for ten days, and Timothy Donahue was given a suspended sentence. Thomas Eide, a vag, is to be tried this afternoon. Mrs. Bresland was fined $1 for neglecting to take out a license for an intelligence office.

This afternoon the county attorney will move to dismiss the cases in the municipal court against Mat Matson and John Erickson, as the former is the man who was murdered and the latter has already been indicted for murder in the first degree by the grand jury.

NO QUORUM.

Aldermen Disposed to Dodge the Red Lake Falls Extension.

There was no meeting of the city council last evening owing to the fact that only six aldermen, President Hugo and Aldermen Long, Nelson, Thomas Weiss and Wilson were there. The others absented themselves presumably to dodge a vote on the extension of the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern franchise. Alderman Sorensen said in the afternoon that he would not be on hand and Aldermen Kennedy and Helm are said to have expressed themselves similarly. An adjournment until Monday evening was then taken.

Mr. Holmes is not asking for any extension of the time in which to complete his road. He wants an extension of the time in which he must commence work on the streets given him by the city. He wants to begin outside the city first, he says.

Mayor d'Autremont this afternoon called a special meeting of the council for tonight to consider the question of the extension of the Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern franchise.

CAVE-IN AT IRONWOOD.

Ten Men Entombed in the East Norris Mine.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 29.—A special to the News from Bessemer, Mich., says: A cave-in occurred at the East Norris mine at Ironwood at 4 o'clock this morning. Ten men are entombed and it is impossible to tell at this writing whether they can be rescued alive.

The mine is surrounded by weeping and frantic women and relatives and the scenes are pitiful. Hundreds of men are working to rescue their companions. The company is driving pipes to get air to the men.

If the water in the mine does not rise and drown the men they may be rescued. Voices can be heard at intervals.

The names of the victims are: John Johnson, miner; Abraham Thompson, miner; Frank Damshon, mine; Samuel Damshon, miner; four timbermen, names unknown; two trammers, names unknown. The skip tender is also missing, and it is feared that he is caught in the mine.

A GROCER BOYCOTTED.

The Sugar Trust Refused to Supply Him With Sugar.

BOSTON, Sept. 29.—The Advertiser says: The American Sugar Refining company, otherwise the sugar trust, has been flagrantly violating the federal anti-trust law in its dealings with M. P. Longley, a Lynn grocer, who does $200,000 worth of business every year, and whose credit is unquestioned.

The sugar trust has boycotted Mr. Longley, so that for days at a time he has been unable to supply his cu tomers with sugar. It has done this because he proposes to retail sugar at 5 cents a pound instead of 6, the card price which the trust imposes on retail dealers.

District Attorney Allen assures the Advertiser that if upon examination the evidence against the trust proves adequate, prosecution will follow. He will examine into the case at once.

The Deadlock Broken.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—The deadlock in the First district congressional convention at Easton, to nominate a successor to Congressman Henry Page, was broken at noon today. State Senator John B. Brown, of Queens Anne, was nominated to fill the unexpired term, and ex-President of the Senate Robert, of Bratton, was selected to fill the full term beginning next March. Democratic nominations in this district are equivalent to election.

A Rebel Shot.

FARGO, N. D., Sept. 29.—The wife and son of Gen. Brubaker, leader of the insurrectionists in British Honduras, have received news of his death. Gen. Brubaker was captured by the government forces and shot.

Got $20.000 Damages.

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—Henry L. Pfeffer today in the superior court secured a verdict of $20 000 against the Buffalo street railway company. Both his feet were amputated last spring, the result of being run over by a trolley car.

Riot in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—There was a riot this morning between the union and non union lumber shovers, and three of the latter are badly injured. The police restored order and arrested President McGovern, of the Lumber Shovers' union, and George Crowley, who are charged with inciting the riot.

No Cholera in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The health board this morning reports no cholera in this city. Late last night there were two suspicious deaths from symptoms resembling those of cholera. They are being investigated, but as Dr. Wilson says, they will doubtless turn out to have been caused by acute cholera morbus.

A Railroad Change.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 29.—A morning paper says that Mr. Hannaford has retired from the chief engineership of the Grand Trunk and that Joseph Hobson, engineer of the celebrated Detroit river tunnel, has been appointed in his stead. Mr. Hobson has been superintendent of the Western division.

Do not fail to attend the ladies' carnival and bazar tomorrow evening.

WAS DRIVEN FRANTIC.

PHILADELHHIA, Sept. 29.—An investigation was made by Coroner Ashbridge today into the suicide of John W. Donnelly, aged 55 years, a shoe dealer at 1438 Frankfort avenue, who fired two bullets into his stomach, while sitting in the pew of the East Baptist church, which he occupied while living.

Donnelly was a severe sufferer from neuralgia, which drove him frantic at times. Yesterday the suffering man walked into the church and finding the doors open he entered. Sitting down in the pew he fired the fatal bullet.

Workmen who were working on the church rushed to the scene and found the suicide just expiring. The dead man leaves a widow and three children. He was prominently identified with the Grand Army of the Republic, having been chaplain of Newhall post No. 7.

WRECK ON THE ERIE.

Two Men Killed and Twenty Cars Destroyed.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Sept. 29.—A bad wreck occurred on the Erie at Adrian last night resulting in the death of two men and the destruction of about twenty cars.

An extra freight took the switch at Adrian to let regular No. 12 pass. When train 12 was by and a portion of the extra was out on the main track, train No. 84, following No. 12, struck the extra in the side, making a bad smash-up.

Fireman Newman, of train No. 84, who lives here, was buried under the wreck and killed. The wreck occurred in front of the station and the building was badly damaged by flying wreckage. An unknown stranger who was standing on the platform of the depot was instantly killed by a flying timber.

The case brought against Mr. Peck by E. Ellery Anderson and others, to compel him to produce the records upon which he based his annual report, which was to have come before Justice Edwards one week from next Saturday, will be heard on Saturday, Oct. 1, at Hudson, Judge Edwards having decided to hold his special term on that date.

MAN AT THE HEAD.

Sketch of H. M. Higinbotham Who Is at the Head of World's Fair Matters.

He Has Also Devoted a Great Deal of Time to Organized Charities.

When the organization of the Chicago World's fair began there were 115 men acting for the government and forty-five for the directory. Nearly a year later they reorganized by naming eight men for each of the two bodies. By and by these sixteen managed to concentrate the executive authority in four, and since then the progress has been wonderful. These four are H. N. Higinbotham and Charles H. Schwab, of Chicago; J. W. St. Clair, of West Virginia, and George V. Massey, of Delaware, and of these the first named is the great man of the exposition.

H. N. HIGINBOTHAM.

When the committee first formed to pledge funds for Chicago called on him he took his pen and wrote, "Marshall Field & Co., $100,000." Of course he was named as one of the board of directors. He soon became president of the council of administration, and is now officially president of the World's Columbian exposition. He was born in central Illinois in 1838, and began business life as a boy in the Will County bank at Joliet. As soon as he attained his majority he was made assistant cashier of a bank at Oconto, Wis., and early in 1861 became an entry clerk for Cooley, Farwell & Co., in Chicago, but soon after entered the army.

After three years' service he sought his old employers and became bookkeeper for Field, Palmer & Leiter. His advance was so rapid that in 1878 he was a partner in the firm, and soon after the working man of the concern. In 1866 he married Miss Rachel D. Davidson, of Joliet. Besides managing an extensive business he has devoted a great deal of time to organized charities, and is now successfully directing the difficult and complicated work of the exposition.

Shakespeare's Captious Contemporaries.

Dramatic authors whose productions have been harshly treated by the critics should not be discouraged. Posterity may do them justice, as in the case of Shakespeare, all of whose contemporaries considered his plays worthless. In 1661 Evelyn reported that Shakespeare's plays "begin to disgust this refined age." Pepys preferred Hudibras to Shakespeare, and pronounced "Midsummer Night's Dream" "the most insipid, ridiculous play" he had ever seen. In 1581 Tate, a poet who afterward wore the laurel, could find no epithet sufficiently opprobrious to express his opinion of "King Lear," and so he called it simply "a thing." In Hume's condemnation Shakespeare and Bacon were yoked together as wanting in "simplicity and purity of diction."

Addison styled the plays "very faulty," and Johnson asserted, with his usual emphasis, that Shakespeare never wrote six consecutive lines "without making an ass of himself." Dryden, though not without lucid intervals of high appreciation, still regarded Shakespeare and Fletcher as "below the dullest writers of our own or any preceding age," full of "solecism of speech," "flaws of sense" and "ridiculous and incoherent stories, meanly written." Another astonishing critic was Rymer, who comes to us indorsed by Pope as "learned and strict." He says of Desdemona: "There is nothing in her which is not below any county kitchenmaid. No woman bred out of a pigsty could talk so meanly." Even as late as the Eighteenth century Steevens declared that only an act of parliament could make any one read Shakespeare's sonnets.

Fifth Avenue's Safe Electric Lights.

Fifth avenue, New York city, is to have its after dark appearance greatly improved. That aristocratic thoroughfare will be illuminated shortly with handsome electric lights on an improved system, consisting of a new style of arc lights used on a low tension circuit. The voltage is but 110, and the current of so low a tension that it will not be dangerous. Fifty cast iron poles, twenty feet in height, and each carrying two electric lamps of about 1,000 candle power, will be erected. There will be one lamp at every cross street. The poles will be ornamental in character, as will also the lamps, which will have artistic ground glass globes and brass trimmings.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

The United States is the richer by $2,000,000 in money orders never presented for payment.

A woman has invented an "emergency dress" to be used in case of fire. It is like a diver's costume in appearance, but made of asbestus cloth.

Leaden headed nails are used by some tinsmiths for roofing purposes. The last stroke flattens the head over the hole in the tin, and leaking is so prevented.

In South Greenland the color of the hair ribbon which a woman ties around her head denotes the social condition of the wearer, whether she be maid or wife or widow.

LIGHT AND AIRY.

The Plaint of the Youngest Son.

When dad has worn his pants two years
They're passed to brother John;
Then mother trims them with the shears,
And William puts them on.

When William's legs too long have grown
The trousers fall to hide 'em,
So Walter claims them for his own
And stows himself inside 'em.

Next, Sam's fat legs they close invest,
And when they won't stretch tighter
They're turned and shortened, washed and pressed,
And fixed on me—the writer.

Ma works them into rugs and caps
When I have burst the stitches.
At doomsday we shall see perhaps

The Exact Time.

Pompey is a bright negro boy, employed to do light work and run errands in a boarding house. He has learned a good many things in the course of his eight years of life, but the art of reading a clock face is not as yet completely under his control.

The expedients to which he resorts to conceal his iguorance on this and other points are many and amusing.

"What time is it, Pomp?" asked a young man, into whose room the boy had brought a hodful of coal, and who had not yet got out of bed.

Pompey studied the clock face anxiously for some seconds, and then said, in an ingratiating tone:

"It's one o' dem times dat I can' jes percisely mak' out what time it am, Mist' Wilkins, sah. But one ob de hands is pintin todes you, sah, an de udder is pintin right todes me, sah, an I reckon you know 'zackly what time dat am."—Youth's Companion.

Boston's Woe.

Weep, weep, O Boston! Low upon the ground
Your colors trail,
Sadder your lot than when the Harvard boys
Are whipped by Yale.

Bend low your head, O proud Athenia!
Bow down with shame!
No more admiring multitudes repeat
Your glorious name.

Let bells toll forth in dismal requiem
Your black despair.
Let every flag half masted on its staff
Droop in the air!

For from the south, from distant drear lagoon
The news is clicked,
That your own John, your own great John, has asked,
"Say, am I licked?"
—Boston Courier.

No Use for It.

Agent—I have here, madam, one of the greatest inventions of the century. It is known as the everlasting suspender. By the aid of this marvelous invention no buttons are required. Think, madam, of never having to sew a button on your husband's trousers.

Agent—Consider, madam; reflect——

There's comfort in the house once more,
It seems like home again;
To take a nap when dinner's o'er

HE IS NOT AFRAID.

A New York Doctor Who Has Left a Large Practice to Study Cholera.

The Doctor Says That There Is No Pain Connected With Asiatic Cholera.

DR. JOHN M. BYRON, the New York expert on cholera and yellow fever, now working in the quarantine on Swinburne island, is but thirty-three years old and has had the experience of an average physician's lifetime. He is a native of Peru, studied medicine at Lima and received his degree as soon as his age would permit; he was even then an authority on yellow fever and soon went to Havana to treat patients during an epidemic there.

DR. JOHN M. BYRON.

At the age of twenty-four he was in charge of the great city hospital. There was an outbreak of cholera in 1884, and he studied it with such skill and success that he was soon recognized as an expert in bacteriology: After a season in the hospitals of Paris and another in those of Berlin he located in Naples, Italy, and practiced general medicine three years. He speaks Spanish and Italian with equal fluency. English fairly well and French and German well enough to deal with patients who speak no other language. He married in Italy, and therefore Italian is his family language, so to speak.

From Naples he came to New York and was soon made a lecturer in the University medical college and chief of the bacteriological department of the Loomis laboratory. All this, and some very profitable business outside, he abandoned to attend to the sick on Swinburne island and study the cholera germs. His pecuniary sacrifice is great, as the state pays but a trifle compared with the rewards of a good private practice. In a recent interview Dr. Byron made statements rather surprising to most people. In answer to a question as to the pain suffered by cholera patients, he said:

"No; there is no pain connected with Asiatic cholera. That is a popular fallacy. This is one of the things which distinguish cholera Asiatica from cholera morbus. In the latter the pain comes at once. In true cholera the patient becomes apathetic and suffers hardly any pain. It is really an easy death to die. Cholera patients die from asphyxiation. The terrible vomiting and discharges thin the blood so greatly that what material is left in the blood coagulates and refuses to circulate. This produces an excess of carbonic acid gas in the system which causes asphyxiation. This same carbonic acid gas is what numbs the pain in a manner and renders the patients to a large extent insensible to pain. The only pain during the progress of the disease consists in cramps in the calves of the legs, which are due to reflex action. The cramps in the bowels do not begin till the end when death approaches."

Dr. Byron must remain where he is, a voluntary exile, until all danger is past, but he is confident that will be in six weeks at the furthest. The danger most to be guarded against, he thinks, will come next spring when the growing season begins. Extreme care will then be necessary.

Well Housed in Chicago.

The subcommittee of the Democratic national committee which has charge of work in the west has located its headquarters in the big Unity building at 79 Dearborn street, Chicago. This is between Randolph and Washington, one block distant from the state headquarters in the Sherman House. It is only a coincidence that the Unity is owned by Judge Altgeld, Democratic candidate for governor, for the committee tried hard to get another place equally suitable.

The committee has a suite of six rooms, four on the banking floor of the big building, the floor where the somewhat noted marble balcony, encircles the rotunda. First of these is the room for the general public, which is 47 by 31 feet in area and supplied with all sorts of reading matter.

THE UNITY BUILDING.

Off this are three smaller rooms from which literature will be distributed. Away up on the ninth floor, however, are the two commodious rooms in which the committee will do its hard thinking and important consulting. Messrs. Don M. Dickinson, of Michigan; Ben J. Cable, of Illinois, and E. C. Wall, of Wisconsin, will have desks there, and each will supervise the work of his own state.

Their lieutenants will be many, but the force of clerks will be small, as is plain from the small amount of room engaged. The great work will consist in disseminating tariff literature and arranging the dates for speakers. The rooms are leased till the close of the year.

Put Her Foot in It.

A mare belonging to a resident of Ripley, Me., was lately found in a pasture with its hind foot caught in her mouth in such a manner that it took several men to extricate it.

THE JEWEL CASKET.

Silver candle extinguishers are the prettiest of trifles, and the snuffer trays things of beauty.

Two white enamel buttons with silver flower-de-luce for their ornament have been observed as bracelet clasps.

Shell designs are prominent in silver. A new bowl for cracked ice, and in large sizes for fruit, has its surface composed of shell like flutes.

Necklaces of tiny beads of different colors separated by a large gold bead have shell-like forms of gold closely attached at intervals instead of pendants.

A new spoon has a heart shaped bowl. The handle is a silver arrow on which perches a winged Cupid. These would make suitable gifts to bridesmaids.

The clover is one of the prettiest designs in the new enameled spoons. The red, cornlike bloom finishes the tips, with the stalk and folded leaves for the stem.

A diamond tiara simulates a ribbon tied here and there in a slight bowknot. Brooches are several loops tied in a bow, one set of loops being much larger than the other.

Ribbon effects are followed in diamond jewelry. The most prominent of the new styles consists of long, slender lines of diamonds thickly set, doubled and gathered into loops.

The fall sees no diminution in the popularity of the bowknot. On the contrary, as chatelaine pins they are in greater vogue than ever, and the preparations for the coming season are made on a more sumptuous scale.—Jewelers' Circular.

POSTOFFICE DONT'S.

Don't mail any letter until you are sure that it is properly stamped.

Don't place the address so that there will be no room for the postmark.

Don't fail to notify your postmaster of any change in your address.

Don't delay the delivery of any mail matter that you may take out for another.

Don't mail any letter until you are sure that it is completely and properly addressed.

Don't wrap a parcel in such manner that the wrapper may become separated from the contents.

Don't fail to sign your letters in full, so that if they reach the dead letter office they may be promptly returned.

Don't trust to the fact that you are an "old resident" or "well known citizen," but have your letter addressed in full.

Don't fail in the hurry of business to write the name of the state you intend, and not your own—a very common error.

Don't write on the envelope "in haste," "care of postmaster," etc. It does no good and tends to confusion in the rapid handling of mail matter.

Don't, when you fail to receive an expected letter, charge the postal service with its loss, until you have learned from your correspondent all the facts in regard to its mailing.—Golden Days.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

Germany has twenty-one universities with 28,515 students.

Belgium has had medical school inspection at the hands of the physician of the poorhouse for forty-six years.

There are more than 300 schools adopting the school savings bank idea. Some 28,000 scholars have deposited more than $140,000 in seven years.

F. A. Dalrymple, for five years past on the faculty of Princeton, has been selected by the trustees of Galesville college as president of that institution.

The Chautauqua Literary and Scientific circle, class of '92, will record between 2,500 and 3,000 graduates. With the addition of this class to the ranks, the whole number of graduates will exceed 30,000.

The Berkeley school, of Boston, sent its pupils this year to eleven different collegiate institutions, six of them colleges for young ladies. These young women, admitted mostly by certificate, were trained coeducationally with young men, obliged to take the tests at Harvard and elsewhere and were judged by the same rules.

ATCHISON MUSINGS.

No woman who has children regards her life as quite a failure.

A man can learn more in one day's trouble than he can in a year of joy.

A man who allows his head to be turned by every compliment paid him soon has it twisted off.

A man will ease his conscience over the way he earns a dollar by resolving to spend it the right way.

A wolf makes a mistake in wearing sheep's clothing. He never deceives any one, and the sheep skin never fits him.

Every task you neglect when you go away on a vacation meets you at the depot with all its friends and relatives when you come back.

A little of the kindness that is shown sick people when it is known they are going to die if given them sooner would perhaps save them from dying.—Atchison Globe.

FURS!

Although the Fur season has not yet fully opened, still we have already sold a remarkably large number of Fur Coats. It is never a good plan to put off buying your Fur Goods until the season opens, for when the weather stiffens up and the demand for Furs is great, prices usually advance, besides you have a much better assortment now from which to select.

We placed our order for Furs with the manufacturer early in May—having them made up specially for us. We had them shipped, in our store marked, and placed in stock before the recent advance in Fur Goods, so that our prices are now Lower than any house in Minnesota.

A man contemplating buying a Fur Coat should come in now and make his selection. Pay a deposit on the coat and have it laid away. The garment will not then be subject to any advance that will surely come in Furs with the opening of the season. Cold weather and a brisk demand for Fur Goods.

Our Fur Department!

This season is the most complete in the city. Fur Coats in Dog, Goat, Coon, Astrachan, Mink, Beaver, Otter and Seal. We have paid particular attention in selecting our Fur Coats to the wants of Policemen, Street Car Men, Teamsters, Boatmen, and all those who are exposed to the inclemency of our winters.

Good, Warm, Comfortable Fur Coats:

$12, $15, $18, $20, $25 AND $30

Up to the Mink, Beaver, Otter and Seal at $75 to $500.

A man who wants a Fur Coat and buys it without seeing our line will loose many of his hard earned dollars. Remember what we are telling you.

The next case before Judge Ensign will be that of the State vs. Ed Norton for keeping a house of ill fame near Stony Brook. The Houck case will go on at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

Getting Ready.

In doing things, some always try and never do, some half way do and think 'tis done, some wonder why 'tis not done even though they did not try to do.

J. E. Haynie & Co. have in a short time made a reputation for doing what they do well, and judging from the way they are now preparing for their opening on Tuesday, Oct. 4, it will be quite a nice blow-out.

March—"Father of Victory"	Ganne
Waltz—"American Beauty"	Aronsons
Characteristic—"Cocoanut Dance"	Herman
Selection—"La Cigale"	Audran

Waltz—"The Bogie Man"	From "Sinbad"
Overture—"Life a Dream"	Eilenberg
Characteristic—"Darky Tickle"	Hunt

THE DARK SIDE

Would-be Rbobers Blew Up a House With Gunpowder, But the Inmates Escaped.

Two Texas Ranchmen Were Waylaid By Cowboys, Shot Down and Afterwards Robbed.

A Hotel In Denver Burned, Evidently to Hide the Murder of Gustave Kearse.

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—A diabolical wholesale murder and robbery was attempted at Grand Range, three miles from this city, at 2 a. m. yesterday. The Grand Range is an extensive farm in the suburbs, owned by Ferdinand Bigras, a wealthy farmer of Laval county. The manor house was occupied by him, his brother Eli, his mother, a servant and two children. At the hour named all were sleeping.

Bigras was awakened by a terrific explosion to find the house crumbling about him. He escaped to find it a complete ruin. Neighbors, aroused by the explosion, came to his assistance and the other members of the family were rescued alive from the ruins, none being fatally injured.

An earthquake was first thought of but daylight showed the house had been blown up by gunpowder or dynamite. The farmer was currently reported to have a large sum of money in the house.

MURDERED BY COWBOYS.

Two Texas Ranchmen Waylaid, Shot and Robbed.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Sept. 30.—Joseph Koon and Charles Mosley, two prominent ranchmen living near St. Heidery, this county, were murdered Wednesday by two Mexican cowboys. The murdered men were waylaid and shot down and afterwards robbed.

The Mexicans were overtaken by a posse of officers and both were lodged in jail. There was much talk of lynching the men, and had it not been that the jail was well guarded an attempt would have been made. Koon and Mosely were very popular and their friends are greatly excited over the assassination.

PERISHED IN THE FLAMES.

A Fire In Denver Started to Conceal a Murder.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 30.—The Buena Vista hotel, a two-story frame building, at the corner of Sixth and Lawrence streets, was destroyed by fire this morning. Gustave Kearse, a lodger, perished in the flames and Anna Gunderson, A. McDougall and Tom Arnold were severely burned. The latter may die.

The flames appeared simultaneously in several parts of the building, and only the brave work of Patrick Mitchell, who first awoke, saved those who escaped. The forty lodgers were quickly aroused and they had to jump from the windows as the stairways were impassable. In twenty minutes after the fire was discovered the structure was in ruins.

Mitchell, whose bravery saved a score of lives, broke both arms and both legs in leaping from a veranda when his work had been accomplished. The hotel was an old landmark. The loss will amount to $10,000.

Chief of Police Farlet is of the opinion that the fire was of an incendiary nature, and that the design was murder and robbery. Kearse had a large sum of money in gold and notes on his person, no trace of which can be found on his remains. He was going to start for Chicago today, where he had completed arrangements for the purchase of a saloon.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

A Noted French Dramatist Has Shot Himself.

He was born in Paris Nov. 10, 1828, and has been known as a successful dramatist for many years. He was decorated with the legion of honor in 1864. Among his noted productions have been "Orpheus Aux Enfers," with music by Offenbach, which was produced in 1856; "Voie Sacree," 1859; "Pont Des Soupirs," 1862; "La Belle Poule," and numerous other pieces.

GROUND TO DEATH.

Probable Fate of Ten Men in the Norrie Mine.

ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special to The Herald.]—Abraham Thompson has just been taken out of the Norrie mine at Ironwood alive and unharmed, after thirty hours' entombment.

From his story the other ten men were in another chamber and were probably ground to death under hundreds of thousands of tons of rock and ore. Efforts to reach them are still kept up.

A drift forty feet long, through rock and ore, has already been driven by the rescuing party. The men working in this part are themselves in great danger. The ground in which they are working is likely to start to run at any time, overwhelming them as well as the unfortunate prisoners below.

This is Pleasing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Mrs. McKee said this morning that Mrs. Harrison had passed a more restful ntght than any since she was so extremely ill at Loon Lake.

NO STATE TICKET.

South Carolina Republicans Complain of Unjust Registration.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 30.—The state Republican convention, which met here yesterday, after many wrangling scenes, came to a close at 4:45 this morning. The platform is as follows:

We do hereby reaffirm our allegiance to the principles of the national union Republican party, as set forth in the platform adopted at the Minneapolis convention; that we most heartily endorse and ratify the nominees of that convention, Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reid, and pledge to them our unswerving fidelity and support, and we hereby declare that with a "free ballot and a fair count" the state of South Carolina would be placed in the column of Republican states by a majority of 40,000 votes; that we hereby tender our most sincere sympathy to President Harrison because of the illness of Mrs. Harrison and our hopes for her speedy restoration to health.

The following presidential electors were chosen: State at large, John R. Talbert, W. D. Crum; First district, B. H. Williams; Second district, James Power; Third district, J. W. Morris; Fourth district, Lawson W. Melton; Fifth district, W. E. Berkin; Sixth district, M. W. Monsoon; Seventh district, J.W. Collins.

The committee reported a resolution to the effect that in view of a large majority of the Republican voters of the state having been deprived of the opportunity to vote by the unjust registration and election laws, it was deemed inexpedient to put forward a state ticket.

PRESBYTERIAN COUNCIL.

Dr. Talbot Chambers President of the International Gathering.

TORONTO, Sept. 30.—The closing general session of the great Pan-Presbyterian council took place this morning with Dr. Cochrane of Bedford, Ont., in the chair. Dr. Talbot Chambers, of New York, the newly elected president, was introduced and read an excellent paper upon the doctrinal agreement of the Reformed and Presbyterian churches.

A resolution of thanks was tendered Dr. Blaikie of Scotland, the venerable retiring president, and one of the fathers of the alliance, for the work he had done in connection therewith. The sessions of the council close tonight with a mass valedictory gathering, to be addressed by representatives of each hemisphere.

THE WISCONSIN GERRYMANDER.

Vilas Makes a Motion That is Not Likely to be Granted.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 30.—Senator Vilas made a motion in the supreme court this morning for permission to interpose an answer in the gerrymander suit No. 2 recently won by the Republicans. He made a brief argument to the effect that the court, in its adverse ruling, had not given consideration to the matter of legislative discretion in making the apportionment, and that the fact had not by him been impressed upon the attention of the court.

The latter body took the motion under advisement but it will probably not be granted on the theory that that question has already been passed upon by the court in the decision recently rendered.

A BLAZE IN TOWER.

The Oldest Building in the Town Burned.

TOWER, Minn., Sept. 30.—[Special to The Herald.]—Fire broke out at 3:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Howe Lumber company's lake mill. It was confined to the blacksmith shop. It started in the charcoal shed and probably owed its origin to a spark from the mill smokestack.

The company's loss will reach the neighborhood of $2,500, and consists largely of logging sleighs, camp tools and their well equipped blacksmith shop. The building destroyed was the oldest building in Tower, being at one time the old Minnesota Iron company's store.

Sons of Temperance.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The international division of Sons of Temperance met today in the concert hall of the Metropolitan opera house. There was a large attendance of delegates. The following officers were elected to serve during 1893 and 1894: Most worthy patriarch, Charles A. Everett, of St. John, N. B.; most worthy associate patriarch, William A. Armstrong, of Washington; most worthy scribe, B. R. Jewell, of Southampton, N. H.

Too Busy to Talk.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The meeting of the Democratic state committee tonight has brought a number of prominent politicians to the city. Senator Hill arrived here last night and today has been in conference with his friends at the Hotel Normandie. He declined to be interviewed and said he was too busy to talk for publication.

An Alarmist View.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A dispatch from Calcutta to the Times says that the native press takes an alarmist view regarding the harvest prospects in Southeast Bengal. Recent official reports stated that rain was much wanted in Burdwan, Hooghly and Midanpore, but since then rain has fallen.

A Grand Stand Burned.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The grand stand at the Aintree race course was burned yesterday. The prince of Wales' box and the stables adjoining were also burned.

An Embezzler Released.

VIENNA, Sept. 30.—Count Gersdorff, a member of the Prussian diet, who was arrested about two months ago on the charge of embezzlement, was released yesterday.

A Floor Fell.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—At 11 o'clock this morning the timbers in the second floor of the new building No's 52 and 54 Canal street, fell, carrying with them Dennis Nuto and Pat Horan. Both men are thought to be fatally injured.

AFTER THE TRUST

Application Made in Chicago for a Receiver for the Big Gas Trust.

Charge Is Made That the Companies Are Subjected to Undue Outside Force.

It Is Also Alleged That the Co[illegible]e Proposes to Make Extortiona[illegible] Rates.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—A demand has finally been made for the appointment of a receiver for the gas trust. In the circuit court to-day Thomas H. Martin filed a lengthy bill against the Chicago Gas Light and Coke company, the People's Light and Coke company, the Consumers' Gas company, the Equitable Gas Light and Fuel company, and the Hyde Park Gas company, the Lake Gas company and the Fidelity Insurance trust and Safe Deposit company of Philadelphia.

The court is asked to appoint a receiver for these companies, whose duty it shall be to take possession of all the assets, franchises and privileges belonging to the various concerns and continue to manufacture gas under the direction of the court; also to enjoin the Fidelity Insurance trust and Safe Deposit company from acting as trustee under the contracts under which the companies were consolidated.

The court is further asked to cancel the stocks held under these contracts and to place them in the hands of a receiver. Meanwhile an injunction is sought to restrain any disposition of the stock.

Allegations are made in the bill that, by reason of the different companies being controlled by the trust, it is impossible for them to discharge their public duties except at the direction of an outside force, and that it is the design of the combination to limit the supply and greatly enhance its price over its actual worth to consumers.

ANOTHER LIBERAL VICTORY.

An English Contest Fought on the Home Rule Issue.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The election in South Bedfordshire to the seat made vacant by the promotion of C. Flower to a peerage has resulted in a Liberal victory, Mr. Whitbread, the Liberal candidate, receiving 4838 votes to 4596 for Col. Duke, Liberal Unionist. In the late general election Mr. Flower, Liberal, received 5296 votes to 4277 for Col. Duke.

A deal of bitterness was shown in the contest just closed, and women, young and middle aged, took an active part on both sides. Maj. Cooper-Cooper, lord of the manor of Toddington, near Luton, the chief town of the constituency, claimed that the green at Toddington was private property and tried to prevent the Liberals from assembling there. They held a meeting on the green notwithstanding.

The home rule van made a seven days' round of the constituency and the contest was largely fought on the Irish question. The Liberals are therefore deeply gratified with the result. Samuel Howard Whitbread is a son of Samuel Whitbread, who has represented Bradford for forty years and who married a daughter of the earl of Chichester.

AN ATROCIOUS OUTRAGE.

PRAIRIE GROVE, Ark., Sept. 30.—News has been received here of an atrocious outrage on a 12-year-old girl at Winslow, eighteen miles from here, yesterday morning.

A man named Bill Wilkey, married and father of three children, criminally assaulted the little daughter of a neighbor. He escaped, but later in the day was captured by a posse of neighbors. They secured a physician and at the muzzles of their Winchesters compelled him to emasculate the rapist.

May Disfranchise Thousands.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—Judge Castleman of the criminal court, since his appointment succeeding the late Judge Normile, has come to the conclusion that there is a serious question as to the right of his court to make citizens of foreigners. Judge Castleman has submitted the question to the circuit attorney. In case that Judge Castleman is correct in his opinion thousands of voters will be disfranchised.

A Murderous Woman.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 30.—A special from Gallipolis, Ohio, says: Mrs. James Pake, who lives across the river from here, became incensed yesterday at a remark made by her neighbor, Charles Bippers, and taking a shotgun went to his house and killed his two children who were playing in the front yard. She has been arrested.

May Collect $100.000.

A. L. Langellier will go to Buffalo to the real estate congress. In 1888 there was a prize of $100,000 offered to the person whose plan for utilizing the water power at Niagara should be adopted. Mr. Langellier submitted one, which is the very plan now being used. He does not expect to collect the $100,000 on this trip, but if it is lying around loose, he would not be amiss to capturing it.

Another Mining Company.

Articles of incorporation of the Oliver Mining company were filed with Register Shephard today. The capital is $1,200,000 and the incorporators are H. W. Oliver, H. R. Rea and C. D. Fraser, of Pittsburg; G. E. Tener and E. D. Reis, of Allegheny City, Pa., and Edward Florada, of Duluth.

IS NEARLY EIGHTY

A Wealthy Brooklyn Octogenarian Who Has Some Decided and Pronounced Opinions.

His Great Erudition and Knowledge On Almost Every Subject Under the Sun.

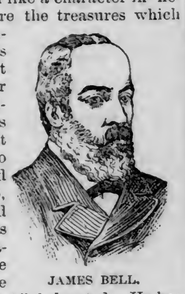
Mr. James Bell, according to a writer in a New York paper, is one of Brooklyn's most remarkable citizens—remarkable by reason of his erudition and knowledge on almost every subject under the sun; by his wealth, which is reported to be fabulously great, and by his youthful interest in current affairs, although his years number nearly eighty. He owns a handsome residence on Sands street, but has devoted many years to travel, and as a result his house is filled with rare paintings and bronzes, cabinets of jewels, a wonderful organ built into the drawing room and a library of music and books which is estimated as being worth over $100,000.

To read of Mr. Bell's possession makes him seem like a character in fiction, so varied are the treasures which he has accumulated during his lifetime. He not only is the owner of a church—although he does not believe in it—but he also owns an island (Bell's island), which is situated twenty-five miles below New Haven, and there his summer home "The Owl's Nest," is located. He has also founded a town—Belleville—near Detroit. Mr. Bell has always been possessed of apparently unlimited wealth, and he has therefore had plenty of leisure time to devote to his favorite pastime, study and research into matters both ancient and modern. His views on marriage are very pronounced, an article of his reading:



JAMES BELL.

From analogy I do not see why marriage should be exempt from the vicissitudes which attend business affairs or that the failures in it should far outnumber the successes. But this fact is by no means a disparagement of marriage; just as failures in business are no argument against business in general. Failures in ordinary business are mostly owing to bad calculations or too sanguine views, too much credulity or trustfulness in human nature. For precisely the same reasons marriage is much more likely to be a failure.

Mr. Bell has no love for John Calvin and his doctrines, and has declared his hostility in print, but he also asserts that "I have never in my life written a word against religion; indeed I am the last person in the world to do so. I merely venture to speak my objections to the confounding of religion with mere ignorant beliefs. The antiquity of these does not in my eyes confer any merit upon them. I reject with a feeling of perfect security ancient religious beliefs as well as ancient astronomical beliefs. Why should I accept the Mosaic astronomy or the Ptolemaic system? I respect both. Six thousand years from their period the principle of gravitation was discovered. Progress has been made in astronomy. Am I to force myself to believe that progress cannot be made in religious ideas? Surely not. Ignorance may be the mother of devotion, but devotion is not religion; otherwise the savage African, humbling himself before his fetich of colored rags, is as pious and religious as any of the saints of the calendar. The religion of creeds and professions of faith, in my view, leads in directions that eventually undermine religion. Charity is lost sight of; bigotry, fanaticism and merciless cruelty take its place. Instead of religion, behold hypocrisy, pharisaism and the rivalry of contending factions eager to gain adherents!"

One of the old gentleman's great fads is sacred music, and his collection of compositions of Bach, Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert and other celebrities is large. The catalogue of it is in six volumes folio of 500 pages each. There is music of all nations—of all times, ancient and modern. There are over 1,200 pieces of Irish music, at least 600 of Schubert's, and so on.

In spite of Mr. Bell's pronounced views on many subjects he is a delightful entertainer and witty conversationist. An afternoon passed in his library is like a visit to some wonderful world of books, and his residence is a mine of art treasures and valuable curios from all parts of the world.

Advance In Price of Bonds.

The consolidated interior public debt of Guatemala amounts to $6,395,062.04. The improvement in the public estimate of the value of those bonds, as well as the rapid development and advancement of the country generally, can be appreciated when it is known that while they were quoted at from 20 to 25 per cent. of their original par value in 1877 they have now risen to 90 per cent., which, considering the price at which they were issued, may be considered at or above par.

A Good Month's Record.

During the month ended June 30, 1892, 993 vessels of 338,500 tons arrived at Montevideo, and 1,002 vessels of 389,213 tons left that port. The custom house receipts during the same period amounted to $623,614.

How Salty Win Out.

Used to think that luck wuz luck and nothin else but luck—
It made no diff'rence how or when or where or why it struck;
But sev'ral years ago I changt my mind, an now proclaim
That luck's a kind uv science—same as any other game;
It happened out in Denver in the spring of eighty, when
Salty teched a humpback an win out ten.

An natural-like he fell into the good ole Tribune ways;
So every Sunday evenin he would sit into the game
Which in this crowd of thoroughbreds I think I need not name,
An there he'd sit until he rose, an when he rose he wore

But once there came a powerful change; one sollum Sunday night
Occurred the tidle wave that put ole Salty out o' sight!
He win on deuce an ace an jack—he win on king an queen—
Cliff Bill allowed the like uv how he win wuz never seen!
An how he done it wuz revealed to all us fellers when
He said he teched a humpback to win out ten.

There must be somethin in it, for he never win afore,
An when he told the crowd about the humpback, how they swore!
For every sport allows it is a losin game to buck
An there is no denyin luck was nowhere in it when
Salty teched a humpback an win out ten.

I've had queer dreams, an seen queer things, an allus tried to do
The thing that luck apparently intended f'r me to;
Cats, funerils, cripples, beggars have I treated with regard,
An charity subscriptions have hit me powerful hard;
But what's the use uv talkin? I say an say again,
You've got to tech a humpback to win out ten!

So, though I used to think that luck wuz lucky, I'll allow
That luck, for luck, agin a hump ain't nowhere in it now!
An, though I can't explain the whys an wherefores, I maintain
There must be somethin in it when the tip's so straight an plain,

A Newspaper Man in the Field.

The Republicans of Chicago have completed their nominations for congressmen, and in the Third district their candidate is a journalist and a "Scotchman caught young," as Dr. Johnson said, for he has lived in Chicago since he was seven years old. Hon. Thomas C. MacMillan was born in 1850 at Stranraer, Scotland, and taken by his parents to Chicago in 1857. There he acquired a common school education and made some progress in learning the trade of a machinist, but left it for a course in the Chicago university. In 1873 he became a reporter on The Inter Ocean, and in 1875 went with the exploring expedition to the Black Hills. He also accompanied General Crook's command in its operations against the Sioux, and his correspondence with The Inter Ocean attracted wide attention. In 1878 he went to Europe, and after two years' travel became one of the editorial staff of The Inter Ocean, a position he held till he entered the race for congress. He has been an active man in many local matters, especially in education, and in 1885 was elected to the lower house of the state legislature. Two years later he was chosen to the senate, and his term has just expired.

WATLINGS ISLAND.

Walter Wellman Tells How He Explored the Bahamas and Settled the Dispute.

The Expedition Which Was Sent By the Chicago Herald and Was Successful.

In May, 1891, the editor of the Chicago Herald wired me at Washington, "Can you find the spot where Columbus discovered America and mark it with a memorial?" My reply was, "Will try." If it had been a request to find the north pole or capture a mermaid I suppose the answer would have been the same. The newspaper correspondent is not surprised at anything.

WALTER WELLMAN.

The plan of The Herald was easy to understand. For centuries the identity of the island which Columbus first landed upon had remained unknown. The quadricentennial of the discovery of the New World was about to be celebrated in Chicago with a great exposition, and The Herald thought it proper that the spot at which occurred the most tremendous event in history should be sought out and appropriately marked.

This was a queer task, but a fascinating one. I went at it in characteristic American fashion—that is, jumped at it. I ransacked the Congressional library and other libraries. I cabled to London for a book which was not to be found in America. I procured from the hydrographic office charts of the Bahamas made by our government and the British admiralty.

Night and day study of the mystery of the discovery quickly showed these facts: In all history there is nothing that throws light upon the landfall save the journal kept by Columbus himself. Five islands had been put forward as the real San Salvador, and hundreds of books and pamphlets written in support of these theories. The correct theory must be based upon two conditions: The island itself must have certain features described by Columbus—lagoon, reefs, harbor hard by a headland through which the sea had cut its way, etc.—and it must lie at certain distances and in certain directions from five other islands visited and described by Columbus. As to the latter condition, inspection of the charts showed Watlings to be the only one that would fit the geometrical lines of Columbus' first voyage through the Bahamas. If it contained the physical features which Columbus had found in his San Salvador, then the mystery was solved. Oddly enough, the learned historians, geographers and cartographers who had supported the claims of the rival islands had not taken the trouble to visit the region of which they discoursed. Had they done so their controversy might have come to an end long ago.

Early in June our expedition sailed from New York. We went by Ward line steamer Santiago to Nassau, the capital of the Bahamas, having on board in addition to Charles Lederer, the famous artist of the Chicago Herald, a stonemason, a marble globe, a memorial tablet, thirty barrels of cement, a man servant, a photographic outfit and sundry boxes, barrels, demijohns and bottles containing the necessaries of life.

At Nassau we had a narrow escape. The governor of the Bahamas was to leave for England within an hour or so after our arrival, and without his authority we could do nothing. An hour of hustling, the assistance of the American consul and a letter which I had brought from Sir Julian Pauncefote, British minister at Washington, and Governor Shea gave us a letter commanding all the local officials of the Bahamas to place themselves at our command. Lucky for us that we caught kindly Governor Shea. The lieutenant governor, who came into power the minute the governor sailed, was against us. 'Impertinent, presumptuous Yankees!" he exclaimed; "to think they can come down here and in a few weeks settle one of the great mysteries of history!" If the lieutenant governor had had his way we should have been sent back to New York quicker.

Watlings was 200 miles away. We had decided that if a visit to Watlings produced the physical evidence necessary to establish its claims beyond doubt, well and good. If not, we were to study the other islands in the order of their theoretical probability. How to get to Watlings was the question. In the harbor were sloops, yachts and schooners galore. One smelled of her last cargo, Jamaica rum; another of sponges, a third of fish, a fourth of poultry. The cabins of all were mere cells. And it was the season of the year when calms reigned for days at a time. The only steam vessel in port was the steamship tender, a crude craft with a bottom as flat as a street car, keelless and not lovely. Besides she cost a pretty penny. But we bothered the expense and took her, hove into her our cement and supplies, employed some more masons with their tools, bought half a ton of precious ice, hired "Sandy," the most famous pilot of the Bahamas; borrowed an American flag of the consul, and with the stars and stripes flying at masthead steamed away.

A day and a night of alternating calm and storm, through rocky passages and over dangerous shoals, and we were at Cat island, which Washington Irving made famous and our old geographies solemnly confirmed as the San Salvador of Columbus. For half a day we steamed along the coast of Cat island, and I examined it very carefully. It bears no resemblance whatever to the island which Columbus described in his journal. For fifty years it has been a San Salvador under false pretenses.

In the afternoon we reached Watlings. Palm trees and hazy vistas, thatched huts and outlying reefs over which the surf broke lazily marked its shores. A boat at once put off to us. It contained all the officials of the island—the local magistrate, the port officer, the postmaster, the sheriff, the colonel of the militia and many more—all in the person of Captain Maxwell Nairn, the only white resident of the island, a veritable Pooh Bah, monarch of a coral isle. His salary is $200 a year, and he has been there thirty years.

Captain Nairn became our guide, counselor, friend and foeman. With him we explored the island. A coral rock it is, a dozen miles long and half as broad, containing large lagoons of brackish water, covered with tropical vegetation, nearly surrounded by reefs. Eight hundred negroes live here, tilling altogether probably a score of acres of land, subsisting principally on fish and other sea food. They are an honest, pious, temperate people. Their chief failing is a predisposition toward piracy, and woe to the cargo of the ship that is wrecked upon their shores. This piratical tendency they came naturally by, for this coral island was once the rendezvous of infamous Blue Beard, and some of these poor people are no doubt his direct descendants.

But I could see little in this island save Christopher Columbus. At every turn the great discoverer was suggested. The salt lagoon appeared to echo back his name; the sands of the shore seemed to bear the impress of his feet; the surf breaking over the reefs chanted the "Te Deum" in imitation of Columbus himself. The spirit of Columbus dominates everything in Watlings, overshadows everything, leaves nothing else to be thought of or written about.

And no wonder. Here was everything that Columbus described in his journal—the "large lagoon in the middle of the island," the luxuriant verdure, the "reefs running all round that island," the hills near the shore, the "piece of land like an island, yet which is not an island, but could easily be made one," as an admirable sight for a fort; the harbor lying hard by, in which "all the ships of Christendom could lie." All these and many more of the things which Columbus had described we found, and at first knew instinctively, and later proved to a mathematical certainty, that this was the birthplace of the New World.

A little bay, two miles from the "piece of land like an island," I chose after much exploration as the very spot at which the landing was made. That this island was the San Salvador of Columbus I know; that this pretty bay, with its overhanging headland and shining beach, was the more particular scene of the discovery I believe. In the nature of things it cannot be proved, though there is much in its favor. Near it is a high hill which Columbus probably first saw in the moonlight of that fateful morning. It is the first bit of coast to the south, free enough from reefs to permit safe landing. It is at a point whence Columbus would have rowed "north northeasterly to see the other side of the island," as he says he did the second morning after his arrival, on this occasion discovering the "piece of land like an island" and the wonderful harbor "in which the water is still as in a well."

On the promontory which lifted its head above the little bay we erected a memorial. It was constructed of coral limestone found hard by. Thirty native workmen were employed cutting roads with their machetes, bringing forward materials, mixing mortar and carrying cement up the hillside. Skillful boatmen brought supplies from the steamer through the dangerous coral reef. The American flag floated from a staff as we worked, and the monument grew day by day. The sun beat with tropical fierceness; our drinking water was dipped out of the hollows of the rocks, warm and brackish. But no one fell ill, and finally the work was finished. It had been well done. Plenty of cement bound the stones firmly together. The result was beautiful. In the coral limestone are all the tints of the rainbow, all the marine forms. Land and sea together had built a memorial to Columbus, not the most expensive in the world nor the least artistic. We dedicated it with prayer and addresses. Magistrate Nairn watches over it week by week. A recent letter from him informs me that the natives under his leadership will celebrate Discovery Day at the base of the simple memorial which bears this inscription in marble:

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Sept. 30.—The area of low barometer which was north of Minnesota yesterday morning has moved east and is now north of lower Canada and moving eastward beyond the reach of observations.

An area of high barometer covers the Southern states and another is advancing down from the Northwest, but as all the reports from this section are missing this morning the extent of it cannot be seen.

Yesterday was a continuation of the dry, cloudless days of the past week. With the exception of a light shower at Helena, Mont., and Lander, Wyo., there was no rainfall, and the present outlook is not favorable for any today.

The temperature here yesterday reached the same point that it did Tuesday, 82°, which is 17° higher than the average for this time of year. The lowest last night was 64°, and at 7 o'clock this morning it stood at 68°, which was the warmest reported by any station.

DULUTH, Sept. 30.—Continued fair, with a probability of thunder storm this evening; temperature falling slowly; southwest winds shifting to west and north.

B. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Minnesota: Generally fair; cooler Saturday morning, except in extreme Northwest portion; northerly winds, becoming variable. For Wisconsin: Generally fair and cooler; winds becoming west to north.

A GREAT NUMBER.

The Saturday Herald's popularity with both readers and advertisers is ever increasing, and the result is that tomorrow's issue will comprise sixteen pages, possibly more. It will be the largest regular daily edition of any paper issued in Duluth, and its size is necessitated by the demands of the enterprising merchants who long ago discovered that it is the best advertising medium at the head of the lakes.

But the business announcements of the merchants—interesting though they may be—will not be the only attractive features of the Saturday Herald. In news and literary features it will be very strong. The popular humorist, Bill Nye, for whose writings The Herald owns the exclusive right for Duluth, has a bright letter this week, in which he tells us of Brother Dangerfield, of Chicago, and incidentally airs his knowledge of paleolithic and neolithic remains.

Lillie Devereaux Blake, who is one of the best women writers in the country, has a very bright article entitled "When Women Woo." In it she relates some interesting instances of women who took advantage of leap year privileges "and lived happily ever after." There is a sketch with portrait of Miss Kate A. Deering, who attracted much attention in Washington society last week, and Eliza Archard Conner has written about the way women succeed in business when they set their heads to it.

J. H. Beadle is always an interesting writer and his sketch of the richest nation on earth, meaning the Cherokee Indians, will attract attention. The latest publications will be treated in a special review, while all the latest theatrical gossip, with announcements of coming attractions at the Duluth theaters, will be dished up in breezy style.

Judge Stearns is an entertaining story teller and The Herald tomorrow will contain some of his reminiscences told to a reporter. The Duluth delegation to the real estate convention at Buffalo will naturally receive attention, and the coming visit of the Third regiment, M. N. G., to Chicago will be discussed. Social news will be given with the customary completeness. In the political article, The Herald promises a genuine sensation. It will create a stir among the politicians. All the latest news of the day, both local and telegraphic, including a full account of the Houck murder trial, will be found in the Saturday Herald.

BALDWIN VS. SEARLE.

Senator W. D. Washburn, who was in the city yesterday, is reported by one of the morning papers as follows:

"One of the queerest things that has come across my notice is the position taken by your evening paper, The Herald. One of its men was talking to me today and I told him that one could hardly conceive of a paper that supports President Harrison and Knute Nelson and the protective system opposing a candidate for congress who represents protection and supporting a candidate who is directly opposed to protection, simply because he happens to live in Duluth. If Judge Searle were a man of bad character, if his personal habits were bad, if he were an unfit man to go to congress, there might be an excuse to oppose him. No one surely can believe that Duluth's interests would suffer with him in congress."

These are the characteristic remarks of an extreme partisan. It is a singular fact that these extreme party men always talk on this question from a standpoint that is narrow, contracted and illogical. For instance, what does it matter to the people of Minnesota whether Knute Nelson believes in a high tariff or a low tariff, in protection or free trade? He is a candidate for governor, and the governor of Minnesota has no more to do with making or amending the tariff than he has with running the city government of Duluth. It is therefore absurd on the part of Senator Washburn and others to say that The Herald is inconsistent when it supports Knute Nelson and Maj. Baldwin at the same time. The Herald does not support Mr. Nelson on account of his tariff views, because it hardly knows what they are. It is said that he now believes in the McKinley bill and advocates high protection. If this be so, Senator Washburn might argue that The Herald was inconsistent if it supported Judge Searle, because the judge several years ago was a pronounced low tariff man, like the majority of Republicans in Minnesota, and we have not heard that his views on that subject have changed.

Senator Washburn expresses the opinion that no one surely can believe that Duluth's interests would suffer with Judge Searle in congress. It is exactly upon this point that The Herald prefers Maj. Baldwin. Duluth's interests might not be injured by Judge Searle's presence in congress, but it is an undeniable fact that they would not be benefitted to as great an extent as they would by Maj. Baldwin's work in Washington. There can be no question upon this point. It is self evident. No one will deny that Maj. Baldwin is thoroughly posted upon the many questions which affect Duluth and the entire Sixth district and knows exactly what legislation is required to further the improvements on the great lake waterway. He is acquainted with all the details of these improvements and is able to explain why they are needed and the benefit they will be to the farmers of the Northwest in reducing transportation charges.

This is a subject on which Judge Searle is utterly ignorant, according to his own admission. He knows nothing about it, except in a general way. It is true that he says he will post himself, but the people of St. Louis county will prefer to send to congress a man who already possesses a thorough and complete knowledge of the subject. When Judge Searle has posted himself in this respect, they may look more favorable upon him a few years hence; because they have nothing against him personally, but are only anxious that they be represented by the best man at this time. Undoubtedly Maj. Baldwin is the best man, and they will cast their votes for him. Not only will the interests of Duluth and the whole district not suffer in his hands, but they will be greatly advanced.

A BEAUTIFUL SECTION.

It is safe to say that comparatively few people in Duluth have any correct idea of the fine country which stretches back from the top of the hill in the rear of the city proper. Thousands, of course, have ascended the incline and listened during the summer months to the music at the pavilion, but very few have gone farther back into the beautiful district to which it is the entrance. There has been a good reason for this—the inaccessibility of the district.

This reason has been removed by the enterprise of the Highland Improvement company, and now electric cars are running from the head of the incline directly into the center of this beautiful section. The equipment of this road is of the finest, a noiseless and gearless motor being used that is expected to solve the problem of electric street railroading. It can be arranged to run at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour. Eight elegant truck cars have been provided to carry the passengers, and every person who has not been over the line should not neglect the opportunity during the present fine weather. It runs for some distance through a beautiful forest, where the handsome foliage now presents a charming appearance.

As the land is quite level back from the brow of the hill the whole section commands a magnificent view of the entire head of the lake with all its varied industries. The view is indeed a fine one, and it is no wonder that the charms of the locality have induced many citizens to make arrangements for beginning the erection of homes there this fall. The enterprise of the company in providing rapid transit deserves to be appreciated. Concerts are to be given at the pavilion tomorrow night and Sunday afternoon, and all who attend should also take a trip over the new electric line.

It seems that Omaha is having a little boodle investigation of its own, and consequently will not be outdone by Duluth. Today's dispatches tell of a riotous session of the investigating committee of the city council, which resulted in the mayor calling for the police. Duluth has had some lively council meetings lately, but not so lively as the Omaha style.

The pacers, the trotters and the bicyclists are seemingly engaged in great rivalry to cut down the turf records. Nancy Hanks' trotting record of 2:04 has now been equalled by the pacer Mascot making a mile in the same time. But the bicyclist has got below two minutes.

The Duluth, Red Lake Falls & Northern company has been granted by the council another extension of time in which to begin work. Mr. Holmes claims to have formed a wealthy syndicate, and The Herald trusts that he will succeed in building the road.

Mr. Frick denies that the Carnegie works at Homestead are to be closed and says everything is working smoothly there. This appears to be a fact, and it is therefore strange that the locked out men are still so confident of winning the fight.

The Short Line changed its name yesterday to the Commonwealth and appeared as an evening paper. Emil Schmied is business manager and J. S. Pardee editor.

They are talking of running a side wheel steamer between Minneapolis and St. Paul next summer. The exact route of the ship railway is not announced.

The price of coal in Duluth will not be advanced during October. For this great favor let us return our heartfelt thanks to the coal barons.

AMUSEMENTS.

Nellie McHenry.

A happy variation in farce will be the attraction at the Temple tomorrow evening when jolly Nellie McHenry will present her circo-comedy, "A Night at the Circus." It is a mixture of song, dance and fun in the usual way, but in addition to the compound, includes a grotesque side view of life among the performers in the white tents. The last act is played in the dressing room of the "Greatest Show on Earth," with Miss McHenry in the guise of Mlle. Electra, the queen of the arena. There are plenty of songs and dances above buffoonery, coarseness or any sort of offensiveness, and it constitutes an entertainment which a visitor can come away from without self reproach for having laughed immoderately.

Frohman's Company.

Charles Frohman's comedy company will be seen in London and New York's latest and most successful comedy farce "Gloriana" at the Temple for the first time on Monday and Tuesday evenings, October 3 and 4. The company has just closed a long and prosperous run of nearly 150 nights in New York and report speaks very highly of both the play and company. New York theater goers enjoyed the past season, a surfeit of first class comedy farce. Fun at the theaters in all large cities appears to be the rage, and managers like Mr. Charles Frohman have been able to gratify this popular taste by the production of a number of plays of exceptional brightness and humor.

Real Estate Men Making Preparations for Their Trip.

The real estate men are hustling today, making preparations for their trip to Buffalo. A rate of $5 for the round trip from Chicago to Buffalo will be secured and the fare from Duluth to Chicago will be one and one-third. A pool has been formed and subscriptions made sufficient to make the cost to Chicago and return one fare for any one desiring to go. The Duluth contingent will include the following: C. E. Lovett and G. A. Leland, who have already gone; E. C. Holliday, W. B. Silvey, J. C. Mishler, C. W. Hoyt, T. O. Hall, L. J. Taussig, W. L. Jackson, C. A. Long and John G. Howard. Several of these will take their wives. Superior will send at least a dozen. Milwaukee will send 150 and her citizens have raised over $3500 to pay their expenses.

Another Burglary.

The residence of H. S. Cormack, at 307 East Third street, was entered and ransacked by burglars for the second time within a week last night. The unwelcome visitors got in through the cellar and had picked up considerable plunder, when they were alarmed and fled without their booty.

A Move in the Right Direction.

A great deal of interest has been manifested in the old fashioned game of ten pins since Mr. Harvey, with praiseworthy enterprise, opened the Alhambra bowling parlors, and some of the best bowlers in the city are now talking of organizing a bowling club. Mr. Harvey, in order to further the idea as far as he can, has agreed to set aside an afternoon, or some specified time, for the players to practice in. A number of these clubs exist in the most prominent cities of the country, notably Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, St. Paul, Minneapolis and in several of the minor cities of the state, such as Stillwater, and as a sequence, there is talk of getting up a state tournament between players of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth. Mr. Harvey is much encouraged with the success of his new venture, and is making preparations to put in another alley just as soon as possible. So great is the rush for chances to bowl that Mr. Harvey says he could easily use four more alleys if he had them or room in which to put them.

Red Lake Falls Need Not Commence Work in the City Before May 1, 1893.

Mayor d'Autremont demonstrated last evening that when he goes after a thing he gets it, anyway, he camped on the trail of a quorum and captured it, a feat the aldermen had attempted in vain. The council meeting adjourned Wednesday evening until the regular meeting next Monday evening. Mayor d'Autremont called a special meeting for last evening with the hope that a quorum might be secured and a disposal made of the application of the Duluth, Red Lake & Northern railway for six months' extension of the time allowed it to commence construction at the terminals in Duluth. The original time allowed would lapse Saturday morning.

When President Hugo called time a few moments before 8, a response was made to the roll call by Aldermen Long, Wilson, Weiss, Hugo, Sorenson, Thomas, Nelson and Kennedy. Alderman Long then introduced an ordinance granting the prayer of the railroad company—that the time in which it must commence work in the city be extended to May 1, 1893. By a unanimous vote the rules were suspended and the ordinance placed on its second reading. On motion of Alderman Long the ordinance was then placed on its final passage. It carried unanimously by nine votes, Alderman Helm getting in for the finish.

Some impetuous voice next called for adjournment, but before the motion could be put, the mayor asked the indulgence of the council long enough to enable him to make a few remarks. He stated that it costs considerable to live in Duluth, and that all who are attempting to live, should have as much assistance as possible consistent with justice. Reference was then more directly made to irresponsible outsiders, who come in, pay no taxes, own no property, and, by advertising impossible things, not only sell inferior goods to the laboring people at exorbitant prices, but injure just that much the reputable resident merchants who support the city and take their chances of coming out even year after year. The mayor thought a change would be entirely proper if any feasible means could be found to produce it.

Alderman Kennedy followed in the mayor's foot tracks by advancing the idea of city scales as one plan for holding level the coal barons who deliver 1600 pounds of coal for a ton to their helpless customers. He thought that if 2000 pounds were bargained for, they should be given, especially when the coal seller gets 2240 pounds in the tons purchased from the mines.

An opportunity being extended, Mr. Silberstein, who was present with quite a company of Duluth's leading business men, lifted up his voice in earnest objections against the class of merchants that come into the city, advertise a big "fire sale," pay no rent, no taxes, gather in a pile of dollars gulled out of those whom they deceive and then cut for greener and fresher pastures. The statement was offered that in many other cities it is made extremely unprofitable for that class and the speaker longed to see that condition of affairs in Duluth.

M. S. Burrows followed Mr. Silberstein. He stated that the reputable, permanent business men not only keep up the city but carry their stocks through the dull season, selling at legitimate prices and running all the risks. As soon as the good season comes these itinerant vendors drop in and reap the harvest. Mr. Burrows said that these transients have been driven out of Superior, Minneapolis, Chicago and many other cities and that he saw no reason why it could not be done here. If a lack of law exists and is insurmountable, the speaker expressed a determination to do what he could to have that remedied by the next legislature.

City Attorney Smith arose and stated that his sympathies were with Duluth merchants and that he spends all his money with them but that the charter is not favorable for relief in the manner they desire. It was his professional opinion that additional legislation is necessary to give the power to prohibit itinerants and that such power is advisable.

The merchants thought that even if such were the case, an ordinance could be passed and in most of the cases it would effectually bluff out the undesirable dealers. If any should go so far as to make a test case in the higher courts, it was offered to back up the council as to expense. That would carry matters until the next session of the legislature, when relief is felt to be a certainty.

The aldermen expressed a willingness to try any plan the business men will offer, and they replied that they will formulate one quick enough if the city fathers will give it favorable consideration. It is not unlikely that a measure will be presented at the next meeting.

SURPRISED HIM.

David Ogilvie, a Spectator at the Houck Trial, is Arrested.

David Ogilvie, whose name was on one of the "quiet" indictments, strolled up to the court house this morning to see and hear the Houck trial for murder. He had just about got inside the door when Chief Deputy Armstrong spied him and in another instant Dave was yanked before the judge and held in $500 bail to answer at this term of court to the charge of grand larceny in the first degree. When told he was under arrest Ogilvie was the most astonisned man who has been in the court house for many a day.

Births and Deaths.

The following births were reported this morning: A son to W. A. and Elizabeth McLaughlin at 1904 West Second street; a son to Charles and Julia A. Sexton, at 1909 Center street; a son to Edward and Christine Dahl, at 213 Pittsburg avenue; a son to A. J. and Clara Mathewson, at 322 East Fifth street; a son to Julius and Margaret Dworschak, at 617 Second avenue east; a son to Walter and Mary McLean at 231 East Sixth street. The death at St. Mary's hospital of Emil Berg, aged 21 years; cause—hemorrhage of bowels and typhoid fever, was also reported.

AGAINST FAKE SALES.

The Retail Clerks' Union Adopts Some Resolutions.

The Retail Clerks' union has adopted the following resolutions in connection with "fake sales," whose flourishing season is now approaching:

To the Citizens of Duluth: Resolved, That we, the retail clerks of Duluth, do denounce all "fake sales" coming to our city in any form, and that we ask the endorsement of the labor and trades assemblies of Duluth, and also of every union and every citizen, in order that we may protect the legitimate merchants of our city. We respectfully call your attention to the announcement of an alleged "fire sale" of clothing from Chicago, as we believe this to be a fake of the first water, there being no name given to the firm. Neither is the name given of the firm alleged to have been burnt out. Nor have we been able to trace any such fire. We therefore ask every citizen of Duluth and neighborhood to let that sale severely alone.

Carlton County Fair.

The Carlton county agricultural and industrial fair will be held this year on Oct. 4, 5 and 6, on the society's permanent grounds at Barnum, where a nice half mile track has been laid out and good buildings erected. The new grounds are close to the St. Paul & Duluth tracks. The officers of the association are C. L. Goodell, president; H. H. Hawkins, vice president: D. V. Scott, treasurer, and W. T. Barker, secretary. The program is a good one and the number of entries is large, especially from this section. J. Adam Bede, Maj. Baldwin and Judge Winje will speak to the people on Democratic matters on the last day of the fair in the evening and the Republicans will probably make a showing the previous day. The opening address on the first day will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Forbes.

Eight Drunks.

There were eight men brought before Judge Powell this morning who were charged with being drunk. Timothy Donahue, who was given a suspended sentence yesterday, was up again today and went to jail for thirty days. Jonas Brown was drunk, but had a ticket for St. Paul in his vest pocket and the judge gave him a chance to use it right away. Alexander Cameron, John Snell, Mat Hurley, Andrew Johnson, Andrew Stahl and Henry Cobb went up for ten days.

THE ITASCA REPUBLICANS.

List of the Candidates Nominated for County Officers.

LA PRAIRIE, Minn., Sept. 30.—[Special to The Herald.]—A mass convention of the Republican voters of Itasca county was held in Odd Fellows' hall at Grand Rapids yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A. G. Bernard, chairman of the county committee, after reading the call made a few well-chosen remarks counseling harmony and loyalty to Republican principles.

After a spirited contest between the friends of C. L. Pratt, present county attorney, of Grand Rapids, and Moses Manston, president of the village council of La Prairie, the latter was elected chairman, and J. B. Bechtold, of La Prairie, secretary. The following nominations were made: Auditor, H. R. King, Grand Rapids; treasurer, O. L. Mather, Grand Rapids; sheriff, J. W. Brown, Grand Rapids; register of deeds, C. A. Buell, La Prairie; judge of probate, E. A. Arnold, La Prairie; county attorney, C. L. Pratt, Grand Rapids; surveyor, George Cox, La Prairie; Coroner, Dr. M. H. Manson, La Prairie; clerk of court, Wade Blaker, Grand Rapids; court commissioner, E. F. Bailey, La Prairie; superintendent of schools, Mrs. O. H. Stillson, Grand Rapids; county commissioners, B. C. Finnegan, of Compton; J. F. Killorin, of Mississippi Junction, and Daniel M. Gunn, of Grand Rapids.

The convention was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in Itasca county, the proceedings being characterized by the utmost good feeling, considering the number of aspirants for office.

Duluth Land Cases.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Secretary Noble has decided to allow Thomas E. Taylor, of Duluth, fifty days to show cause why his land entry should not be cancelled. This is the Comstock Kinney case. The secretary decided against E. Lauritson in the Carlson-Johnson matter at Benson. He allows Nicholas Drew, Duluth land district, sixty days to show why entry should not be cancelled.

Delicious chicken salad will be for sale at the "Carnival of Days" this evening and tomorrow in the Kitchie Gammi building. Be sure and get some.

Black is a Fashionable Color.

The fashionable color this fall is black. This is a fortunate thing for the woman who does not have an unlimited amount of pocket money, as with diamond dyes she can make faded clothes a rich and handsome black.

There are three kinds of diamond dye fast blacks, for wool, for cotton, for silk and feathers. They are simple to use and make colors that never fade, crock, or wash out.

ARE IN ETERNITY

McAuliffe Was Literally Torn to Pieces and Claire Died Soon Afterward.

Five Bottles of Whisky Found in a Valise Which They Were Carrying.

Jack McAuliffe, aged 22 years and Swan Claire, aged 33 years, both single men, were struck by a St. Paul & Duluth "pusher" engine at the chair factory trestle at the West End near West Duluth this morning about 3 o'clock. McAuliffe was frightfully mangled, his body being cut in two and the entrails scattered along the track. His left leg was broken. Swan Claire lived only a short time after reaching St. Mary's hospital. He was badly cut up and had severe internal injuries.

McAuliffe left New York about a month ago with his brother and came to Minneapolis where they were engaged to work for Fisher & Co., contractors, at the York Steel plant at Ironton. On the way up there McAuliffe's brother was left by the train at Hinckley and has not since been heard of. Swan Claire was a sailor but went to work at Ironton because he could get steady employment all winter. The men were in Duluth last evening, considerably under the influence of liquor. They had been paid off during the day and came into town to get some supplies. In a valise, which was burst open by the engine, was found a quantity of underclothing, a lot of packages of tobacco and five full bottles of whisky.

McAuliffe's body was taken to Durkan's morgue and Claire's to Nelson's morgue. The latter body was afterwards ordered to Durkan's morgue, where the inquest will be held tomorrow afternoon.

A CAUSE OF MUCH TROUBLE.

The Canadian Cabinet Has a Knotty Problem to Settle.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—The government has received a memorial from Archbishop Tache, of the Manitoba diocese, asking that the previous petitions from the hierarchy requesting relief for the Catholic minority in Manitoba be considered, now that the imperial privy council in the highest court in the empire has maintained the constitutionality of the law abolishing separate schools in Manitoba.

The matter looms up again and will doubtless cause a division in the cabinet unless some loophole is discovered. It will no doubt have an important bearing on the succession to the premiership, as Sir John Thompson, who is looked upon as the coming man, is a Catholic and will no doubt side with his co-religionists. He will have to meet the strong opposition of Ontario's representatives, who were kept in the background during the reference to the privy council, but will now come to the front again, backed up by members of parliament not in the cabinet, who will urge them on to resist the appeals and allow no interference in the Prairie province.

Of course the law must stand, as there is no legal resort beyond the privy council, and politicians are anxious to see how the government will move in this weighty matter.

MARCHING ON CARACAS.

Crespo Will Enter the Capital With His Troops.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Advices received in this city state that Colina has joined Crespo's army with a heavy column of mounted spearsmen and riflemen and that the revolutionary chieftain advances steadily on Caracas with all his available forces.

All negotiations have ceased and whether approved or not, the leader of the rebels says he will enter the capital at the head of his troops.

A Schooner Released.

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—The government has ordered the release of the schooner Hattie Maud, of Portland, Me., which was seized at Grand Manan a few weeks ago, it having been shown that since the offense the schooner had changed hands and her present owners were in total ignorance of her being liable to seizure for having contravened the fishery laws of Canada.

Burned to Death.

SISTERVILLE, W. Va., Sept. 30.—The storage tanks of the Eureka Pipe Line company caught fire last night and 5000 barrels of oil were destroyed. Chief Engineer Davis, of Mercer, Pa., was on one of the tanks and was burned to death. Another man was blown nearly 100 feet and may die.

Caused by Sparks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Forty car loads of merchandise in the Nickle Plate freight yards at the extreme limits of the city were destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. The loss will exceed $100,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is attributed to sparks from a passing engine.

Have Typhus Fever.

LEWES, Del., Sept. 30.—Three of the crew of the British steamer Twickenham now at the breakwater for orders with a cargo of sugar from Havana are down with typhus fever. The vessel is in quarantine and will be fumigated today and probably released soon.

He Fought at Waterloo.

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—Gen. Carl Muller, the last surviving German officer who took part in the battle of Waterloo, died today in Hanover. He was 99 years old.

Riotous Session of a Council Committee in Omaha.

OMAHA, Neb. Sept. 30.—The session last night of the special city council committee investigating charges of boodle in connection with the construction of the new city hall ended in riotous fashion.

Mayor Bemis on the witness stand refused to say who it was that told him that the architect of the city hall, Biendorff, had paid $2000 to defeat Lininger, Republican candidate for mayor two years ago, and also refused to give names of parties who had said the present committee was a whitewash affair.

The committee insisted that the mayor should give names, and was told by the chairman that he was plain Mr. Bemis on the witness stand and not the mayor. City Attorney Connell, coming to the mayor's aid, was called a liar by a councilman. They were prevented from fighting by the chairman.

Great disorder prevailed and bitter accusations were made by members against the attorney and the mayor. The latter finally called the police, who ordered those present to disperse but no arrests were made.

THE FIGHT WAS STOPPED.

Siddons' Clever Work Saved Him From a Knock Out.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.—At least 2000 persons gathered at the California Athletic club rooms last night to witness the battle between the featherweights, Sol Smith, of Los Angeles, and George Siddons, of New York, for a purse of $2250. Smith was favorite in the betting at 3 to 1. The men entered the ring promptly at 9 o'clock. Both were apparently in fine condition.

It was a very hard fight, and at the end of the forty-eighth round the referee stopped it and reserved his decision. The men were then walking around each other, doing nothing. The fight was considerable of a disappointment. Smith's friends had confidently expected to see him win in short order. Siddons was severely punished about the body, but his coolness and superb foot work saved him. Smith wore himself out rushing the plucky New Yorker.

A VOLCANIC ERUPTION.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 30.—A letter just received from Sand Point, through the courtesy of Capt. Minch, of the schooner Henry Dennis, corroborates the reports received at Ounalaska by the steamer St. Paul, regarding her trip through a cloud of volcanic dust on August 28. The letter is from the captain of the Clara which was at anchor in Chignik bay.

The schooner Nellie, of Sand Point reports that rocks were seen thrown in the air on the day of the eruption, and that they seemed to be a mass of fire and flame. From additional data of the letter it is to be gathered that a volcanic eruption occurred on one of the Aulutian islands, Alaska, on Aug. 28, but details will probably not be ascertained until a government vessel examines and reports.

NO ONE WAS KILLED.

Two Boilers in a Pittsburg Mill Exploded Today.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 30.—At 6:10 o'clock this morning, just after the night turn had left the mill and before the day turn had reported for work, two large boilers in the Carbon Iron works at Thirty-second and Smallman streets, exploded with terrific force, scattering sections of the boilers, bricks, etc., throughout the mill in which several hundred men are employed during working hours.

The mill was also filled with scalding steam and natural gas, which escaped from the broken pipes and then exploded, causing nearly as much damage to building and machinery as did the collapse of the boilers. The damage to the mill will aggregate several thousand dollars.

No one was killed and so far as is now known no person was seriously injured. The narrow escape of the day force is something remarkable.

Big Pine Deal.

ASHLAND, Wis., Sept. 30.—The largest transfer in pine lands ever made in Northern Wisconsin was consummated yesterday. Cornell university, of New York, sells to the Chippewa Logging company 109,600 acres of pine land for the consideration of $841,703. The lands are situated in Price, Taylor, Chippewa, Barron and Ashland counties and have been a prize long sought by lumbermen.

Blown to Pieces.

DUBOIS, Pa., Sept. 30.—A pusher engine on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg railroad was blown to fragments at midnight by an explosion of the boiler, while standing on a side track near Grove Summit. Engineer Wise and Fireman Flynn were literally blown to pieces. They both resided in Dubois and leave families.

Will Prove His Charges.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Editor Purcell appeared in police court this morning to answer to the charge of criminal libel against Forsyth, Republican candidate for district attorney. Counsel for Mr. Purcell said he assumed full responsibility for the charges and would prove them. The case was adjourned until next Thursday.

New Trial Refused.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 30.—The circuit court today refused a new trial of P. J. Elliott, one of the Elliott brothers, publishers, one of whom is serving a life and the other twenty years' sentence for precipitating a shooting affray last year.

Hill Preparing Speeches.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Senator David B. Hill is preparing a number of speeches. He will speak in this city some time next month, thence to Virginia, and will devote the last two weeks of the campaign to New York, Indiana, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Three Years for Murder.

VANDALIA, Ill. Sept. 30.—Charles Chandler was yesterday sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for killing John Frailey, Aug. 27, 1891. The plea was self defense.

You will regret it if you do not attend the "Carnival of Days."

A BRUTAL MURDER

No Motive Ascribed As None of the Murdered Man's Effects Are Missing.

A Swede Who Is Thought to Be Insane Suspected to Be the Murderer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Frank Paulsen, age 55 years, and a veteran of the war, was found dead in his room last night, the victim of a most brutal and revolting murder. Charles Knosh, a former associate of the murdered man, who frequently visited him at his boarding house, No. 139 Hester street, was arrested on suspicion. He is a tall and powerful man, whose dress coincides with the description given by the murdered man's landlady of a man whom she saw running from the house a few minutes before the discovery of the crime. No motive can be ascribed for the act as none of the murdered man's effects have been reported missing.

Late last night the police arrested a man on First street who was acting in a suspicious manner and holding two gold watches in his hand. When the officer questioned him, he pulled an axe from under his coat and a lively fight resulted. Assistance being procured, the man was taken to the Eldridge street police station and locked up. This morning, from information obtained by the police, the man was arraigned and held on a charge of murdering Paulsen at 139 Hester street last night. He gave his name as Frank W. Rohle, a Swede. The police think he is insane

WILL CARRY NEW YORK.

Thurman Ventures the Opinion That Cleveland Will Win.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A special to the World from Columbus, O., gives an interview with Allen G. Thurman, in which he says the speech of Senator Hill gives Cleveland the assured support of Tammany, which means that he will carry New York and ventures his opinion that he will be elected.

He characterizes the campaign as the dullest he has ever known and denounces the force bill as a damnable measure which should be defeated.

The Switchmen's Union.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 30.—The convention of the switchmen of North America adjourned yesterday afternoon. The following grand officers were elected: John W. Wilson, of La Crosse, Wis., grand master; John Downey, of Chicago, first grand master; M. W. Barnett, of Kansas City, second vice grand master. Frank Sweeney, of Minneapolis, the retiring grand master, was elected editor and manager of the Switchmen's Journal. Evansville, Ind., was selected as the place for holding the next meeting.

Declines a Monument.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Gilmore, in a graceful letter to the Herald, has declined the monument the Herald suggested raising by popular subscription to the memory of her husband, the late bandmaster. While acknowledging her gratitude, Mrs. Gilmore says the request is in accordance with the wishes of the deceased. All the contracts which Mr. Gilmore made for his band will be filled.

Stand by Briggs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—At the opening of the Union Theological seminary yesterday Rev. Dr. C. C. Hall, speaking for the directors, outlined the course of the instructions of the institution as one in conformity with and persistence in the line of biblical criticism for which Dr. Briggs is now undergoing trial for heresy.

A Lord Mayor Elected.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Stuart Knill, alderman for the Bridge-Within ward, was yesterday elected lord mayor of London, despite strenuous opposition because he is a Roman Catholic. A protest for that reason was received with mingled hissing and cheering.

Grover in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Grover Cleveland, accompanies by R. W. Gilber, editor of the century, Mr. Charles F. Chichester and Daniel Griffin, arrived on the Fall River boat Pilgrim, at 7 o'clock this morning. On landing the party was driven to the Victoria hotel.

A Foolish Fear.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 30.—The prospect of a National railroad excursion to the United States has been abandoned owing to the fear of cholera.

AN OLD FIGHT ON

For the Second Time Two Connecticut Men Oppose Each Other for Office.

Result Two Years Ago Ended In a Deadlock. Governor Bulkeley Holding Over.

The People Now Invited to Settle It Between the Two Old Candidates.

In Connecticut the campaign this year is that of 1890 over again. The issues vary but little and the standard bearers are the same. Every one remembers that the election of 1890 resulted in a deadlock. The Democratic senate declared Judge Morris elected, the Republican house declared Lieutenant Governor Merwin elected, and Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley solved the problem by holding over for the two years. Now the people are invited to settle it as between the two old candidates.

S. E. MERWIN.

General Samuel E. Merwin, of New Haven, the Republican candidate, is sixty-one years old and a native of Brookfield. He is engaged in general business to some extent, but his specialty is pork packing, in which he has been very successful. In 1888 he was elected lieutenant governor, and his popularity was shown by the fact that he ran far ahead of his ticket, especially in his own town of New Haven, where he received some 1,100 more votes than Governor Bulkeley.

Judge Luzon B. Morris, Democratic candidate, was born in Newtown in 1827 and was graduated from Yale in 1850. In early life he worked on the farm and in an edge tool factory, fitting himself for college in the intervals of labor. He was admitted to the bar in 1856 and has held various offices, being at one time a member of the lower house of the legislature and at another of the senate. He also served six years as probate judge.

L. B. MORRIS.

He was first nominated for governor in 1888, when, although he obtained 1,415 more votes than his Republican competitor, Bulkeley, he did not secure the office, as the legislature was Republican. In 1890 he was again made the Democratic candidate for governor, but neither he nor General Merwin, his Republican competitor in that year, secured the office, owing to the deadlock between the two branches of the legislature and its neglect to make a final canvass of the votes.

The Wanderings of a Shoe.

An old, badly worn shoe passed through Madison, Wis., in the United States mail the other day. An old shoe with half of the sole worn off and holes in the uppers is a rather unusual thing to find in the mail, but this had traveled thousands of miles, and not one cent of postage had been paid on it. There are about 200 tags tied to the holes for the lacings, and something like 150 of them have the stamps of different postoffices, together with inscriptions by different postal clerks.

The shoe went to Madison from Minneapolis, to Minneapolis from St. Paul, to St. Paul from Seattle, to Seattle from Portland, to Portland from San Francisco, to San Francisco from Honolulu, to Honolulu from San Francisco. It is hard to trace its course before that, but it has the stamps of any number of postoffices on it, among them being those at Oakland, Salt Lake City, Denver, Omaha and any number of cities in the east and some in the south.

Where it has gone from Madison is not positively known. The shoe was started from Boston by one of the postal clerks there—the first tag shows that—and there is a request that it be returned there. At St. Paul it was inscribed: "Too small for a big city. Pass it on to the village." Then it was sent to Minneapolis.

Attacked by Blackbirds.

Bailey Hoover, a young man employed on the Curtiss ranch at Woodland, Cal., reports a strange experience with birds. He was driving a single horse and buggy from the Fair ranch the other day. When about two miles from Knight's Landing he was suddenly startled out of a doze by myriads of birds which swarmed down upon him, screaming angrily and flying at him. The air was literally black with them, and they viciously attacked the horse, which was frightened into a frantic effort to run away. The young man was scared beyond his powers of description. He fought the birds off with his whip, and directing the horse as best he could was soon beyond their pursuit. Hoover entertains a superstitious fear that the incident portends evil for him, and is sure something bad is going to happen to him before long. He said they were nearly all blackbirds, although there appeared to be other species among the army of his winged enemies.

Reward of Virtue.

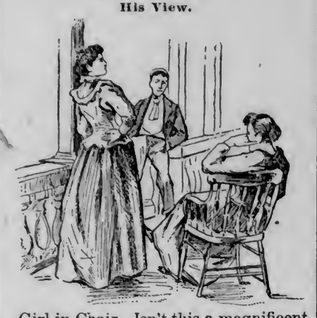
At what age does self admiration end? Perhaps if aged people were entirely frank they would have to tell their self conceited grandchildren, if they asked this question, "You must ask some one older than we."

Grandpa Brown is eighty-two, and time has not spared him. He is bald, toothless and wrinkled. The other day his grandson, Tom, looked at him long and steadily, and said:

"Grandpa, when I get to be as old as you shall I look as you do?"

Grandpa beamed. "Oh, yes, Tommy," he answered; "you may if you are good and take care of yourself all your life."—Youth's Companion.

His View.



Girl in Chair—Isn't this a magnificent view?

Girl by Post—Yes; but I don't care for views.

The Boy—Neither do I. I'd rather look at two of the plainest girls in creation than at any view ever made.—Harper's Bazar.

He Was Too Perlite.

Two homely and tittering maidens and a stout and aggressive wife comprised his flock. He was a small man, with a pointed beard and a solicitous air, and he marshaled the party in front of the dining room door on a Champlain steamer ten minutes before dinner was served so as to "be in time," and when finally they headed the procession to the tables there began a volley of solicitous inquiries that well nigh broke the appetites of neighboring passengers. The small man sat at the head of a table, and he held the bill of fare and doled out inquiries.

"Will you have chicken or beef soup, mother?"

"Chicken, Edward."

"Kitty, dear?"

"Beef, pa."

"Beef for you, Mary?"

"Chicken if you please."

"You will all have fish, I suppose," he said.

"None for me," said his wife decidedly. One of the girls also voted against fish, and then he beat the waiting eardrums of the white aproned attendant with an order that was changed five times. At last as the boat neared its destination a generous array of viands had appeared, and the small man's solicitude grew dreadful.

"Mother, do have some beets."

"I don't wish any."

"Take some corn, Kitty, dear. Pass the celery to the gentleman next, Mary. This beef is excellent, mother. Can't I give you a bit of it? No? Have a piece of bread, dear? What, Kitty, are you taking pie and ice cream together? Remember Montreal, my child. Wife, do eat that chicken; won't you, my love?"

The stout woman glanced at the few remaining passengers bolting final mouthfuls, and then she cleared the bits of chicken from her voice and said in no uncertain tones:

"Edward, you hain't eaten no dinner."

"Yes, I have."

"You haven't. You've buzzed around too much to get a spoonful into your mouth sideways."

"My dear," protested the small man deprecatingly.

"Your hear," she insisted, "and now we're almost there. You just drop the perlite business, Edward, and rustle fer the meat and pertater like you was at home. Hear?"

He did.—New York Tribune.

An Experienced Hand.

"I'd like a job, sir, as waiter," said the applicant.

"You have had experience in waiting, I suppose?" queried the restaurant proprietor.

"Indeed, I have."

"For how long?"

TALE OF TWO INNS

The Career of One Has Just Closed and the Other's About to Begin.

Famous Old Resort at Fire Island Which Has Been Made a Quarantine Station.

Magnificent Structure to Rise On the Hotel Royal's Site in New York.

Two hotels are just now being talked about—one for its sensational prominence and the other for its sensational promise. The first has closed its career as a resort for wealth and beauty, the other has yet to test its claims to popularity. The former is the famous Fire island tavern, which for over a generation has been the summer resort of rich and conservative people who love their "ease with dignity." When the place was sold to the state of New York and practically turned into a quarantine station some of the old timers nearly wept, and bemoaned the fact that a house they regarded almost as home would shelter them no more.

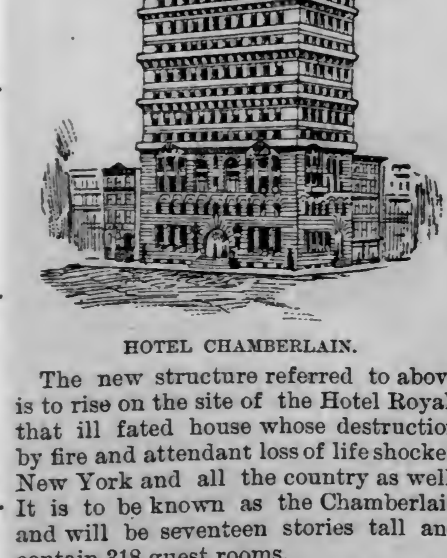
They were almost as indignant against Landlord Sammis for disposing of the property as were the people of Islip, who feared possible contact with the cholera. But Mr. Sammis is seventy-three years of age and thinks he knows his own business better than any one else. He doesn't care to keep hotel any longer, and he thought the price offered him—$210,000—a fair one. So he retired and smiled when the guests "kicked" before leaving, and the clam diggers burned him in effigy and called him cholera's friend. As he remarked, "I have done the square thing all my life and am too old now to continue business or to mind a little foolish abuse."

David S. S. Sammis was born in Huntington, Suffolk county, N. Y., and worked on his father's farm until eighteen years of age. Then he went to New York city with the intention of learning the drug trade. As this did not agree with his health, he took to stage coaching for seven years and then opened a grocery at Forsyth and Delancey streets. Later he established the East Broadway House, at East Broadway and Pike streets. After being in New York about sixteen years he started a small chowder house on Fire island. That was in 1855. He had an idea that a small place near the ocean and not too far from New York would prove to be a favorite resort. Chowder clubs were all the rage in those days, and that sort of pleasure seekers loved to get "way off" where they could have a good frolic all by themselves. Of course Fire island was just the place for such fellows. There used to be very lively parties come down from the city, and they would eat their fill of chowder and drink their fill of champagne. As many as 150 would dine there on a Sunday.

The first prominent man to visit there was the late James Gordon Bennett, who went down in a sailboat from New York, accompanied by his wife and his wife's sister. He stayed four or five days. He was not at all convivial, and spent much of his time reading books. He liked the place so well that he wrote a letter about it to The Herald, the first newspaper correspondence that was ever sent from that place. The letter caused a great rush of visitors, and the hotel filled up at once.

Now the quaint old hotel is turned into a place of confinement for people from Europe who are suspected of carrying contagion with them.



HOTEL CHAMBERLAIN.

The new structure referred to above is to rise on the site of the Hotel Royal, that ill fated house whose destruction by fire and attendant loss of life shocked New York and all the country as well. It is to be known as the Chamberlain and will be seventeen stories tall and contain 318 guest rooms.

The ground has a frontage of 100 feet on Fortieth street and 60 feet on Sixth avenue.

The structure will take up all the property except a four foot strip on the Fortieth street side. The exterior has been designed to be at once handsome and characteristic. The first four floors will be of Indiana limestone, neatly ornamented; the portion above that will be of buff brick with terra cotta trimmings.

The projectors intend that it shall be thoroughly fireproof.

A CASE OF DISCIPLINE.

The Man on the Seat Had the Best of It.

"Don't you know better than to pile all your baggage on that seat?" demanded a policeman at one of the railway depots yesterday morning, sharply addressing a traveler who seemed to be waiting for a train.

"I don't see any sign here prohibiting my piling all the baggage I want to on that seat," returned the traveler, pushing his hat back and preparing for an argument. "When you want to keep persons from smoking you stick up a sign, don't you? There's half a dozen 'No Smoking' signs in this room, and not one forbidding a man from putting his valises on the seat beside him."

"We take it for granted," retorted the policeman, "that everybody knows these seats are made to sit on. There's plenty of room on the floor for bandboxes and gripsacks."

"There seems to be plenty of room on the seats too. More than half of them are empty. These traps of mine don't appear to be crowding anybody, do they?"

"That doesn't make any difference. It's against the rules."

"Whose rules?"

"The rules of this station. If you don't take them down"——

"Take what down?"

"Those traps."

"I didn't know but you meant the rules," rejoined the traveler. "But we won't have any fuss over it. If it's contrary to the regulations I'll put them down on the floor of course."

He lifted his valises up, hesitated a moment and then replaced them on the seat.

"Look here!" he said, pointing his finger sternly at the policeman, "didn't I put these things on the floor when I came in?"

"No," growled the officer. "You slapped them down on that seat. They've been there half an hour."

"And you've let me violate the rules of this depot for a whole half hour, have you?" said the traveler, raising his voice. "What kind of"——

"But"——

"Don't attempt any explanation, sir! I come in here, break one of the rules and you see me do it! You deliberately permit a total stranger to you, sir, to defy the authorities of this depot for thirty minutes! Is that the way you carry out the instructions of your superiors? Do you call that sort of thing doing your duty? Don't you know, sir, if you permit one man to override the established rules and regulations of a passenger station like this, where thousands of men come and go every day in the week, that everybody else will feel at liberty to do the same thing and all discipline will be at an end? If you haven't a proper regard for your duty, who in the name of truth and justice has or ought to have? Permit a man to pile his baggage on one of these seats, regardless of the rights of the traveling public, right under your eyes, and let him keep it there half an hour before you even lift your voice in protest! Officer, I consider it one of the most flagrant, one of the most inexcusable and unwarranted lapses from official duty of which I have ever known a man in your position to be guilty! Take my advice and don't let it happen again!"

The traveler sat down by the side of his baggage again, took a paper from his pocket and began to read.

The policeman, with his jaw hanging down and a wild, hunted look in his eye, wandered in an aimless sort of way to the outside of the building, sat down on the curbstone, took off his hat and fanned himself with it.

After Business.

The small natural bridge that was once a feature in the rugged shore line just above Westport on Lake Champlain seems to have disappeared. It reminds one of that natural bridge on the shore of a rocky western lake. It was "a card" as a local attraction till a severe storm one winter blew it down. Unwilling to lose such a necessary attraction the neighbors carefully rebuilt it, which might easily enough have been a harmless and successful deception; but visitors to the bridge the following season were thunderstruck to read this sign:

THE TRIAL IS ON

Frank Houck Is Answering to the Charge of Having Murdered John Haggerty.

Only Two Jurors Secured This Morning—Many Challenges Were Made.

The case of the State of Minnesota vs. Frank Houck, charged with the murder of John Haggerty at West Duluth some weeks ago, was called before Judge Stearns at 10 o'clock this morning. The defendant was ordered into court and the jury called. At the long table sat the counsel for the defense, Phelps & Martin, backed up by W. W. Erwin, of St. Paul, who, in the words of Attorney Phelps, "will be the main spoke of the defense. "At the back of "the tall Pine" sat Frank Houck, the defendent. He was neatly dressed and seemed just a trifle nervous. At the prisoner's right sat Deputy Bates. At the opposite side of the table, facing the court, was seated County Attorney C. C. Tear. At his right sat Attorney General Moses E. Clapp who will apparently be the "main spoke" for the prosecution. The seats in the court room were only fairly filled with curious spectators. Among them was James Cogin, now out on bail as an accessory in the crime charged against Houck, who intently watched each step in the proceedings.

Before the case was opened, Attorney Phelps arose and stated that Mr. Erwin had not put in an appearance, and as he feared there was some misunderstanding, a delay was requested. Judge Stearns brusquely stated that the procession could not be held back for any who were behindhand, whereupon Mr. Phelps quickly sat down. Mr. Erwin came in later.

The next step was the selection of G. A. Tinkham, W. C. McAdam and Colby Smith for tryers.

The first juror called was George W. Buck, a real estate dealer. The defense issued a challenge, which was admitted by the prosecution. The juror was excused. Wm. H. Richards, the boot and shoe dealer; W. E. Worden, another real estate broker; E. C. Jones, another of the same kind, were in turn called, challenged by the defense, and upon examination in each case the challenge was admitted by the state.

H. C. Osterhout, the next juror, stepped in with a cane and a G. A. R. button and gazed expectantly through his spectacles and awaited the inquisition. Being challenged by the defense he not only gave the information that he was a picture canvasser, but that he had a mind that would be a model for any juror. The challenge was withdrawn by the defense. Being challenged by the state, Mr. Osterhout said he had no conscientious scruples against the death penalty, whereupon he was accepted, sworn in, seated in the corner of the box and tagged No. 1.

Next, in turn as named, were called up E. M. Griffith a carpenter, Emil Dietz a tailor, August Nolte, agent for the Northwestern Fuel company, who were all weighed in the balances and found wanting. Don A. Dodge, a dealer in pine lands, was challenged for implied bias, then actual bias. The tryers found the charge untrue, whereupon the state objected to the juror and he was excused. George W. Stevens an insurance agent, Chas. McKay a general broker, H. S. Moody, an employee in Myers, real estate office, Louis Woltrom, Morris O'Meara, T. J. Monahan, another soldier in the real estate army, and Jos. Cochrane were excused for one reason or another about as fast as called up. A. Bagley, a trustee of West Duluth and vice president of the council, had a positive opinion that he could decide according to the law and evidence, despite the fact that he was pretty well posted on the merits of the case and had taken part in discussions as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. He was found guilty of bias by the tryers and promptly excused.

W. W. Warner, a carpenter from New Duluth, stood the test of all challenging and questioning and upon being sworn in was ticketed No. 2 and set by Mr. Osterhout to keep him company. Wm. F. McKay being called was unable to survive a challenge and was excused. R. P. Cogin, of West Duluth, seemed to know too much about the murder and the men concerned. He was excused and Joseph Bishop called up. Before the regular operation could be performed on him Judge Stearns announced a recess until 2:30 p. m.

"The Paper Chase," by Charles Thomas, will have a place in Miss Rosina Vokes' repertory the coming season.

The improvement in the acting and singing of J. K. Emmet this season is marked, and shows what pluck and perseverance can accomplish.

Elena Salmoiraghi, the premiere danseuse at Eldorado, has been engaged by Rudolph Aronson as premiere assoluta to lead the new ballet, "Orange Blossoms."

The Royal Music school in Munich has been raised to the dignity of a royal academy of the tone art, whose director will be Perfall, with Rheinberger and Abel as inspectors.

Annie Pixley has purchased an original play from William Gill entitled "Miss Blythe, of Duluth," and will introduce it in Boston. Jesse Williams is arranging the music for the piece.

The French actor, Got, whose name is pronounced "Go," is expected to retire in 1894, on the completion of his fiftieth year with the Theater Francaise. He will not ask for a benefit, as he has saved 6,000,000 francs.

Master Cyril Tyler, the boy Patti, has been engaged by Edgar Strakosch, who will introduce him to the New York public. The boy possesses a beautiful and sympathetic soprana voice, and he sings with remarkable feeling and expression.

Mary E. Wilkins has written a play based on an incident in the history of witchcraft. As in literature, feminine playwrights are beginning to compete with their professional brothers, and Miss Wilkins' work will be awaited with interest.

WHIP AND SPUR.

Guttenburg will open on Oct. 16, and the hilltop track will keep it up throughout the winter, as usual.

Trainer Rogers says that Kingston can defeat any horse in the east at present up to one mile and a quarter.

In view of the performances of his 2-year-olds it is not at all surprising that Marcus Daly should wish to sell them.

The Duke of Portland owns a blotting book with a solid silver cover, on which are engraved the names of all the races which the duke's horses have won since May, 1881.

Lord Dalmeny led all other horses in the winnings at Brighton Beach. Lambley rode 19 winners, Walker 17, J. Lambley 15, Simms 12, W. Midgley 10 and Bergen and T. Flynn, 8 each.

It is not likely that Morello will be started again for some time to come. The colt is in good condition and none the worse for his great race, but there is a certain amount of sentiment that overcomes business principles in the case of a horse that makes a winner of a great stake.

Jockey Simms has been retained for the season of 1893 by Pierre Lorillard, the fee being reported as $12,000, with the usual twenty-five dollars for a winning mount and ten dollars for a losing mount. Mr. Lorillard acquires entire control of the jockey. Simms should earn at least $25,000 next year under this engagement.

The largest greenback extant is a $10,000 bill, and only one such note has been printed by the government. Of the $5,000 bills, the next largest, there are seven.

Climate of the British Empire.

A summary of the climate of the British empire for 1891 has been compiled from reports prepared at sixteen selected stations. The highest shade temperature (103 degs., in January) was registered at Melbourne, and the lowest (34.5 degs., in February) at Winnipeg. The extreme maximum in the sun (165 degs.) and the lowest mean humidity (57 per cent.) were recorded at Adelaide. To Ceylon belonged the highest mean temperature (80.7 degs.) and also the least range in the year, there being only a difference of 24.3 degs. between the maximum of the hottest day and the minimum of the coldest night. Malta has, as a rule, the smallest rainfall and the least cloud, but last year Adelaide had the smallest rainfall (14 inches) and Bombay the least cloud (3.6). The greatest rainfall (119 inches) occurred at Colombo, Ceylon.

How to Improve Bees.

An American writer on bee culture advocates the crossing of ordinary bees with the giant bees of India, so as to obtain a race with a longer proboscis and perhaps of increased size. If this improved race were then crossed with the South American stingless bee, he believes a breed would be obtained having all the good points of the Italian bee, with lengthened proboscis and no sting. The same authority considers that the swarming instinct might be successfully bred out of bees if it were deemed desirable to destroy it.

Argentine Tobacco.

It appears that the growth of tobacco in the Argentine Republic is wonderful and will soon become one of the staple articles of export. Increased attention is being paid not only to the quality of the tobacco grown, but also to the curing of the leaf.

IS IT TREASON?

Members of the Advisory Committee of the Homestead Strikers Have Been Arrested.

They Are Charged by the Carnegie Steel Company With Having Committed Treason.

Warrants Also Out for the Arrest of the Advisory Committee in Pittsburg.

This Sudden Move Has Naturally Created Great Surprise Among the Striking Workmen.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Oct. 1.—A great sensation was created last night by the arrest for treason of a number of the members of advisory committee of the Homestead strikers. Those arrested were Chairman Thomas J. C. Crawford, William Baird, George Reynolds, John Dinken and T. W. Brown.

When the news that a charge of treason had been brought against the advisory committee reached Homestead last evening it shocked the people. The locked out men were puzzled and declared they did not know what it meant. They are unanimous in the belief that this thing of entering charges had gone too far, saying that a charge of treason reflected upon their standing as American citizens and their patriotism. Altogether it was roundly denounced. It was believed by the men that the object of the arrests is to get the leaders out of the way so that the others will go to work.

W. J. Brennen, attorney for the defendants, was not greatly surprised at the charge, though he had no thought of any charge against his clients being made before the supreme court. "I do not believe that the charge will ever be sustained," said Mr. Brennen, "because there was no element of treason in the acts of the men. There must be a general purpose to destroy and resist all rightful and legal authority. The single act of an individual or a mob of men in a case like we have had at Homestead is described in the laws of the state as riot and as the acts of a mob.

"It was wrong for the strikers to prevent men from entering the works at Homestead, and was wrong for them to enter them, and nobody on earth regrets it now as much as they do. These acts were committed in the heat of excitement, and were intended to prevent disorder of a more serious nature. Probably some of the acts alleged, if committed, were simply expedients resorted to that advantage might be gained in the strike, but treason or a plot to overthrow the government as alleged, was fartherest from their thoughts. I am very free to state, upon the information I have received about the proceedings, that the men will never be convicted on that charge. They are just as loyal citizens as there are in Allegheny county, but have passions like all human beings, and under great provocation will fight."

President William Weihe, of the Almalgamated association, was unusually bland when questioned about the supreme court's action and the charge of treason. He did not have a word to say except that he had not heard of it before, and not being a lawyer could not give an opinion on such a subject. He said he did not know whether or not there were any grounds for the charge.

"This would be the first case of treason ever tried in the state of Pennsylvania," said P. C. Knox, attorney for the Carnegie Steel company. "In fact there was never anything exactly similar. The only case coming near it was the proceedings growing out of the French commune. This case will attract as much, if not more interest than did the famous trial of Aaron Burr. We are bringing these proceedings to see whether the laws of Pennsylvania or the edicts of the advisory committee are to rule this commonwealth. The committee take the law into their hands. We think this constitutes treason.

"The charge is a grave one and comes before a full bench of the supreme court of Pennsylvania. The maximum sentence a man can receive for treason is twelve years in the penitentiary. The cases may come up immediately, or it may be some time before they are heard. If the prisoners demand a hearing they will get it at once. The crime is bailable, the amount of the bond being fixed by Chief Justice Paxton at $10,000."

MORE WARRANTS ISSUED.

The Advisory Board at the Pittsburg Mills to Be Arrested.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 1.—It was learned at noon today that warrants have been issued by the Carnegie Steel company against the members of the strikers advisory board at the Union mills this city. The charge preferred is that of conspiracy and treason.

None of the members of this board have heretofore been called upon to answer charges of violation of law in connection with the present strike. It is also stated that during this afternoon attorneys representing those of the Homestead advisory committee already under arrest on the charges of treason will make application before Chief Justice Paxton for bail.

Six of the defendants are now under arrest. In all thirty-five warrants on this charge have been issued. Judge Paxson will also instruct the grand jury with reference to the treason charges and will occupy the bench in the court of oyer and terminer when the cases come to trial.

The question has already arisen that, should the defendants appeal their cases to the state supreme court, would Judge Paxson again have the conduct of the cases when they come before that body.

STOLE HALF A MILLION.

A Philadelphia Newspaper Man Made a Big Haul.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 1.—The theft of $440,000 from the Auer Incandescent Light company by Tyndal Palmer, a former newspaper man, in which he was joined by a hotel keeper named Frietas, of Rio Janeiro, has just been brought to light.

The company is owned solely by A. O. Granger, the president, and ex-Senator Joseph M. Gazzam, vice president. They formed the South American Welsbach Incandescent Light company, and sent young Palmer to Rio to boom the invention. He and Frietas sold the patents for $510,000 in gold, and upon Palmer's return he reported the sale as having been made for $80,000, of which $10,000 was expended in his salary, expenses and commission.

The theft was not learned until two other men were sent to Brazil on a second mission, although reports had reached the ears of the company. Palmer was sent to England to negotiate securities of one of ex-Senator Gazzam's iron companies, and upon demanding higher commission was dismissed.

Palmer cannot be returned from England, but action is being taken to recover sums which he expended in buying farms for relatives. The second trip was made to Brazil to sell improvements on the original Welsbach invention, which caused the title to be changed to the Auer company.

WAS UNJUSTLY SUSPECTED.

Claim That Col. Canady Was Really a Victim of Robbers.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Col. W. P. Canaday, ex-sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate, whose death occurred last Tuesday, was buried today. The case has taken on some mysterious features, and the theory is advanced that the colonel did not commit suicide.

An expert glazier says the window in the room where the deceased was first found bound to the door was broken from the outside, and the gentleman who cut him loose says he had no idea that Canaday had tied the cords himself. Other occupants of the house state that they heard voices in the room some time in the night.

These facts, together with the fact that certain personal property the colonel was known to have in his possession, notably two gold watches, cannot be found, and the other fact, deemed to be pertinent, that the charred papers found on the floor of the room prove to be the remnants of notes for money loaned by him, warrant his friends in asserting that there was a genuine burglary, and that if the colonel did kill himself he was driven to it by the consciousness that he was unjustly suspected.

GERMAN BANKER ARRESTED.

Charged With Having Committed Fraudulent Operations.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Augusts F. Schultze, a well-known banker, has surrendered himself to the police and been placed under arrest. Schultze has failed with heavy liabilities exceeding, it is said, 1,500,000 marks.

His arrest had been ordered on the charge of having brought about the failure by fraudulent operations, and fearing the arrest he concluded to surrender himself.

OVER TWO MILLION LOSS.

A Very Destructive Fire in Buenos Ayres on Thursday.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A cable to the Herald from its correspondent at Buenos Ayres says a fire in that city on Thursday destroyed property to the value of $2,200,000.

Preparations are being made in Chile for the celebration of Columbus day, which the government has declared a public holiday.

Influenza is epidemic at Cochambaba. There have been over 300 cases. The troops in the La Paz district revolted on Sept. 15.

VILAS' MOTION DENIED.

The Wisconsin Gerrymander Case is Finally Decided.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 1.—The supreme court today denied the motion of Senator Vilas, attorney for the secretary of state, for "leave to interpose an answer" in the legislative apportionment case, and ordered judgment for relief entered for the relator, thus finally and ultimately closing the case against the secretary of state and in favor of the relator, C. F. Lamb.

The extra session of the legislature to enact a new law will undoubtedly be called at an early date.

Graveyard Insurance.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 1.—Rev. Sidney Welton, pastor of Main street Baptist church; Cepheus B. Welton, his brother, who is an insurance agent and preaches now and then, and Dr. Edward C. Randall, of Hillsboro, have been arrested on informotion of John W. Turner, charged with conspiring to cheat and defraud the Total Abstinence Life Insurance association of America, by insuring the life of a sick man named William H. Reid, last year, for $3000 for the purpose of getting the premium themselves.

Cholera in England.

VERY BAD WRECK

One of the Worst Coal and Freight Wrecks Known on the Lehigh Road.

It Was a Triple Accident and the Road is Now Completely Blocked.

Engineer Werkheiser Was Instantly Killed and Brakeman Deitrich Severely Injured.

LANSDOWN, N. J., Oct. 1.—The worst coal and freight wreck in the history of the Eastton & Amboy division of the Lehigh Valley railroad occurred early this morning. A coal train, drawn by engine 412, was ordered to wait at a siding near here until the second section of the fast freight passed, going in the same direction.

The engineer of the coal train pulled off the siding after the first section of the fast freight passed, and was run into by the second section. This threw some of the wrecked cars onto the eastbound track, where they were dashed into by engine No. 380 with an eastbound coal train, causing a triple wreck and blocking the road completely.

Engineer Jordan Werkheiser, of the second section of the fast freight, was instantly killed, and Brakeman William Dietrich severely injured. All traffic will be blocked today. The Lehigh Valley passenger and fast freight trains were sent between New York and Easton over the New Jersey Central road.

ANOTHER LEHIGH WRECK.

Six Cars of Live Stock and One Engine Derailed.

BOUND BROOK, N. J., Oct. 1.—While a coal train was running slowly near here at 7 o'clock this morning a Lehigh Valley freight train ran into the rear of the coal train wrecking a dozen coal cars.

Six cars of live stock and one engine were wrecked, blocking the road and causing a complete suspension of travel. The New Jersey and Lehigh Valley roads are both blocked now. The Reading route between Philadelphia and New York is clear.

SLOCUM AND SICKLES.

The Two Generals Make an Attack on Cleveland.

WASAINGTON, Oct. 1.—Democratic campaign managers are excited over a widely circulated report regarding an attack by two prominent New York Democrats on Candidates Cleveland and Stevenson in a secret session of the Grand Army, held in this city. These are verbatim sentences from speeches delivered by these men during the session:

Gen. Slocum—I would like to know how any soldier can vote for two men, both drafted on the same day, against a man who served his country as loyally as Harrison did in time of peril.

Gen. Sickles—No man will ever be elected to the presidency of this country who has insulted the soldiers when speaking of the question of pensions.

Iron Ore Found.

RHINELANDER, Wis., Oct. 1.—One of the richest finds of iron ore in the history of Northern Wisconsin was discovered one mile from this city yesterday on land owned by Matt Stapleton. He sold a half interest yesterday to A. W. Arown, president of the Merchants' bank, at a handsome figure. Work will be immediately commenced to develop the find.

DULUTH SOCIETY

A Little More Movement Noticed and Weddings are Getting More Numerous.

The Saturday Club Issues Its Calendar for the Season and Commences Work.

Some Marriages and Announcements of Others to Take Place Soon —Society Personals.

Social circles have been moving fairly well during the present week despite the fact that sickness and death in one prominent family, at least, has thrown a cloud over a large portion of the community. Still nothing of vast importance has taken place. A few weddings have been sandwiched in, a number of pleasant card parties have been given and several private hops. By the way "a little bird whispered to me" that one prominent lady is arranging a "car" party for an early date after the manner of the Eastern "fad" in that line. It will be a novelty and doubtless become popular.

THE SATURDAY CLUB.

Its Calendar for the Coming Season Is Issued.

The Saturday club's calendar for the season of 1892-93 is out and laid before the ninety-three lady members. The officers are: President, Mrs. O. H. Simonds; vice president, Mrs. S. T. Johnson; second vice president, Mrs. W. A. McGonagle; recording secretary, Mrs. W. G. Goffe; corresponding secretary, Miss S. Ella Roe; treasurer, Mrs. Wm. O. Pealer. The directors are Mrs. J. D. Titcomb, Mrs. R. T. Lewis, Mrs. Julia Barnes and Mrs. W. S. Albertson. There six committees—history, literature, music, art, travels and room—and four ladies are on each one, except the room committee, which is composed of three members. The division of topics is as follows:

History—Oct. 1, Nov. 5, Dec. 2, Jan. 6, (woman's day) Feb. 3, March 3, April 7, May 5.

Literature—Oct. 8, Nov. 12, Dec. 10, Jan. 14, Feb. 11, March 11, April 8, May 13.

Music—Oct. 15, Nov. 10, Dec. 17, Jan. 21, Feb. 18, March 18, April 15, May 20.

Travels—Oct. 22, Nov. 26, Dec. 24, Jan. 28, Feb. 25, March 25, April 22, May 27.

The president's days are Oct. 29, Jan. 31 and April 29. Conversations on current events are held on the first and second meetings of each month and the annual meeting is to be held June 3. The program covers a wide range under the several heads and will furnish lots of amusement and mental reflection in its careful study. The club is in a highly prosperous condition.

Sacred Concert.

"During my term of service in the army I contracted chronic diarrhœa," says A. E. Bending, of Halsey, Oregon. "Since then I have used a great amount of medicine, but when I found any that would give me relief they would injure my stomach, until Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy was brought to my notice. I used it and will say it is the only remedy that gave me permanent relief and no bad results follow." For sale by druggists.

He Comes Well Recommended. An Item That Will Interest All.

It is with pleasure that we are able to announce the permanent location in this city of the eminent dentist, Dr. Hurd. He comes here at the earnest solicitation of a large circle of friends who know him to be one of the best dentists in the profession and who felt that he could supply a long felt want in this section. One of the particular features of Dr. Hurd's work and which has made him so popular with his patients, is his wonderful success in preserving the natural teeth and in filling and extracting sensitive teeth. To those who have always felt a dread of a dentist chair is Dr. Hurd especially recommended, as his work is perfectly painless. His offices are at 310 and 312 Palladio.

Perhaps some of our readers would like to know in what respect Chamberlain's cough remedy is better than any other. We will tell you. When this remedy is taken as soon as a cold has been contracted, and before it has been settled in the system, it will counteract the effect of the cold and greatly lessen it's severity, and it is the only remedy that will do this. It acts in perfect harmony with nature and aids nature in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions, liquefying the mucus and causing its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs and restoring the system to a strong and healthy condition. No other remedy in the market possesses these remarkable properties. No other will cure a cold so quickly. For sale by druggists.

Many Feel the Same Way.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I desire to enter a protest against the style of advertising indulged in by some business houses of this city. I know not whether there is any technical name applicable to the style in question, but what I have reference to is the manner of tricking a reader into the persual of an advertisement by prefacing the same with alluring headlines followed by an interesting account of some event or other that leads up in an ingenious way to a description or an allusion to the article intended to be advertised. Take as an illustration last Saturday's Herald. I saw on the local page an article headed "A Remedy for the Cholera." The condition of affairs relative to the possibility of this country being visited by the dread disease naturally made me interested at once in the article. I started in to read it and was very mch disgusted to find that the so called "remedy" merely advertised having your laundry work done at the Zenith laundry, 212 Lake avenue south. I have been fooled in this manner a number of times and I determined to find out what the "Zenith" was like, with the result that it is one of best laundries in the West and managed by capable and obliging people who take great interest in their work leaving no chance to find fault with their work. I must say, however, I don't like that style of advertising. A VICTIM.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a specific for croup. It is very pleasant to take, which is one of the most important requisites where a cough remedy is intended for use among children. I have known of cases of croup where I know the life of a little one was saved by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." J. J. La Grange, druggist, Avoca, Neb. 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

Strong Witnesses.

Among the thousands of testimonials of cures by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, is that of Nathan Allisons, a well-known citizen of Glen Rock, Pa., who for years had shortness of breath, sleeplessness, pain in left side, shoulders, smothering spells, etc.; one bottle of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and one box of Nerve and Liver Pills cured him. Peter Jaquet, Salem, N. J., is another witness, who for twenty years suffered with heart disease, was pronounced incurable by physicians, death stared him in the face, could not lie down for fear of smothering to death. Immediately after using the new cure he felt better and could lie down and sleep all night, and is now a well man. The new cure is sold, also free book, by all druggists.

Notice.

I wish to announce to the public that the Turkish and Russian bath of 415 West Michigan street, will be closed for repairs from Oct. 2 to 6.

DARROW'S SPEECH

A Large Audience Listened to the Chicago Orator Open the Campaign in Duluth.

He Discussed the Tariff Entirely, Touching on Its Relations to the Farmer Particularly.

Maj. Baldwin Was Present and Said Something About Searle's Official Record.

The Democratic campaign in Duluth was opened last evening at the Temple. A parade preceded the meeting and was a creditable affair. The turnout of the Young Men's Democratic club in uniform—the first since their organization—was very good, at least eighty being in line. The City band led the parade and the speaker, C. S. Darrow, of Chicago, with Chairman Hudson, of the congressional committee, and others, rode in a carriage. The Opera house was well filled but not crowded. Judge White presided, and on the stage were seated Mr. Darrow, speaker of the evening; Maj. Baldwin, T. T. Hudson, T. E. Bowen, C. P. Maginnis, Mayor d'Autremont, Judge Powell, H. F. Greene, Judge Winje, Maj. Wells, Simon Clark, James Hart and others. After a patriotic selection by the band Judge White opened the meeting with a few remarks as to the purposes for which the meeting was called and objects which the Democratic party is attempting to accomplish. He then introduced Maj. Baldwin, who was greeted with a round of cheers as he stepped forward and said:

"Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen: When I cancelled an engagement to appear at another point so as to be present here I did not expect to be called on for a speech. It was rather to obtain a few hours of recreation, but I have no fault to find. I have reason to be glad for many things—one, that I am alive for I have been hustled around this district so lively that it is a wonder that I am. I am glad I am a Democrat and for tariff reform and Grover Cleveland, in spite of the attempt of the Duluth Daily News to impeach my Democracy. I am glad I am a candidate for congress because I believe I can be elected. I have good reason to believe this for the People's party candidate for congress assured me the other day that either he or myself will be elected, that the other fellow was not in it. [Applause and laughter.] I trust that my lack of experience and the fact that I never held a political office will work in my favor against the official political experience of twenty-six years of my opponent. The official disease with him has become chronic. [Applause.] But like disease his case is curable. He needs rest. [Laughter.] If he will resign the judgeship, send back his brother Frank to his neglected banking business and call off the rest of the family I promise that he will be given that political rest he is so much in need of. When elected I promise faithfully to discharge the duties to the whole district and like that peerless Democrat, Daniel Lawler, shall "be no man's man and wear no man's collar."

Great applause followed Maj. Baldwin's speech and Mr. Darrow was then introduced. He is a pleasant talker and uses none of the catch-penny stump methods. When interrupted once he invited anyone to ask him questions and he would endeavor to answer them but if he could not he would make no attempt to turn the laugh on the questioner. He speaks smoothly and freely and was quite sarcastic at times.

In opening he expressed his pleasure at being privileged to open the campaign in this great city; a city which nature meant to be great and gave advantages which will make it great in spite of all the McKinley bills ever passed; a city which is to acquire greatness as has every other great city by commerce and by trade. Nature made the harbor here and Duluth sends congressmen and lobbyists to get appropriations to improve it and make it open to the world and then these same lawmakers dam it up again. With one hand they make a market and with the other build up a protective system more dangerous than the rocks and shoals in the harbor. "Protection, the people are told is a fine word," said he. "The word may be all right, but that is all there is right about it. It is a sad day when it is taken as a better word than liberty. Let us examine the thing instead of the word. It is the thing called protection in all its hideous deformity that I must talk of. There are few questions so easy to understand as the tariff. Kings and princes always adopted this system of taxation, so that their subjects could never find out what they are getting. Protectionists tell us we are theorists. We are not, it is the other fellows who are. Every man on earth follows free trade as naturally as he draws his breath. It is practice, not theory. The protectionist is the theorist. He says that in spite of all human nature by simply passing a law wealth can be created better than by delving in the soil. He makes a law to prevent us from going to foreign lands and buying, and then he goes over and tries to smuggle goods back himself, and why? Because it is natural to trade; it is instinct.

"What is the tariff? If once clearly understood, that settles it. The protectionist tells us we will get rich by taxation, but we are taught differently. They tell us that all the works of Providence are nothing compared to McKinley and his little bill." [Laughter.] Mr. Darrow then argued that the consumer pays the tax and that on all goods which are manufactured in this country, the manufacturer pockets it instead of the government. "Why is that tax placed there?" he continued. "In the preamble of every tariff law it is expressly stated that it is to raise revenue for the government, but when your protectionist gets out in the farming and manufacturing districts, he says it was passed for protection. Take two bolts of cloth, one English, the other American. The English costs 50 per cent more than the other because of the duty. What does the American do? He advances his cloth 50 per cent aad the consumer pays for it. Nine-tenths of the goods used by Americans are produced at home. This means that we pay $9 to the manufacturers where we pay $1 to the government.

"For my part I don't believe in indirect taxation. I am willing to pay my share of the expenses of the government but an honest government would come to me and say how much it wants. I would then pay it as willingly as I do my grocer's or my butcher's bill. Under the 'McKinley bill sugar was made free and then we found out whether the consumer paid the tax or not. Nine-tenths of the sugar we use comes from foreign lands. If we pay $50,000,000 tax, $45,000,000 goes to the government and only one-tenth to the home manufacturer. But nine-tenths of the clothing we use is made here. If we pay $50,000,000 tax $45,000,000 goes to the manufacturer. The McKinley bill took the tariff off sugar because the bonus goes to the government and raised it on clothing because the bonus goes to the manufacturer."

Mr. Darrow then discussed at length the operation of the tariff on the farmer, claiming that there is no protection for him; that he must sell his wheat in Liverpool, the market of the world, against the wheat of all other nations; that he is prohibited from buying his necessities in the market of the world and must take his free trade money he gets for his wheat and come back to the fenced-up market and spend it. He then told how a infant first sees the light of day through a taxed pane of window glass, plays with a protected doll and so on. "I can't follow you all through life now," said he, "but the tax will just the same. [Laughter.] It is the first thing to greet you when you come into the world and the last to bid you a reluctant farewell when you go out. The tombstone over your grave telling what a smart man you were is taxed. Aye, it goes beyond the grave, even into the portals of eternity—there is a tax of $10 per ton on brimstone. [Great laughter.] But the McKinley bill has put brimstone on the free list. They now propose to give us hell free."

The speaker declared that under a protective system a man pays taxes not according to his wealth, but according to the size of his family. He discussed the effect on the laborer and denied that he is protected. He ridiculed the idea of infant industries and in closing touched briefly on the humanitarian aspect of the system. Everything which brings men and nations closer together is a step toward the morning and the future, he declared. The time is coming when a man will strive to be a citizen of the world rather than of any nation.

VERY RICH NATION

"Lo, the Poor Indian," Has His Capacious Pockets Full of Hard Money.

The Creeks Also Stand Among the Opulent Tribes and Are Largely Civilized.

THE sale to the United States of the Cherokee strip, the rapid rush of the land hungry Caucasians, the growth of Oklahoma and its lurid politics, all these in rapid succession, and followed by a disputed election and condition near akin to civil war in the Choctaw-Chickasaw Nation, have again created a popular interest in the civilized tribes. It was ever thus. For a century and a half the Cherokees have appeared in American history and current discussion at regularly recurring intervals, engaging in turn the energies of warriors, statesmen and philanthropists and the sentimental interest of poets.

The Creeks, or Muskokees, appeared in history soon after the Cherokees, but they are a confederacy or conglomeration rather than a nation, and five languages are spoken among the Creeks of today. The Choctaws and Chickasaws next attracted attention, and next the Seminoles (or exiled Creeks) gave occasion for one of the most tragic and pathetic episodes in American history. At the end of 392 years after their first visit from De Soto, and 107 years after their first treaty with the United States, the Cherokees once more take rank as an important people and probably the richest nation per capita in the world.

In 1860 they had attained to this distinction, and estimating their horses and cattle at the prices prevailing in the border markets it was thought by Indian agents that the wealth of the tribe aggregated $17,000 per family. At the close of the civil war they were practically objects of charity. The value of their cattle driven into Kansas and "confiscated" was set at $2,000,000. The rest of their staff, with a majority of the tribe, went south, and their stock went the way of all cattle in that region in those times. The Creeks fared a little better, and but little. Their chief school, the Tallahassee mission, was broken up and the building used as a stable for the Confederate cavalry. But they rallied soon after the war, composed their differences after one or two local rebellions, and soon had their school in better condition than ever.

From this school and from the scholars among the Cherokees have come productions which give us more insight into Indian nature and the Indian tongues than from any other source, and will in time prove of even more historic interest than Eliot's Indian Bible. All the world has heard of Sequoyah, or George Guess, the Cadmus of the Cherokees, The Admirable Crichton of the wilderness. He invented an alphabet for the Cherokees, which is a perfect vehicle for sound, so far as it goes. The Creeks, however, adopted the white man's letters, and a white woman has given them and the world a complete Creek version of the New Testament.

This remarkable achievement has won high honors for the lady, who is well worthy of special mention. Mrs. Ann Eliza Worcester Robertson was born Nov. 7, 1826, at the Brainerd mission in the eastern Cherokee Nation, Tennessee, being the daughter of Rev. Samuel A. Worcester, D. D. In 1835 her parents followed the exiled Cherokees to their western home, and in 1850 she married W. S. Robertson, A. M., principal of the Tallahassee Manual Labor Boarding school, as it was then called. She had previously taken a full course at the St. John's academy, in Vermont, and in her new position rapidly acquired a mastery of the Muskokee tongue.

In 1870, in the intervals of her work as teacher and matron, she commenced turning the Gospel of St. John into Muskokee, and having completed this work, with the aid of Mr. S. M. Berryman, she was encouraged to finish the New Testament. The first edition was so successful that a second was published in 1891 by the American Bible society, of New York. She has also assisted her husband in preparing various religious works, and has prepared a song book containing sixty-six hymns in the Creek tongue. For all this the University of Wooster, Ohio, has conferred on her the degree of doctor of philosophy. Early in 1872 I was the guest of these worthy people at the Tallahassee mission, my stay including a Sunday. It roused the missionary spirit indeed to hear the seventy boys and girls, led by Miss Robertson on the organ, singing the Creek version of "Shall We Gather at the River?" Here is the first verse:

Cesus em estolke fullan
Cesus liket a fihnet os
Hoyayvket fihnet os.

CHORUS.

Momos mon teheceyvres
Uerakko herusen esherusen
Mekusapulken etohkv liket
Fulleye munku tares.

C is pronounced as ch in child; e as i in pin; v as short u; y between two vowels unites with the preceding, as i, to form a diphthong, and has also its own sound before the next; a is pronounced as in father, and all other letters as in English. With this dash of orthoepy the reader will of course find it easy to sing "Beautiful River" in Muskokee. Creek and English being the only languages used at the school, every Uchee, Natchee and Alabama boy or girl had to learn a new language before his education proper began, but the school was even then eradicating these local differences in the Nation.

The Creeks, as aforesaid, are a confederation, of which the original tribe only was Muskokee, and this tribe was divided into Coweetas and Hitchitees. Starting, according to their traditions, somewhere in the far southwest, they fought their way eastward and northward to Illinois, then eastward and southward to the border land of Georgia and Florida. If those they fought were cowardly, the Muskokees drove away or exterminated them; if they fought well and still were conquered, the Muskokees adopted them. Thus they absorbed the Uchees, Natchees and Alabamas, and remnants of these nations occupy their separate towns and speak their tribal tongues in the Creek Nation to this day.

The first Seminoles were young Creeks who rebelled against the old chiefs in 1750. In 1808 another band of rebel exiles joined them, and soon after their long war with the United States began. Their great chief, As-se-he-ho-lar, or Black Drink, usually called Osceola, has a place in history with the most noted of his race. When the troubles began the Seminoles were the richest of all Indian tribes. When their last war closed they were wretched outcasts, begging a refuge with their Creek kinsman in the west. In 1856 they were by treaty recognized as a nation and received their allotment just west of the Creeks. Thus was completed the establishment of the so called five civilized tribes, but the Choctaws and Chickasaws are now one nation. The history of these last is but the commonplace one of encroaching whites and slowly retreating aborigines.

In the Cherokees, however, centers all the romance of Indian history. They are sometimes spoken of as "the aristocracy of the red race," and certain it is that when first encountered by the whites they were a superior people, and that they have maintained some progress ever since. Their line of march and successive occupation across the continent from the Yemassee to the Arkansas can be traced by a broad belt of local names—Conesauga, Etowah, Oostenaula, Ellijay, Dahlonega, Chickamauga and many more, each composed of single syllable descriptive words, the whole name being simply a brief description of the place or thing, or of some marked feature of it as it appeared to the Indians. Such is the genius of all the Indian tongues. They are polysynthetic, that is, composed of a limited number of radical syllables, which may be combined at will to form any new word that is needed. But advanced tribes, like the Creeks, Cherokees and others have many fixed terms and a more complicated speech.

And it was this language, in what might be called its second stage of development—that is when the ever varying combinations were beginning to harden into fixed words—that Sequoyah undertook to reduce to writing, in 1810 or thereabouts. In 1821 he had it completed. It is not strictly true that he invented letters. He had seen white men using them, and his untaught shrewdness gave him a clew to their method. It will well repay any scholar to master the Cherokee alphabet sufficiently to read aloud with fluency, and any one can do it in a week. It is a singularly instructive lesson.

The young Cherokee does not have to learn to spell, the alphabet is purely phonetic. In 1805-10 the Cherokees had sunk to a rather low ebb. They had ceased to be good pagans without becoming Christians. A common subject of debate among them was the white man's "talk paper." The old set declared it was a sort of witchcraft peculiar to whites—no Indian could learn it. That settled the matter with the Bourbons. Sequoyah and a few radicals declared it was an art which Indians could master, and finally proved it. He advanced rapidly in honor and learning. One of his favorite ideas was that the Navajoes were a branch of the Cherokees long separated from the rest. He went to visit them and never returned. Born in Georgia about 1770, he died in northern Mexico in 1842. As long as she lived the Cherokee Nation paid his widow $300 per year—the only literary pension paid in the United States.

It is pleasant to read in the papers of the day that the last point in issue between this interesting people and the United States is definitely settled; that the money received for their lands is so judiciously invested that the interest supports their government and schools and leaves a surplus, and that their crops and cattle are again so abundant that, as in 1860, they may well claim to be in proportion to their numbers the richest nation in the world. It is the fashion to say that the west and the south have treated the Indians with unexampled cruelty, and strangely enough this complaint is heard most often in the only section which exterminated its own Indians, not leaving a remnant. Almost every tribe of the Ohio and Mississippi valley now has its representatives on the reserved land, but where are the Pequots and Mohicans, the Narragansetts and the Wampanoags?

It is the fashion to say that the Indians owned and inhabited the country, and the whites violently took it from them. Neither statement is true. The country was not in any just sense inhabited. There are good reasons for believing that there are as many Indians within the present limits of the United States as when the pilgrims landed. It is certain that the great plains were not inhabited till after the horse was introduced. The Indians "owned" the country only in the sense that gypsies own a country over which they roam, or hunters own a forest. There was no occupation in any moral or legal sense.

This world was not made to be monopolized in that way. The area required to yield one savage a precarious living will sustain 600 civilized people in the highest condition of comfort. If man is at liberty to deduce the eternal design from his own moral instincts and the world's experience, his conclusion is unavoidable: That the 75,000 civilized Indians in the Indian Territory present a far more pleasing sight to higher intelligence than did the 200,000 who once roamed over the whole country east of the Rocky mountains.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 1.—An area of high barometer has moved rapidly down from the country to the north of Minnesota, and now covers the most of the United States. An area of low is apparently central over Montana, but the lack of reports from the far northwest (from where they are all missing this morning) makes its position rather uncertain.

Slight changes in temperature have taken place except in the vicinity of the great lakes where there has been something of a fall. Light showers of rain fell at St. Vincent, Minn., and Huron, S. D., yesterday, with these exceptions there was no rain, and although the weather is generally cloudy this morning, there is no prospects of any today.

The highest temperature here yesterday was 76°, the mean yesterday, 70, which was 20° higher than the average for that day for the past twenty-one years. The lowest last night was 52.°

DULUTH, Oct. 1.—Continued fair weather; slightly cooler today, temperature rising slightly Sunday: fresh easterly winds shifting to south, and probably west by Sunday.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Minnesota: Local showers; southerly winds, shifting to westerly; probably cooler Sunday night. For Wisconsin: Local showers, followed by fair weather; southeasterly winds; warmer.

THE SKANDINAV FOR BALDWIN.

On the tenth page of The Herald today will be found an important political announcement translated from today's issue of the Duluth Skandinav, the leading Norwegian newspaper of the Sixth congressional district and the only People's party in Duluth, its editor being M. Wesenberg, who has for a long time been prominently connected with the third party movement in this state. The Skandinav has bolted the People's party nomination for congress in this district, and declares that it will support Maj. Baldwin, believing that the best interests of the district, and Duluth in particular, would be subserved by his election.

The open repudiation of A. C. Parsons, the Populist candidate, by a leading third party paper like the Skandinav, is a political sensation that will stir the Populists throughout the entire Sixth district. The sensation is increased by the reasons advanced for throwing Mr. Parsons overboard. Its action is based upon a letter written to the chairman of the People's party district committee by Anton Ringsred, a well known and reputable citizen of Duluth, who has been identified with the Populist cause. In this letter, which is reproduced in The Herald today, Mr. Ringsred makes charges affecting Mr. Parsons' honesty. Although the facts were presented to the district committee, no action has been taken to withdraw Mr. Parsons from the Populist ticket, and therefore the Skandinav has decided to lay the case before the public as the court of last appeal.

Having repudiated Mr. Parsons, the Skandinav has decided to support Maj. Baldwin as against Judge Searle for the very excellent reason that it considers him the best equipped man for the place. "We are not of those who hold," says the Skandinav, "that because a candidate is a resident of Duluth, it must necessarily follow that he will work for the best interests of Duluth and the district, but we do believe that an honorable, honest and able business man of Duluth, whose record up to date has shown that he is closely identified with Duluth, and has a live interest in the advancement of the city, such a representative we believe would be to the business advantage of every voter in the district. Such a man we believe Maj. M. R. Baldwin, president of Duluth's chamber of commerce, to be. As against Judge Searle, the reputed candidate of Jim Hill, the citizens of Duluth and the farmers of the Sixth congressional district of Minnesota will be far better served by Maj. Baldwin." The Skandinav is a paper of great influence among the People's party people, especially with the Norwegian element, and its advice to support Maj. Baldwin will undoubtedly be followed, thus ensuring Maj. Baldwin's election without any question.

WITHOUT A CLOUD.

Dun's weekly review of trade says that business continues larger than ever at this time of year, and the commercial sky is without a cloud. Money is everywhere in ample supply and collections have very rarely been more generally sarisfactory. The outgo of money to the Western centers for purchases in the country is larger than usual and yet there is no embarrassment.

The reports are uniformly favorable and the promise is distinctly better than it was a few weeks ago. In general, business is pronounced not only large and healthy, but the outlook for the coming month is everywhere regarded with the utmost confidence.

In no city in the country are these conditions more apparent than in Duluth. The merchants all report that business is in an excellent state and is steadily increasing, while the prospects for fall trade were never brighter. These facts are abundantly proven by the extensive announcements of the business men in The Herald this evening. All their advertisements glow with the feelings of prosperous merchants who are rushed with business. Bank clearings are not a reliable index of business, but it is worthy of note that Duluth's bank clearings for the present week show an increase of $128,585 over last week. This is not a very heavy increase, but it is a healthy indication of steady growth.

STRENGTH IN UNION.

The Duluth and the Superior real estate men have decided to go to the Buffalo national convention as a united delegation. They will work hand in hand to secure several objects which they have in view, and will leave no effort unused to advertise the great advantages which are offered for the investment of capital in new industries and property at the head of the lakes. This is as it should be always.

If Duluth and Superior, instead of fighting each other and thus benefiting neither, should unite as against other cities, they could accomplish whatever they attempted, so strong are their natural advantages. This need not debar a healthy rivalry, but rivalry does not necessarily mean warfare, and it should be remembered that in warfare there are certain to be some killed and wounded on both sides.

It is therefore utter folly for Duluth and Superior to be perpetually knifing each other. It does no injury to the other cities watching the fight, and The Herald trusts that it has now come to an end. The bitter feeling is confined to a limited number of people. It is to be hoped that the action of the delegations to Buffalo will lead to united work in other directions.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES' WAGES.

The Railway Age this week has a notable article on the wages of railway employes which throws considerable light upon the determined manner in whichsevral railroads have recently absolutely refused to grant what seemed but small advances in wages and preferred the troubles incident to strikes. According to the Age, there are about 860,000 employes in the service of the railways of the United States. An increase of wages of 30 cents a day to all employes (supposing one-half of the entire number to work on Sundays and the other half to be paid for only six days in the week) would make—being $101.70 to the man a year—a total increase in payment for wages on all the railways of $87,000,000 annually. But during the year 1891 the entire amount of money paid in dividends on all the stock of all the railways of the country only amounted to $89,000,000. So that a general increase in wages of only 30 cents a day would just about wipe out the entire revenue of the railways of the United States available for dividends.

As a matter of fact the results would be even more appalling than the above statement indicates, because the dividends which are paid on the stock of a comparatively small number of companies. Take any one of the large granger roads, employing from 25,000 to 30,000 men. The increase of 30 cents a day would mean to such a road from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 a year. What road could pay that? A general increase of wages to all railway employes of even 10 cents a day would, within two years, send two-thirds at least of the companies which are nominally solvent today into bankruptcy, and would produce such a universal panic, such an utter wreck of credit, that every employe would suffer fifty times more than he would gain by an advance.

These are claimed to be facts, which neither the railway employes, as a whole, nor the public at all understand at present, but which can be verified in a few minutes. With rates and earnings at their present level, the Age holds that any general increase of wages on railways is hopelessly impossible. But a general increase is only an aggregation of individual increases, and before any particular class of railway men make up their minds that they are aggrieved and ought to receive higher pay, it is well that they should understand these facts. Before they can pay more money the railways must earn more. They cannot, for any length of time, pay out moneys which they do not receive.

THE VENAL VOTE.

It is doubtful if any political discussion for many years has attracted so much attention as the revelations of venal voting in Connecticut made in the September Forum by Prof. J.J. McCook, of Hartford. In the October number Prof. McCook explains the precise methods in which the venal vote is handled, how it is contracted for and delivered; who pays for it, to what degree each party profits by it; and he goes further than this into the examination of the methods whereby campaign funds are raised, who pays them, why they pay them, and what becomes of them; he discusses how the ballot-reform law has been evaded, how the oaths required of electors are of no effect; and then he proceeds to a discussion of remedies for such widespread venality.

There is no doubt that the ballot-reform laws have had a tendency to check corruption, but there is no hope of their eradicating it. Inasmuch as venality is a disease, and since it spreads and produces permanent effects like any other disease in any community where it is planted, the chief remedy that Professor McCook relies upon is treatment of it as a disease—that is to say, he would have the persons who have been convicted of crime disenfranchised.

The most startling thing in Professor McCook's study of this whole subject is the demonstration he has made of the looseness of morals which has crept into political management, even when political management is in the hands of men who in all other work are conscientious and upright. Anything is considered fair in politics, and he quotes instances to show that men who hold themselves above reproach and are so considered in their communities are really the most guilty class in this nefarious traffic.

This article, analyzing the causes and methods of venality, is even more startling in some of its details than the preceding article which showed the proportion of the venal.

The News says that Judge Searle can accomplish more for our waterways than Maj. Baldwin, because "he is a man experienced in public life." Will the News please state what particular experience the judge has had to fit him for congressional work? He has never been noted for special energy, he is not a good speaker by any means and he is but poorly informed on the subjects which he would be required to handle.

The Herald is pleased to learn that the Duluth Boat club has decided to engage a trainer and make preparations for active work next season. If the club carries out its present intentions, there is no reason why Duluth should not win some of the best races at the next regatta of the Minnesota & Winnipeg Rowing association.

The interview with W. W. Erwin on the wheat ring charges was published by the News with apparently great pleasure. Mr. Erwin says the anti-option bill would put an end to any oppression that the farmers are suffering. Does the News endorse his claim or does it still cling to the opinion that the measure is unwise?

Land Office Business.

The business of the land office for the month of September was as follows:

Sale of public lands, 33 entries, 2,418.77 acres	$3,101 49
Soldiers' and sailors' D. S., 12 entries	12 00
Homesteads, 148 entries, 18,604.85 acres	1,756 45
Final homesteads, 3 entries, 440 acres	14 00
One military bounty land warrant, 103 acres	4 09
Plats and proofs	91 85
Total	$4,989 79

Fire Department Matters.

Chief Smith's report for September is very brief. He reports eight fire alarms during the month, and gives the value of property endangered at $50,000; the insurance, $18,000; the total loss, $150. Truckman Thomas O'Connor, of No. 2 hook and ladder company, is sick with typhoid; the horses are all well, and the apparatus and houses in fine condition. The report of Captain Joseph Randall, of engine company No. 3, is one of the most carefully prepared and comprehensive reports ever laid before the commissioners and shows much care in its preparation.

Chief Smith leaves this afternoon for Louisville, Ky., to attend a national convention of fire chiefs. He is the second on the list of speakers and will read a paper on "How to Fight and Prevent Fires on Coal Docks."

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION:

GENTLEMEN:—The undersigned, a committee appointed by the President to investigate into the merits of the various typewriting machines with a view to the adoption of some machine for the use of the members of this Association, respectfully report that in their judgment, all things having been considered, the Remington is the machine which they would recommend for adoption, believing that in its superiority of design and excellence of workmanship, its great simplicity, durability and easy manipulation, it is more desirable for use in newspaper offices than any other. In addition, the fact that it is understood and operated by a great many thousands of young men and women, that the use of it is being taught not only in the public schools, but in commercial schools and colleges throughout the land, and its being generally referred to as the standard, the large number of offices which the company have scattered throughout the country, making it easy to have repairs made at the least expense, have all had some effect in basing their judgment.

HAVE EIGHT NOW

That Number of Good Men Have Been Secured to Determine Houck's Fate.

Four Were Accepted This Morning Out of About Seventy Who Were Examined.

All Witnesses Were Excused until Nine O'Clock Monday Morning.

The Houck murder case still holds the boards before a fair audience in court room No. 1 at the temple of justice. All yesterday afternoon it proceeded at a pace in keeping with that of the hackneyed snail. By 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the special venire was exhausted and only four jurors had been caught and tucked into the box. Sixteen men were called during the afternoon session, but only two were chosen. Those two were William S. Austin, of Duluth, a wholesale cigar salesman, and Oscar A. Peterson, a Swedish carpenter from Fond du Lac. After ordering a special venire of fifty for the justice mill to work into jury timber Judge Stearns adjourned court until 9 o'clock this morning.

The case was called at 9 o'clock this morning and Phelps for the defense and Attorney General Clapp for the prosecution conducted the examination of the candidates for initiation as jurors. Houck closely watched each move in the game and retained the slight nervousness that seemed to affect him yesterday. County Attorney Tear was conspicuous by his silence and "Bill" Erwin closely eyed the candidates when called up, calmly chewing choice bits of Kickapoo plug and nonchalantly expectorating in the cuspidore.

The first victim led out was T. H. Hawks, a Duluth fire insurance agent. He was challenged for actual bias, and after his mental make-up had been investigated, was excused. E. Lloyd, an old Welshman, who runs a Duluth boarding house was laid on the dissecting table. While his mind seemed more or less a blank, he proved to be a prize, for both sides accepted him. He was sworn in and tucked away with "the four men good and true" already selected. It never rains but pours, for the next unfortunate called to the front was Joseph Jolean, a painter, blessed with a residence in Duluth. Joseph was so constituted that both sides looked with favor upon him and he was sworn in and placed in the sixth chair with the elect.

John Helmer, a woodsman, was excused on the peremptory challenge of the defense. Then came Ed. Lynch, one of Duluth's army of pine land dealers. Ed. was excused as was also J. C. Fyfe, a lumberman, who followed in the pine land dealer's wake. J. G. Scarlet, one of the members of the city's real estate brigade, was rendered happy by being excused. Another excuse because of a peremptory challenge of the defense, was presented to Ross Gilkey, a Duluth dealer in pine lands. J. T. Dow, an unassuming dealer in dirt, had a job lot of scruples against capital punishment. He was excused. L. O. Hulberg, a jeweler, and David Buchanan, a grocer, both residents of Duluth, had opinions and were excused.

F. T. Little, a gray bearded resident of the city, was called upon to define the different degrees of killing for the instruction of Attorney General Clapp. Upon stating that manslaughter is the act of "stepping up to a fellow and killing him without any cause," Mr. Little was given permission to depart in peace. In a very few minutes Chas. Edwards, an abstractor; R. S. Lerch, the liveryman; W. W. McMillan and C. D. McEachron, all of Duluth, were found to have each an abnormal mental pulse and excused as a result. Upon application of Gen. Clapp, the judge stopped the game and allowed a five-minute recess.

After recess, Judge Stearns announced for Attorney General Clapp that even should a jury be secured before the close of today, the trial would not be commenced until Monday morning, hence all witnesses in the case were excused until 9 o'clock that day. The next member of the venue called was F. W. Winship. He was excused as also was C.W. Wilson who followed him. M. A. Doughty, a Duluth butcher and blacksmith, being brought up was given the credit of possessing the stuff of which jurors are composed and sworn in as the seventh man to sit in judgment on Houck's fate.

Wm. Kaiser and T. Chadwick, a couple more members of the struggling real estate fraternity, were quickly examined and excused. J. A. Carlson and G. W. Strayer were found to be unfit to sit on the jury and were excused. Ed Elston, a West Duluth loan and collection agent, was rejected, as was Fred Schofield, a clothing clerk, who not long since sold Haggerty a suit of clothes. F. Ness, a Norwegian with a polished dome of thought, said that he not only was "out of a yob" but had not heard of the murder at all until this morning, whereupon the defense refused him the sweet boon of a place in the jury box. L. M. Larson, a lime and cement dealer, and A. W. Anderson, J. S. Lane, a tailor, were called up and then found lacking.

Ed. Ingalls stated that he was not actively engaged in business. Both sides in the case consented to his employment as the eighth juror. W. T. Heimbach, a lumberman, stated that Haggerty worked for him last summer. After a few questions further he was excused without preliminaries. A. T. Scarlet, of the Cataract house at West Duluth, had doubts as to his ability to be influenced only by the law and evidence and was told to go. Judge Stearns then announced a recess until 2:30 p. m.

SONS OF ST. GEORGE.

They Organize and Banquet Last Evening at the Brighton.

A lodge of the Order of Sons of St. George was organized last evening in the Hayes block hall with thirty-seven charter members. The following officers were elected: President, C. Willoughby; vice president, Cordy Edwards; secretary, James W. Wood; assistant secretary, Benjamin Wood; treasurer, Richard Dinham; messenger, W. L. Pierce; assistant messenger, H. G. Johnson; trustees, I. Ridge, George Goldsmith, William George. After the meeting a banquet was given at the Brighton, about twenty-five members of the Superior lodge being present. Rev. W. M. Barker made a bright speech describing the composition of the Englishman and the characteristics of each people whose traits he inherits. Henry Haskins made an excellent speech on England descriptive of her natural beauty, and called her the flower garden of the world. T. W. Hugo and Rev. G. H. Kemp also spoke. The banquet was a neat and tasty affair and reflected credit on the hotel.

He Wants Therese.

Minneapolis papers tell of a young man, about 23, evidently a workingman, who has been standing in front of a prominent store, watching the crowds, for several days past. His dress proclaimed him from the rural district. He was approached and finally induced to talk. He said he was looking for someone, but could not be induced to divulge the name. He started to become confidential and said the girl's name was Therese, but would say no more. He gave his name as John Ryden, and said he was stopping at the Grand Central hotel, corner of First avenue south and Second street, and that he came from Hinckley, Minn. The reporter suggested that he might be looking for a runaway, but this was denied.

Sawmill for Virginia.

The new town of Virginia is to have a new sawmill. Finlayson & Co., of St. Paul, have purchased 50,000,000 feet of pine in that vicinity and have leased a site from the Virginia Townsite company. They will at once erect a mill that will cut from 3,000,000 to 15,000,000 per year and will employ 100 men. There is 400,000,000 feet of pine tributary to Virginia and it will be quite a lumbering point. Other mills are figuring on going in there.

A Day's Drunks.

Sam Jamison, M. Conrad, John Jackson, John Peterson, Joe Queen and Chas. Moore, plain drunks, were each given the stationary dose of $10 or ten days before Judge Powell this morning. William Fox, for being drunk and disorderly was fined $12 or twelve days. Ed Joyce and Pete Kostilsky, for disturbing the peace, paid $9.50 each. William Davy on the same charge arrested some days ago, changed his plea to guilty and was fined $3 and costs, amounting to $5.50.

Births and Deaths.

The following births were reported today: Son to Oscar and Mary Grandfordt, at 615 Garfield avenue; son to John and Elise Forsberg, at 1309 West Michigan street; son to J. M. and Minnie W. Anderson, at 822 East Fourth street. The deaths reported were: At 2807 West Third street, C. Peterson, aged 21 years, cause, typhoid fever; at 334 St. Croix avenue, Lilly Peterson, aged 2 years, cause, diphtheria; at 310 Twenty-second avenue west, Pearl Craig, aged 7 years 8 months and 8 days, cause, typhoid fever.

Mrs. N. O. Narveson, the well known dressmaker of the West End, has returned and can be found at 2102 West Superior street near Johnson & Moe's store where she will be pleased to meet her patrons.

DEADLY TYPHOON

Four Hundred Persons Were Crushed to Death and Hundreds of Houses Wrecked.

The Typhoon Reached Hong Kong and Did Great Damage in That City.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—The Pacific Mail steamship Peru brings Japanese news up to September 16. The gale which swept over southern and central Japan last month, devastated the Rinkin Islands and inflicted other terrible damage, the returns from the larger ones alone showing that 400 persons were crushed to death, 230 houses completely wrecked and 1511 partially destroyed.

At Homastut, a court house, a school, sixty-two dwellings and a brick railway station were blown down, ten persons killed and many wounded. In the Shuoka prefecture, the destruction wrought was far greater, 800 dwellings being swept away.

In Aidy five people were killed; in Gumma the same devastation took place with the same number of deaths. The Spanish consul at Hong Kong wired dispatches that the typhoon had reached there and done great damage. There is intense suffering.

THE GRAIN RATE CASE.

Brief Filed by the St. Paul & Duluth Road's Attorneys.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The St. Paul & Duluth railroad company, represented by Lusk, Bunn & Hadley, their attorneys, yesterday presented its brief to the interstate commerce commission in the Minneapolis rate discrimination case.

These attorneys assert in their argument that Minneapolis millers must have a rate to move their surplus product East, which will put them substantially on an equality with Duluth elevator men. A 5-cent rate has been put in to enable them to do this even if it is too low in comparison with the flour rate. There is no unjust discrimination against the Minneapolis millers.

This difference between rates clearly does not substantially affect them. If the wheat rate were advanced to 7½ cents, these millers would be in no better situation, and Minneapolis owners of wheat would be in a worse situation than at present.

It is suggested to the commission that a 7½ cent flour rate is of itself a reasonable rate, but that the difference between that rate and the wheat rate is too great. The only proper decree would be that the difference be either wiped out or lessened. There could be no decree reducing the flour rate.

This completes the filing of briefs by the defendants in this case. The Minneapolis chamber of commerce people will have several days through their attorneys, Britton & Gray, of this city, to answer the arguments presented by the railroad companies. It is believed here that the commission will not reach a decision until Nov. 15, at the earliest.

MORE RATE CUTTING.

The Real Estate Congress is the Cause of It.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 1.—According to a certain railway official, who has been investigating the matter, two of the St. Paul lines have set each other by the ears and are now cutting the rate from here to the real estate congress at Buffalo.

The cut, which is a secret one and entirely unauthorized, is in effect via both lines out of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth, and is not only a reduction of the authorized rate, but is also a slash of the existing regular one way route. In effect, the rate quoted from here to Buffalo by these lines is $15.

The Legislative Nomination.

J. B. Cotton is receiving very generous encouragement and support in his candidacy for the legislative nomination. The young men of the party are very generally supporting him, and they compose no small quota of the Republican party. Mr. Cotton is capable and reliable, and is an ardent C. K. Davis man. For these reasons his friends claim it would be good policy for the Republican party to nominate Mr. Cotton.

It Wore on Him.

Can any one tell why it is that in all the pathetic stories of housecleaning with which the newspapers periodically abound, it is invariably the husband and father who is represented as the chief sufferer? Here now is the latest of such veracious chronicles, clipped from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Perhaps the mystery is explained by the excessively sympathetic nature of the average man.

Directly after breakfast the man of the house took to the sofa in the sitting room with the morning newspaper, while his wife set about the housecleaning. She was dismantling the front room, and before he had finished the sporting column she had carried past him seven chairs, three tables, a desk, four footstools, all the pictures, a piano stool, a bookcase and sundry other pieces of furniture.

Then she lugged in a pair of steps and a pail of water, and began to clean.

"Do you want any assistance, Maria?" said the man, at that point, as he rose and folded the paper.

"Not just yet, dear," said Maria.

"Well, then, I think I'll leave you," said he, and he started for the office.

On the way he stopped to tell three men that if there was anything that wore him to the skin and bone it was that confounded housecleaning.

The Story of John Smith.

It was on Sept. 9 that John Smith, of Virginia, narrowly escaped death through the presence of mind of Pocahontas. Smith had long whiskers and a blond pompadour, which were novelties in Virginia at that time, and Pocahontas was impressed.

She decided on a coup.

Hurriedly approaching the spot where Smith was about to be pulverized with a club, she uttered an exclamation of surprise.

"Why, Smithy," she cried, "where have you been all this time?"

Turning to her father, who stood near, she smiled pleasantly.

"Papa, Mr. Smith—Mr. Smith, papa," she vivaciously remarked. "I met Mr. Smith at the seaside, papa. And how is your dear mother, Mr. Smith?"

The ruse was successful. In time Smith married Pocahontas, which was better than being killed.—Detroit Tribune.

His Little Game.

A stage coach was toiling up a steep ascent. Suddenly the driver got down, and while the horses were straining every nerve, he noisily opened the coach door and slammed it to again.

"What is that for?" inquired one of the travelers impatiently.

"Sir, the road is very steep, and I'm doing it for the sake of my beasts."

"How is that?"

"Why, you see, every time I open the door and shut it again, they fancy some one has got out."—Annales Politiques et Litteraires.

GOING TOGETHER

The Two Delegations Will Work With Each Other and Carry Off Some Honors.

C. E. Lovett Has Something to Say of the Last Congress and the Benefits Derived.

The second congress of the National Real Estate association meets at Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4, 5 and 6. The representative citizens and business men of Duluth and Superior have buried all tomahawks and long knives and amidst hunks of harmony have united their forces and talents for the purpose of keeping as near the head of the procession on that occasion as only the hustlers from the head of the lakes know how.

The delegations from the two cities will travel in the same special Pullman car which will be appropriately and effectively decorated with banners and inscriptions. All statistics given out will be combined and lumped off so as to represent both cities and the head of the lakes. The delegates will all wear the same badge. A Superior man will receive the solid support for the place of vice-president for Wisconsin and the Superior warriors will, in return, help the Duluthians hustle for anything that is loose enough to be carried off. That combination will be a world beater, and wise people who ought to know claim that if it was made a permanent feature at the head of the lakes both marvelous cities would fare much better in the race for prominence and prosperity than under the bilious condition of things in the past.

Headquarters have been secured in the Buffalo Music hall building, and a display will be there especially made in the interests of the Zenith city by the Duluth delegation. One beautiful display will be composed of twenty water color sketches of Duluth buildings, the High school, Lyceum building, Masonic Temple, chamber of commerce, the Union depot, the Imperial mill and others. There will be a large variety of photographic views of different parts of Superior street. A winning feature will be a photographic bird's-eye view of the city, 2 by 8 feet in area, the work of Thiel, the photographer.

E. S. Holliday leaves this evening, so as to be in Buffalo Monday at a meeting of the board of control, of which he is a member. The remainder of the delegates will leave tomorrow, going straight through to Chicago, where other delegations will be joined.

The citizens of Buffalo are making extensive preparations for the entertainment of the visitors, of whom it is expected there will be fully 5000. In addition to the admirable list of addresses arranged for and previously published in this paper, there will be some eloquent words by Col. Bob Ingersoll. Chas. A. Towne, of Duluth, will probably be in attendance to set afloat for the allied forces any necessary oratory.

The objects of this association, as set forth by its president, are to establish and maintain a central body of reference and union for its members; to acquire, preserve and disseminate valuable information appertaining to real estate in the United States; to encourage, establish and maintain uniform business principles and usages in real estate transactions; to encourage the organization of associations and exchanges in various states and cities of the United States; to influence and direct and make uniform, as far as possible, the laws affecting real property in various states; to discourage wild speculation and fictitious "booms;" to encourage and direct, as far as possible, the investment of money in those sections promising the greatest and safest returns; to elevate and dignify the real estate business; to encourage and improve social intercourse among the members of the association; to establish a high standard of ethics among real estate men and their "rating" by commercial agents.

In connection with the congress C. E. Lovett of this city in conversation with a representative of The Herald expressed himself as follows:

"Nearly all other lines of business have organizations of some kind to advance their interests. Not only is an organization of this kind of incalculable benefit to real estate owners and dealers but there is no reason why it should not be successfully maintained. In Milwaukee the business men raised a fund to pay the expenses of representative fellow business men at the first congress of this kind. In some cases single individuals contributed as high as $500, doing so simply as a business venture. The results are as valuable and marked to every business firm in a community as to real estate owners, dealers and delegates to the meetings and Duluth people could well afford to follow the example set by the people of the Cream City.

"This congress will afford a splendid chance to advertise Duluth and the head of the lakes, will enlarge the acquaintances of those who attend and make it very profitable to them and the city in every way. I want to advocate and urge as large an attendance from here as is possible. Only three from all Minnesota attended the first congress held at Nashville, Tenn. We established headquarters in the state house, hung up and distributed statistics in various forms and advertised this city so continually and effectively that the mayor of Nashville in his address of welcome, in a very complimentary manner referred to 'the Duluth way of hustling.'"

Following the above remarks, Mr. Lovett informed a Herald man that a very low rate will be secured, a cut rate of $5 from Chicago to Buffalo and return already having gone into effect. All who want to join the crusade can get fuller and inside particulars of either C. E. Lovett or E. C. Holliday.

While no public announcement has yet been made it is thought that the delegation will go to Chicago over the Wisconsin Central. Among the Duluthians positively booked for the trip are J. G. Howard and wife, C. W. Hoyt and wife, E. C. Holliday, C. E. Lovett, W. B. Silvey, J. C. Mischler, O. H. Simonds, D. E. Woodbridge, W. L. Jackson, G. A. Leland, T. O. Hall, A. W. Taussig, A. T. Crosley, C. A. Long, A. Snyder, A. L. Langellier. Others will go without doubt and from Superior six or a dozen will join the caravan.

One of the principal features of the congress will be the day devoted to the examination of the great tunnel by which the power of Niagara is brought to the doors of Buffalo and made to turn the wheels of civilization. The water that for ages has been wasted is now ready to do the work of the Buffalonians at a rate hitherto unheard of, and which should enable her to gain the leading position among manufacturing cities of the country. Doing this is the engineering achievement of the century and age.

Just to think of it, 120,000 horse-power working night and day, equal to 360,000 horse-power as it is ordinarily worked! Steam cannot of course compete with this power in tractability, reliability and low cost. The actual cost of steam power is from $35 to $75 a year per horse-power, and it is usually sold at from $50 to $125 per year, but there those who have "laid on" Niagara are selling it for from $8 a year up, and making out of it a fair profit.

The constancy and unfailing character of the supply is as great an inducement as its low cost. Four great lakes with their inexhaustible waters are the reservoirs; the everlasting hills the dams which confine the pent-up power.

The great tunnel has been made from the level of the lower river, just under the falls, extending under the point of land made by the bend of the river at the falls for nearly two miles up the river, and at a depth of 160 feet below the river level above the falls. An almost unlimited number of shafts can be sunk, discharging into this great waterway, 29 feet in diameter and 8000 feet long, which has been over five years in building.

It must not be supposed that in tapping this 120,000 horse-power the whole of Niagara has been made ready for man's service. It has been calculated that there are 6,000,000 horse-power in this mighty cataract. But using only 120,000 Buffalo will have seven times as much power as Minneapolis, and five times as much as Holyoke; and the river not only never runs dry but can never run dry.

The utilization of these 120,000 horse-power will undoubtedly give Buffalo 1,000,000 population within ten years.

A. L. Langellier, who goes to the congress, was one of the parties to suggest a plan for utilizing this power in 1888, and the one outlined by him is the very one carried out. One hundred thousand dollars was to be given to the party who should present the plan which would be adopted, but Mr. Langellier has never seen any of the cash and does not expect to.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

Women Succeed in Business When They Set Their Heads to It.

That is a good story which is told of four women pioneers in the mining town of Creede. They are Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Love, Mrs. Beebe and Miss Anna Man. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Love are widows, with one child each. At the first rush to the Creede gold field Mrs. Miller went. She had been earning a living for herself and son by cooking and housework. She had heard marvelous tales of the wealth suddenly acquired in the new mining camps, and being a German woman believed them. An American would have known better, but fortunately for Mrs. Miller's success she did not. She had to go in debt to a freighter to take her and her camp kit to Creede. Once there she looked over the field carefully and decided where the future growth of the town would be. This correct judgment was what made her fortune. She staked off several lots, opened a primitive sort of restaurant, and began to give the miners meals at fifty cents apiece. Her cash and her credit grew together. After it was seen that she had hit it in her estimate of the spot where the real estate boom would be, a lawyer, one of those who protect widows, tried to scare her out of her claim, even attempting to erect a house on the land. Mrs. Miller drew a revolver and informed him that she would blow the brains out of the first man that interfered with her property. The rough miners rushed to her rescue because she had given "many a man a meal when he was broke," and the man who tried to defraud her got out of that in a hurry. April, 1981, Mrs. Miller went in debt for money to take her to Creede. In April, 1892, she had an income of $500 a month from rents in the real estate she had so pluckily defended. Mrs. Love was supporting herself and child as bookkeeper in Pueblo, Colo., when the Creede boom began. She went there and opened a stationery store, which has been eminently successful, besides getting possession also of valuable mining claims. Miss Anna Man has done the actual labor of digging a tunnel 200 feet long, and getting patents for two mines which are all her own. She can work a lode like an expert. Mrs. Beebe started the first large hotel in Creede—like Mrs. Miller, judging for herself where the business part of the town would be, and judging correctly. She has made a marked success of the hotel, and has in addition large mining properties. It is not recorded anywhere that Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Love are any the less capable and loving mothers because they are successful business women.

The Hartranft family have had a great reunion at Mountain Grove, Pa. For the coming year they elected Frank Hartranft president, Judson Hartranft secretary and Dr. Chester Hartranft and Rev. H. C. Moyer historians. Are there no women in the Hartranft family?

It is a comfort to know that at least one girl has done some thinking. Miss Victorine Jeans, of the Victoria university, who won the Cobden prize of $600 for the best essay on an economic subject, is a pretty young lady, as lovable and winsome as you would wish to see. Her prize essay bore the formidable title of "The Industrial and Commercial Effects, Actual and Prospective, of English Factory Act Legislation."

Just at the time when the labor troubles were at their height during the summer I went up town in an elevated train in New York one day and sat next to two bright eyed, clean boys from thirteen to fifteen years old. They were evidently little fellows who did errands in down town offices. They were talking earnestly, and I soon discovered that they were discussing the strikes and their political bearings. They had read the story, had listened to the pros and cons and made up their minds decidedly about which side they were on. They knew more about the subject than half the grown men of average intelligence did. It gave me the greatest pleasure to listen to these bright, pretty lads. Then my thoughts turned to the girls of the same age, thirteen to fifteen. Where and when in my life did I ever hear two of them discussing the great questions of the time, in a car or anywhere else? A huge wave of discouragement rolled over my soul. My head came out above it, though. I wonder if before I die I shall ever find among average young girls any who know or care for anything but trash?

New York has a law requiring that women physicians shall be employed in all state institutions to which women are sent. Dr. Eveline T. Balantine has been appointed resident physician at the state hospital at Rochester. She got her appointment by passing the best competitive examination. She receives $1,200 a year and her living, which is not bad for a young lady just starting in the world. Dr. Balantine is a graduate of the medical school connected with the University of Michigan.

Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, who has made himself notorious by opposing the recognition of women as sane human beings, holds that the "adoption of woman suffrage would be the greatest blow that religion and morals have received in modern times." Of course we can understand from this that Rev. Dr. Buckley's own wife and mother have not good sense and good moral character, and therefore are not fit to vote, but he should not fall into the mistake of judging other men's wives and mothers by his own.

A little while ago I was talking to a beautiful girl of eighteen about a matter that was just then agitating the church to which she belonged. I remember I said to her, speaking of a certain point, "If you think of it a moment you will see that this is so." She answered: "But I don't want to think. I just jog along." I said to her then, I say to all like her: "God help you and forgive you! There will come a time in your life when you can no longer shirk thinking."

WAS NOT ACCEPTED

Rev. G. H. MacClelland Resigns But His Congregation Refuses to Consider the Resignation.

He Resigned Because He Believed it Might Assist in Bringing About the Union.

The First Baptist church has made a proposition to the Endion Baptist church looking to the consolidation of the two and it is quite probable that this will be brought about. The number of families in the congregation of the latter is hardly sufficient to support a church. In order that there should be no obstacle in the way of a consolidation and to make the trustees more free to act, Rev. G. H. MacClelland, pastor of the First Baptist church, presented his resignation on Thursday evening at a special meeting of the church. It was entirely unexpected to the congregation and after some discussion it was not accepted. Rev. Mr. MacClelland will probably not insist on its acceptance as his only reason for presenting was that he saw that without any complications whatever it would be easier to bring about a consolidation of the two parishes.

THE SPECIAL TERM.

Tollefson were continued. Michael J. Buck vs. Mary A. Graham was stricken from the calendar. In the insolvency matters of L. N. Wood, Waldress, Dunsmore & Co., Youngblood & Carey and Montague & Co. bonds were approved and accounts and transfers authorized. In Johnson vs. Daly a final decree has made and signed. In the Minneapolis Stockyards & Packing company vs. V. H. Blood et al. a judgment against garnishee was ordered for $209.94. In the action of Alice A. Eddy vs. Thomas V. Eddy, October 15 was fixed as the time for hearing. An order amending the findings of fact and conclusions of law was entered in Lathrop vs. Eldridge.

BOLTED PARSONS.

Produces a Letter From Anton Ringsred, Charging Parsons With Trying Crooked Work.

Editor Wesenberg Asked That Parsons Be Withdrawn, But the Committee Deferred Action.

Demands Immediate Action and Urges People's Party Men to Support Maj. Baldwin.

The Duluth Skandinav, the leading Norwegian paper in the Sixth district and the only People's party paper in Duluth, has bolted the nomination of A. C. Parsons, as the Populist candidate for congress in this district.

Editor Wesenberg makes the announcement in the number of the Skandinav issued today, and at the same time advises his readers and all the adherents of the People's party in the Sixth district to support Maj. Baldwin, not because he expects anything from the major as regards the Populists principles, but because he regards him as "an honorable, honest and able business man." The Skandinav makes quite a serious charge against A. C. Parsons as its reasons for refusing to longer support him. The charge is contained in the following letter:

To the Chairman of the People's Party Congressional District Committee, Sixth Congressional District of Minnesota:

Dear Sir: At the request of Editor M. Wesenberg, of the Duluth Skandinav, our only People's party paper in this city, I submit to you the following details of a private deal, attempted by Professor A. C. Parsons, of Duluth, with the undersigned:

Professor A. C. Parsons and his brother, H. Parsons, proposed to me a real estate transaction, covering the purchase of my homestead in this city. Said Parsons—both of them—offered to me in part payment for my homestead a one-third interest in block 12, Stryker & Manley's addition to West Duluth, at a valuation of $2166 for said one-third interest. To ascertain the value of said block, I later inquired of Mr. Stryker himself, of said firm of Stryker & Manley, what lots in said block were worth? Mr. Stryker told me that no lots were for sale in said block. I inquired again if I could not purchase the entire block, to which Mr. Stryker said: "Yes, and if I would buy the whole block he would sell it cheap, would take $2000 for the entire block."

Professor Parsons' price for one-third interest, which he did not own or control, was $2166, or just $166 more than the rightful owner demanded for the entire block. This plan, therefore, failing, Mr. Parsons proposed later on to pay me $1500 in cash, and give me security for the balance on my homestead. I agreed to this, and when at Mr. Parsons' invitation I called at his office for the purpose of receiving the money—which he had told me he had ready—and completing the deal, I was met with the astounding revelation that he (Prof. Parsons) could raise the $1500 cash on a first mortgage on my property and he proposed to turn over to me this $1500, and give me a second mortgage on my own property for the balance of the purchase money.

The honesty of this proposition was so entirely beyond my poor comprehension that I failed to grasp the magnitude of this magnificent offer, and declined. I make this statement entirely at the request of Mr. Wesenberg, and do not wish Mr. Parsons any ill, but for my own part I certainly will have nothing to do with Mr. Parsons after this. My ideas of honesty may be dull and old fashioned, but my conscience will not allow me to entertain a very high regard for such transactions as those Mr. Parsons attempted. While I am in full accord with the principles of the People's party, I can only wish that those principles had a better representative in this district than the gentleman named and aspiring to represent us in the next congress. I cannot vote for a known schemer for that or any other office. I have the honor to remain, yours respectfully,

ANTON RINGSRED,
317 West Fourth street.
Duluth, Minn., Aug. 2, 1892.

The Skandinav follows this letter with the following statement why it believes Mr. Parsons' name should be taken off the Populist ticket and also assigning reasons why all People's party men should vote for Maj. Baldwin:

The above letter speaks for itself. It is signed by a well-known reputable citizen of Duluth, one who is in full accord with the great principles of the People's party. It is with extreme reluctance that we give this letter to the general public. We had for many weeks hoped that this could be avoided through the efforts of our district committee, but as this committee has taken no action in the matter and apparently does not intend to do so, there is nothing else to be done, than to lay the case before the public as the court of last appeal.

Our very existence as a People's party is based upon the broad principle of reform, and we cannot condone an offense within our own ranks, which we would condemn in an enemy. No honorable man can read Mr. Ringsred's letter and not feel that the man who in private life can attempt such transactions, as therein described, would in public life not only willingly accept boodle, but would even be very likely to reach eagerly forth for the same. Would such a legislator—a national legislator—legislate in the interest of the masses who have no boodle to offer or would he legislate in the interest of the money power and the corporations? This is a question every voter must decide for himself.

The nomination of Mr. Parsons was a terrible mistake, and should have been corrected as soon as discovered. It is safe to say that if the nomination had not been forced through at the convention which elected delegates to Omaha, A. C. Parsons would never have been the nominee for congress of the People's party. The editor of this paper pleaded with the convention, begged, entreated of the convention to postpone the nomination of a congressman until after the state convention; he did this in accordance with the expressed will of the St Louis county convention, which elected delegates to Little Falls, and also in accordance with his own best judgment. The district convention decided otherwise, and Mr. Parsons' nomination followed, not because the convention had any assurance of his fitness for the position, but because there was a strong feeling in the convention that the nomination should go to St. Louis county, and our best men in St. Louis county, men like Mr. Jenswold or Mr. Canning, could not be prevailed upon to accept the nomination if tendered. Mr. Parsons, on the contrary, had angled for it, as he has done for nomination to local offices in this county ever since he came to Duluth. And as nobody else, from St. Louis county, wanted the nomination, it went by default to Mr. Parsons.

The delegation came home, not particularly pleased with the result, but still having no knowledge of anything that would make the nomination a disgrace. A while later came the revelation from Mr. Ringsred, who with many others was thoroughly disgusted with the nomination. The writer of this felt as if a bolt of lightning had exploded at his feet, and considered it his duty to lay the case before the district committee. At the state convention we met the chairman, Mr. Shenton. We stated the case to him and to Mr. Plant, another of the staunch and honorable friends of reform, and member of the state central committee, and both these gentlemen agreed that if we could secure the statement in writing, they would consider it just cause for requesting Mr. Parsons to resign, and in the event of his failing to do so would call the committee together to act upon the question of removing Mr. Parsons from the ticket. At least, so we understood the gentlemen, as did also the former chairman of our county committee, A. Hjelm, who was present and was of the same opinion in regard to the necessity for Mr. Parsons' withdrawal from the ticket.

Acting upon the suggestions given, we secured from Mr. Ringsred his statement in writing and forwarded the same—after taking a duplicate copy—to Chairman Shenton at Big Lake, Aug. 2. We have waited and hoped for some action in the matter, but until now we have waited and hoped in vain. Reports are already flying around that arrangements are being perfected between Mr. Parsons and the Republican candidate, Judge Searle, by which Mr. Parsons is to remain on the ticket until too late for the district committee to name a new candidate, and then withdraw, leaving only the Republican and Democratic candidates in the field, with the odds in favor of the Republican candidate on a straight old party issue.

Under the circumstances we consider it our duty to call publicly upon our district committee to take immediate action in the case. The committee failing to do so, we will then have no candidate of our own worthy of support, and it will become the duty of each individual voter in the People's party to cast his ballot for the candidate who, in his opinion, will be most likely to work for the prosperity of the district. It will then be a question not of politics but of business.

The material interests of the district are largely connected with the welfare of Duluth; better facilities and cheaper transportation rates is a matter that will come home to every merchant, manufacturer, mechanic, laborer and farmer in the district. We are not of those who hold that because a candidate is a resident of Duluth, it must necessarily follow that he will work for the best interests of Duluth and the district, but we do believe that an honorable, honest and able business man of Duluth, whose record up to date has shown that he is closely identified with Duluth, and has a live interest in the advancement of the city, such a representative we believe would be to the business advantage of every voter in the district. Such a man we believe Maj. M. R. Baldwin, president of Duluth's chamber of commerce, to be. As against Judge Searle, the reputed candidate of Jim Hill, the citizens of Duluth and the farmers of the Sixth congressional district of Minnesota will be far better served by Maj. Baldwin.

As regards the principles of the Peoples' party, we expect nothing of Maj. Baldwin, should he be elected; and no one will expect anything of Judge Searle, should he be elected. If his election were not now an absolute impossibility, we would expect of Mr. Parsons not only nothing as regards the principles of the People's party, but even less than nothing—we would expect a sell-out at first opportunity. Maj. Baldwin is our political opponent, but he is a clean and honorable man and an able man. And he will assist every interest of Duluth and thereby incidentally also the farming districts.

In accepting Maj. Baldwin as our choice between the three candidates, we do so from the necessities of this case, and let no friend of the People's party for one moment apply this reasoning to any other case. Let him not for one moment think of fusion. In every case where there is no valid argument against the personal character of the People's party candidate, stand by him to the last, even though the candidate may not be your personal choice. Only when you know your candidate to be unworthy, it will become your duty to throw him overboard. As we remarked to a St. Paul reporter at the state convention, when interviewed on the subject of fusion: "If every other delegate at this convention should vote in favor of fusion, the anarchist of Duluth (according to Duluth Tribune—we might object, if according to Webster), will still remain with both feet firmly planted on the Omaha platform and stand by the People's party to the last." But a candidate proved to be unworthy, we will unhesitatingly throw oveboard every time.

We have a national ticket, head and shoulders above any of the old party tickets; we have a state ticket, of which any People's party may be proud; in the name of humanity and reform, weight it not down with such a load as A. C. Parsons. It pains us to write this, but we have no other recourse. Our very claim to existence as a party rests upon the assumption of honor and honesty; if we fail in these, we are no better than the old parties, and have not even an excuse for our existence as a party. Our People's party is the nation's garden, and we must pull the weeds up.

THE $5 RATE

To be Continued Hereafter Simply for Catarrhal Troubles.

Why Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning Found it Impossible to Continue the Rate for All Diseases.

The period during which Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning offered to treat all patients and all diseases at the uniform rate of $5 a month expired October 1st. The evidence that the public appreciated the value of the offer and the purpose for which it was made, lies in the wonderful response which was made to it. During September hundreds of patients took advantage of it. The strength of the doctors and their assistants and the resources of their laboratories and offices were taxed to accommodate the crowds of old, as well as new patients. Doctors Copeland, Hunt and Drenning would gladly maintain the rate to all patients and for all diseases for a longer time if it could possibly be done. There are many who have called and written, expressing their desire to take advantage of the $5 rate, but complaining that they cannot conveniently begin the treatment before the 5th or 10th of October. For the accommodation of these, and that no partiality may be shown—that all may have the same fair opportunity—Drs. Copeland, Hunt and Drenning have decided that they will, until November 1st, treat catarrh and kindred troubles at the rate of $5 a month. For other diseases their charges will be low and uniform, and in proportion to the actual wholesale cost of medicines required to successfully treat and cure the diseases in which they are indicated.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Case that is of Intest to everyone who suffers from indigestion.

"Do you eat well?"

But how many people are there who never know what it is to enjoy a meal. The more the taste is pandered to, the less the appetite manifests itself. Instead, perhaps, there is a decided revulsion and the food that one must eat to keep the body alive is forced into an unwilling stomach, only to cause intense pain and nausea.

No one who has not suffered from catarrh of the stomach can understand the terrible condition to which that disease brings its victim.

213 FOURTH AVENUE WEST.

"I had catarrh of the stomach in its most severe form for a number of years. During all that time it was impossible for me to eat anything without experiencing terrible agony.

"I not only had no desire to eat, but the sight of food made me ill, and I used to starve myself rather than face the ordeal of taking a meal. The result was that I grew weak and emaciated, and was utterly unfit for the performance of my duty. In fact, I did not care to live.

"In addition to catarrh of the stomach I had also catarrh of the head and throat. There was a continual buzzing and roaring in my ears; my head and nose was stopped up and my throat was so sore I could hardly swallow. I had violent headache and the inflammation in my throat seemed to set my whole head afire.

"I lost flesh and strength, and was slowly wasting away.

"During this entire time I took regularly the medicines that were prescribed by numerous doctors, and which cost me hundreds of dollars, but was not benefited. I was a total wreck when I decided to try the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute.

"I began their treatment and the change was wonderful. My catarrh is better in every way and my stomach has nearly regained its former strength and tone. I have an excellent appetite and relish my food, and can eat heartily all the time without any discomfort. I have gained in weight and strength. I feel as well as I ever did. I am delighted beyond measure with my rapid improvement, and I heartily recommend these specialists to all who may be suffering as I was."

CATARRH AND RHEUMATISM.

A Railroad Employee Tells His Experience With the Copeland Medical Institute.

Mr. G. W. Rose, an employee of the Duluth Terminal & Belt Line railroad, residing at New Duluth, in speaking of his experience with Dr. Drenning, of the Copeland Medical Institute, said:

"I have had a chronic catarrh for a number of years. My nose stopped up, eyes watered; had frontal headaches; hawked and spit up masses of cheesy matter which dropped back of my soft palate and collected in my throat.

"I was always tired; never seemed to get rested. This was especially true in the morning, when I would awake all tired out, with a bad taste in my mouth and a thick coating of slime about my teeth and tongue.

"I had tried a number of different doctors and various advertised cures—so-called—for catarrh, but I did not get better. Not long since I commenced to have a pain across my back in the region of the shoulder blades. This became so severe I felt that I must have something done for it. I called upon the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute. Dr. Drenning told me I had muscular rheumatism of the back and catarrh of the head and throat.

"Now my rheumatism has left me and my catarrhal trouble has improved wonderfully. I am very grateful to the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute and can conscientiously recommend them to all in need of skillful medical service."

A LADY'S LETTER.

What Mrs. H. C. Ward Says of the Copeland Medical Institute.

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 25, 1892.

"I can say to those suffering from catarrh that I have been treated by the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute. I took the two weeks' treatment and I am sure that they have done more for me than all the physicians that I ever tried before."

[Signed] (MRS.) H. C. WARD,
717 Garfield Avenue.

MR. ALEXANDER Mc'DONALD, who resides at 1122 East Fourth street, says: "I have had catarrh of the head, throat and stomach for eight years. The physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute have improved my condition so much that I feel that I will soon be entirely well."

MR D. P. Mc'DONALD, of 2428 West Superior street, say: "I am an enthusiastic believer in the skill of the physicians of the Copeland Medical Institute. They did for me what other physicians failed to do,"

WHAT DO THEY MEAN?

A Question That Has Singular Force and Pertinency.

What do they mean, these interviews and illustrations?

The busy person has, probably, no time to read them. But they are worth reading, for each contains a story of suffering, despair, hope and happiness.

They mean that, to those who are ill, health can be had without great cost, with regular and simple treatment and in a very short space of time compared with the average physician.

They mean that there are people who are so delighted with their newly found health that they want the world to know the merits of the physicians who gave it to them.

Read the statements. Everyone is a pearl and is full of promise to the sick and the ailing.

Do you have to draw the matter back into the throat to discharge it, especially in the morning?

Do you have pain over the eyes or across the bridge of the nose?

Are you everlastingly hawking and spitting?

Do you have a scratching sensation under the breastbone?

Do you have a choking sensation in the throat and find yourself awakened from your sleep, frightened and excited?

Do you have a tight feeling, as though there was an iron band about your head?

Is your sense of smell destroyed or impaired?

Is your hearing destroyed or impaired from some unknown cause that has come about almost unknown to you?

Do you have buzzing in the ears, or other noises that may be likened by you to different familiar sounds?

Do you often sneeze and sneeze and wonder why you cannot stop sneezing?

Do you snore when you sleep and make the nights hideous to those about you?

Do you feel dull and stupid, unable to concentrate your mind on your business, or what is of vital consequence to you?

Do you have a hacking cough if you exert yourself?

Do you cough in the morning or after a warm meal?

Do you have a foul breath and wonder why others notice it and you do not?

Is your stomach always out of order and you food taken without relish and without benefit to you?

Do you arise in the morning as tired as when you went to bed, and wonder why you are not rested after having lain in bed eight or ten hours?

The above are some of the many symptoms of catarrh—a disease that, when intelligently treated by a skillful specialist, is usually curable; a disease which, neglected, often ends in consumption and death.

AT RARE BARGAINS.

LADIES do you realize that when you buy of the retailer, you are paying three unnecessary profits? The manufacturer sells to the commission house, the latter to the jobber, and the jobber in turn sells to the retail merchant. You must pay the manufacturer a profit first, and then pay each of the subsequent handlers a profit, not infrequently paying two profits to the retailer. The

By investing in manufacturers' samples and the stocks of insolvent manufacturers, in connection with our regular commission holdings, we are able to sell to the consumer direct at the commission price, which is but one remove from the manufacturer's.

We offer the following bargains in hosiery: Ladies' extra length, full regular made, fast black and seamless hose, very fine guage, (retailing everywhere at 50 cents) we will sell at 23 cents per pair in quantities of one-half dozen, or for $1.38.

This exceptional offer is made merely to introduce our name in your section. Send 15 cents additional and we will prepay express charges at special rates secured by us for the benefit of our patrons.

BILL NYE WRITES

About the Case of Brother Dangerfield, of Chicago, and Adds Other Facts.

He Also Tries to Show What He Knows About the Oyster in Law.

The mail brings the sad intelligence that in the case of the people of Illinois versus Isaac Dangerfield, of Chicago, the defendant has been held by Judge Glennon in the sum of $20,000 to the grand jury of Cook county on the charge of embezzlement.

Mr. Dangerfield stood high socially in Chicago and was one of the first gents west of the Alleghanies to wear a box coat. It did not touch him anywhere except on the shoulders, and is still believed to have been made in England.

He is charged with taking, keeping, retaining and clinging to $10,000, which was deposited with him to bind the bargain in the purchase of the Pontiac, Oxford and North railroad, a Michigan line 100 miles in length, which Mr. C. T. Gregory began the purchase of about two years ago through Dangerfield.

The trade held fire, I believe, and so the depositors one day asked Isaac to return the $10,000, but he had put it into a team or something and so claimed that the money was forfeited. He has had the money now two years, and was hoping that some one else would come along and forfeit a like sum before cold weather came on.

Isaac at one time published the speeches of Emory A. Storrs, of Chicago, in book form, but the widow did not get anything in return except social recognition by Mr. Dangerfield, whose manners are easy and fluent.

Later on he published a book for me in an unguarded moment and has corresponded with me ever since in a light, airy and graceful style, which has been a great help to me. When I began to correspond with him my style was rather heavy and labored, but after the first two years people noticed that I was getting a command of language that indicated deep thought und mobility.

Socially Mr. Dangerfield is ambitious, and he may be found at all times hobnobbing with his superiors in a bright and cheery way. When he began to publish my book, I got the refusal of a good cow here where I live, paying five dollars for the option and promising to pay the balance on receipt of Mr. Dangerfield's check.

We are still without milk!

Mr. Dangerfield is well fitted to shine in society, but in a business way he is erratic, conservative and past finding out. He entertains with a lavish hand, mussing around in the salad and making while you wait a style of mayonnaise dressing that should teach us not to cling too closely to life, but rather to be ready at all times calmly to accept our doom, such as it is, and give a receipt for same.

Dangerfield is not his real name, but I have it on file for the use of those who contemplate dealing with him.

Branscomb Ruth, of Mudhaven, Mass., writes to ask for information. "Can you," he goes on to say, "tell me if you ever traveled among the people of Beled El Mehgreb? I am quite a student of those and kindred races and am also passionately fond of paleolithic and neolithic remains. Tell me all you know regarding this people and their country. I am teaching this season, hoping to get the means to visit that region in a few years. God knows that I would not teach a summer school here at Mudhaven and try to do right at eighteen dollars per mo. if I did not have hopes of seeing the world and writing a book upon it."

You will succeed, Branscomb, if you press on, and you will no doubt see the world and write a book upon one side of it at least. I have taught a summer school myself and know how tedious it is. At the age of eighteen years and three months I taught a country school composed largely of youth and middle aged people. I taught in the English language, and tried at eventide to learn the violin by means of a pamphlet. I am still proficient in the English language, and last month while paying a visit to New York, remembering what a great violinist once did, I took the bow from the hands of a blind musician at the depot who had been permitted to play there, but who had not heard the plunk of a penny in his poor old hat all day.

With a great gulp of joy I took the bow from his trembling and as I may say sobbing hand. As he could not see me, of course he did not know that a considerable of a virtuoso had the instrument. In fact, as he afterward told me, he did not know me from Adam's off ox. Running my fingers carelessly along the finger board to see if the gamut was all right, I put some rozzum on the bow, meanwhile looking about over the sea of upturned dry goods boxes with a stern but beautiful side expression, and then sweeping the strings with long earnest strokes I soon struck into the smooth cadences of "Il Trovatore" and "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing," arranged for me by Chubb, the fishing rod man.

Business began to show signs of congestion. Carts and wagons stopped and blocked up the street. Some knew me by my truthful and faithful efforts to look like my cartoon. The blind man held his hat, and pennies were ever and anon dropped into it by smiling hands, as it were. The crowd grew apace. Fully 5,000 people were gathered about me near the ferry. They were good natured and generous, and the old man's eyes twinkled till I feared he would forget himself and see things, but as I wearied and the crowd began to ask for other selections a tall man, with pompadour hair, came in on the Pennsylvania road, and every man, woman and child deserted me to follow him away.

PERSUADING THE DOG.

Need I add that it was Corbett, the trimmer and copal varnisher of my fellow author, John L. Sullivan?

They had come there to see him. According to the report made by a very well known paleolithic expert of France, there are abundant signs of paleolithic men all over that country. The region is west of the Nile and toward the southeast corner of that belt of virgin real estate known as the Desert of Sahara.

M. Chatelier says that the spoor of paleolithic man points to the existence of human beings here in the quaternary period, and even back of that at a time when the distribution of land and waters was far different and when the Desert of Sahara was a little streak of sand where the Egyptians came to get material for plastering. An old limekiln is still on the ground, though some claim it is a royal tomb or sarcophagus bed.

The scientist says very truly, I think, and I am borne out in this opinion by my fellow scientist, Tunk Brady, author of "Ten Groggy Goes and Ten Seconds of Silence," a book that had a large sale while Tunk was popular, but is now out of print, that "the paleolithic man appears to have been succeeded without a hiatus by neolithic communities who developed to a high degree of perfection the art of making stone implements." As there are no whiskers found in any of the graves it is presumed by Huxley and I that these men perfected the stone razor to such a degree that even the king made all kinds of excuses to leave the throne in order to be shaved twice per day.

M. Chatelier also says that "the most striking features of the prehistorical remains are the megalithic structures—the dolmans, the menhirs, the cromlechs, the trilithons, stone circles, etc.—which are abundantly scattered over the soil from Fez, in Morocco, to the Tripolitan chateau."

Unfortunately I did not know this until I had furnished my house. I would have been pleased to look over a few of those myself.

Discovery of Roman coins in some of these dolmans shows, he says, that they may have been contemporary with the old settlers of Beled El Mehgreb; also that a coin pocket in the dolman has always been regarded as a safe place to keep money from the hand of man.

Similar megalithic remains have been found in Palestine and away back in the early history of the cave bear, the three toed horse and the old settlers of Islip. The Amorites also left megalithic remains and two or three Cornish jokes still bearing the marks of the clumsy stone implement with which they were hewn out.

It must be a great comfort to these people to know that they have been successful in leaving megalithic remains. Washington awoke one morning to find himself the father of his country, but he left no megalithic remains. Columbus discovered the country of which Washington in a number of well chosen remarks officially became the father, but even Chris left no megalithic remains which would resist the elements and the overzealous tooth of Time.

What may we learn from this?

One hundred dollars in cash or farm produce will be given to the first one who discovers what we should learn from this.

I wrote to a paper once that was trying to boom its circulation by offering $1,000 to the first one who should write the correct solution of a rebus published in this paper and inclose one dollar also for subscription. The editor sent me a letter in which he said that my solution was correct, as also were many others. But unfortunately his wife, being right handy to the office, had been the first one to solve it, and as she was a very needy person and very well connected by marriage he had awarded the prize to her.

Another correspondent writes from Star Prairie, Wis., to ask regarding a question of law, as follows: "Would you mind taking the time to answer, publicly or privately, as you may choose, for the benefit of a young law student, whether or not the oyster is, as a matter of fact, real estate or personal property?"

Oysters running wild or in a state of ~~nature are neither personal property~~, nor real estate, but upon becoming domesticated and put to bed, as I may say, they are ruled by the New Jersey court of chancery to be real estate, and subject to the laws regulating the taxation and alienation of real estate.

Judge Pierce, of Ellsworth, Pierce county, Wis., and Judge Hough, of New Richmond, St. Croix county, have both held that the oyster itself may be and often is real estate, but that the oyster bed is personal property and may pass without regard to the statute of limitations or the laws regarding the alienation of realty.

The statutes under Justinian held that the oyster plant while growing was real estate, but when detached from the realty it became personal property, while the oyster bed in this case, or the oyster plant bed, becomes real estate.

Then comes the question of taxation of the oyster bed. Shall we regard it as furniture or farm? These questions have puzzled greater legal minds than mine, and John Randolph and Daniel Webster went down to their graves not knowing whether the oyster bed should face the north or be made up with the oyster's head toward the engine.

Another correspondent asks to know if cholera is known to exist in North Carolina, and also whether the great hand to hand combat between Miss Lottie Collins and the soft shell crabbers of Fire island will be renewed in the future.

In reply would say that there is no cholera in North Carolina at this writing. Western North Carolina is the point to which many thousands come to be absolutely free from all fear of cholera. Our air is perfectly pure, and people who do not have too large a living surface are cordially invited to come and help themselves. Friends with means and short one lung are cordially requested to come and cough with us without charge.

The sporadic case of cholera reported from near my house at Buck Shoals, N. C., turns out to have been brought on by the use of a medicated watermelon with chemicals in it which had been administered by these fair hands. It grew in my patch, and so I felt free to manipulate it as I saw fit.

The man is now out of danger, but has been quarantined till I can get my bulldog to give up his pants—not the bulldog's pants, but the man's pants.

The trouble at Fire island on the 13th and 14th of September was rather disgraceful, but resulted from the fact that our government is not quite despotic enough in case of emergency. The popular clamor of Islip, which turned out to be the unpopular clammer of Constable's Hook, would have gone to Siberia for life if he had acted in a cholera country as he did here.

Freedom, I have always said, is a good thing for those who have been brought up on it, and who have had it on the table with their meals ever since they were children, but for those who are not used to it it becomes too exhilarating, and one whiff of it seems to call for another till they fetch up in a new made grave.

This is the reason that the torch of Liberty shone down upon a picture of perverted freedom—a pathetic and pitiful exhibition of the way ignorance and selfishness may still abuse the rights so dearly bought and so ill bestowed.

THE JUDGE'S TALE

How He Effectually Cured Drunkenness in His Company During the War Days.

"Bill" Erwin's Amusing Experience While on a Duck Hunt in Chippewa County.

Judge Stearns was telling an old war story the other day as an illustration why he believed the Scheffer law against drunkenness, if properly enforced, is a clear remedy for a great portion of the evil. Judge Stearns believes the law is a wise one, but thinks the punishment should be solitary confinement—solitary in every sense of the word. Brick or stone walls, ventilated and lighted from overhead where no possible communication could be had between the prisoners. He holds to the very level opinion that it is no punishment to a drunkard to put him in a cell with other companions, feed him well and let him sit down and play cards, or dominoes. or checkers, or even to go out to work on the streets. He thinks the prisoner rather enjoys that sort of a thing. But here's for the judge's illustrative story:

A saloon keeper in the town where Judge Stearns used to live at the breaking out of the war started to raise a company of soldiers, but after he had got about half the requisite number his enthusiasm played out and the citizens asked the then Mr. Stearns to take hold of the matter and fill the company's quota. The judge did so but found that the first recruits had been drawn from the saloon man's friends and they all drank like fish. They were good fighters but they would get most awfully drunk. At last Capt. Stearns was stationed at Independence, Missouri, where there were several saloons, also a good jail—the latter being empty. The men got drunk as usual until one day Capt. Stearns took possession of the jail. Then he closed all the saloons but two and in the evening addressed his command.

He said: "Brother soldiers, there are two saloons open in Independence and you are at liberty to patronize them and get as full as you like, but the first man found drunk will be put in that jail, in solitary confinement, on bread and water diet for two days; not even his jailer will be allowed to speak to him. The second offense will be followed by three days' confinement and so on. You had better go and inspect the jail."

* * *

Pay day arrived and with it a large number of drunken men. They were all taken to the jail and put on a solitary term, with a bread and water diet. The men were released and, with one exception, they were never again found drunk while in the service. The one exception was a little Irishman, whom the judge called "Oney," and he did get full again and he went in for the second time for a longer sentence. He came out and for weeks he never touched a drop of liquor. Another pay day came around and Oney went to Capt. Stearns and said: "Begorra, capting, I've been sober a long time an' I haven't put a drop of the crather atween me lips. I aint going to get drunk again and git shoved in that dommed jail, but I wanted to see, capting, if you wouldn't be after letting me have a rale old finish av a spree tomorrow without putting me in the jail, an' then I'll be always sober?"

* * *

The permission was given, and at night or at "retreat" the rest of the garrison were told told that Oney had special permission to go on a big spree for one day, and that he was not to be interfered with. Oney got up early the next morning so as to make the day as long as possible, and he sailed right in for "a divil av a toime," and he had it. Oney's throat was occupied all day either by whisky or yells, and when night came he was taken care of by a special detail who had orders to get him sobered up in time for reveille the next day. Oney was in line in the morning and after expressing his thanks for the "roarin' an' whalin' ould time" he had been enjoying, he announced his determination to keep sober, attributing his change of habits solely to the solitary confinement in the Independence jail. He told Capt. Stearns: "Sure sorr, its meself that don't care about going to the guard house or being tied up by the thumbs, but I was that dommed lonesome in that jail, sor, that I thought over everything that I ever did and its not me that wants enny more av it!"

* * *

Well, W. W. Erwin, perhaps better known as "Bill" Erwin, is here, and he is hard at work trying to save his clients from performing that decidedly uncomfortable feat—a dance upon nothing. He will do it, if anyone can. The great criminal lawyer is a pretty jolly good fellow and was (if he is not now) a great lover of duck hunting. He was in attendance at a term of court in Chippewa county and went on an early morning duck hunt with Landlord Charley Bensel and a Herald reporter. They got up about 3 o'clock on a frosty morning and started in a wagon over to Lac qui Parle county to the lake which Bensel and the newspaper man knew to be swarming with south-bound water fowl. They reached the lake and stationed Erwin in a favorable location where he could be sure to bag a number of duck if all was well.

* * *

Bensel and his companion went around the point and "flushed" a big flock of canvasbacks, bringing down a dozen or so by a judicious use of both barrels, and the remainder of the flock, instead of going directly for the point where Erwin was supposed to be concealed, circled around the upper arm of the little lake. By the time they came down again Bensel and the reporter had moved over quite close to Erwin and as the ducks came within range they gave them another volley, dropping a few others. Then for the first time since they left him, they saw Erwin. In some manner he had managed to reach a muskrat house a few yards from shore and there he stood on the very top of the slippery little mound, gun in hand, waiting for the ducks. On came the flock, and Erwin's gun described a more and more acute angle until the ducks, gun and man were in direct perpendicular, with the man at the lower and the ducks at the upper end of the line. Bang went both barrels of Erwin's gun; down fluttered a couple of ducks, and—over went the celebrated attorney into the lake behind the muskrat mound. They made all haste to the spot marked by a plentiful supply of bubbles which burst on the surface, and just as they reached it up through the water shot a long human hand grasping a gun, followed by a long arm, and the tout ensemble made perfect by the final addition of "Bill Erwin." Bensel and his companion roared and Erwin's first exclamation was, "Bah—splutter—Bensel, have you got a—splutter—bottle with you?" Bensel had one and they got Erwin back to town, a very wet and chilly counsellor-at-law.

* * *

Judge Stearns, Hon. W. W. Erwin and a Herald emissary were chatting together yesterday afternoon about some of the criminal actions which had occurred ten or twelve years ago in which the three conversationalists had, in some way, been connected—the judge in hearing, the eminent lawyer in defending and the newspaper man in reporting. At last the reporter said: "Do you remember that beer tap murder case, judge?" Judge Stearns said: "Yes, that was at Crookston," and Mr. Erwin said: "That was Alex Gilden, and do you folks know that after I defended and cleared him there, he went out to Montana and was hanged there for another crime. He wanted to secure me again, but 'once was enough for me.'"

TWELVE HUNDRED GOING.

Aarangements for the Minnesota Militia at Chicago.

Gen. Bend and Capt. Hart have been down to Chicago this week to see what arrangements were being made for the visit of the Minnesota National guard to the opening ceremonies of the World's Columbian exposition. Gen. Bend, in giving an account of his trip, says that he met there Maj. Kimball, of Gen. Miles' staff, who has charge of the quartering and subsisting of the men, both regulars and national guardsmen, and found he had the arrangements well in hand.

In all there is expected about 8700 troops, including those of the United States army. Estimates heretofore made have been wild. Ohio, which was to have sent 40 companies, now talks of sending 18, and Wisconsin, which lies at the very doors of the exhibition, will hardly send more than eight. As to Minnesota's force there is expected as many as 1200, about 400 from each regiment. They will be quartered in the transportation building. The allotment of space is one acre to each 500 men.

The space will be laid out as nearly like a military camp as possible. The troops will be subsisted in the annex building, and the tables will accommodate 3000, so that for the whole force there will be three editions, or tours, of each meal. The Minnesota men will all eat at the same time. Three meals will be served each day. The men must take one ration with them, as there will be no opportunity to get anything to eat on the journey. Upon arrival they will be served with sandwitches and coffee. The Third regiment, to which the Duluth and West Duluth companies belong, is already making arrangements to subsist its men on the journey. Both full dress and fatigue uniforms will be taken, as the parade and review will be in the full dress uniform.

Each man will take a blanket along. Cots will be provided for the Minnesota men, while the men from the other states will take their bed sacks and have them filled with straw. The Third has provided itself with 460 new blankets, which were purchased of the Notth Star Woolen Mills, of Minneapolis, purely home manufacture. The Third regiment men will also have an opportunity to wear their new dress uniforms, which are of the United States regulation pattern. All the companies of the First and Third will start from St. Paul or Minneapolis, and the time for leaving is the morning of Oct. 19. The First is talking of leaving in the evening and securing sleepers for the whole force. There will be but one parade in Chicago—on the 21st—and there will be no standing review of the troops, only a march past the president of the United States. After that all the military will proceed to the building where the exercises will be held.

You will regret it if you do not attend the "Carnival of Days."

EXPOSITION ECHOES.

A heroic statue of Hendrik Hudson, the discoverer of the Hudson river, will be placed in New York's World's fair building.

One of the novelties of the World's fair will be a young woman blacksmith. Her name is Miss Ray Sunshine Beveridge. She is a California girl and a good mechanic.

Miss Elizabeth Ney, of Hempstead, Tex., a descendant of Marshal Ney, of France, will execute in marble the statues of a number of Texas heroes for exhibition at the fair.

Arrangements have been completed whereby excursion trains to the World's fair, by whatever road they may arrive in Chicago, will run within the exposition grounds and discharge their passengers there.

New York state proposes to exhibit at the World's fair complete data, including photographs, of all the monuments which have been erected to soldiers of that state who served in the war of the Revolution, the war of 1812 or the war of 1861.

Mrs. Patrick, one of Colorado's woman World's fair managers, has offered to furnish forty or more Navajo blankets made by Indian women, which are to be used for hangings, portieres, etc., in the ethnological department of the Woman's building.

EPICUREAN MORSELS.

When sponge cake gets dry it is very nice cut in thin slices and toasted.

Taken in the early morning an orange acts very decidedly as a laxative, sometimes amounting to a purgative, and may generally be relied on.

If in making mayonnaise the oil separates from the egg, start afresh with the well beaten yolk of another egg, gradually stirring it in the former mixture, and all will be well.

Golden husk, or small, yellow tomatoes, make a very rich preserve. They will easily take the place of the Scoten marmalades at the breakfast table, as they may be flavored with either orange or lemon, while still keeping their own qualities.

Caterpillars from six inches to a foot long are common in the vicinity of the Darling river, Australia. The natives twist them together and boil them in kangaroo grease. Travelers who have tasted this delicacy say that it is not altogether unpalatable.

"Not In It."

Down in the green orchard, cool and shady,
A hammock swings dreamily to and fro,
And in it is sitting the daintiest lady,
His glances with fond admiration are laden:
He whispers his love in her willing ear;
Now, would you believe it? That frivolous maiden
Once listened to me in the same way last year.
Yes, listened and promised her love to me only,
And therefore I can't say I relish this show.
Perhaps I'm a fool, but I feel rather lonely.
For I'm "not in it" today, don't you know.

Down in the green orchard, cool and shady,
Then all in a heap falls the dainty young lady,
His features a startled expression are wearing,
His faultless attire bears many a stain.
He's spitting out gravel and mentally swearing
He never will swing in a hammock again.
And as for the maid, she's the picture of sadness,
And as for myself, I do nothing but crow.
And inwardly chuckle with satisfied gladness,
For I'm "not in it" today, don't you know.

RHEUMATISM'S BUSY DAY.

Now This Painful Disease Grows Prevalent.

It Caused J. M. Adams to Relinquish the Geyser.

Yet Now He Weighs 165, and Walks Off Spry.

Physicians say they do not know why. Yet it is a fact that the busy season for rheumatism commences in September.

The principal reason is that the people are in a condition especially favorable for the inroads of the disease. Those who have been unfortunate enough not to get a vacation find their system relaxed, weakened and choked up with waste material. Exercise is naturally neglected during the hot weather. September finds them in a sluggish state, a condition of things very favorable to rheumatism.

J. M. Adams, of Ballston Spa, N. Y., has had an experience with this disease that he wishes widely published for the benefit of those who are troubled as he was. For five years Mr. Adams owned the famous Geyser Spring at Saratoga, but rheumatism forced him to relinquish the ownership and leave there on crutches. He says:

"My trouble was rheumatism, dating back to when I was 18 years old and reducing my weight 90 pounds between the years 1870 and 1872. I had to give up business and devote all my energies to fighting this terrible disease. Nothing helped me until I heard of a discovery of Professor Phelps, of Dartmouth. I tried the means he recommended and it did me more good than all other medicines put together. My friends now say: 'See Adams, he weighed 149 and was almost a cripple; now he weighs 165 and walks off spry.' This is all from using Paine's celery compound, and if it will do for others what it has done for me, every one should use it. I feel confident that it will, as all to whom I have recommended it speak of it in the highest terms. I know of many cures that it has effected, one in particular, George Smith, of this place. Mr. Smith could not use his right arm a week ago, but now he has finished sowing a piece of land with oats, the result of the benefit received from Paine's celery compound."

The best physicians unite in the statement that Paine's celery compound is of superior value for those who are troubled with rheumatism, neuralgia, or prostration. They say that one who has even a strong tendency to rheumatism can do much to prevent it by using this compound.

A MOTHER'S PRIDE.

The Beautiful Child of a Well-Known Lady.

Startling and Alarming Condition Suddenly Developed.

Beyond All Hope and Skill of the Doctors.

The most beautiful and lovable thing on earth is a little child; is it any wonder that the heart aches hardest when the little one, the brightest star in the world's ornaments, suffers in the grasp of a terrible disease.

All can therefore understand the bitter and heartfelt grief of Mrs. H. H. Watson, of 153 Bloomingdale street, Worcester, Mass., when her darling little 4-year-old child, a child of most singular sweetness and beauty, was seized with severe and serious nervous disease, and parents alone can appreciate the depth of her joy and thankfulness when the little idol of her heart was suddenly snatched back from the grave, as it were, after doctors and friends had given up all hope.

We will let the happy mother tell the story.

"My little daughter, Ethel May, was terribly and alarmingly sick. She had twenty-six convulsions in two years. Her nerves were very weak, her appetite very bad; she could not sleep nights, her limbs would draw up, and she suffered, oh, so much! She was as yellow as saffron and weak and delicate.

"But thanks to a wonderful medicine, she is now perfectly well and healthy. This remedy is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and it has completely cured my little girl."

LITTLE ETHEL MAY WATSON.

Another grateful mother is Mrs. Henry Fry, who resides at 4 Flint place, South Boston, Mass. She too had a daughter who suffered terribly from St. Vitus Dance, an alarming nervous affection, but by the same marvelous remedy her child has also been restored to perfect health.

Here is what she says:

"My daughter, 12 years old, became affected with St. Vitus Dance. I at once placed her under the care of physicians at the Boston dispensary, where she was treated for three months. She grew worse until she entirely lost her speech, and the right arm became useless. I tried other remedies without benefit.

"Finally I began the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and before finishing one bottle she could talk. She has now used six bottles and she talks as well as ever, has perfect use of her arm and is wonderfully improved in all respects.

"The effects of this wonderful medicine in her case has excited great interest in many neighbors and friends who are acquainted with the facts."

With such evidence of the marvelous power to cure disease that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy possesses, no mother who regards the welfare of her child will hesitate for an instant to give it this great medicine. A cure is sure. The remedy can be got at the druggists and is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless to give to children of any age. It is the prescription and discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West Fourteeenth street, New York, the eminent specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, who can be consulted free in regard to any case, personally or by letter.

CANDIDATE A. C. PARSONS.

He Issues an Address to the People Defining His Position.

To the Independent Electors of the Sixth Congressional District:

FELLOW CITIZENS: At a convention of the People's party, held at Little Falls, June 1st, 1892, delegates representing the Sixth Congressional district, comprising twenty counties, named me as their candidate for congress.

It is due you as electors that a plain statement be made of my position on the leading questions of the day.

Equality of rights is the boast of American citizenship. Protection of home, of life, of liberty and of property, is the sacred right of every inhabitant of this broad land. To defend the weak, to curb the strong, to protect every citizen in the full exercise of all his rights, this is the province of the People's party.

To preserve and secure these rights, the People's party has stepped into the political arena and throws down the gauntlet to the enemies of home, of country, of humanity. This is no mere reform. It is more, it is revolution. It means the destruction of old party machines and corrupt methods and the substitution of a new system in harmony with the life and right of today.

New times demand new measures and new men. A spirit of unrest is abroad that will not down. Justice is its watchword.

Down with monoply, is its war cry. Its demands must be heeded. It is the power that makes and unmakes governments, the voice of the people. As well attempt to tame Niagara or ride upon the wings of the cyclone, as to restrain this movement in behalf of the people's rights. We are in this fight to work and to win.

The average American citizen is intelligent and honest and can be relied upon to vote upon the side of home and country.

All laws should be enacted for the public welfare. Any law that favors the few and robs the many is unwise and unjust.

We believe that the corrupt use of money in politics is the chief means of placing bad men in power, and that stringent laws should be enacted, punishing this practice as a crime against the state.

Every candidate for office should be required to give a sworn statement of all moneys expended for his election, and if found guilty of corruption or fraud should be sent to the states prison instead of the state's capitol. This crime against citizenship is today the great evil in American politics. Only when it is recognized and punished as a crime shall we have a fair vote and an honest count.

The granting of exclusive franchises to great corporations is but another name for robbing the many to enrich the few.

Public works are public property and should be owned and operated in the interest of the public.

Street railways, gas and water plants, telegraph and telephone service owe their existence to public patronage and should be owned and operated in the interest of the public.

When a great corporation has been proven guilty of dictating or intimidating the vote of its employes, its legal existence should be declared forfeited as an enemy to the state. The power that can make can unmake.

The creature is not greater than the creator. Let all the enemies of our free institutions be recognized as enemies and make them amenable to law.

Taxation without representation is tyranny. The denial of political representation to half the human family is a relic of barbarism and a crime against humanity. Woman, the peer and partner of man, demands, and the enlightened intelligence of this country will yet afford her, equal political rights and privileges.

The authors and abbettors of the silver swindle of 1873 should be treated as enemies of the country rather than followed as great political leaders. Let us have free and unlimited coinage of the money of the constitution, silver as well as gold, on a basis of the actual value of both metals in the markets of the world, untrammeled by hostile legislation against either.

The money of Washington and Jefferson, of Jay and Hamilton, which is the circulating medium of 800,000,000 of people to the west and south of us—with whom we ought to have extensive commercial relations, is the money that the business interests of this country require, and which the people demand.

Our public school system is the hope and glory of our country. Any attempt at its subversion, whether by foreign domination or home treachery, is a blow aimed at the the existence of free government. Let every patriot, in all parties, stand firm as flinty rock against any attempt to corrupt this fountain and life of the freest and best government on the face of the earth. Let superstition and blind bigotry be remanded to the bats and owls of the cloisters of old Europe, but give them no control of the public school system of free and enlightened America. Teach truth and patriotism to all the youth of this great nation, then shall we have a race of intelligent citizens, who will preserve untarnished these glorious institutions bought by the blood and bravery of our fathers.

The saloon is the enemy of the home and the chief conspiration against the welfare of the state. It is the true interest of all good citizens to unite for its suppression. Let the question of prohibition, like all other great issues, be submitted to a vote of the people.

The question of capital and labor is today the vital issue for this nation. On its solution depends the very existence of free government. Shall it be settled on a basis of justice, or shall grasping avarice dictate its own terms? Shall the non-producing few, under the forms of law, continue to rob the toiling many, the rich growing richer and poor poorer, labor becoming the absolute slave of capital, till in their hopeless poverty and despair the oppressed rise against their oppressors, or shall better counsel and wiser statesmanship solve the problem in the interest of country and humanity?

Shall trusts and corporations, political bosses and combines dominate the business and politics of this country or shall we have a government of the people for the people?

Shall laws be enacted chiefly in the interests of the rich and powerful, or shall the welfare of all be consulted, irrespective of class or condition.

Shall a candidate's chances be measured by the amount of money that he or his friends can put into the campaign, or shall principle have a fair influence in determining results?

Which shall prevail, partizanship or the people, principle or policy, money or manhood, corruption or integrity?

With you, the independent voters, rests the responsibility of the result.

Let every elector be true to the interest of home, of country, and humanity, and the principles of the People's party will be triumphantly vindicated at the polls in November. Yours for right, humanity and country, A. C. PARSONS.

HE IS KNOWN OUTSIDE.

Superior Citizen: One of the prominent members at the People's party convention was Professor A. C. Parsons, A. M., L. L. B., and nominee for congress on the People's ticket from the Sixth congressional district of Minnesota. Professor Parsons is a gentleman of rare literary ability, and a long and ardent supporter of the Populists' cause. No better selection could well have been made. He is sure to be the next congressman, notwithstanding the perfidy of the emasculated People's Press in hoisting the name of D. B. Searle, the Republican nominee against Professor Parsons, whose doctrines the editor is supposed to maintain, defend and perpetuate with his last drop of ink. Some are prone to say that the editor's hair is not only red, but that since he has hoisted the name of Searle his hands are blood-red with filthy lucre—gold, the bondholder's god—the price of diminutive men's souls—the only measure of traitorous men's fealty. In spite of this, Professor Parsons, as he deserves to be, will be triumphantly elected on the 8th day of November, when monopoly and its tools will be duly rebuked and relegated to well-merited obscurity.

CUT THIS OUT AND WAIT

Until Tuesday, Oct. 4th, at 9 a. m.

In consequence of the late fire of the large wholesale clothing house that recently burned, over $185,000 worth of men's and boys' fine clothing, hats and other goods have been saved and removed to the large building known as 29½ East Superior street, between Lake and First avenue, Pastoret block. ALL FAIRY TALES

A Delightful Collection of the Bright Products of a Very Remote Antiquity.

"A True Story of Liberty" Likely to Startle the Average Christian American.

The Literary Feast Provided in the October Magazines—Books in the Press.

The Cassell Publishing company, New York, have just published "Fairy Tales in Other Lands," by Julia Goddard, with eighty-six illustrations. The fairy stories which delighted our childhood are for the most part the products of a very remote antiquity, as is evidenced by the fact that native versions of most of them are common to the Slavs, the Germans, the Scandinavians, the Persians, and other peoples of Aryan stock. Some of them indeed, have their Chinese and Arab versions, and are supposed by comparative mythologists to have originated among the people of those countries. "Jack the Giant Killer" is unquestionably a pure Norse story—a popular version of the old legends of the early Norsemen's struggles with the fierce forces of nature, and of the typical Norse hero, Thor, the prototype of Jack, or Jan, as he is called in the modern Norse story. In the collection of ten fairy stories in the volume under notice, the writer professedly presents us with ten foreign versions of familiar stories, viz: A Chinese "Beauty and Beast," a Scandinavian "Jack the Giant Killer," an Egyptian "Puss in Boots," an Ocean "Sleeping Beauty," "Saaoud and His Steed," "Valentine and Orson" in Arabia, a Persian "Jack and the Bean Stalk," "Magnus and the White Bear," "Little Sosannah and Her Gold-Wrought Shoe" (a Ninevitish Cinderella), and a Japanese "Red Riding Hood."

In an introduction to the work it is remarked that the reader is rather puzzled to know whether Julia Goddard found her stories in the folk-lore of foreign countries, or whether she adapted the home product to foreign conditions. The problem is, however, not a very intricate one to the student of folk-lore. At any rate, whether old or new, they are all good fairy tales.

Frank Leslie's Weekly, ever enterprising, offers $200 to the subscriber who guesses nearest to the plurality which the candidate for the president may receive. This means the plurality of the popular vote, and not the electoral vote. Frank Leslie's Weekly contains nearly every week great front-page cartoons, which quite equal those of its lively contemporary, the Judge. In illustrating the news events of the week in its highest possible artistic manner, and in giving also the largest pictures of foreign events, it fills a want that no other weekly in the country does. Frank Leslie's will be sent for five weeks for 50 cents. This includes the privilege of guessing on the plurality.

Under the title of "Scientific Boxing Under Boston A. A. Rules," R. C. Macdonald, M. D., presents in Outing for October a strong plea for genuine skill and science in self defence in preference to the hurricane rush and knockout of the Sullivan school. No stronger indorsement of the principles advocated could be asked than the result of the recent battles at New Orleans, and athletes may rest assured that the new school of pugilists, professional and amateur, will be scientific first, last and all the time.

The first American presentation of "The Mountebanks," the new opera by Sir Arthur Sullivan and Alfred Cellier, is reviewed at length in the Argonaut of Sept. 26. The performance was a very notable one, and the Argonaut's criticism, being the first by an American paper of high standing, is well worth reading.

George William Curtis made a very happy response to the praises of friends at a dinner given at the Tavern club of Boston some years since upon his birthday. Dr. Holmes, Mr. Lowell and President Norton had all said their say and said it well, when Mr. Curtis was called upon to respond. By way of illustrating his own case he told the story of an Oriental prince and his mentor. Prince and his mentor walked abroad one day, the latter carrying in his hand a jar, which he occasionally uncorked. From the open mouth of the vessel rose mist and this the mentor lighted. [illegible] up from the burning gas, and gradually took such shape that the prince could not help recognizing traces of his own features, though glorified and ennobled. "Can it be that this pictures me?" asked the flattered prince. "Yes," smiled the mentor, "not, however, as you are, but as you ought to be."

With a page of "Pretty Luncheons and Dainty Teas," a special paper on "Changes in Fashionable Stationery," by Ada Chester Bond, and an article by Mrs. A. G. Lewis on "Children's Parties, Fetes and Frolics," the October Ladies' Home Journal opens attractively and well. Marguerite Merington gives a sketch, with portrait of Margaret Deland, the author of "John Ward, Preacher," and Mrs. Mallon writes entertainingly of the personality and home life of "The Duchess," the author of "Phyllis" and "Molly Bawn."

In the series of "Clever Daughters of Clever Men," Aimee Raymond, the talented daughter of the late Henry S. Raymond, the well known editor, is pictured, and pleasantly written of, as is the wife of Oscar Wilde, in the series of "Unknown Wives of Well-known Men." The Rev. T. De Witt Talmage discourses of his travels "Through Victoria's Domain," Abram S. Isaacs of "The Jewess in Authorship," and Robert J. Burdette of "October and the Ills That It Is Heir To." The editor talk earnestly of the necessity for thoroughness in the work of men and boys, and Maude Haywood gives much good advice to art students in her department, "Art for Art Workers." The fiction of the number includes a short story, "Clad in Doublet and Hose," by May Kelsey Champion, illustrated by Alice Barber Stephens, and the continuation of Julia Magruder's serial story, "A Live Ember."

The poems are by Eva A. Madden and Lillian Claxton. An article illustrated from original photographs, tells of that monument to woman's labor and patience, the Rookwood Pottery at Cincinnati. Women who love dainty fancy work are remembered in a page of "Ideas in Dainty Needle Work," by Sarah Hadley, and a "Group of Artistic Portieres," by Margaret Sims. Mrs. Mallon's "Dresses for Early Autumn" will be found helpful to all women, as will the illustrated article on "A Baby's Layette." Mrs. Lyman Abbott, Mrs. Margaret Bottome, Miss Maria Parloa, Miss Scovil, Ruth Ashmore and Mr. Rexford, fill their departments with all that is helpful and original. Altogether the October Journal is so full of good things that no woman can afford to be without it. Published by The Curtis Publishing company, for 10c. per number and $1 per year.

The Omaha Bee, in speaking of Judge, says that it did fair work in 1884, excellent work in 1888, but that in this campaign it is outdoing itself. Judge was never making such great hits as it is this year; it is leaving all its rivals behind. Such great pictures as the "Cleveland Parachute" and the bursting of the Peck boom are memorable in campaign cartooning. But Judge has some great pictures in store, and the five papers for the next five weeks of the campaign will be sent for fifty cents. Address the Judge Publishing company, 110 Fifth avenue, New York City.

"Roland Graeme: Knight" is the title of a new novel shortly to be issued by Fords, Howard & Hulbert, New York. It is by Agnes Maule Machar, the Canadian writer, whose "Stories of New France" and Marjorie's Canadian Winter" have so well pleased the young folks.

Mrs. Burton Harrison, who wrote "The Anglomaniacs," has finished another novel of New York society, the first chapter of which will appear in the November Century Magazine. It is called "Sweet Bells Out of Tune." It is to be very fully illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson.

The contributions in the October Arena are varied, interesting and able. In this issue Hon. Thomas E. Watson, who created such a furore in the house of representatives, by his charge of drunkenness among congressmen, appears in a thoughtful paper on the "Negro Question in the South." He does not believe in federal interference, but shows that the only solution of the problem is a division of the vote among white and black. Congressman Brosius discusses in a thoughtful manner the the plan of limiting the number of the house of representatives.

Rev. Thomas P. Hughes, D. D. answers Ibu Ishak in a masterly contribution entitled "Has Islam a Future?" Under the title, "The True Character of Christopher Columbus," A. P. Dunlop gives a severe arraignment of Columbus, quoting numerous authorities. This paper is refreshing after the flood of extravagant encomiums which has recently surfeited even hero worshippers. One of the most notable features of this issue is the closing of the symposium on woman's dress, prepared under the auspices of the National Council of Women of America. The papers in this issue are by Lady Harberton, of England, Octavia W. Bates, Ph. D., Grace Greenwood and Mrs. E. M. King. The editor also supplements this symposium with a striking editorial entitled, "The Next Step Forward for Women." This paper is illustrated.

Among other leading features of this issue should be mentioned the superbly illustrated sketch of Edward Hugh Sothern, the brilliant young American actor, the continuation of the Bacon-Shakespeare discussion, a striking paper on Astrology by Edgar Lee, of London, and a paper by Sylvester Baxter on "The Social and Economic Influences of the Bicycle."

The Arena, besides being the most fearless and aggressive of our reviews, is always varied and exceedingly interesting. It combines the intellectual wealth and profound thought of the serious review with the entertaining qualities of the popular magazine.

"Saddle and Sentiment," Wenona Gilman's fascinating story of the American turf, is concluded in Outing for October. The authoress has drawn a wonderfully truthful picture of turf men and the sport of kings as followed in this sport-loving country, and her work is a valuable addition to purely American fiction. "Saddle and Sentiment" has been published in book form, and should easily score a success.

"A Strange Wedding Night" is the title of a striking story in the Argonaut of Sept. 26. The scene is laid in Russia, and it tells of the revenge the czarina plotted for the punishment of a courtier who refused her overtures of love. He had confessed that he loved one of the ladies of her court, and so she marries him to a scullery maid in her palace. Their bridal night is passed in a dungeon built of ice; but the girl saves her husband's life twice, and in the end becomes the loved and honored mistress of his household.

"A True Story of Liberty" is the title of a book written by E. P. Williams and published by E. Scott, of New York. This is a work calculated to startle the average Christian American by its denunciation of the war of independence as the instigation of the devil, Washington as a leader of murderers, and the boasted liberty of the American people so gross a delusion that if a man were prepared to live and preach the true Christian doctrine in this country he must be prepared for the martyr's fate.

The pastor of Bellicose, who is the hero of the story, asserts openly that all the world is at enmity with God, and that there is no liberty save in conformity to the will of Christ, which requires us to return good for evil; that indeed to become a son of liberty one must become a son of God. The good pastor's deacons wrestle with him, and then, finding it impossible to reconcile his views of the Christian life with theirs, they oust him from the pastorate. Later, when passions are aroused by the outbreak of the civil war, the patriots of Bellicose, rendered furious by the early defeats of the Federal army, vented their rage on the peace-preaching pastor, and awarded him the martyr's lot, as he had predicted.

The purpose of the work is to show that now, as of old, those whom Christ has chosen out of the world, are hated of the world and that the same Jesus Christ who had been to the Jews a stumbling-block, and to the Greeks foolishness, was to the upholders of the American Union, meaningless. That while Christianity is professed with the lips, it is in no sense a guide of life.

Judge's Library for September shows a very picturesque and happy little darky making a mid-day meal of the ever-present watermelon. This number of the Library will especially please the children. What number, in fact, does not? And it is filled with all those addities that the great artists are so skillful in depicting. Never was so much laughter put in paper for such a moderate amount as in Judge's Library. Every news-dealer handles it, and if he does not he can make no better investment than by sending 10 cents to the Judge Publishing company, 110 Fifth avenue, New York.

WHEN WOMEN WOO

That Is the Eventful Time When the Bashful Swain Must Needs Capitulate.

Lillie Devereaux Blake Tells About Women Who Took Advantage of Leap Year.

A Few Pretty Stories That Have Come to Her From Experience of Others.

IN INVESTIGATING the amount and manner of proposals made during leap year, one is confronted at once by the great difficulty of obtaining the exact facts. Girls do not report that they have just "popped the question," whether the suit be successful or unsuccessful, and so we have no tabulated statements for reference. Our vital statistics include births, marriages and deaths, but the important step toward matrimony, the proposal, finds no place in those columns.

Of course in discussing this theme it is expected that attention will be paid to the abnormal advantages which the season gives to women and the possibilities that they will avail themselves of them. If we were to consider the offers of marriage made by men to women during leap year we should be overwhelmed, since despite the opportunities open to women the greater number of proposals are no doubt masculine in this twelvemonth as in all others.

This fact offsets what would otherwise be an unfair advantage on the part of the men in giving us only one year in four—a quarter of the time.

As for actual, honest leap year proposals, a few pretty stories have come to me from the experience of others.

The first happened in 1872, a leap year of the past. In the summer of that year came the decisive moment to two young people whom we will call Julia and Tom. They had known each other all their lives, had grown up together, their families had been intimate, and they had long been devoted friends, and yet Tom had never said a really decisive word to the pretty young woman whom he in reality deeply loved.

Of late his attentions had grown so marked that all other suitors had been driven away, and still he said naught. Now Julia did not mind being monopolized, for she adored Tom, but she began to grow uneasy and even alarmed. She knew all about Tom's affairs, and she was aware that he was well established in business and quite able to support a wife, and he had recently announced that he was about to go to Europe for an absence of some months. Thus matters stood when one afternoon Tom drove to the door and asked her if she would go out for a drive. She would be only too happy, and as he helped her into the buggy he put the usual question.

"Which way shall we go?"

"Let us drive around the circle," replied Julia.

"That is rather short, isn't it?" asked Tom.

Of course Tom acquiesced. He had a good horse and it did not take them long to traverse the four miles of wood road locally known as "the circle." But still, although the way was secluded and Julia was careful not to enter into any absorbing topics of conversation, never a word said Tom—that is, of the important matter.

When they reached their starting point it was still early. "There," said Tom in a tone of vexation; "you see we are back already, and it is too soon to go home."

"Certainly it is," replied Julia; "let us drive around the circle again."

A little surprised, Tom agreed, and once more they passed over the road, under the soft shade of the trees; once more Julia avoided being drawn into any conversation on general subjects, and once more Tom did not avail himself of the opportunity.

The starting point reached again, Tom, now beginning to be curious and a little excited, said:

"What shall we do next?"

"Drive around the circle," replied Julia.

Tom stared, but obeyed in silence, and two very quiet people moved slowly under the shadows of the woods, where twilight was already beginning to gather. But still with everything propitious Tom said naught. The moments were passing, the afternoon was fading; when they reached the house again it would be too late for another start. So Julia took her fate into her own hands. She remembered that it was leap year, and with wildly beating heart she turned to her companion.

"Tom," she faltered, "you are going so far away so soon. Haven't you got something to say to me?"

Then Tom got heart of grace and said it, and twenty years of happy married life have rewarded him for his courage.

One of the prettiest leap year stories I ever heard was that of a pair of lovers whom we will call Maud and Morris. For a year they had been much together, and Morris had paid many attentions to the pretty girl, but although they were accepted most graciously his courtship lagged. There was apparently no reason for delay. Morris was well off, his people were friends of hers and approved the match; in fact, there was really no cause for the hesitation except an unconquerable bashfulness on the part of the wooer.

"When I think about asking her to marry me," he said to a confidential friend, "I'm so scared that I don't seem to have any sense; I don't know how I can ever 'go through the job.'"

"You might take chloroform," suggested his friend.

But this did not seem to help matters, and so time went on until Maud and Morris were invited to join a party of young people to see the old year out and the new year in. This was in the last days of 1883.

The evening was a gay one, and, as usual, Morris hung about Maud, dancing with her as often as possible, devouring her with his eyes and evidently jealous when any one else was with her. Still he had said no word when after supper they strolled into a conservatory and seated themselves under the spreading branches of a palm.

"Oh!" he exclaimed, "how beautiful you are tonight! You never ought to dance with any one but me!" Carried away with himself he seized her hand. "You ought always to be my partner."

Maud looked at him with smiling eyes. Surely now he would say the word, but he only stared at her in helpless embarrassment until she whispered, "For life?"

"Yes, darling," cried poor Morris, suddenly relieved and carried into a seventh heaven of bliss.

He was bold enough now and caught her in his arms, but she stammered almost in tears, "Oh, what have I done!"

"It is all right, Maud," he said. "Hear the bell; it is leap year now."

And at the same moment a troop of merry young folks came to the door of the conservatory shouting to them to come and join the New Year celebration.

My concluding story has perhaps a better apology for the maiden's boldness than either of the others, for in this case the heroine was a belle, a beauty and an heiress, while the hero was only a poor struggling journalist. He was a good fellow, of exceptional talents, and was as well born as she, but there was a great gulf between his poverty and her riches which he would not ask her to cross.

Yet he loved her and she knew it, but she knew equally well that he would never ask her to marry him. Thus matters stood in January, 1888, when a young friend of hers gave a leap year party. The belle lost no time in selecting the journalist as her escort. She sent him a costly orchid for a boutonniere, called for him in her carriage, and, as the usage of that evening allowed, devoted herself to him openly and without reserve. He, like one in a dream, responded joyously to every kind word and look, but holding himself well in hand did not go beyond words of compliment.

In the carriage on the way home the reaction came, and he leaned back in his corner sad and silent.

"What is it?" she asked anxiously "Haven't you had a pleasant evening?"

"Glorious!" he replied, "but it is over. You are a queen, and I am only a poor nobody."

"Queens have privileges I wish that I had," she said in a low voice.

"What do you mean?" He bent toward her eagerly.

"They have the right to woo," she whispered.

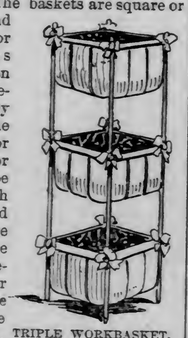
Homemade Workbaskets.

A perfectly serviceable standard workbasket can be made with four stout canes and two or three splint baskets in which fruit is sold. The baskets are square or nearly so, and measure ten or twelve inches across. They can be covered loosely or smoothly on the outside with some silk or cotton goods or the wood can be painted with enamel paint and left plain, the bands on the basket edges being gilded or bronzed. The inside linings are put in loosely, caught only at the top, so that in cleaning they can be pulled out and brushed. If possible have holes bored in the canes at the right distance for suspending the baskets. It will doubtless not be possible, however, in which case cut grooves around the canes, and then with twine run through the corners of the basket with a big darning needle tie them securely in place, concealing the twine with ribbon bows.



TRIPLE WORKBASKET.

The same idea may be carried out for a small workbasket, using small wooden sticks—and the quart fruit baskets.

Popular in Society.

Miss Kate A. Deering, who attracted a good deal of interest in Washington society last winter, is a decided brunette, with a tall, willowy figure. She has been carefully educated, speaks French, Italian and German, plays charmingly upon the mandolin, and has been studying drawing at the Corcoran Art school and shows decided talent for it. Her father, dead some years, was an officer in the navy, and a member of the family which, coming several generations ago from England, gave the name to the old town of Deering in Maine. Her mother is of the well known Swaine family of Boston.

AT THE THEATERS.

"Gloriana," Charles Frohman's Great Comedy, Monday and Tuesday Evenings at the Temple.

Julia Marlowe Next Thursday and Friday in "Cymbeline" and "The Hunchback."

Next week will be a great one for the Temple. "Gloriana," the first of Chas. Frohman's attractions to be seen here this year, and one of the best he has on the road, will be produced on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Then follows Julia Marlowe on Thursday and Friday evenings, producing "Cymbeline" one evening and "The Hunchback" on the other. Everybody in Duluth will remember Julia Marlowe, and probably no actress ever left Duluth leaving as many firm friends and admirers as did Miss Marlowe on the occasion of her former visit. The Lyceum will be dark next week, and in fact during the whole month of October will have only a few attractions.

Dockstader's minstrels on Tuesday evening was the Temple's only attraction so far this week. Nellie McHenry will appear there this evening in "A Night at the Circus." Professor Bristol's horses have been entertaining good audiences all week at the Lyceum.

NELLIE McHENRY.

This Charming Comedienne at The Temple Tonight in Her New Play.

A happy variation in farce will be the attraction at the Temple this evening, when jolly Nellie McHenry will present her circo-comedy, "A Night at the Circus," for the first time in this city. It is a mixture of song, dance and fun in the usual way, but in addition to the compound, includes a grotesque side view of life among the performers in the white tents. There is more of the play itself by H. Gratton Donnelly than is usual in the vehicles of variety specialties, and for Miss McHenry is provided the double character of twins, one of whom is a a demure Quakeress, and the other a frolicsome circus rider. During the first two acts the equestrienne makes fun by taking the place of her sister as governess to four demure but roguish girls. The last act is played in the tent dressing room of the "Greatest Show on Earth," with Miss McHenry in the guise of Mlle. Electra, the queen of the arena. It is full of sawdust, spangles, hoop-la and band wagon flavor.

"A Night at the Circus" opens in a law office and closes in a dressing tent of the great Imperial circus. The dreadful office boy is on hand, and so is the pretty typewriter, whom the patrons embrace in a way to send the chills down the backs of suspicious wives. Both members of this firm have wives. It transpires that a visiting governess is to be engaged by one of the wives, and that a certain Mlle. Electra, queen of the arena, stands in need of legal advice against a cruel manager. In the second act the people all rendezvous at a summer hotel. The demure little governess who, of course, is only a dashing queen of the arena in disguise, now proceeds to get everybody by the ears. There are plenty of songs and dances above buffoonery, coarseness or any sort of offensiveness, and it constitutes an entertainment which a visitor can come away from without self-reproach for paving laughed immoderately.

FIRST OF FROHMAN'S.

"Gloriana," a Farce Comedy, at the Temple Next Week.

"Gloriana," a three act comedy farce, by James Mortimer, and acted by Charles Frohman's selected company of artists, will be the attraction at the Temple on Monday and Tuesday evenings, October 3 and 4. The play is founded upon the French "Le Truc d' Arthur," and is full of absurd situations growing out of almost endless complicatiens. There is a languishing widow, and with her a jealous lover, and it follows naturally that there should be ample opportunity for the green-eyed monster to feed himself. The confusion is precipitated by the widow's former admirer, now on the brink of matrimony with another, masquerading as his valet, the valet assuming the role of master, and is further confounded by a similar exchange of places on the part of the widow and her maid. The company is made up of good material, and the performance is one that can be looked back upon with pleasure. There are several actors and actresses whose work stands out with commanding prominence. Miss Henrietta Crossman, who is the widow in the case, Mrs. Lovering or "Gloriana," is said to be admirable in her treatment of the character, quiet, demure and undemonstrative, but there is something truly fetching in her dreamy, downcast eyelids and fell destruction to the susceptible male animal in her mildly wicked sidelong glance. Frederick Bond, as Spinks the valet, report says is also entitled to especial mention for the very excellent manner in which he performs his part, but the honors of the evening belong first to E. J. Henley, whose Count Exitoff, is the life-blood of the play. It is a character observantly conceived and graphically, though grotesquely, set forth. The other people in this splendid organization are Charles B. Welles, Joseph Allen, Miss Margaret Robinson and Miss May Robson, Edwin Stevens, Thos. A. Wise, Wm. Robson and others.

JULIA MARLOWE.

She Will Produce "Cymbeline" and "The Hunchback" at the Temple.

Julia Marlowe appears at the Temple next Thursday and Friday evenings in "Cymbeline" and "The Hunchback." On the occasion of a recent appearance in Chicago the Tribune said of her:

"The stage need never apologize for returning to Shakespeare as long as it can boast interpreters whom nature has cast in a mold so thoroughly in harmony and spiritual sympathy with the creations of the great dramatist as Julia Marlowe. The poetry of histrionic art is innate, not made, and though its excellence is increased by loving labor and study, it owes its origin to a higher source than personal effort. To seem and to be one of the men or women into whom the master breathed the breath of life is given only to the elect and the predestined. There are a thousand clever imitators and imitations of the great originals, but few whom the world at once recognize as members of the royal family of players, as to the Shakespearean mind and manner born, as gifted with that subtle touch of genius that makes them kin to all the infinite variety of character which peoples the dramatic world that Shakespeare has created. To this rare lineage Miss Marlowe can claim no distant relationship, and no actress of the day could have been selected to do honor to the week which marks the anniversary of Shakespeare's birth who would have been in all respects so well suited to the occasion. There are others doubtless whose tragic powers compass a height and depth which she cannot reach, and still others who shine more brilliantly in one or two particular roles. But there are few who combine so completely all the qualities, physical, intellectual and artistic, which are so essential to success in this difficult field, few who can pass so easily to and from the most widely divergent phases of human nature. Shakespeare's women are women, not puppets, and women with such subtle shadings of character that the finest effects, because the most delicate, are often lost in the hands of the coarse or careless. It is in this particular that Miss Marlowe excels—in the fidelity with which her work reproduces these finer effects, so often overlooked, her stage portraits being as conspicuous for their clearness as for their softness of tone and beauty of coloring."

Professor Brooke's Orchestra.

Professor T. P. Brooke's American Typical orchestra will give a series of ten concerts this fall and winter in Duluth at the Temple. Professor Brooke's plan is to organize an orchestra of thirty-five pieces and give concerts in different cities in the Northwest. Monday he will be at Minneapolis, Tuesday at St. Paul, Wednesday at Red Wing, Thursday at Winona, Friday at La Crosse, Saturday at Eau Claire, Sunday afternoon at West Superior and Sunday evening at Duluth. The first of these concerts will be given in Duluth on Nov. 13 and the concerts will thereafter be given each Sunday following.

Gilmore's Band.

Gilmore's band will play in Duluth on Nov. 19 at the Lyceum. Manager Laine has written Manager Miller that the band will remain a distinct organization and he will manage it for Mrs. Gilmore. The organization will be known as "Gilmore's One Hundred." The contract with musicians became void at Col. Gilmore's death, but will be renewed and they have all signified their willingness to continue in Mrs. Gilmore's service. Charles W. Frendenvoil will be the permanent leader. He was chosen by Col. Gilmore as his lieutenant.

Frohman's Attractions.

Besides "Gloriana," which comes to the Temple next week, there will be a half dozen of Charles Frohman's plays here within the next two months. Among them are "Lost Paradise," "Junior Partner," "Grey Mare," "Charity Ball" and "The Wife." E. J. Henley, who takes the leading part in "Gloriana," is said to be equal in his line to Richard Mansfield. He is to leave the company soon and star.

Dramatic Gossip.

The 1000th performance of "Jane" will occur in New York, Oct. 4.

Agnes Booth will not be a member of A. M. Palmer's company this year.

Modjeska is rehearsing "Henry VIII" in New York. She will play Katharine of Aragon in the piece.

Lilla Linden, a handsome young woman with a contralto voice, is said to have made a hit in Sanger & Bothner's new comedy, "The Voodoo."

The "Black Crook" leads all the attractions in New York. The Academy of Music is filled to overflowing six nights and two afternoons of each week.

Marie Wainright will not begin her season until November. Her repertory will be a new play by Clyde Fitch, "Amy Robsart," The School for Scandal" and "Twelfth Night."

Lawrence Cautley, leading man of Margaret Mather's company, has been compelled by illness to resign. Walter S. Mathews has succeeded Mr. Cautley in Miss Mather's support.

The new fistic champion, James J. Corbett, will begin his dramatic season in October at Elizabeth, N. J., and tour through the East with "Gentleman Jim," his new play, until April.

Some strange things have been seen on the stage, and a new one is predicted in the shape of an American Indian as a star. He is from Utah, his name is Tabuane and he has been taught certain speeches from "Othello" with encouraging results. A play will be built for him his speeches being in monosyllables.

The oldest actor that ever spoke the English language was the famous Charles Macklin. Born in 1690, he made his debut at the age of 10 and continued to perform—how well the chronicles of the English stage glowingly record—uutil November, 1788. His 88 years of successful work have never been exceeded. At the age of 100 he passed away.

Annie Pixley's new play, "Miss Blythe of Duluth," by those who have read it, is pronounced in every way the most meritorious work of its author, William Gill, Esq., who is responsible for "Adonis," "In Paradise," "My Sweetheart," and scores of other well known plays. Mr. Gill's patent ability is in the direction of fitting those for whom he writes to a nicety and his long experience both as an actor and as a writer gave him a skill few others possess, especially in this way.

Alice Shepard, who was the weeping [illegible] last year, has made a [illegible] in "Nothing but Money" which has been played [illegible] the prima donna, [illegible] company in Omaha last week and has made a hit as the opera queen in the new play, "McFee of Dublin."

The Lillian Russell opera company drew over $21,000 during their first two weeks of the engagement at the Baldwin in San Francisco. Money talks, if this is the hard campaign season.

It is an unusual thing to find two brothers playing together in one company, especially brothers of so much ability as Harry and Edgar L. Davenport, and this is one of the many distinguished features of the Lederer stock company.

"Ali Baba" has passed its one hundred and fiftieth performance and is nearing the end of its run at the Chicago Opera house, not on account of poor business, for the theater has been crowded right along, but because the company will have to start on its Western tour.

Here is a bit of caustic from Jerome Eddy's Squib: "Lottie Collins, a dancer of no particular ability, is getting a lot of free advertising in the New York papers, while many competent actors and actresses are rarely if ever mentioned. Lottie may drop with a sickening thud before long."

Milton Nobles' new political and satirical comedy, "For Reverence Only," was produced at Havlin's Theatre in Chicago a short time ago and achieved a popular success. It is quite up to the standard of Mr. Nobles' former success and, in many points resembles "The Phœnix. Its principal character is a newspaper reporter, which the star exaggerates but does not caricature. Indeed, he rather idealizes the busy worker of the daily newspaper and makes him a remarkably able fellow—a veritable genius.

Jennie Kimball's husband, Thomas Flaherty, a well-known Boston pianoforte dealer, died in that city on the 9th inst. His wife was in Philadelphia directing the rehearsals of Arcadia, but upon being informed of his precarious condition by telegraph started at once for Boston, but arrived too late to see him alive. She took charge of the funeral, however, and took advantage of the occasion to deny that there had ever been any divorce between the deceased and herself and to state that their relations had always been harmonious.

Louise Imogen Guiney is working on an English version of Dumas' "Demi-Monde," which will be used by Mrs. James Brown-Potter and Kyrle Bellew.

Among the features of "1492" is the dance of the French cooks, which was arranged by Miss Isabel Florence and is danced by a bevy of pretty girls under her lead, attired in natty white caps and trousers.

The pathetic little piece, "The Porter's Knot," which was expanded by Dion Boucicault and produced under the title of "Daddy O'Dowd," has again furnished the basis of a play by Claude Carton. The piece was recently performed in London with some success.

THE WOMAN SUFFRAGISTS.

Mrs. Sarah B. Stearns has just returned from the Mississippi valley conference of woman suffragists, which was held at Des Moines, Ia., during the past week. The other delegates from Minnesota were Mrs. Julia B. Nelson, of Red Wing, and Mrs. Lutz, of Morton. The Des Moines papers vied with each other in giving full reports of their conference. One report said:

"The flag of the Iowa Woman Suffrage association hanging from a window of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, indicated the headquarters of the Mississippi valley conference of woman suffrage workers. At 9 o'clock this morning the hosts began to gather. The large auditorium was tastefully decorated with yellow drapings, and two very large flags, with one star on each blue field, representing Wyoming, as the only true Republic. Large boquets of golden rod and sunflowers were placed on and around the rostrum, also several choice boquets of flowers on stands and a large basket of yellow roses occupied a conspicuous place.

"In the evening public interest in the in the suffrage movement was shown by the assembling of the largest audience which has gathered at the Y. M. C. A. for a long time. Every seat, both down stairs and in the gallery was taken early, and a large number of extra chairs were occupied at the rear of the main floor sittings. Mrs. Carrie Lane Chapman, presiding, Mr. Wm. McFarland, secretary of state, gave the welcoming address. Lafayette Young, on behalf of the press, extended a hearty welcome. Rev. Olympia Brown responded. She said it is a most auspicious occasion when representatives of the press and congressmen stand up and advocate our cause, and wear the yellow ribbon. Women are advocating the uplifting of all mankind, not merely the enfranchisement of women. They are working on moral planes. God has appointed woman as guardians of the home. She needs the ballot in that position, and along moral lines.

"Laura B. Clay, of Kentucky, talked on the subject of 'The Christian's Duty to be Free.' She said she was talking especially to those who claim to be followers of Christ. She dwelt at length upon the Christian idea of liberty, and the close connection to it which suffrage bore, and in concluding urged more emphatic agitation of the questions that tend to uplift humanity. Miss Susan B. Anthony, being introduced, was greeted with applause. During her remarks she referred to the debate at Chautauqua between Rev. Anna Shaw and Dr. Buckley, and said that his utter defeat and discomfiture, when thus opposing woman suffrage, was itself an evidence of the advance of public sentiment.

"The second day's sessions were equally well attended and interesting. The evening was given to a banquet, where 200 invited guests were seated. The spread was elegant and the occasion was one of social and literary enjoyment of the highest order. On the closing evening this resolution was passed: That the friends of political equality, assembled in the Mississippi valley woman suffrage conference, will return to their homes in Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Florida, Mississippi, New York and Massachusetts, with renewed hope, faith and zeal in their work for the enfranchisement of women."

DANN IS DYING

Edward S. Dann, the Buffalo Bank Wrecker, is Now Lying at Death's Door.

Said to be the Result of an Attempt at Suicide on Saturday Evening.

His Trial Was to Have Begun Today, But it Was Necessarily Postponed.

The Cases of His Accomplices, Armstrong and McCredie, Were Also Postponed.

BUFFALO, Oct. 3.—Edward S. Dann, the bank wrecker, is lying at death's door at his home on Delaware avenue, as the result of an attempt at suicide on Saturday evening. Dr. Hopkins and Dr. Harrington, who are attending him, have grave doubts as to his recovery. He is unconscious and has been for over twenty-four hours now. What method he chose for his attempt is unknown. The greatest mystery surrounds the case and Dann's relatives and attendants combat every effort to secure any information whatever.

It is said Dann took a large quantity of morphine, and that all efforts to resuscitate him have so far proven unavailing. This is Dann's second attempt at suicide. It will be remembered that the night of his arrest he took twenty morphine pills, but the dose was so large that it made him sick and he recovered in a few hours. The trial of Edward S. Dann, ex-secretary and treasurer of the National Savings bank, on sixteen indictments for felony was to have begun this morning or to have been avoided by a plea of guilty. At 10:15 District Attorney Quinby said: "I desire to move the case of the people against Mr. Dann, which is set down for this morning."

"If the court please," said Mr. Hoyt, Dann's counsel, "I shall be obliged to ask that the case go over for a week. I have here the certificate of two reputable phosicians in the effect that Mr. Dann is ill and unable to leave his bed." He then submitted the doctors' certificate to the effect that his client was in a critical condition. No objection was made by the district attorney and Judge Titus postponed the case for one week.

The cases of Dann's accomplices, Armstrong and McCredie, were then called. "I next desire to move the case of the people against Mr. Armstrong," said Attorney Quinby. Armstrong's attorney objected to this, on the ground that the presence as a witness of Mr. Dann might be an imperative necessity for his client's defense, and for that reason he desired the case similarly put over until Mr. Dann's recovery. The request was granted.

The case of McCredie was next moved and his attorney, T. C. Becker, also made application for adjournment, presenting certificates from physicians that McCredie is suffering from chronic alcoholism, which has so impaired his mental faculties as to prevent his being able to make a defense in a legal proceeding. Counsel desired a postponement for an indefinite period until McCredie could improve, and asked that the case be put over the term. The district attorney objected, and Judge Titus postponed the case for one week.

Dann's alleged attempt at suicide has created a great sensation. His physicians are reticent and non-committal with regard to the cause of his illness, and his counsel hints at apoplexy, but from all that can be learned there appears to be no doubt that Dann attempted to take his life in preference to to an almost certain imprisonment for what would be for a man of his age a lifetime.

Dr. Hopkins this afternoon gave a positive denial to the report of Dann's alleged attempt at suicide, but refused to give any information except that the patient was in a very critical condition. Dr. Harrington talked the same way. A friend of the family says that Mr. Dann is suffering from the bursting of a blood vessel in the head. Notwithstanding these statements, the suicide story is given credence. District Attorney Quinby said this morning he was given to understand that Mr. Dann had attempted to take his life, and his assistant also had the same information.

THE CASE OF DR. BRIGGS.

Will Be Re-Opened By the New York Presbytery.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The annual meeting of the New York Presbytery was begun at 10 o'clock this morning at the Scotch Presbyterian church. There was a full attendance, in view of the fact that at some time during the session the famous Dr. Briggs case will be re-opened, and in accordance with the orders of the general assembly some action will be taken in the matter.

There appears, however, to be a hesitancy to take any decisive steps against Dr. Briggs, and it is expected that the only action that will be taken in his case today will be to set a date for a new trial.

Nothing was said about the case during this morning's session, the time devoted to routine business. Dr. Briggs sat in one corner of the room and watched the proceedings with apparent interest. Rev. Dr. Bliss was chosen moderator. He has held that office twice before. He is one of the principal champions of Dr. Briggs.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. — Railroad officials in Washington say that the reported derailing of the fast-flying Virginian at Huntington, W. Va., Sunday morning, was erroneous.

LORD HOUGHTON CHEERED.

Ireland's New Lord Lieutenant Has Reached Dublin.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Lord Houghton, the new lord lieutenant of Ireland, and his party were landed at Kingston, seven miles southeast of Dublin, by a special steamer this morning. The warship Belle Isle, which lay in the harbor, dressed and saluted; otherwise there was no demonstration. One reason may have been that the lord lieutenant arrived at an hour earlier than expected. The party proceeded immediately on a special train to Dublin.

A large crowd awaited Lord Houghton and his party at the railway station in Dublin. He was accompanied as is customary, from the railway station to Dublin castle, by a large body of officials who observed the usual ceremony of reception. The route was lined with dense crowds who frequently cheered the lord lieutenant.

THE TREASON CHANGES.

Five of the Prisoners Gave Bail This Morning.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 3.—George Reylands, John Durkin, William Gaches, David Lynch and Thomas J. Crawford, members of the Homestead advisory board, who were under arrest on the charge of treason, this morning gave bail in $10,000 for their appearance at court. The treason charges will be tried under the Kings jury system, which virtually allows the prosecution to make their own jury. Attorney Breck for the prosecution says that the advisory committee of the Union mills strikers will not be arrested on the charge of treason.

DESPERATE FIGHT.

Two Men Used Revolvers With Serious Effect In East St. Louis This Morning.

T. E. Davis Dangerously Wounded, Being Shot in the Left Lung and May Die.

Bold Attempt to Rob the Keystone Bank at Erie, Pa., at Noon Today.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—A desperate fight with revolvers between J. J. Ryan, a saloon keeper, and Henry Coombs, a horseman, occurred early this morning at the house of T. E. Davis, near the East St. Louis race course. As the result of the encounter, Ryan, Coombs and Davis were injured by pistol balls. Ryan was shot in the right arm and left shoulder, Coombs in the right hip, and Davis in the left lung. Davis is dangerously wounded and may die.

Ryan's wounds are not necessarily fatal. Coombs is locked up at the police station. He sustained only a flesh wound which was more painful than serious.

Ryan brought on the encounter by entering Davis' house where Davis and others were playing cards and inviting Coombs, with whom he had previously had trouble, to fight. It is said that Coombs declined to fight until he was forced to do so by the application of insulting epithets by Ryan.

A BOLD ATTEMPT.

Four Men Try to Rob a Bank at Noon Today.

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 3.—A bold but unsuccessful attempt at bank robbery took place this noon at the Keystone National bank. While Treasurer Frank Kepler was fixing up his cash, four young men entered the bank and before he was aware of their presence he and Bookkeeper Charles Liebel were covered by revolvers, which peered in upon them from every window of the bank enclosure.

The robbers cried "Hands up," but Kepler undertook to drop behind the counter and one of the robbers fired and hit him in the face, inflicting a very dangerous wound. All four of the robbers beat a hasty retreat but were run down and are now in custody.

All four are young men and gave names which are fictitious. They were very heavily armed. They claim to be from New York.

TROUBLE IN NEBRASKA.

The Sheriff of Hitchcock County Has Called For Troops.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 3.—The sheriff and several citizens of Hitchcock county have called for help from the governor. The governor (Boyd) is out of the state, and Secretary Morrisey wired Acting Governor Majors the situation and asked him to come to Lincoln.

Gen. Vifquain has made arrangements to put the militia in the field at once, but at 1 p. m. no word has been received from Lieut. Gov. Majors. It is said that a collision between the rival factions took place today at Culbertson, but that no one was killed, although several shots were exchanged.

WILL GIVE HIM PRECEDENCE.

Corbett Says He Will Accord Sullivan First Chance.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A reporter of the United Press called upon Champion Corbett this morning with regard to the dispatch from Boston in which Sullivan is quoted as saying that he was desirous of having another go with Corbett.

Corbett said: "I am suprised to hear that Sullivan wants to fight me again. I had an idea that he had retired from the ring. If he is in earnest, as a matter of course, I will give a challenge from him precedence over all others."

PECK'S NEXT BOMBSHELL.

A Longer Report Showing Increase of Wages is Ready.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—An Albany special says that Commissioner Peck will soon explode another of his bombs in addition to the report recently issued.

It is a continuation of his report in which he shows an increase of wages of various branches of workingmen. This table will be about twice as large as the one already given out.

WANTS TO FIGHT.

John L. Sullivan is About to Challenge Corbett For Another Ring Fight.

Says He Was Out of Condition When He Fought at New Orleans.

Believes There Was a Scheme to Rob Him by Training Him Wrong.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—A special to the World from Boston says that John L. Sullivan has startled his friends in that city by announcing his intention to challenge Corbett to fight again. In an interview he said: "I am saving money now with the resolute determination to challenge Corbett to fight again and give me a chance to win back the money that was robbed from me in New Orleans."

"There was someth'ng wrong. I am not making any direct charges just now, but that I was not right I well know. After the first round I could see a dozen Corbetts and, as good a man as Corbett is, I don't believe he or anyone else living can stand up and fight me twenty-one rounds without being hit. There was a scheme afoot to select what seemed to the pool men a dead sure combination, and I was selected to be thrown down."

William Muldoon, the well known trainer, says Sullivan was certainly not in condition in his last fight. He could not be, because he was trained wrong, so that he was weakened. He is ready to train Sullivan and back him with his own money against Corbett.

AN INEXPLICABLE COURSE.

The Dissolution of the New Brunswick Legislature a Surprise.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 3.—Lieut. Governor Tilley, acting on the advice of the government, has dissolved the New Brunswick legislature a year before the close of its term of four years. There are various reports assigned for the course of Hon. A. G. Blair, the premier.

It is said that an alliance has been made with Judge Landry, formerly a provincial secretary in the previous government, to leave the bench and re-enter political life. Should this be the case it would win French support in the northern counties, something that is much needed. Two members of the government, Commissioner of Works Ryan and Solicitor General Pugsley, have tendered their resignations, which may weaken the premier.

The reason for the government's step is not known. At the last session of the legislature the Opposition support had materially dwindled, and such a case as a legislature not living out its natural term here has not been known in the past, except in the case of a vote of want of confidence.

The upper chamber will cease to exist with the dissolution, and as several members were opposed to being legislated out of existence the government will find many opponents in this quarter, as many of them will contest in different counties.

A WINNIPEG MYSTERY.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 3.—Miss Olive Odell, a well-known young Winnipeg lady prominent in the Episcopal church and daughter of a Canadian Pacific official here, was found dead in the kitchen of her parents' residence yesterday morning.

The body lay in a pool of blood with a bullet hole through the breast and her brother's gun lying near by. The circumstances are so sensational and so mysterious as to completely baffle the police.

The statements of a neighbor that at 3 o'clock she heard a man hurriedly leave Odell's residence and run down the street lead to the suspicion of murder. Miss Odell had no troubles so far as is known, and retired at the usual hour apparently in good spirits. She was partially dressed when the body was found.

WORKED AN OLD GAME.

An Illinois Land Owner Robbed of $5000 by Two Men.

VANDALIA, Ill., Oct. 3.—A stranger went to the residence of E. B. Stokes, one of the largest land owners of Fayette county, Saturday, and induced him to drive to Vandalia to see about a land deal. Mr. Stokes drew $5000 out of the bank and he and the stranger started back.

Darkness overtook them and when about one mile this side of Ramsey, a confederate of the man with Mr. Stokes came upon the scene, and the two men forcibly took Stokes' money and throwing him out of the buggy made their escape.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Oct. 3.—The timber district near the line of the Tuckahoe railroad has been burning for four days. Thousands of acres of valuable timber have been destroyed. Attempts to fight the fire are useless, as the heavy wind carries the sparks several hundred yards and the timber is dry as tinder.

It is not known how the fire started. The Hebrew settlement, twenty-five miles above Cape May, started by Baron Hirsch is in imminent danger of being wiped out by the fire.

Frank Cooley Killed.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 3.—Frank Cooley, the leader of the notorious Cooley gang, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock at the home of his father, "Lute" Cooley, between Fair Chance and Smithfield.

The Monetary Conference.

Waves Fifteen Feet High in a Texas Bay.

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 3.—A terrific storm swept Matagorda bay Saturday night, the waves breaking over the land at a heighth of fifteen feet. A dispatch from Port Lavica says several buildings were destroyed and a number of vessels badly damaged by the waves.

No lives were lost, but it will require time and much money to repair the damage. No accurate estimate of the loss can be made. There is much uneasiness felt for the crews of a number of boats which are known to have been out on Matagorda bay Saturday.

THE OLD BOARD BEATEN.

An Exciting School Election Held at Faribault.

FARIBAULT, Minn., Oct. 3.—This city has just had an exciting school election. The Faribault plan was, of course, the leading issue. The old board which favored the scheme was defeated by 200 majority in 1000 votes.

A Newspaper Deal.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 3.—John T. West, of the West House, Minneapolis, and William L. O'Brien, Sr., have sold the stock which they held in the Ohio State Journal, to J. D. Ellison, of Cincinnati. H. C. Ellison, of Cleveland, a brother of J. D., has been elected a director under the new deal. H. C. Ellison is a bank cashier and J. D. Ellison is an ex-railroad superintendent and president of the State Journal company.

Stole Silver Bullion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—Yesterday afternoon Nathan Cohen, Charles Fink and Julius Weinsburg, Russian Jews, were arrested for stealing silver bullion from railroad cars in the yards in East St. Louis. Over $2000 worth of silver was recovered, but as the stealing has been carried on for some time it is believed the amount stolen is in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Tragedy at Deadwood.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Oct. 3.—The Baptist church at this place valued at $12,000 was destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. During the fire, Clem Spurling, a fireman, and Dr. Naulteous quarreled, and the doctor shot Spurling dead. Naulteous is now lying at the point of death with brain fever.

Murder Near Little Falls.

A Long Sentence.

New York's Apportionment.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3.—When the court of appeals met this morning Attorney Rosendale made a motion to take up the argument in the apportionment cases. The court decided, however, to let them be put first on tomorrow's calendar, and the counsel were ordered to be present. The Republican side of the argument will be made by William A. Sutherland.

A Constable Badly Beaten.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 3.—Yesterday while Constable Wade was attempting to arrest a Hungarian named John Krantchi, who was wanted for criminally assaulting a Hungarian girl named Annie Fredri, he was set upon by a number of Krantchi's companions and so severely beaten that he now lies in the hospital in a critical condition. No arrests have been made.

The Effects of Diving.

An Australian pearl diver says that one of the strange effects of diving is the invariable bad temper felt while working at the bottom of the sea. As this usually passes away as soon as the surface is reached, it is probably due to the pressure of the air affecting the lungs, and through them the brain. The exhilaration and bonhomie of the mountain climber is a contrary feeling from an opposite cause. A diver becomes so angry at some imaginary wrongdoing on the part of those in the boat above that he gives the signal to be pulled up "with the intention of knocking the heads off the entire crew"—only to forget what he came up for when the surface is reached.

New Style of Vehicle.

The "equibus" is a recently invented vehicle of singular construction. It runs on two wheels, and is so contrived that the axletree passes under the horse's body, which is between the axle and the main portion of the carriage. The advantages claimed for this extraordinary turnout is that it is almost impossible to upset; that it dispenses with a great deal of unnecessary harness; that it is a great support to fatigued animals, and that it requires a very small amount of space to turn in.

A Healthy Improvement.

The customs receipts of the Argentine Republic at the two ports of Buenos Ayres and Rosario for the first five months of 1892 were $34,071,300, an excess over the receipts for the same period in 1891 of $12,951,383. As there has been no material change in the tariff within the last two years this increase indicates a healthy improvement in trade.

Recovers His Speech.

Alphonce Hempling, of Summit township, Butler county, Penn., made an affidavit that his 12-year-old son, who had St. Vitus dance for twelve years, lost his speech, was completely cured after using three bottles of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, and also recovered his speech. Thousands testify to wonderful cures from using it for nervous diseases, dyspepsia, nervous debility, dullness, confusion of mind, headache, etc. Four doses of this nervine cured Mrs. W. E. Burns, South Bend, Ind., who had been suffering with constant headache for three months. Trial bottle and elegant book free at all druggists.

An Economical Woman.

As a new fall gown costs from ten to fifty dollars, Mrs. F——— has actually saved that amount by using diamond dyes.

There are forty kinds of these dyes, making any shade desired, but the fast blacks are especially serviceable at this season.

There are three kinds of diamond dye black, one for wool, one for cotton, and one for silk and feathers. None of them will fade or crock, and they make colors that are fast to light and washing.

A Well Fed People.

Americans—United States Americans, at least—are the best fed people on earth. Some nations cook well, but get little to cook. Others have a rude profusion of food, but spoil it in the cooking. The United States is the one country producing in its own borders about everything edible, and at the same time having millions of excellent cooks. The Thanksgiving dinner of the New Englander, the Christmas dinner of the Southerner, are equalled in no other country of the world. The United States is the country of people who live well at home—and they want to live just the same when abroad. So our hotels are the wonder of all foreigners for their cuisine, and so the Burlington Route, traversing ten states which are the supply house of the nation, spreads before its patrons, in its peerless dining cars, meals embracing every known substantial and delicacy, served in the highest style of culinary art. If you wish to be well fed while travelling, of course you insist on your home agent giving you tickets via the Burlington Route, or write to W. J. C. Kenyon, general passenger agent, St. Paul, Minn.

Not Good Authority.

The composer Rossini was once promised by a friend a dinner of turkey and truffles. The friend showed a disposition to postpone the dinner and make excuses. One of these excuses, and we may believe it was the last one submitted, was disposed of by the musician with characteristic wit and originality.

One day Rossini said, "Well, my dear friend, when are we to have that turkey?"

"Truffles are not good at this season," said his friend.

"Don't you believe it," replied Rossini; "that report was started by the turkeys."—Youth's Companion.

MYSTIC SHRINERS.

William B. Mellish, of Cincinnati, the newly elected imperial potentate of the ancient Arabic order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine for North America, is a prominent manufacturer of Ohio and has his residence in the beautiful suburb of Cincinnati known as Clifton. He is but forty years of age, but has held many important offices in the several Masonic organizations. He is a past grand commander of the Knights Templars of Ohio, and is at present the grand standard bearer of the grand encampment of the United States. He is also one of the most prominent Scottish Rite workers in the west, having been an officer of high rank in the Ohio consistory for the past fifteen years. He has been one of the bright lights of Mystic Shrine since the early years of its career in America. He was chosen potentate of Syrian temple, of Cincinnati, in 1881 and has held that position continuously since. In 1886 he was elected imperial director for three years, in 1889 imperial chief rabban and now he has been exalted to the highest position in the order.

W. B. MELLISH.

One of the most unique sights ever seen at Omaha was the recent parade of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. Over 2,000 shriners marched twelve abreast, keeping time to the music of a half dozen bands. A platoon of police headed the parade and swept back the crowd. Moslem temple, of Detroit, turned out 70 nobles. They were dressed in Moorish costumes, and their military evolutions were loudly applauded.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Feb. 19, 1890, the uniformed rank consisted of 698 divisions, a year later of 858 divisions, and on Feb. 19 of 985 divisions, with 90 divisions for the institution of which applications have been approved since the date last named above, making a total to date of 1,065 divisions, with an aggregate membership of more than 40,000, and with brigade and regimental organizations in nearly every important grand jurisdiction.

On July 1 the endowment rank consisted of 1,417 active sections, comprising 298,407 members, with endowments in force amounting to $62,952,000, and an increase since the last biennial report of 500 sections, 8,000 members and $17,000,000 endowments. The resources of the rank are stated to be $87,861,000 and the liabilities representing death losses accruing before July 1 $187,000. Much of this liability is represented by proofs in process of completion and adjustment, and which will be met by the usual assessment.

A dispensation has been issued to institute a new lodge at Macon, Ga. The application is signed by seventy of the best citizens of that progressive city. The lodge will be instituted at an early day. Bros. Carling and Hertz have been very active in getting up the new lodge.

If the grand lodge of New York had accomplished no other good result at its recent session at Troy, it would have created an enduring monument in its action on the subject of the proposed Pythian home.

There are at present 457 Knights of Pythias lodges in the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania, with a membership in good standing of 44,861.

Information Concerning the Order for the Benefit of Palefaces—Nomenclature.

The nomenclature of the order is identical in most respects with that used among the primitive red men, and is regarded by those who love the order and its teachings as not the least of its attractions. Each month, or moon, has its appropriate designation following in regular sequence and corresponding in the calendar with January to December, the terms being Cold, Snow, Worm, Plant, Flower, Hot, Buck, Sturgeon, Corn, Traveling, Beaver and Hunting moons. A day is a sun, a month a moon, a year a great sun. Time is computed from the discovery of America by Columbus, the year 1492 being Great Sun of Discovery 1, and 1892 being G. S. D. 401. The presiding chief of a tribe is called sachem, of a state great council, great sachem, and of the United States great council, great incohonee. While these terms are all familiar to members they are mentioned here for the instruction of palefaces into whose hands this long talk may come.

Friendship, fraternity and hospitality are exemplified as cardinal virtues, and nowhere are hearts brought closer together than around the council fire of the Red Men. In sickness or distres, a brother is visited, comforted and assisted, and when the arrow of death has removed him from his trail on earth he is buried by his brothers, who continue a watchful protective care for his widow and orphans. For this purpose a Tribe is compelled by law to make certain appropriations for weekly and funeral benefits.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

North Carolina Waking Up—Items of General Interest to the Order.

Grand Dictator D. A. Covington, of North Carolina, has issued official circular No. 2, in which he appeals to the members, individually and collectively, to better themselves and make the record of North Carolina compare favorably with that of any other jurisdiction in material progress of our order. It also contains the new scale of assessments and a report of the grand reporter showing the financial condition of the grand lodge. The grand dictator also offers a number of prizes to lodges, deputies and members showing the best results.

Each lodge in the order is expected to put in one new member each month for the next six months, and as many more as it can.

Why not organize your entire lodge into a working lodge?

A new lodge is to be instituted in New York city in the near future.

The excursion under the auspices of Senate lodge of Brooklyn, which took place July 27, was a financial as well as a social success.

A. O. U. W.

The Order Prosperous in Missouri—Dr. Doherty's Successor Appointed.

In many parts of the United States enthusiastic work in behalf of the order is being done, which has built up the membership in a most satisfactory manner. If in all parts of the United States the work was as prosperous as it is in Missouri there would probably be a million members of the order. There is no reason why this result cannot be obtained.

The vacancy in the office of supreme medical examiner caused by the death of Dr. Doherty has been filled by the appointment of Grand Recorder Dr. Wm. C. Richardson, of Missouri. This is a most excellent appointment, as the experience of Dr. Richardson gives him peculiar qualifications for the office. He will make a most admirable officer. Missouri now has two officers of the supreme lodge, and should show by her activity that the honor is well bestowed.

Michigan had two assessments for August.

Nebraska lodges are generally erecting their own halls. This is not only an excellent advertisement of the order, but an illustration of the stability and permanency of the A. O. U. W. in the land, as well as a suitable investment.

The attention of the order has evidently turned toward the degree of honor and in many jurisdictions new lodges are being instituted with many good results.

The maintenance of conditions as now prevailing in the A. O. U. W. as a whole, possesses the requisite compound of nutriment and waste to sustain its vitality and render it healthful.

The A. O. U. W. in Michigan has paid out $250,000 to the beneficiaries of deceased members since Jan. 1.

More young men are coming into the order than ever before. They know a good thing when they see it, and the reduction of the age limit to forty-five just suits them.

The A. O. U. W. has kept many a woman out of the poorhouse and many an orphan boy and girl out of crime and pauperism.

Is there a library in your lodge? If not, why not?

"Don't search for uncomfortable and detracting things to say about the order, but store up and repeat all the good things you hear about it," is a good motto to follow.

Near 400 applications were made in July in Nebraska.

No assessment in Nebraska for August, making but three calls levied during the past eight months.

Oregon has 4,384 members, a gain of 540 this year; 84 lodges, gain of 17 over last report, and 8 D. of H. lodges.

I. O. O. F.

News from the Massachusetts Jurisdiction—The Rebekah Degree.

The annual session of the grand lodge of Massachusetts was held recently in Odd Fellows' hall, Boston. During the term three new lodges have been instituted, making the total number 216. The whole number instituted for the year was 9. The semiannual reports show the following work for the term: Number initiated, 2,224; admitted by card, 140; reinstated, 38; total admission, 2,402; withdrawn by card, 133; suspended, 323; expelled, 7; deceased, 317; total deductions, 780; net gain for the term, 1,622; number of rejections, 158; degrees conferred, 6,702; past grands, 5,821; members, 44,809; amount for relief, $114,463.33; total receipts, $255,409.90. There were 6 Rebekah lodges instituted during the term; there are now 112 lodges in this jurisdiction.

The abstract from the term reports of Rebekah lodges of Ontario to June 30 shows 11 lodges in existence: 76 brothers and 74 sisters admitted; 2 brothers and 1 sister died; 83 brothers and 60 sisters ceased; a present membership of 439 brothers and 562 sisters—total 1,001—with assets amounting to $2,585.45.

There was expended in relief in Ontario during the past year the sum of $65,293.84. If there be those who say this amount is not great, who is there who can say it is small?

Order Chosen Friends.

What is our order? Is it in part to feel for others' woes and share them too? 'Tis that which warms and elevates the heart. 'Tis friendship, pure, unshaken, tried and true. The rainbow never tires doing good work for the order.

The order is now a little over thirteen years old and has done much to alleviate suffering and want. It has paid its death losses promptly at an average cost per thousand of only eight dollars per year to its members.

The supreme councilor will not permit a council to be organized at Creede, the new mining camp in Colorado.

Royal Society of Good Fellows.

The last official statement of the R. S. of G. F. shows the following assets and liabilities: Due from subordinate assemblies (ledger balances), $50; stock on hand, supplies, $1,959.52; stock on hand, furniture, fixtures, steel plates, etc., $3,195.76; cash in banks and office, $738.39; total, $5,943.67. Due subordinate assemblies (ledger balances), $8.93; excess of assets, $5,934.74; total, $5,943.67.

Premier Spooner believes in being in touch with the entire brotherhood. He is preparing an autograph letter circular, to be addressed to all members, and in it will make comparison of the number of assessments called by the leading death benefit orders for the past six months and show that the Good Fellows have actually paid less than other fraternities during that period.

Knights and Ladies of Honor.

The deaths enumerated on the August assessments are credited as follows: Indiana, Michigan, Mississippi and Pennsylvania, 1 each; Arkansas and North Carolina, 2 each; Massachusetts and Ohio, 3 each; New Jersey, 4; Texas, 5; Kentucky, 6; Missouri 7; Illinois, 14, and New York, 15.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN DULUTH.

The Weather.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, DULUTH, MINN., Oct. 3.—Generally fair weather prevails in all sections, except over the lake region, where it is cloudy, and where light rain has fallen since yesterday.

An area of high barometer covers the western part of the country and an area of low is central over lower Canada, moving east.

There has been quite a fall in temperature over the West and Northwest, while it is warmer than usual over the South and East. Only one place is warmer than Duluth this morning, St. Louis, where it is two degrees warmer. It is 22° colder at Moorhead this morning than it is here, and jus about the same west of there. The highest temperature here yesterday was 78°, the lowest last night 54°.

B. H. BRONSON,
Local Forecast Official.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Forecast till 8 p. m. tomorrow: For Wisconsin: Fair; northwesterly winds, turning to southeasterly; cooler Tuesday morning, followed by rising temperature. For Minnesota: Fair; warmer in western portions; cooler in eastern portions Tuesday morning, followed by rising temperature; winds shifting to southwesterly.

THE HERALD'S SUPREMACY.

The acknowledged supremacy of The Evening Herald, both as a newspaper and an advertising medium, is plainly evidenced in every issue. But The Herald promises its patrons much more in the future. Its telegraph facilities are not excelled by any paper in the West, it being the exclusive user and owner of both the United Press and Associated Press franchises in Duluth. Its local columns have always far excelled those of either of its morning contemporaries, but not content with this The Herald has just increased its local force in order to keep up with the rapid growth of this city, every section of which which will be covered daily.

Last Saturday's sixteen-page edition of The Herald was a fair specimen of its enterprise, and the relative value placed upon the newspapers here by wide-awake advertisers of Duluth. It was the largest Saturday paper issued in the state. The only other paper that approached it was the Evening Journal of Minneapolis, which contained twelve pages. As compared with the Sunday morning papers of this city the Saturday Herald led them in the number of columns of paid advertisements as follows:

	No. columns.
Herald	64
Tribune	44½
News	34

	No. Columns.
The Herald	32
Tribune	37
News	21

In substantiation of the claim that The Herald has a much larger circulation than the two morning papers combined, we give the sales of the Zenith News Stand, next door to the postoffice, for the month of August:

	No. Copies.
Evening Herald	2,460
Daily News	1,054
Daily Tribune	408

This is a remarkable showing, considering the fact that The Herald is sold on the streets every evening by at least a hundred newsboys, while the morning papers are nearly all sold at the newsstands. It must also be considered that the morning papers publish seven days in the week, while The Herald is issued only on six days. Yet, notwithstanding this advantage in favor of the morning papers, The Herald sales at this particular news stand exceeded the sales of both its contemporaries combined by over 1000 copies. A little calculation will show that the average daily sales of the three papers at this news stand were as follows: The Herald, 94½; News, 35; Tribune 13½. It will be found that the sales at other news stands are in about the same proportion, while on the streets fifty copies of The Herald are sold to one of the Tribune or News. These are facts and figures that cannot be disputed.

THE PRIMARIES TONIGHT.

The Republican primaries are to be held tonight to elect delegates to the county convention, which in turn will select delegates to the legislative and judicial conventions. The Herald trusts that only delegates who believe in the nomination of members of the legislature favorable to the re-election of Senator Cushman K. Davis will be chosen. It also trusts that the delegates chosen will be equally strong in favor of nominating Samuel H. Moer for judge of the district court, to succeed Judge Stearns.

Mr. Moer was selected by the members of the bar as their candidate for this position. No politics entered into his choice by the bar, and as he is eminently fitted for the bench, he should receive the support of all the political parties. In this way the judiciary will be kept out of the mire of politics. It is understood that there is a movement among a few to induce the Republicans to disregard the wishes of the bar for Mr. Moer's selection and nominate another. The Herald trusts that those who attend the primaries tonight will not aid such an unwise movement, but will vote only for delegates known to be favorable to Mr. Moer's nomination.

THE SILVER QUESTION.

The date for the meeting of the international monetary conference has finally been fixed. A dispatch to The Herald today says that it will meet at Brussels on November 22. There will now be increased interest, in the financial markets, in this conference. There were recently noted certain symptoms of a disposition in high places in Europe to defeat the assemblying of the conference. It now begins to appear that, if such a desire has existed, it arose from fears of the conference awakening a storm which the gold standard nations might find it difficult to control or allay. Large interests in England and on the continent are becoming deeply aroused by the question as profoundly affecting commercial enterprise, while India is speaking in tones too earnest to be disregarded. It is likely therefore that the discussions of the conference may develop into a severe struggle, in which radical proposals may be forthcoming.

From such authentic incidental information as reaches Henry Clews, the New York banker, he says should not be surprised if the chief silver-producing countries, notably the United States, be formally asked, as a condition of other nations increasing their coinage, that they shall enforce a large curtailment in their production of silver; while, from other quarters may come alternative proposals to establish a new common legal valuation of silver, probably quite 25 per cent below the existing valuation of 15½ to 1. Such negotiations cannot fail to have their effect upon financial interests.

The foreign countries' interest in American securities will now naturally be restricted, until the monetary conference has concluded its deliberations. They will naturally wait for the result of the conference, as well as to ascertain the probable drift of our legislation relative to silver coinage. Already the return of our investments from London has come to a pause, but there is no disposition at present to buy them back. Those who have been alarmed by our silver policy seem to have parted with all they want to sell, and now no doubt think all the better of us from the fact that we have digested and absorbed two hundred millions of them without a wince and with little visible effect upon prices. The remaining holders no doubt are blessed with specifically gold-bearing obligations, about which they need have no misgivings. These are the opinions of Mr. Clews, whose authority to speak on this question is unquestioned.

REGISTRATION IS NECESSARY.

This year the Australian ballot system will be applied to the county districts in this state for the first time. There are doubtless many people who are but poorly informed regarding the provisions of this law, and the various political parties should promise a campaign of education in this respect. For instance registration is a prerequisite to voting. No man in either the county districts or in the cities can vote, unless he has previously registered. No man can vote by reason of any former registration. This latter fact should be impressed upon all voters in the cities.

The first registration day in Minnesota, for both country and city districts, is Tuesday, October 18. The next two days for registration in the country, which includes all towns of less than 40,000 inhabitants, will be October 25 and November 2. In cities of over 40,000 inhabitants there are four registration days, viz: October 18 and 25 and November 2 and 5. There will probably be only three registration days in Dulush, owing to the population being figured according to the census two years ago, which gave this city less than 40,000 people at that time.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press will hereafter be set entirely by machinery instead of by hand. The improved Linotype machine will be used. This is a great advance in the printing business and it will not be many years before every newspaper in the country will use these machines. Of course it will be impossible to set displayed advertisements in this manner. The Pioneer Press is one of the first papers in the country to put in an entire outfit of these machines.

The St. Cloud Journal-Press asks a contemporary to explain why wages should not be as high in Canadian cities as in American cities, in a corresponding longitude, and predicts that this will be a "hard nut for free traders to crack." The Herald is not a free trade paper, but this nut is so easily cracked that it cannot refrain from drawing the attention of the Journal-Press to the fact that Canada has a high protective tariff. Evidently the St. Cloud paper was ignorant of this fact.

There was not a single item of news of any importance in the Sunday papers, either local or telegraphic, which had not been published in the Saturday edition of The Herald. What is the use of morning papers, anyhow?

The repudiation of the Populist candidate by the Norwegian weekly, the Skandinav, appears to have created consternation in the little Searle camp in this city. It has likewise sent the News into another hysterical paroxysm. This is because it has spoiled the little game by which Parsons was being kept in the field, with the understanding that he would retire a few days before election and endeavor to throw his strength to Searle.

The Little Citizen is the name of a new weekly paper, the first number of which has just been issued by J. Adam Bede. It presents a neat typographical appearance, and the contents are interesting. It will preach straight Democratic doctrine, and as Duluth has no Democratic daily it should prove successful.

The "Faribault plan" of merging the Catholic parochial schools into the public school system is now likely to be abandoned at the place of its inception, as a dispatch today announces that the old school board, which favored the plan, has been beaten for re-election.

LET HIM REMAIN JUDGE.

It Would be a Mistake to Take Judge Searle From the Bench.

Sauk Center Avalanche: The Avalanche has had, and published, three communications in regard to Judge Searle resigning, and has commented upon one of them, but the communications seem to have expended themselves, and the Avalanche likewise, and so far as it is concerned it does not care a continental whether he resigns or not.

So far as the matter bears upon the Democratic party, it will not affect it one way or the other. If his place on the bench is to be filled by another it will be by a Republican, not a Democrat, and, on sober second thought, the Avalanche would prefer to see the judge retain his seat, as the worry would come on the other side of the house, and it delights in their worriment.

And, on sober third thought, it hopes that he will not resign, as he fills the position of judge admirably and to the satisfaction of all. Long may he grace the bench, but not for some time the congressional seat!

TOUCHED A TENDER SPOT.

The Searle Organs Are Protesting Altogether Too Much.

St. Cloud Times: A little item appeared under this heading a few days ago which appears to have touched a tender spot in more than one place. As there may be a few Republican papers in the district that have not seen the paragraph it is published again:

"The following is given for what it is worth, and some people think it is worth a good deal. A stranger, a supposed follower of the Republicans, sojourned in St. Cloud yesterday. In the evening he left the city and in a neighboring town gave it out to a select few that the Republicans at St. Cloud had given up Knute Nelson and were trading him off for Searle wherever they could."

Just why every Searle organ in Duluth should feel called upon to refute this with half a column of editorial, and why all the Republican papers in the district should rush in and deny it, is hard to understand. Even the Minneapolis Tribune gets excited over it, and shouts that "Judge Searle is not built that way and his friends are not of that kind." Can it be possible that the stranger was better informed than he was given credit for here? As Lord Bacon would say: "I fear they protesteth too much."

Should Vote for Baldwin.

Buffalo, Wright County, Blaze: Everybody desiring a second Chicago made of Duluth, in our own Sixth congressional district, should vote for Maj. Baldwin, who lives in that city and zealously advocates the deep water system. He is for twenty-one feet of water from Duluth to the Atlantic as soon as possible. The Eagle carries a column of plate (which saves money to them, not to typos), telling of the good looks and so forth of Judge Searle. Maj. Baldwin is good enough looking and will fill the congressional chair just as well as Judge Searle can.

S. S. Allschul, 602 Garfield avenue, is selling out his exceptional fine stock of dry goods, groceries, crockery, &c. Those in want of supplies best call. Must vacate premises in three weeks' Also notice his for sale ad.

RUNNING CHANCES

of the baby breaking your watch may not result in any damage to your timepiece and loss to your pocket, but there are risks and risks. Some risks you can run without much danger; others you cannot. Missing an early inspection of our stock of Domestic and Imported Novelties is one of the chances you can't run without incurring a loss. In this case two things are certain: This stock is superior to anything we ever offered before, and it is most assuredly superior to anything else now shown in this city. It is sometimes a loss of money not to spend it and it is certainly losing money to miss securing some of these specialties.

AMUSEMENTS.

Nellie McHenry.

Nellie McHenry drew a large audience at the Temple Saturday evening, but "A Night at the Circus" did not come up to the popular expectations. It is something out of the ordinary, however, and as long as quick action and continual "go" are maintained will probably be a success. Not for a minute is it allowed to drag, and it is well that it is so. Nellie McHenry's popularity and notoriety, for she has considerable, has evidently been acquired through shrewd advertising and booming, certainly not through any talent which she possesses. Her one redeeming feature is that she is such a hard worker. She is on the jump all the time and is not still for a minute while on the stage. The company was a good one on the whole. Ben Lodge as Nicholas Friske was clever, as was also John Webster as Banger. Thomas O'Brien's acrobatic work was remarkably original and catchy.

"Gloriana" Tonight.

Unquestionably the most pronounced success of the society comedy character since "Mr. Wilkinson's Widows" was produced has been that of "Gloriana." It is a three-act comedy by James Mortimer, an American by birth, but he has lived abroad so long that most people regard him as a foreigner. He is expected, however, to return to this country shortly after an absence of twenty-six years. "Gloriana" has, in addition to its merit of being exceedingly funny, the great advantage of being presented by a company of unusual excellence. The acting of E. J. Henley, as a Russian count, Frederick Bond and Miss May Robson, as two cockney servants, was regarded as among the cleverest character hits of the New York season. "Gloriana" will be given at the Temple this and tomorrow evenings by the full original New York cast.

Special Fitness for the Work.

The Little Citizen: Whatever partisan leaders may feel called upon to do, there is no reason why the great unknown and independent vote of St. Louis county should not be cast for Maj. Baldwin. The equal of his opponent every way, he rises eminently superior to him at many points, having always in his favor a special fitness for the work in hand and his political affiliation with the majority of the house. Does Duluth want a congressman? Does she want him to her own liking? Then work and vote for Maj. Baldwin.

THE JURY SECURED

Twelve Men, Tried and True, are Found to Determine Houck's Fate.

One Hundred and Thirty Talesmen Were Called Before a Jury Was Selected.

James Vandeen, Charles Eppling and James Minahan Make the Final Three.

When the sun drew the veil of night across his face Saturday evening no jury had been secured in the Houck murder case. During the two days through which the trial had been dragging along ninety-eight candidates for a place in the box had been examined and but nine found who were acceptable to both sides in the case. A special venire of thirty-five was ordered by the judge as a starter for Monday morning's business, and court adjourned.

The court machinery was set in motion a few minutes after 9 o'clock this morning. Three more jurors were required to make up "twelve men, good and true." The audience was of good size and paid close attention to the monotonous and uninteresting proceedings. Attorney General Clapp took a back seat and let the management of the examination of the jurors fall upon County Attorney Tear. Houck presented about the same appearance as Saturday and did not relax his close attention to matters in hand.

F. A. David, a broker, and Wm. Marshall, a clerk in the First National bank, were put through their paces and then excused. A. Johnson was called, but did not respond. An attachment was ordered by the judge, but by that time Johnson arose and said he had not responded because his name was Anthony Johnson and that he was not accustomed to have his full name omitted. Anthony, however, was told to go. Fred Russell was excused upon the peremptory challenge of the defense. F. A. Lewis, a real estate dealer, was likewise rejected. John Collins and H. J. Atwood were rejected and John Cameron was relieved of jury service by the peremptory challenge of the defense. The market value of Duluth real estate men was lowered by the rejection of Ed. Mooers. W. T. Bailey, a lumber dealer, and Jas. O'Neil, a contractor, were next found unavailable for the work on hand and were excused.

Thos. Summers did not respond to his name when called. The judge ordered an attachment issued. When brought in a couple of hours later, Judge Stearns asked him why he had shown such contempt. He replied that not only was his wife sick this morning, but that the cars only run twice in half a day from his part of the city. "Five dollars and costs and committment in jail until paid" was the reply that thundered from the bench.

H. Petrie was excused. James Vandeen, a school master abroad from Tower, while little in stature, proved very acceptable to both sides of the case, whereupon he was sworn in as the tenth occupant of the jury box. T. J. Brennan, a Duluth dealer in iron lands, and Frank Riley, a woodsman, were turned down and told to go.

Charles Eppling, a Duluth grocer, presented such a neat appearance and gave such replies to all questions that he was accepted and sworn in as the eleventh juror. When asked if he ever had any business relations with County Attorney Tear, he replied, "He may have purchased some groceries in my store." Now, Mr. Tear is unmarried and boards at the club, which causes a great mass of humanity to wonder what use he could make of groceries. A peremptory challenge excused G. R. Nelson, a cook. Ed Miller, a woodsman, was excused, and another peremptory from the defense relieved William Horton, a money loaner. D. Murphin, a broker, D. P. Sorenson, a butcher, and W. A. Holgate were rejected. After a recess of five minutes C. W. Reynard, the Scandinavian journalist, Homer Craig, a cook, and T. G. Vaughn, a real estate dealer, were excused. A peremptory challenge by the defense let out A. McMillan, a woodsman. A. Swardly, a druggist, J. A. Roberts, Frank Clark and Alec McDonald were also found undesirable and excused.

Last but not least was Jas. Minahan, a homesteader from the Wildwood. Being caught on the street Sunday morning he was summoned as one of the special venire. He was the one hundred and thirtieth man examined and the twelfth accepted and sworn in. That completed the panel and after cautioning the members of the jury not to allow themselves to be talked to and to report any who should persist in doing so, Judge Stearns adjourned court until 3:30 p. m.

The full jury as drawn is composed of the following men: H. C. Osterhout, picture canvasser; W. W. Warner, carpenter; W. S. Austin, cigar salesman; Oscar A. Peterson, carpenter; E. Lloyd, boarding house proprietor; M. A. Doughty, butcher; Ed Ingalls, capitalist; J. Jolean, painter; J. Diamond, retired; James Vandeen, schoolmaster; Charles Eppling, grocer; James Minahan, homesteader.

BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

Three Deaths from Typhoid Fever Reported Today.

There was a "boom" in births yesterday if the health reports can be taken as a criterion. The following were reported: Son to Joseph and Annie Oreckovsky, at 214 East Fifth street; daughter to John and Hattie Henneberry, at 128 West Fourth street; son to Henry and Mary O'Connell, at 1019 East Third street; son to A. Ribenack, at 905 West Michigan street; daughter to John and Elizabeth Wilson, at 1119 East Fifth street; daughter to J. T. and Flora E. Bowers, at Roolyn avenue, Hunter's Park; son to Jos. and Mary Gibson, at 713 West First street.

The following deaths were reported: At 506 Pastoret building, Charles H. Wilkinson, infant son of W. T. and Clara N. Wilkinson, aged 7 months and 26 days, cause, cholera infantum; at St. Luke's hospital, Tilly Johnson, aged 20 years, cause, typhoid fever; at St. Mary's hospital, Frank Carroll, aged 24 years, cause, typhoid fever; at St. Luke's hospital, Samuel Campbell, aged 35 years, cause, typhoid fever.

TAX LEVY FIXED.

School Board Wants $280,000 for Next Year's Expenses.

At a meeting of the board of education Saturday night, the amount of the next school tax levy was fixed at $280,000. Of that sum the general fund gets $110,000, the sinking fund $20,000 and the building fund $150,000. Bids for putting in the foundation for the addition to the Jackson school were opened, and Fredin & Wilson offered to do the work for $8700: A. C. Quinn & Co. wanted $8902; and afterwards added the sum of $1300; Fred B. Schunan bid $6448; Frederickson & Erickson, $6000; Stock & Fitzgerald $7430. The entire lot of bids was referred to the committee with power to accept either those of Frederickson & Erickson or Fredin & Wilson, the bid of the latter firm being looked on with rather the most favor.

Superintendent Denfield submitted a report showing an enrollment in the schools of 4,174, about equally divided between the two sexes. It was stated in the report that the enrollment would reach 6000 before long, as sickness in certain parts of the city has kept it materially reduced thus far. The attendance in the various schools is as follows: Jefferson, 396; Franklin, 502; Emerson, 267; Longfellow, 358; Irving, 288; Adams, 302; Madison, 199; Monroe, 135; Fairmont, 126; Park Point, 94; Cleveland, 58, and Kenwood, 23.

Queries were recently sent out to other schools as to the plan of creating an insurance fund by setting aside for a sinking fund the amount that would usually be paid in insurance premiums. Nineteen answers had been received and were referred to the finance committee to compile and report upon at the next meeting.

The committee on teachers formally advised the board on the employment of Misses Margaret Walker, Marietta Averill, Emily Fisk, Vina Evans and Blanche Evans for grade teachers, and A. F. Custance for teacher of Latin, English and music in the High school, all of whom are in their places and actually at work.

Lake Freight Matters.

No boom has come over the freight market, but there is a strong, advancing tendency in grain that seems destined to again bring about closing rates for the season that will make the profits of the vessel owner whose boats have been running wild about equal to those of the owner who contracted for a season's business, says the Marine Review. Most vessel owners have confidence in steady grain shipments to the close of the season, and although the receipts of grain at seaboard points are largely in excess of exports, the willingness shown by Duluth shippers to charter vessels ahead is a very strong factor in the market. If any large quantity of tonnage was offered to load at Duluth about the 10th of the present month, it is more than probable that 4 cents could be secured on wheat to Buffalo. On ore from Ashland and Two Harbors it will be necessary, of course, to pay rates about equal to the high figures on grain, but shipments will be reduced accordingly.

The Justice Mill.

Thomas Richards, Patrick Shea, John Helley, Oley Hanson, Anton Lind and W. J. Mack were six of the drunks before Judge Powell this morning who were guilty and they each got $10 or ten days. Mrs. Walter Wright was charged with being drunk, but pleaded not guilty and will be tried this afternoon. Norman Bradley, charged with drunkenness, was guilty, but there were extenuating circumstances, and he was given a chance to get to his family at Ashland. George Parsons put up $15 with the police for bail and failed to respond to his name and his bail was forfeited.

Fire Warden's Report.

Fire Warden Emil Applehagen reports that he served thirty-eight notices to remove rubbish during September, two to build fire escapes, three to put out fires, one to remove oil barrels. He inspected seventeen chimneys, condemned two, and ordered two cleaned; also served one notice to put a spark arrester on a smokestack. The fire escape on the Beneteau buildings has been repaired but is still reported unfit for use.

The Grain Movement.

There were inspected in Duluth by the state grain inspector during the month of September, 9479 cars of wheat and 59 of flax. Of the wheat the Northern Pacific road handled 4230 cars; the Eastern Minnesota, 3418 cars; the Omaha, 290 cars, and the St. Paul & Duluth, 1541 cars.

Port Business.

Collector Johnson reports the coastwise arrivals during September as 208, and the clearances as 212. The aggregate tonnage arriving was 241, 351 tons and departing 247,546 tons. The value of imports was $121,709, of which $5910 was free and $6799 dutiable, the duties collected being $2084.83.

Erwin Would Not Talk.

A Herald reporter approached W. W. Erwin last evening on the subject of the arrest of some of the Homestead strikers for treason. He would give no opinion, however, saying that as one of the counsel for the defense it would not be proper for him to make any public statements before the trial.

Somewhat Premature.

The news published a few days ago to the effect that Mr. Billings would erect a number of dwelling houses on his Ness street property in Winnipeg next spring was premature. Mr. Billings has the matter under consideration, but has not yet decided to proceed with the work.

DEALERS IN DIRT.

Lively Contest to Occur For the Place For Holding the Next Convention.

BUFFALO, Oct. 3.—The work of preparation for the real estate congress, which will open here tomorrow morning, is now completed and the local committee of arrangements is resting on its oars after an energetic campaign. The delegations will begin to arrive tonight. A few stragglers are here already from different cities. The principal delegations are to be met outside the city by committees from the local members, whenever it is possible to make connections.

About every state in the Union, besides Canada, will be represented at the convention. Big delegations are expected from the large cities. The Chicago and Milwaukee people will meet in Chicago and come on the grand special train. Other Western delegations may join them also and arrive here Tuesday morning. Milwaukee will come 100 to 150 strong and Chicago will send anywhere from 250 to 500. Besides the official delegates there will probably be many visitors who will take advantage of the low rate of transportation, and so altogether from 5000 to 10,000 strangers are expected.

The board of control or the chief executive body of the congress met at the Iroquois hotel at 10 o'clock this morning and transacted considerable business in the way of making plans for next year, auditing accounts and arranging the program of the present congress.

A deal of interest attaches to the place for holding the next convention. Almost every large city wants this honor and some have sent delegations for the express purpose of trying to get it. Principal among these are those from Denver, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Baltimore. Denver's delegation will present to the convention a memorial from the governor of Colorado, inviting the congress to come there and extending the hospitality of the state. The outlook is for a hard struggle for the prize and there seems no telling at this time where it will be bestowed.

The program, which was completed this morning, offers some interesting subjects. On Tuesday evening Henry George, of New York, will deliver an address on "The Single Tax Question," and "Building and Loan Associations and Their Influence on Real Estate Interests" will be treated on Wednesday afternoon by Judge Dexter, of Elmira, and in the evening Robert G. Ingersoll will address the convention on the subject of "Progress." On Thursday morning Hon. A. S. Colver, of Nashville, will read a paper on "Urban Realty Legislation," and ex-Governor Hubbard, of Texas, will speak on "Our Changed Commercial Relations." In the afternoon Hon. Peter Porter, of Niagara Falls, will read a paper on "The Niagara Falls Tunnel," and C. A. Henderson, of Minneapolis, a paper on "Millionaires and How They Made It."

The election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting will follow, and the congress will conclude with a grand reception at Music hall in the evening. Friday will be given up to an excursion to Niagara Falls and an inspection of the tunnel.

Real Estate Delegation.

The Duluth delegation to the national congress of real estate men at Buffalo, was not as large as it was expected to be. Those who left last evening were A. J. Miller, C. E. Lovett, J. C. Mischler, E. C. Bauman, W. B. Silvey, C. W. Hoyt and wife, A. White and John G. Howard and wife. E. C. Holliday and C. H. Long left Saturday evening and G. A. Leland is already there. Some of those who went from Superior are E. T. Buxton, E. E. Barton, C. H. Sunderland, W. H. Webb and James H. Agen.

FIERCE PRAIRIE FIRE.

One Thousand Head of Cattle and Nine Houses Were Burned.

BOISE CITY, Idaho, Oct. 3.—In the great prairie fire that raged last week in the Bear river valley more than 1000 head of fat cattle were burned to death, nine houses and four cabins were burned and three horsemen fatally injured.

The cattle were feeding in a small valley on Thursday last. A strong wind suddenly blew a sea of fire down upon them. Before the cowboys could turn the maddened animals the cattle were surrounded by flames.

The cattle huddled in the center of a clearing about a mile square in extent, and despite the efforts of the cowboys they were stampeded. Many of them dashed into the midst of the flames where they perished in horrible agony. To save their lives, the four cowboys who were within the fiery circle attempted to force their horses through a narrow belt of blazing timber. Before they had gone ten feet, the animals had dropped to the earth, their riders being compelled to run back to their starting place.

After raging with great fury for nine hours, the wind drove the flames onward and friends from neighboring ranges came to the rescue of the four cowboys. Three of them are so badly burned that they will die.

WOULD SHINE IN SOCIETY.

The St. Cloud Journal-Press considers that "One element that goes largely to make a member of congress effective in representing his district is that of fine social acquirements. This element is possessed in a striking degree by Judge Searle, the Republican congressional candidate in the Sixth district."

To which the St. Cloud Times rejoins that "if the farmer while milking his cow, the river driver while riding his log, or the miner down in the dripping shaft, could see the Republican candidate in his 'social element,' arrayed in his broadcloth 'claw-hammer' coat, with diamond studs in his immaculate shirt front and a buttonhole bouquet in his lapel, surely all doubt as to his fitness and effectiveness as their representative in congress would vanish, and they would throw up their hands, if not their hats, in wonder at his 'fine social acquirements.' With what pride would they think of how he would shine in Washington society circles."

Movement of Cars.

Chairman James Kelly, of the car service association, reports 27,667 cars handled at the head of the lakes during September. Of these, 15,636 were in Duluth and 12,031 in Superior. Last year's record for the two places during the month of September was 24,599. In wheat there have been 7428 cars received in Duluth and 3540 in Superior. Coal shipments have been large, 5857 cars going from Superior and 4,993 from Duluth. The car service association has been removed to the Union depot.

A DAY OF WONDERS

The First Pageant in Connection With Celebrating Columbus' Discovery of America.

A Five Days' Festival in New York to Reach its Height October 12.

The Parade on That Night Will Surpass Any Previous Display in America.

COLUMBUS first saw the first island of the New World on Oct. 21, 1492, and not on the 12th, as the old histories have it, and so the national ceremonies at Chicago center on the 21st. In New York city, however, the 12th will be the great day in order that President Harrison may attend on both, as well as for many other reasons. And New York will make the day and night brilliant indeed, besides enlivening several preceding days.

There will be some 40,000 soldiers in the military display, anywhere from 60,000 to 100,000 children in the school parades, four or five miles of people in the day parade of the 12th, and at night a combination and symbolical array of floats, tableaux vivants and banners which will reproduce old Spain in all the glory of Ferdinand and Isabella's time, and represent the progress of America from Toltec priest to Talmage and from the cave dweller to the typewriter girl who summers by the sea and wears suspenders.

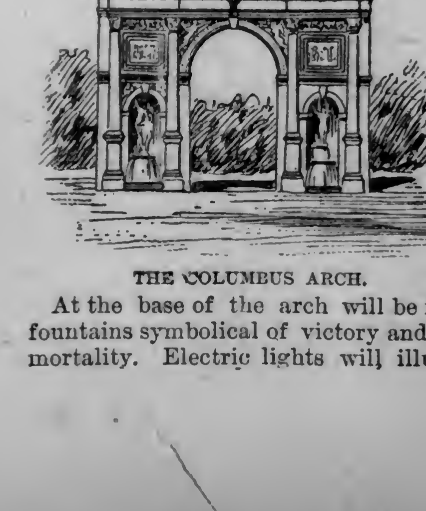
The celebration really began with the reception by the Italian residents of the transport Garigliano, which brought the statue of Columbus. Her officers have been entertained in fine style by their countrymen of New York, and honors were heaped upon Lieutenant Manlio Garibaldi, youngest son of the great liberator, till he was quite overcome. On Sept. 14 the cornerstone of the pedestal was laid at the intersection of Eighth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, and eighty-five Italian societies in their various regalia escorted the statue from Washington square to its permanent site. President Barsotti, of the Italian societies, made the presentation speech and Mayor Grant the speech of acceptance.

A sort of five days' festival will begin on Oct. 8, with special school and synagogue services, Jewish citizens having made special arrangements to celebrate the event. On Sunday, the 9th, services in all the city churches will be of a memorial nature, the ministers making the great event the chief topic, and in the afternoon all the Sunday schools will hold special services. On Monday all the day schools, colleges, academies, industrial schools and orphans' homes will have their parade, and President Harrison, at the Worth monument, will review the line. On Tuesday the great naval parade will take place, and the next day, Oct. 12, will be the greatest day of all.

Among the adornments for the occasion the Columbus arch will be chief, and though the permanent work cannot be finished in time the temporary structure to stand at the Fifty-ninth street entrance to Central park will for the occasion produce the effect of genuine materials. The arch that is to remain as long as the stone endures is not only a marvel of beauty in itself, but is doubly wonderful as the design of a man but just twenty-one years of age. He conceived the design after studying the arch of Constantine, and out of thirty designs presented the committee selected his at once, and he was awarded the gold medal.

Mr. Henry B. Herts, who received this high honor, is a New York boy and a student in the department of architecture of Columbia college. Last summer he traveled abroad and painted some sketches which attracted attention. While in Rome he was particularly struck by the bold simplicity of the arch of Constantine, and the adaptability of its general style to variations in finish, and especially its appropriateness for certain points in New York city where arches are some day to be placed. His first adaptation of it excites the admiration of all artists, and the permanent structure will be erected as soon as the needed $350,000 can be secured. On the 12th the visitor will see a perfect model of it.

It will be 160 feet high and 120 feet wide. The white marble opening to the arch will be 80 feet high and 40 feet wide. On either side of the supports will be four polished red marble monolithic columns. The panels between the columns will be richly decorated surfaces in bas-relief and mosaic descriptive of the life of Columbus.



THE COLUMBUS ARCH.

At the base of the arch will be four fountains symbolical of victory and immortality. Electric lights will illuminate the waterfall at night. The arch will be cut into colossal figures of "Victory." The frieze will be of polished red marble, the keystone an eagle rampant in bronze. On the central panel of the attic will be this inscription:

The United States of America
In Memorial Glorious to CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS,
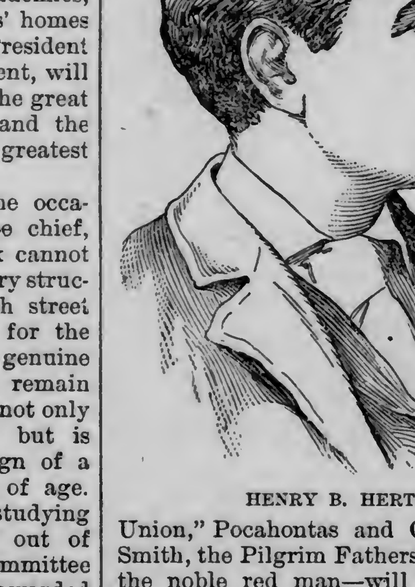
Discoverer of America.

The minor panels in white marble will represent Columbus entering Madrid in triumph on his return from the first voyage, and other scenes in his life. The crowning piece of the arch will be a group representing "Columbus Discovering America." The ship is there represented as casting anchor on the new shore. To the right and left are North and South America welcoming the new life, represented by figures suggestive of exploration, science and art. Above is the winged messenger proclaiming to the nations that a new era has opened. Three other contestants received medals or honorable mention, and their designs will appear on minor pieces along the line of march.

Other emblems and decorative works of beauty and interest will be placed on the city hall. These are only the principal decorations. The day will begin with a salvo of artillery at sunrise from the forts and a general unfurling of flags, every church bell in the city ringing as the flags are unfurled. The military, consisting of soldiers from New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, with detachments from other states, will take the lead in the parade, followed by a long array of civic societies and local orders. The line of march will be from the Battery up Broadway, then to Fourth avenue, and thence by various commodious streets to Fifth avenue and Fifty-ninth street, and there in the presence of the president of the United States, vice president, ex-presidents, the cabinet, governors, mayors and foreign ministers the great Columbus statue, presented by the Italian citizens of New York, will be formally unveiled.

The parade of floats and tableaux vivants in the evening will follow the same route and throughout the entire line of march will be illuminated by the most brilliant electric lights which science can contribute in that space. If one half the committee promises be done, this will far exceed any previous display of the kind, and men of science declare that the moving lighthouse, if such it may be called, prepared for the occasion by the Edison Electric Light company, will more than realize the most gorgeous dream of Jules Verne.

The idea of a parade illuminated by its own light, carried with it as it moves, is certainly novel enough in itself, but the Edison plant will not only do this, but supply in addition the light for over 5,000 bicycles, which are to follow it, and for most of the parade in advance. The display is to be popular in character, with humorous touches here and there, but still presenting dramatic scenes in the progress of the country. Of course our old friends—"Liberty and



HENRY B. HERTS.

Union," Pocahontas and Captain John Smith, the Pilgrim Fathers, De Soto and the noble red man—will be in it, but they will have many new companions. The committee of one hundred insist that this will be, as the "Outside shouter" says, the very finest thing in the show.

The celebration will close Thursday night with a grand banquet at Carnegie Music hall. And in conclusion it is scarcely necessary to add that the weather forecasts will be of great interest to every patriotic New Yorker. If, however, the evening of the 12th is unpropitious, this large parade will take place on the evening of the 13th.

That Germany acknowledges the advantages the United States is deriving through the commercial arrangements with Latin-American republics is evidenced by the strenuous efforts now being made by that country to negotiate commercial treaties with those countries in South America with which this country has no arrangements. The German press is almost a unit in seconding the policy of the government. The French minister of commerce has also succeeded in negotiating with several of the republics of South America not joined with the United States by commercial arrangements treaties of commerce and navigation guaranteeing to France the most favored national treatment for her products.

The receipts at the Iquique custom house for the year ended June 30 amounted to $8,350,525, of which sum $7,602,244 was yielded by nitrate and iodine.

A Preventive Measure.

Lizette—Why did you become engaged to Dick?

Susan—I was afraid he might want to marry me unless I did.—Chicago News-Record.

He Wasn't Exalted.

They were rehearsing for the wedding. The organ had ceased its roaring, and the bride and groom stood with clasped hands before the altar. There was a stillness throughout the sacred edifice, and the solemnity of the sanctuary exalted almost all the hearts of the group gathered at the chancel.

The most notable exception was the heart of the professional master of ceremonies.

It was not exalted to any appreciable extent.

"Do you take this woman to be"——

"Don't open your mouth too wide."

The groom looked scared and whispered something.

"Look pleasant, please—do you take this man to be your wedded—the chin a little higher—husband—eyes not quite so much obscured—there."

"Will you cherish, protect—a little more on the right foot—and defend—look to the altar—until death doth—not quite so much bend in the knee—part?"

The groom nervously signified that he would.

"Will you love—don't be thinking how your dress hangs—honor and—don't get too close to the groom—obey?"

The organ roared again. The party wended its way from the church, but the exaltation was in a measure abated.—Detroit Tribune.

Not to Be Parted with Lightly.

William Green—Alas, I fear we can ill afford it. In sooth, I am minded to offer it to the Vanderbilts if I can get my price for it!—Truth.

The Praise of Idleness.

Young Aime Maillard, the great composer, was at the time of our story a member of a rhetorical class. The professor gave as the subject of an essay: "The Praise of Idleness." On the day appointed the themes were handed in by all the pupils except Maillard.

"Sir," said the professor, "I have had nothing from you yet!"

"Here it is," replied the young rhetorician, as he placed a roll of paper on the master's desk and returned to his seat.

The professor turned over the sheets one by one; nothing but blank pages met his eye. Turning to the pupil he angrily exclaimed:

"Trying to make a fool of me, eh?"

"No, sir," quietly remarked Aime Maillard; "I only thought that the highest tribute you could bestow on idleness was simply to do nothing."—Petit Lyonnais.

He Felt Hurt.

He was all ready to go. His satchel, umbrella and canes were waiting on the veranda of a big Saratoga hotel. He stepped inside to the clerk's desk, handed over a dime and asked for a postage stamp. The clerk passed it out, and with it eight cents change.

"I know it."

"Then what's the matter?"

"Hey?"

"I say there's a mistake, young man. You charged me seventeen dollars for three days' board, and I gave the head waiter two dollars, and the waiter who served me a dollar or so more. Every bellboy who has waved a whisk broom my way gathered in about ten cents a wave, and I paid forty cents to be shaved and seven cents for a newspaper. I've had a real nice quiet time in your town, and just as I am going home with sweet memories of this quiet, frugal spot you dispel the whole thing by charging only two cents for a postage stamp. I can't stand it. Say it was a mistake, old fellow; say you had so many things to think of you made a slip, and take a dime for this stamp. It's worth it, my boy. By by," and the light hearted guest threw a dime on the counter and was gone. A shade of surprise crossed the clerk's face. He picked up the dime and dropped it in the change drawer.

"Front," he said, "pitcher of ice water to No. 970."—New York Tribune.

HIS FINE MEMORY.

It Developed Most Remarkably, But Afterward Mr. Rogers Kicked Himself for It.

Never Again Will He Pretend to Recognize a Man When He Does Not.

The Man With the Guide Book Who Was too Previous With Information.

"Hello! Isn't your name Ralph Rogers?"

"Yes, that's my name, but—but"——

"I thought so," said the first speaker. "I never forget a face. Haven't seen you since we were boys together, but I knew you the minute I saw you. Shake!"

The man addressed as Rogers shook hands with him cordially, but still looked puzzled, and the other said:

"You haven't forgotten your old playmate and chum, George Croxton, have you?"

"Why—er—no," replied Mr. Rogers vaguely, but making a visible effort to rise to the occasion. "Is this you, George? How are you?"

"First rate! It seems like old times to meet you again."

"Hum—yes, it does. I'm glad to see you. Where are you holding forth now, George?"

"Right here in this town. Been living here nearly ten years. Where are you located?"

"Down in Kankakee. Are you married, George?"

"Oh, yes. Wife and six children. You married?"

"Yes. Second wife. Nine children."

"Dear me! Twenty-nine years since I saw you last. And knew you the minute I clapped my eyes on you!"

"Beats all, doesn't it? I couldn't recall you at first, but your face is getting familiar now. We used to have some rare old times, didn't we?"

"You bet we did, Ralph! Remember how we used to lock out the school teacher down in old Raritan and make him treat to apples before we'd let him in?"

"Er—yes. You mean down in Biggsville."

"No, I don't. I mean Raritan. I never was in Biggsville in my life. What are you thinking about?"

"Why—why—I never lived in Raritan!"

"Isn't your name Ralph Rogers?"

"Yes. That's my name. Of course."

"Well, I certainly knew a Ralph Rogers in Raritan."

"Oh, I remember. That was a cousin of mine."

"So ho! It must have been! I recollect now I used to hear him say he had a cousin named Ralph in Biggsville. Then I never saw you before?"

"Why—hum—no," he replied. "I guess not."

"It was the strong family resemblance that misled me," said Mr. Croxton. "But I can't understand how you remembered me so well when you never saw me before in your life?"

"It must have been the family resem—No, I think it must have— Great Scott! I've just got time to make my train! Good afternoon!"

Mr. Rogers climbed into a passing street car and sat as far down in the seat as he could, and in his inmost soul he registered a cast iron, copper bottomed, double riveted vow that never again in his life would he pretend to recognize a man when he didn't. —Chicago Tribune.

Too Previous.

He stood way up on the bow of a Champlain steamer. He had a complexion like a tomato, and he carried a guidebook in one hand, three railroad time tables and a map in the other, and he was bursting with information. Finally, unable to stand it longer, he approached a small man who was leaning thoughtfully over the rail.

"My friend," he said impressively, "I suppose you know that those gray and fallen walls over there on the west shore are all that remain of world famous Fort Ticonderoga?"

"I didn't know it, sir," said the small man simply.

"Well, sir, they are. It was on that spot that the English commander was called from his bed to surrender in the name of Jehovah and the Continental congress. It was along these shores," added the man with the tomato complexion, waving the fluttering time tables oratorically, "that the French and Indians fought the English. Every stone, sir, is crowded with history."

"Ticonderoga, hey?" said the other reflectively; "do you live up here?"

"No; I live in New York."

"Born here, perhaps."

"No, sir."

"Travel up and down the lake pretty often, I suppose?"

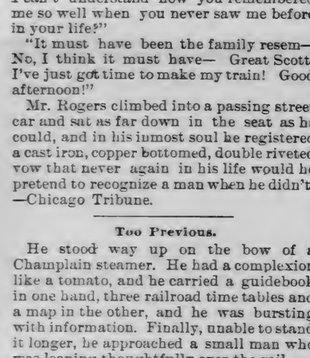
"'Tis, hey? Well, I was purser of this boat for nine years, and I know every foot of that shore. The ruin over there is Sampson's dock, and Ticonderoga is nineteen miles south of here. Anything else to tell?"—New York Tribune.

Better Still.



He—We have a clock that says "Cuckoo." She—We are going to get one that says "What, must you go?"—Life.

Only four houses of famous literary Britons have been preserved for the sake of their associations. These are Shakespeare's house at Stratford, Milton's at Chalfont St. Giles, Burn's cottage near Ayr, and Wordsworth's "Dove Cottage."

A German scientist estimates that the Dead sea will be one mass of solid salt within less than 500 years.

The most recent trustworthy investigation is that of M. De Chatelier, who fixes the effective temperature of the sun at 12,600 degs. Fahrenheit.

If the sun gave forth sounds loud enough to reach the earth, such sounds, instead of reaching us in the space of about eight minutes, as light does, would only arrive after a period of nearly fourteen years.

At the recent conversazione of the Royal society Dr. Gill projected on the screen a photographic star map, containing the images of about 42,000 stars. As every star is a sun, we may infer therefrom something concerning the immensity of the scale on which the universe is established.

The Great Eastern

Boys' and Children's Department.

[Take Elevator, 2nd floor.]

How often we hear mothers exclaim, "Well my boys are not so hard on their coats, but it seems as though they always wanted pants." This is pretty near right and it seems to us that there are a good many boys that easily get away with two pair of pants to the one coat and vest. Some people think that in order to have the suit right several pair of pants should go with it. Of course many have bought their clothing from houses whose goods are not reliable and give the poorest satisfaction. Now, i. economical mothers [and every mother wants to be economical] would only buy suits for their boys from us they would experience little trouble. For unless the boy is very hard on his clothes, one pants will stand the coat a good many rounds; but many mothers know that there are boys who can wear several pants to the one coat, and for these we have provided, and are in almost every case able to give them pants of same goods as coat and pants as we buy nearly all our suits. We know that with extra knee and long pants we can please every mother from our assorment.

Knee pants for little boys from 2 to 8 years, 15c to $2.00; knee pants for boys from 8 to 15 years, 15c to $3.00; long pants in neat checks, handsome stripes, for boys from 10 to 18 years, for $1.00 to $5.0

C. R. Brown, of Patten, Penobscot county, Me., is in the city visiting A. B. Palmer and may conclude to remain permanently.

G. W. Bull, of the St. Paul & Duluth road, came up from St. Paul, this morning.

A. Harrington, of Minneapolis, is here today.

James E. Davidson, of Bay City, Mich., was at the Brighton yesterday.

George S. Shaw, of Cloquet, spent Sunday in Duluth.

J. T. D. Sadley, of Princeton, was in the city yesterday.

WILL BE NO FIGHT.

Absolute Harmony is Expected to Prevail at the Republican Caucuses Tonight.

Lon Merritt Will Accept if Nominated as a Legislative Candidate.

A Contest Over the Judgeship in Spite of the Bar Among the Possibilities.

The Republican primaries will be held this evening and delegates to the county convention, to be held on Wednesday, selected. At this convention thirty-three delegates will be chosen to the legislature convention and the same number to the judicial convention both of which meet on the following day. For legislative candidates, J. B. Cotton, J. A. Boggs and Lon Merritt have been practically agreed upon and there will hardly be any fight over this. The range will control the convention, but the slate is said to be acceptable and will not find opposition there.

Some time ago it was said that Lon Merritt would not be a candidate unless Zeke Kendall was on the ticket. A Herald reporter saw Lon Merritt this morning and he admitted that he had said so, but said that Mr. Kendall has recently told him that he did not want to run and would make no effort to get a nomination. Mr. Merritt, after his talk with Mr. Kendall, concluded to run if the party nominated him.

There is some question as to whether the judicial convention will be as harmonious as the legislative convention bids fair to be. S. H. Moer is the choice of the bar and expects, of course, to get the nomination, but there are some who say that Page Morris would like to be judge and will go before the convention regardless of the choice of the bar. It is also said that there is a possibility of Judge Stearns trying for the nomination, but this report is not given much credence.

There is one thing almost certain, however, if S. H. Moer is not nominated, the Democrats will put up Alfred Jaques. A prominent Republican said this morning that nothing could be more certain than that if S. H. Moer is not nominated, Alfred Jaques will be the next judge.

The Democratic legislative committee issued a call this morning for the legislative convention, to be held at the city hall next Saturday, Oct. 8. The St. Louis county delegates have already been selected. J. Adam Bede will probably be one of the Democratic candidates. John Jenswold, of the People's party, is to be endorsed, and the other man put up by the People's party will probably be pulled off and a Democrat put up instead.

QUIET WHEAT MARKET.

Trading Was Featureless on the Duluth Board Today.

The wheat market opened ⅛c to ¼c higher on first sales this morning and ruled steady but quiet up to noon. There was large trading in cash, but little doing in early futures. December and May were quite active at steady prices early. Trading was featureless for the most part, and there was a disposition to play either side. The flour production here last week was the largest in the city's history, and a continued large output is promised. After noon the market was very quiet and prices lost the advance of the opening in most grades. The close was quiet and dull, unchanged for cash and ⅛c to ¼c higher than Saturday for No. 1 northern futures. Following were the closing prices:

No. 1 hard, cash 72¾c; October, 72¾c; December 75¼c; May, 81¼c. No. 1 northern, cash, 70¾c; October, 70⅞c; December, 72⅞c; May 79¼c. No. 2 northern, cash, 65½c; October, 65½c; December, 67½c. No. 3, 59¼c. Rejected, 50½c. On track—No. 1 hard, 73¾c; No. 1 northern, 71¼c. Rye 54c.

Car inspection today, 426. Receipts—Wheat, 198,458 bus; rye, 651 bus; barley, 7489 bus; flax, 407 bus. Shipments—Wheat, 59,680 bus; barley, 654 bus. Cars on track, 861; last year, 1010.

FOR TYROS.

Don't complain if your copy is cut or blue penciled. Editors do not use blue pencils for fun. They do it to improve copy.

Don't forget that it requires as much brains and ability, if not more, to write a good paragraph as it does to write a column article.

Don't bother an editor for work. If you have no ideas of your own take a little time to read, study, observe and freshen your mind. Then seek him.

Don't believe men and women who say newspaper work is only drudgery. Some of it is, to be sure, but there are many prizes in the profession, and you may win one if you try.—Ladies' Home Journal.
